Applications for license to conduct such business must be made in writing to the Commissioner of the District of Columbia, and shall contain the full names and addresses of applicants, if natural persons, and in the case of firms and voluntary associations, the full names and addresses of all the members thereof, and in the case of joint-stock companies, incorporated societies, and corporations, the full names and addresses of the officers and directors thereof and under what law or laws organized or incorporated, and the place where such business is to be conducted, and such other information as the said Commissioner may require. Every license granted shall date from the first of the month in which it is issued and expire on the 31st day of the following October, and such license shall be kept conspicuously displayed in the place of business of the licensee. Every application shall be filed not less than thirty days prior to the granting of such license, and notice of the filing of such application shall be posted in the office of the Superintendent of Licenses of the said District and be published twice a week for three successive weeks in a daily newspaper published in the District of Columbia. Protest may be made by any person to the issuing of such license, and when such protests are filed with the said Commissioner the latter shall give public notice of and hold a public hearing upon such protests before issuing such license. The said Commissioner shall have the power to reject any application for license after a hearing upon such protest or for failure on the part of the applicant to observe this chapter, or when such applicant shall have violated its provisions. (Feb. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 657, ch. 26, § 2; Mar. 3, 1917, 39 Stat. 1006, ch. 160.)

Each application shall be accompanied by a bond to the District of Columbia in the penal sum of five thousand dollars, with two or more sufficient sureties, and conditioned that the obligor will not violate any law relating to such business. The execution of any such bond by a fidelity or surety company authorized by the laws of the United States to transact business therein shall be equivalent to the execution thereof by two sureties, and such company, if excepted to, shall justify in the manner required by law of fidelity and surety companies. If any person shall be aggrieved by the misconduct of any such licensed person, firm, voluntary association, joint-stock company, incorporated society, or corporation, or by his, their, or its violation of any law relating to such business, and shall recover a judgment therefor, such person or his personal representative or heirs or distributees may, after a return unsatisfied either in whole or in part of any execution issued upon such judgment, maintain an action in his own name upon such bond herein required in any court having jurisdiction of the amount claimed. The Commissioner of the District of Columbia shall furnish to anyone applying therefor a certified copy of any such bond filed with him, upon the payment of a fee of twenty-five cents, and such certified copy shall be prima facie evidence in any court that such bond was duly executed and delivered by the person, firm, voluntary association, joint-stock company, incorporated society, or corporation whose names appear thereon. Said bond shall be renewed and refiled annually in October of each year, or the licensed person, firm, voluntary association, joint-stock company, incorporated society, or corporation shall within thirty days thereafter, cease doing business, and their license shall be revoked by the said Commissioner, but said bond until renewed and refiled as aforesaid shall be and remain in full force and effect. No such person, firm, voluntary association, joint-stock company, incorporated society, or corporation shall charge or receive a greater rate of interest upon any loan made by him or it than one per centum per month on the actual amount of the loan, and this charge shall cover all fees, expenses, demands, and services of every character, including notarial and recording fees and charges, except upon the foreclosure of the security. ## NOTES TO DECISIONS

Advance deductions

In replevin by trustee of indorsee finance company to recover chattels named in trust deed securing a note, evidence that loan was usurious, in that an amount in excess of legal rate was deducted in advance and that plaintiff knew the amount deducted in advance, was sufficient to make defense of illegality available to defendant. Hartman v. Lubar (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 49 A. 2d 553).

Commission as constituting usury

Commission paid by a borrower to a loan broker for obtaining a loan from a third person does not constitute usury. J. Oliver v. United Mortgage Company, Inc., etc. (D.C. App. 1967, 230 A. 2d 722).

Borrower was not entitled to recover portion of commission retained by loan broker for arranging loan on ground that transaction was usurious in absence of showing that broker was acting solely as agent of lender. Id.

Even if loan broker had advanced his own funds to borrower, but had done so for convenience only and with expectation of reimbursing himself promptly from funds supplied by lender, broker who had retained commission for that service was not liable to borrower for allegedly usurious interest on ground that broker was principal on loan. Id.

Construction

Though Loan Shark Act of 1913 was primarily intended to regulate and limit business of making small loans for security, such Act does have application to loans in excess of $200. In re Parkwood, Inc. (1972, 461 F. 2d 158, 149 U.S. App. D.C. 67).

§ 26-606. Complaints—Hearings on complaints—Record of hearings—Revoking of, or refusal to grant license.

Complaints against any licensee or applicant for a license shall be made in writing to the said Commissioner, and notice thereof of not less than three days shall be given to said licensee or applicant by serving upon him a concise statement of the facts constituting the complaint, and a hearing shall be had before the said Commissioner within ten days from the date of the filing of the complaint, and no adjournment shall be taken for longer than one week. A daily calendar shall be kept of all hearings by the said Commissioner, which shall be posted in a conspicuous place in his public office for at least three days before the date of such hearings. The said Commissioner shall render his decision within eight days from the time the matter is finally submitted to him. Said Commissioner shall keep a record of all such complaints and hearings, and may refuse to issue and shall suspend or revoke any license for any good cause shown, within the meaning and purpose of this chapter; and when it is shown to his satisfaction, whether as a result of a written complaint as aforesaid or otherwise, that any licensee or applicant under this chapter either before or after conviction, is guilty of any conduct in violation of this or any law relating to such business it shall be the duty of the said Commissioner to suspend or revoke the license of such licensee or reject the petition of the applicant, but notice of the written complaint or proposed action shall be presented to and reasonable opportunity shall be given said licensee or applicant to be heard in his defense. Whenever for any cause such license is revoked, said Commissioner shall not issue another license to said licensee until the expiration of at least one year from the date of revocation of such license, and not at all if such licensee shall have been convicted of a violation of this chapter under the provisions of section 26-607 thereof. (Feb. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 659, ch. 26, § 6.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28-3303.

§ 26-610. Persons, associations, and corporations exempt from operation of this chapter.

(a) Nothing contained in this chapter shall be held to apply to the legitimate business of national banks, licensed bankers, trust companies, savings banks, building and loan associations, small business investment companies licensed and operating under the Small Business Investment Act of 1958, or real estate brokers, as defined in the Act of Congress of July first, nineteen hundred and two, or to life insurance companies. As used in this section the term "life insurance companies" means and includes any life insurance company authorized to do business in the District of Columbia pursuant to chapters 3-8 of title 35 and any other life insurance company which has a valid, current license to do business as such in any State of the United States.

(b) Any person or any legal entity exempted from the provisions of this Act by such subsection (a) of this section making loans secured on real or personal property in the District of Columbia who or which does not maintain an office for doing business in the District of Columbia or a residence in said District where such person or legal entity may be served with process in any suit arising out of any such transaction or in connection with such property shall appoint and maintain at all times in the District of Columbia a resident agent upon whom process may be served in any such suit, and shall register with the Commissioner of the District of Columbia or with his designee the name and address of such resident agent. Any such person or legal entity which fails to appoint and maintain at all times in the District of Columbia such resident agent shall not, while such failure continues, be entitled to the exemption provided in this section. Whenever any such person or entity does not have in the District of Columbia an agent for service of process or such agent cannot with reasonable diligence be found at his registered address, then the said Commissioner or his designee shall be the agent for the service of process for such person or entity. Service of process on the Commissioner or his designee shall be made by delivering to, and leaving with him, or with any person having charge of his office, or with his designee, duplicate copies of the process accompanied by a fee in the amount of $2.00 and such service shall be sufficient service upon such person or entity. In the event of such service, the Commissioner, or his designee, shall immediately cause one of such copies to be forwarded by registered or certified mail, addressed to such person or entity at his or its address, as such address appears on the records of the Commissioner or his designee. Any such service shall be returnable in not less than thirty days unless the rules of the court issuing such process prescribe another period, in which case such prescribed period shall govern. Nothing contained in this section shall limit or affect the right to serve any process, notice, or demand required or permitted by law to be served on any such person or entity in any other manner now or hereafter permitted by law. (Feb. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 660, ch. 26, § 10; June 11, 1960, 74 Stat. 196, Pub. L. 86-502, § 7; Dec. 5, 1963, 77 Stat. 344, Pub. L. 88-191, § 1.)

REFERENCES IN TEXT

The Small Business Investment Act of 1958, referred to in text, is the act of Aug. 21, 1958, 72 Stat. 689, Pub. L. 85-699 and is set out in various sections of titles 12, 15 and 18 of the U.S. Code.

Reference in subsec. (a) to the definition contained in the Act of 1902 probably referred to Par. 15 of section 7 of that Act (32 Stat. 624), classified to § 47-2315, which required an annual license tax for real estate brokers as defined therein. Section 7 of the Act of 1902 was amended generally by the Act of July 1, 1932 (47 Stat. 550), and as so amended does not contain a definition of real estate brokers. For definition of real estate broker in the Real Estate and Business Broker's License Law of 1937, as amended, see § 45-1402.

AMENDMENTS

1963—Act Dec. 5, 1963, amended the section as follows:

- (1) Inserted (a) before the first word;
- (2) Inserted at the end of subsection (a) the matter relating to life insurance companies;
- (3) Added subsection (b).

1960—Act June 11, 1960, amended the section by adding after the word "associations" the words, "small business investment companies licensed and operating under the Small Business Investment Act of 1958".

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Life insurance companies

District of Columbia Loan Shark Act is applicable to loans made by life insurance companies in regular course of their business and thus such companies, until 1963, were not exempt from requirement of obtaining license in order to make loans at rate of interest in excess of 6%, notwithstanding contentions that Act does not apply to insurance companies which "invest" their funds by making loans secured by real estate, that, in view of comprehensive regulation of insurance companies under certain titles of District of Columbia Code, they cannot be subject to licensing regulation of lending activities under Act, and that Act is not intended to apply to large loans made by "institutional lenders" and secured by real estate. In re Parkwood, Inc. (1972, 461 F. 2d 158, 149 U.S. App. D.C. 67).

Where life insurance company, that made a loan to prior owners of hotel for purpose of providing funds for refinancing hotel property and for refurbishing and renovating the hotel, at all pertinent times was licensed to do business in the District of Columbia under the Life Insurance Act, the company was exempt from the licensing requirements of this chapter. National Life Insurance Company v. J. Silverman et al. (1971, 454 F. 2d 899, 147 U.S. App. D.C. 56).

Mortgage bankers

Decision that Loan Shark Act applied to loans originated by mortgage bankers would not be limited to prospective application. In re Parkwood, Inc. (1972, 461 F. 2d 158, 149 U.S. App. D.C. 67).

Real estate brokers

Loan which was made by real estate broker-mortgage banker in exchange for note of 6½% interest and deed of trust on real estate did not fall within real estate broker exemption of Loan Shark Act, notwithstanding contention that integral part of real estate brokerage includes not only negotiations of loans on behalf of other investors, but also placing of loans on behalf of brokers themselves. In re Parkwood, Inc. (1972, 461 F. 2d 158, 149 U.S. App. D.C. 67).

The enforcement of this chapter shall be intrusted to the Commissioner of the District of Columbia, and the District of Columbia Council is hereby authorized and empowered to make all rules and regulations necessary in its judgment for the conduct of such business and the enforcement of this chapter in addition hereto and not inconsistent herewith. (Feb. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 660, ch. 26, § 11.)

Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, transferred the function of the Board of Commissioners of making rules and regulations for the conduct of business of making loans and for the enforcement of this chapter, under this section, to the District of Columbia Council, subject to the right of the Commissioner as provided by section 406 of the Plan. For provisions establishing the District of Columbia Council, see section 201 of the Plan, set out in the appendix to title 1. (1) to any corporation which is unable to plead any statutes against usury in any action;

(2) at a rate of interest which does not exceed the maximum lawful rate of interest which would be applicable to such loan but for the provisions of this chapter;

(3) secured on real estate located outside of the District of Columbia;

(4) to a borrower residing, doing business, or incorporated outside of the District of Columbia; or

(5) greater than $10,000.

(b) If any provision of this section or the application thereof to any person or circumstance, is held invalid, the remainder of the section, and the application of such provision to other persons or circumstances shall not be affected thereby. (Feb. 4, 1913, ch. 26, § 14, added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 9(a), 85 Stat. 679.)

(b) The net income of a common trust fund shall be computed in the same manner and on the same basis as in the case of an individual. Each participant in a common trust fund shall include, in computing its net income its proportionate share of the net income of such fund, whether or not distributed to it, and the amount so included in the net income of a participant shall be taxable to such participant, or its beneficiaries, in the manner and to the extent provided in title IX of subchapter II of chapter 15 of title 47, as if any amount not distributed to the participant during its taxable year actually had been so distributed.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Post-mortem examinations

It was not error to admit testimony relative to the disinterment and post-mortem examination of the body of the deceased, and it was unnecessary that notice should be given the defendant of the intention on the part of the government to make the investigation. Nor is it material whether or not there was full compliance with this section. Laney v. United States (1924, 294 F. 412, 54 App. D.C. 56).

§ 27-129. Public crematory—Cremation required in certain cases.

Whenever the dead body of any person who has died from smallpox, Asiatic cholera, typhus fever, the plague, leprosy, glanders, scarlet fever, diphtheria, or epidemic cerebro-spinal meningitis comes into the custody of any officer, employee, or agent of the District of Columbia to be disposed of at public expense, the said officer, employee, or agent shall cause said body to be incinerated. (Apr. 20, 1906, 34 Stat. 123, ch. 1641, § 1.)

PART 1.—SHORT TITLE, CONSTRUCTION, APPLICATION AND SUBJECT MATTER

§ 28:1-101. Short title

This subtitle shall be known and may be cited as Uniform Commercial Code. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 631, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

(2) Underlying purposes and policies of this subtitle are:

(a) to simplify, clarify and modernize the law governing commercial transactions;

(b) to permit the continued expansion of commercial practices through custom, usage and agreement of the parties;

(c) to make uniform the law among the various jurisdictions.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:1-201.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Applicability of Uniform Commercial Code

The issues in a law suit by a buyer of automobile against chattel mortgagee, which held the mortgage created by the seller and which repossessed automobile, were governed by the provisions of Uniform Commercial Code, so that the determination of issues in accordance with theory of estoppel constituted error; however, where judgment of trial judge was correct, such error did not require reversal. Franklin Investment Co., Inc. v. E. P. Homburg (D.C. App. 1969, 252 A. 2d 95).

Impracticability of performance

The concept of impracticability assumes that performance was physically possible, a rule making nonperformance a condition precedent to recovery would unjustifiably encourage disappointment of expectations, and there is nothing necessarily inconsistent in claiming commercial impracticability for method of performance actually adopted and, accordingly, impossibility issue may be raised in suit to recover cost of alternative method of performance. Transatlantic Financing Corporation v. United States (1966, 363 F. 2d 312, 124 U.S. App. D.C. 183).

In some cases, even an express expectation may not, for purposes of doctrine of impossibility of performance, amount to a condition of performance. Id.

§ 28:1-103. Supplementary general principles of law applicable

Unless displaced by the particular provisions of this subtitle, the principles of law and equity, including the law merchant and the law relative to capacity to contract, principal and agent, estoppel, fraud, misrepresentation, duress, coercion, mistake, bankruptcy, or other validating or invalidating cause shall supplement its provisions. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 631, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:1-201.

§ 28:1-104. Construction against implicit repeal

This subtitle being a general act intended as a unified coverage of its subject matter, no part of it shall be deemed to be impliedly repealed by subsequent legislation if such construction can reasonably be avoided. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 631, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:1-105. Territorial application of this subtitle; parties' power to choose applicable law

(1) Except as provided hereafter in this section, when a transaction bears a reasonable relation to the District and also to a state or nation the parties may agree that the law either of the District or of such state or nation shall govern their rights and duties. Failing such agreement this subtitle applies to transactions bearing an appropriate relation to the District.

(2) Where one of the following provisions of this subtitle specifies the applicable law, that provision governs and a contrary agreement is effective only to the extent permitted by the law (including the conflict of laws rules) so specified:

Rights of creditors against sold goods. Section 28:2-402.

Applicability of the article on bank deposits and collections. Section 28:4-102.

Bulk transfers subject to the article on bulk transfers. Section 28:6-102.

§ 28:1-106. Remedies to be liberally administered

(1) The remedies provided by this subtitle shall be liberally administered to the end that the aggrieved party may be put in as good a position as if the other party had fully performed but neither consequential or special nor penal damages may be had except as specifically provided in this subtitle or by other rule of law.

(2) Any right or obligation declared by this subtitle is enforceable by action unless the provision declaring it specifies a different and limited effect. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 632, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:1-107. Waiver or renunciation of claim or right after breach

§ 28:1-108. Severability

If any provision or clause of this subtitle or application thereof to any person or circumstances is held invalid, such invalidity shall not affect other provisions or applications of this subtitle which can be given effect without the invalid provision or application, and to this end the provisions of this subtitle are declared to be severable. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 632, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:1-109. Section captions

Section captions are parts of this subtitle. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 632, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

PART 2.—GENERAL DEFINITIONS AND PRINCIPLES OF INTERPRETATION

§ 28:1-201. General definitions

Subject to additional definitions contained in the subsequent articles of this subtitle which are applicable to specific articles or parts thereof, and unless the context otherwise requires, in this subtitle:

(1) "Action" in the sense of a judicial proceeding includes recoupment, counterclaim, set-off, suit in equity and any other proceedings in which rights are determined.

(2) "Aggrieved party" means a party entitled to resort to a remedy.

(3) "Agreement" means the bargain of the parties in fact as found in their language or by implication from other circumstances including course of dealing or usage of trade or course of performance as provided in this subtitle (sections 28:1-205 and 2-208). Whether an agreement has legal consequences is determined by the provisions of this subtitle, if applicable; otherwise by the law of contracts (section 28:1-103). (Compare "Contract".)

(4) "Bank" means any person engaged in the business of banking.

(5) "Bearer" means the person in possession of an instrument, document of title, or security payable to bearer or indorsed in blank.

(6) "Bill of lading" means a document evidencing the receipt of goods for shipment issued by a person engaged in the business of transporting or forwarding goods, and includes an airbill. "Airbill" means a document serving for air transportation as a bill of lading does for marine or rail transportation, and includes an air consignment note or air waybill.

(7) "Branch" includes a separately incorporated foreign branch of a bank.

(8) "Burden of establishing" a fact means the burden of persuading the triers of fact that the existence of the fact is more probable than its non-existence.

(9) "Buyer in ordinary course of business" means a person who in good faith and without knowledge that the sale to him is in violation of the ownership rights or security interest of a third party in the goods buys in ordinary course from a person in the business of selling goods of that kind but does not include a pawnbroker. "Buying" may be for cash or by exchange of other property or on secured or unsecured credit and includes receiving goods or documents of title under a preexisting contract for sale but does not include a transfer in bulk or as security for or in total or partial satisfaction of a money debt.

(10) "Conspicuous": A term or clause is conspicuous when it is so written that a reasonable person against whom it is to operate ought to have noticed it. A printed heading in capitals (as: NON-NEGOTIABLE BILL OF LADING) is conspicuous. Language in the body of a form is "conspicuous" if it is in larger or other contrasting type or color. But in a telegram any stated term is "conspicuous". Whether a term or clause is "conspicuous" or not is for decision by the court.

(11) "Contract" means the total legal obligation which results from the parties' agreement as affected by this subtitle and any other applicable rules of law. (Compare "Agreement".)

(12) "Creditor" includes a general creditor, a secured creditor, a lien creditor and any representative of creditors, including an assignee for the benefit of creditors, a trustee in bankruptcy, a receiver in equity and an executor or administrator of an insolvent debtor's or assignor's estate.

(13) "Defendant" includes a person in the position of defendant in a cross-action or counterclaim.

(14) "Delivery" with respect to instruments, documents of title, chattel paper or securities means voluntary transfer of possession.

(14a) "District" means the District of Columbia; and "state" includes the District.

(15) "Document of title" includes bill of lading, dock warrant, dock receipt, warehouse receipt or order for the delivery of goods, and also any other document which in the regular course of business or financing is treated as adequately evidencing that the person in possession of it is entitled to receive, hold and dispose of the document and the goods it covers. To be a document of title a document must purport to be issued by or addressed to a bailee and purport to cover goods in the bailee's possession which are either identified or are fungible portions of an identified mass.

(16) "Fault" means wrongful act, omission or breach.

(17) "Fungible" with respect to goods or securities means goods or securities of which any unit is, by nature or usage of trade, the equivalent of any other like unit. Goods which are not fungible shall be deemed fungible for the purposes of this subtitle to the extent that under a particular agreement or document unlike units are treated as equivalents.

(18) "Genuine" means free of forgery or counterfeiting.

(19) "Good faith" means honesty in fact in the conduct or transaction concerned.

(20) "Holder" means a person who is in possession of a document of title or an instrument or an investment security drawn, issued or indorsed to him or to his order or to bearer or in blank.

(21) To "honor" is to pay or to accept and pay, or where a credit so engages to purchase or discount a draft complying with the terms of the credit.

(22) "Insolvency proceedings" includes any assignment for the benefit of creditors or other proceedings intended to liquidate or rehabilitate the estate of the person involved.

(23) A person is "insolvent" who either has ceased to pay his debts in the ordinary course of business or cannot pay his debts as they become due or is insolvent within the meaning of the federal bankruptcy law.

(24) "Money" means a medium of exchange authorized or adopted by a domestic or foreign government as a part of its currency.

(25) A person has "notice" of a fact when:

(a) he has actual knowledge of it; or

(b) he has received a notice or notification of it; or

(c) from all the facts and circumstances known to him at the time in question he has reason to know that it exists.

A person "knows" or has "knowledge" of a fact when he has actual knowledge of it. "Discover" or "learn" or a word or phrase of similar import refers to knowledge rather than to reason to know. The time and circumstances under which a notice or notification may cease to be effective are not determined by this subtitle.

(26) A person "notifies" or "gives" a notice or notification to another by taking such steps as may be reasonably required to inform the other in ordinary course whether or not such other actually comes to know of it. A person "receives" a notice or notification when:

(a) it comes to his attention; or

(b) it is duly delivered at the place of business through which the contract was made or at any other place held out by him as the place for receipt of such communications.

(27) Notice, knowledge or a notice or notification received by an organization is effective for a particular transaction from the time when it is brought to the attention of the individual conducting that transaction, and in any event from the time when it would have been brought to his attention if the organization had exercised due diligence. An organization exercises due diligence if it maintains reasonable routines for communicating significant information to the person conducting the transaction and there is reasonable compliance with the routines. Due diligence does not require an individual acting for the organization to communicate information unless the communication is part of his regular duties or unless he has reason to know of the transaction and that the transaction would be materially affected by the information.

(28) "Organization" includes a corporation, government or governmental subdivision or agency, business trust, estate, trust, partnership or association, two or more persons having a joint or common interest, or any other legal or commercial entity.

(29) "Party", as distinct from "third party", means a person who has engaged in a transaction or made an agreement within this subtitle.

(30) "Person" includes an individual or an organization see section 28:1-102).

(31) "Presumption" or "presumed" means that the trier of fact must find the existence of the fact presumed unless and until evidence is introduced which would support a finding of its nonexistence.

(32) "Purchase" includes taking by sale, discount, negotiation, mortgage, pledge, lien, issue or re-issue, gift or any other voluntary transaction creating an interest in property.

(33) "Purchaser" means a person who takes by purchase.

(34) "Remedy" means any remedial right to which an aggrieved party is entitled with or without resort to tribunal.

(35) "Representative" includes an agent, an officer of a corporation or association, and a trustee, executor or administrator of an estate, or any other person empowered to act for another.

(36) "Rights" includes remedies.

(37) "Security interest" means an interest in personal property or fixtures which secures payment or performance of an obligation. The retention or reservation of title by a seller of goods notwithstanding shipment or delivery to the buyer (section 28:2-401) is limited in effect to a reservation of a "security interest". The term also includes any interest of a buyer of accounts, chattel paper, or contract rights which is subject to article 9. The special property interest of a buyer of goods on identification of such goods to a contract for sale under section 28:2-401 is not a "security interest", but a buyer may also acquire a "security interest" by complying with article 9. Unless a lease or consignment is intended as security, reservation of title thereunder is not a "security interest" but a consignment is in any event subject to the provisions on consignment sales (section 28:2-326). Whether a lease is intended as security is to be determined by the facts of each case; however, (a) the inclusion of an option to purchase does not of itself make the lease one intended for security, and (b) an agreement that upon compliance with the terms of the lease the lessee shall become or has the option to become the owner of the property for no additional consideration or for a nominal consideration does make the lease one intended for security.

(38) "Send" in connection with any writing or notice means to deposit in the mail or deliver for transmission by any other usual means of communication with postage or cost of transmission provided for and properly addressed and in the case of an instrument to an address specified thereon or otherwise agreed, or if there be none to any address reasonable under the circumstances. The receipt of any writing or notice within the time at which it would have arrived if properly sent has the effect of a proper sending.

(39) "Signed" includes any symbol executed or adopted by a party with present intention to authenticate a writing.

(40) "Surety" includes guarantor.

(41) "Telegram" includes a message transmitted by radio, teletype, cable, any mechanical method of transmission, or the like.

(42) "Term" means that portion of an agreement which relates to a particular matter.

(43) "Unauthorized" signature or indorsement means one made without actual, implied or apparent authority and includes a forgery.

(44) "Value". Except as otherwise provided with respect to negotiable instruments and bank collections (sections 28:3-303, 28:4-208 and 28:4-209) a person gives "value" for rights if he acquires them:

(a) in return for a binding commitment to extend credit or for the extension of immediately available credit whether or not drawn upon and whether or not a charge-back is provided for in the event of difficulties in collection; or

(b) as security for or in total or partial satisfaction of a pre-existing claim; or

(c) by accepting delivery pursuant to a pre-existing contract for purchase; or

(d) generally, in return for any consideration sufficient to support a simple contract.

(45) "Warehouse receipt" means a receipt issued by a person engaged in the business of storing goods for hire.

(46) "Written" or "writing" includes printing, typewriting or any other intentional reduction to tangible form. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 632, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965; Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 679, Pub. L. 88-509, § 4.)

AMENDMENT

1964—Section 4 of act Aug. 30, 1964, effective Jan. 1, 1965, amended the last sentence of clause 27 by changing "such information" to read "the communication".

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 22-1209, 28:7-102, 28:9-105, 28:9-204, 28:9-307, 28:10-104, 38-205, 40-701, 40-901.

§ 28:1-202. Prima facie evidence by third party documents

A document in due form purporting to be a bill of lading, policy or certificate of insurance, official weigher's or inspector's certificate, consular invoice, or any other document authorized or required by the contract to be issued by a third party shall be prima facie evidence of its own authenticity and genuineness and of the facts stated in the document by the third party. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 636, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:1-203. Obligation of good faith

Every contract or duty within this subtitle imposes an obligation of good faith in its performance or enforcement. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 636, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Impracticability of performance

The concept of impracticability assumes that performance was physically possible, a law making nonperformance a condition precedent to recovery would unjustifiably encourage disappointment of expectations, and there is nothing necessarily inconsistent in claiming commercial impracticability for method of performance actually adopted and, accordingly, impossibility issue may be raised in suit to recover cost of alternative method of performance. Transatlantic Financing Corporation v. United States (1966, 363 F.2d 312, 124 U.S. App. D.C. 183).

In some cases, even an express expectation may not, for purposes of doctrine of impossibility of performance, amount to a condition of performance. Id.

§ 28:1-204. Time; reasonable time; "seasonably"

(1) Whenever this subtitle requires any action to be taken within a reasonable time, any time which is not manifested unreasonable may be fixed by agreement.

(2) What is a reasonable time for taking any action depends on the nature, purpose and circumstances of such action.

(3) An action is taken, "seasonably" when it is taken at or within the time agreed or if no time is agreed at or within a reasonable time. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 636, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Finding

Finding that notification of rejection of goods by buyer to seller some six months after delivery was not seasonable notification within meaning of Uniform Commercial Code is not clearly erroneous. H. J. Robinson v. Jonathan Logan Financial (D.C. App. 1971, 277 A.2d 115).

§ 28:1-205. Course of dealing and usage of trade

(1) A course of dealing is a sequence of previous conduct between the parties to a particular transaction which is fairly to be regarded as establishing a common basis of understanding for interpreting their expressions and other conduct.

(2) A usage of trade is any practice or method of dealing having such regularity of observance in a place, vocation or trade as to justify an expectation that it will be observed with respect to the transaction in question. The existence and scope of such a usage are to be proved as facts. If it is established that such a usage is embodied in a written trade code or similar writing the interpretation of the writing is for the court.

(3) A course of dealing between parties and any usage of trade in the vocation or trade in which they are engaged or of which they are or should be aware give particular meaning to and supplement or qualify terms of an agreement.

(4) The express terms of an agreement and an applicable course of dealing or usage of trade shall be construed wherever reasonable consistent with each other; but when such construction is unreasonable express terms control both course of dealing and usage of trade and course of dealing controls usage of trade.

(5) An applicable usage of trade in the place where any part of performance is to occur shall be used in interpreting the agreement as to that part of the performance.

(6) Evidence of a relevant usage of trade offered by one party is not admissible unless and until he has given the other party such notice as the court finds sufficient to prevent unfair surprise to the latter. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 636, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:1-201, 28:2-202, 28:2-208.

§ 28:1-206. Statute of frauds for kinds of personal property not otherwise covered

(1) Except in the cases described in subsection (2) of this section a contract for the sale of personal property is not enforceable by way of action or defense beyond five thousand dollars in amount or value of remedy unless there is some writing which indicates that a contract for sale has been made between the parties at a defined or stated price, reasonably identifies the subject matter, and is signed by the party against whom enforcement is sought or by his authorized agent.

(2) Subsection (1) of this section does not apply to contracts for the sale of goods (section 28:2-201) nor of securities (section 28:8-319) nor to security agreements (section 28:9-203). (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 636, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:1-207. Performance or acceptance under reservation of rights

A party who with explicit reservation of rights performs or promises performance or assents to performance in a manner demanded or offered by the other party does not thereby prejudice the rights reserved. Such words as "without prejudice", "under protest" or the like are sufficient. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 637, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:1-208. Option to accelerate at will

A term providing that one party or his successor in interest may accelerate payment or performance or require collateral or additional collateral "at will" or "when he deems himself insecure" or in words of similar import shall be construed to mean that he shall have power to do so only if he in good faith believes that the prospect of payment or performance is impaired. The burden of establishing lack of good faith is on the party against whom the power has been exercised. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 637, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

Unless the context otherwise requires, this article applies to transactions in goods; it does not apply to any transaction which although in the form of an unconditional contract to sell or present sale is intended to operate only as a security transaction nor does this article impair or repeal any statute regulating sales to consumers, farmers or other specified classes of buyers. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 639, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:7-102.

§ 28:2-104. Definitions: "merchant"; "between merchants"; "financing agency"

(1) "Merchant" means a person who deals in goods of the kind or otherwise by his occupation holds himself out as having knowledge or skill peculiar to the practices or goods involved in the transaction or to whom such knowledge or skill may be attributed by his employment of an agent or broker or other intermediary who by his occupation holds himself out as having such knowledge or skill.

(2) "Financing agency" means a bank, finance company or other person who in the ordinary course of business makes advances against goods or documents of title or who by arrangement with either the seller or the buyer intervenes in ordinary course to make or collect payment due or claimed under the contract for sale, as by purchasing or paying the seller's draft or making advances against it or by merely taking it for collection whether or not documents of title accompany the draft. "Financing agency" includes also a bank or other person who similarly intervenes between persons who are in the position of seller and buyer in respect to the goods (section 28: 2-707).

(3) "Between merchants" means in any transaction with respect to which both parties are chargeable with the knowledge or skill of merchants. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 640, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-103.

§ 28:2-105. Definitions: transferability; "goods"; "future" goods; "lot"; "commercial unit"

(1) "Goods" means all things (including specially manufactured goods) which are movable at the time of identification to the contract for sale other than the money in which the price is to be paid, investment securities (article 8) and things in action. "Goods" also includes the unborn young of animals and growing crops and other identified things attached to realty as described in the section on goods to be severed from realty (section 28: 2-107).

(2) Goods must be both existing and identified before any interest in them can pass. Goods which are not both existing and identified are "future" goods. A purported present sale of future goods or of any interest therein operates as a contract to sell.

(3) There may be a sale of a part interest in existing identified goods.

(4) An undivided share in an identified bulk of fungible goods is sufficiently identified to be sold although the quantity of the bulk is not determined. Any agreed proportion of such a bulk or any quantity thereof agreed upon by number, weight or other measure may to the extent of the seller's interest in the bulk be sold to the buyer who then becomes an owner in common.

(5) "Lot" means a parcel or a single article which is the subject matter of a separate sale or delivery, whether or not it is sufficient to perform the contract.

(6) "Commercial unit" means such a unit of goods as by commercial usage is a single whole for purposes of sale and division of which materially impairs its character or value on the market or in use. A commercial unit may be a single article (as a machine) or a set of articles (as a suite of furniture or an assortment of sizes) or a quantity (as a bale, gross, or carload) or any other unit treated in use or in the relevant market as a single whole. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 640, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-103.

§ 28:2-106. Definitions: "contract"; "agreement"; "contract for sale"; "sale"; "present sale"; "conforming" to contract; "termination"; "cancellation"

(1) In this article unless the context otherwise requires "contract" and "agreement" are limited to those relating to the present or future sale of goods. "Contract for sale" includes both a present sale of goods and a contract to sell goods at a future time. A "sale" consists in the passing of title from the seller to the buyer for a price (section 28: 2-401). A "present sale" means a sale which is accomplished by the making of the contract.

(2) Goods or conduct including any part of a performance are "conforming" or conform to the contract when they are in accordance with the obligations under the contract.

(3) "Termination" occurs when either party pursuant to a power created by agreement or law puts an end to the contract otherwise than for its breach. On "termination" all obligations which are still executory on both sides are discharged but any right based on prior breach or performance survives.

(4) "Cancellation" occurs when either party puts an end to the contract for breach by the other and its effect is the same as that of "termination" except that the cancelling party also retains any remedy for breach of the whole contract or any unperformed balance. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 641, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

This section is referred to in sections 28:2-103, 28:5-103, 28:7-102, 28:9-105.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Cancellation

Where buyer, although indicating rejection of goods, refused to return goods because of fear of violence at his warehouse in area of city affected by rioting, fact that the seller was at first willing to take back goods and, in effect, cancel the contract rather than file an action for the price does not bar subsequent action for price following buyer's inaction. H. J. Robinson v. Jonathan Logan Financial (D.C. App. 1971, 277 A. 2d 115).

§ 28:2-107. Goods to be severed from realty; recording

(1) A contract for the sale of timber, minerals or the like or a structure or its materials to be removed from realty is a contract for the sale of goods within this article if they are to be severed by the seller but until severance a purported present sale thereof which is not effective as a transfer of an interest in land is effective only as a contract to sell.

(2) A contract for the sale apart from the land of growing crops or other things attached to realty and capable of severance without material harm thereto but not described in subsection (1) is a contract for the sale of goods within this article whether the subject matter is to be severed by the buyer or by the seller even though it forms part of the realty at the time of contracting, and the parties can by identification effect a present sale before severance.

(3) The provisions of this section are subject to any third party rights provided by the law relating to realty records, and the contract for sale may be executed and recorded as a document transferring an interest in land and shall then constitute notice to third parties of the buyer's rights under the contract for sale. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 641, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-105.

PART 2.—FORM, FORMATION AND READJUSTMENT OF CONTRACT

§ 28:2-201. Formal requirements; statute of frauds

(1) Except as otherwise provided in this section a contract for the sale of goods for the price of $500 or more is not enforceable by way of action or defense unless there is some writing sufficient to indicate that a contract for sale has been made between the parties and signed by the party against whom enforcement is sought or by his authorized agent or broker. A writing is not insufficient because it omits or incorrectly states a term agreed upon but the contract is not enforceable under this paragraph beyond the quantity of goods shown in such writing.

(2) Between merchants if within a reasonable time a writing in confirmation of the contract and sufficient against the sender is received and the party receiving it has reason to know its contents, it satisfies the requirements of subsection (1) against such party unless written notice of objection to its contents is given within ten days after it is received.

(3) A contract which does not satisfy the requirements of subsection (1) but which is valid in other respects is enforceable:

(a) if the goods are to be specially manufactured for the buyer and are not suitable for sale to others in the ordinary course of the seller's business and the seller, before notice of repudiation is received and under circumstances which reasonably indicate that the goods are for the buyer, has made either a substantial beginning of their manufacture or commitments for their procurement; or

(b) if the party against whom enforcement is sought admits in his pleading, testimony or otherwise in court that a contract for sale was made, but the contract is not enforceable under this provision beyond the quantity of goods admitted; or

(c) with respect to goods for which payment has been made and accepted or which have been received and accepted (section 28:2-606).

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:1-206, 28:2-209, 28:2-326

§ 28:2-202. Final written expression: parol or extrinsic evidence

Terms with respect to which the confirmatory memoranda of the parties agree or which are otherwise set forth in a writing intended by the parties as a final expression of their agreement with respect to such terms as are included therein may not be contradicted by evidence of any prior agreement or of a contemporaneous oral agreement but may be explained or supplemented:

(a) by course of dealing or usage of trade (section 28:1-205) or by course of performance (section 28:2-208); and

(b) by evidence of consistent additional terms unless the court finds the writing to have been intended also as a complete and exclusive statement of the terms of the agreement.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:2-316, 28:2-326.

§ 28:2-203. Seals inoperative

The affixing of a seal to a writing evidencing a contract for sale or an offer to buy or sell goods does not constitute the writing a sealed instrument and the law with respect to sealed instruments does not apply to such a contract or offer. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 642, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-204. Formation in general

(1) A contract for sale of goods may be made in any manner sufficient to show agreement, including conduct by both parties which recognizes the existence of such a contract.

(2) An agreement sufficient to constitute a contract for sale may be found even though the moment of its making is undetermined.

(3) Even though one or more terms are left open a contract for sale does not fail for indefiniteness if the parties have intended to make a contract and there is a reasonably certain basis for giving an appropriate remedy. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 643, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-311.

§ 28:2-205. Firm offers

An offer by a merchant to buy or sell goods in a signed writing which by its terms gives assurance that it will be held open is not revocable, for lack of consideration, during the time stated or if no time is stated for a reasonable time, but in no event may such period of irrevocability exceed three months; but any such term of assurance on a form supplied by the offeree must be separately signed by the offeror. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 643, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-206. Offer and acceptance in formation of contract

(1) Unless otherwise unambiguously indicated by the language or circumstances:

(a) an offer to make a contract shall be construed as inviting acceptance in any manner and by any medium reasonable in the circumstances;

(b) an order or other offer to buy goods for prompt or current shipment shall be construed as inviting acceptance either by a prompt promise to ship or by the prompt or current shipment of conforming or non-conforming goods, but such a shipment of non-conforming goods does not constitute an acceptance if the seller seasonably notifies the buyer that the shipment is offered only as an accommodation to the buyer.

(2) Where the beginning of a requested performance is a reasonable mode of acceptance an offeror who is not notified of acceptance within a reasonable time may treat the offer as having lapsed before acceptance. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 643, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-207. Additional terms in acceptance or confirmation

(1) A definite and seasonable expression of acceptance or a written confirmation which is sent within a reasonable time operates as an acceptance even though it states terms additional to or different from those offered or agreed upon, unless acceptance is expressly made conditional on assent to the additional or different terms.

(2) The additional terms are to be construed as proposals for addition to the contract. Between merchants such terms become part of the contract unless:

- (a) the offer expressly limits acceptance to the terms of the offer;
- (b) they materially alter it; or
- (c) notification of objection to them has already been given or is given within a reasonable time after notice of them is received.

(3) Conduct by both parties which recognizes the existence of a contract is sufficient to establish a contract for sale although the writings of the parties do not otherwise establish a contract. In such case the terms of the particular contract consist of those terms on which the writings of the parties agree, together with any supplementary terms incorporated under any other provisions of this subtitle. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 643, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-208. Course of performance or practical construction

(1) Where the contract for sale involves repeated occasions for performance by either party with knowledge of the nature of the performance and opportunity for objection to it by the other, any course of performance accepted or acquiesced in without objection shall be relevant to determine the meaning of the agreement.

(2) The express terms of the agreement and any such course of performance, as well as any course of dealing and usage of trade, shall be construed whenever reasonable as consistent with each other, but when such construction is unreasonable, express terms shall control course of performance and course of performance shall control both course of dealing and usage of trade (section 28:1-205).

(3) Subject to the provisions of the next section on modification and waiver, such course of performance shall be relevant to show a waiver or modification of any term inconsistent with such course of performance. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 644, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:1-201, 28:2-202.

§ 28:2-209. Modification, rescission and waiver

(1) An agreement modifying a contract within this article needs no consideration to be binding.

(2) A signed agreement which excludes modification or rescission except by a signed writing cannot be otherwise modified or rescinded, but except as between merchants such a requirement on a form supplied by the merchant must be separately signed by the other party.

(3) The requirements of the statute of frauds section of this article (section 28:2-201) must be satisfied if the contract as modified is within its provisions.

(4) Although an attempt at modification or rescission does not satisfy the requirements of subsection (2) or (3), it can operate as a waiver.

(5) A party who has made a waiver affecting an executory portion of the contract may retract the waiver by reasonable notification received by the other party that strict performance will be required by any term waived, unless the retraction would be unjust in view of a material change of position in reliance on the waiver. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 644, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-210. Delegation of performance; assignment of rights

(1) A party may perform his duty through a delegate unless otherwise agreed or unless the other party has a substantial interest in having his original promisor perform or control the acts required by the contract. No delegation of performance relieves the party delegating of any duty to perform or any liability for breach.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed all rights of either seller or buyer can be assigned except where the assignment would materially change the duty of the other party, or increase materially the burden or risk imposed on him by his contract, or impair materially his chance of obtaining return performance. A right to damages for breach of the whole contract or a right arising out of the assignor's due performance of his entire obligation can be assigned despite agreement otherwise.

(3) Unless the circumstances indicate the contrary a prohibition of assignment of "the contract" is to be construed as barring only the delegation to the assignee of the assignor's performance.

(4) An assignment of "the contract" or of "all my rights under the contract" or an assignment in similar general terms is an assignment of rights and unless the language or the circumstances (as in an assignment for security) indicate the contrary, it is a delegation of performance of the duties of the assignor and its acceptance by the assignee constitutes a promise by him to perform those duties. This promise is enforceable by either the assignor or the other party to the original contract.

(5) The other party may treat any assignment which delegates performance as creating reasonable grounds for insecurity and may without prejudice to his rights against the assignor demand assurances from the assignee (section 28:2-609). (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 644, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

PART 3.—GENERAL OBLIGATION AND CONSTRUCTION OF CONTRACT

§ 28:2-301. General obligations of parties

The obligation of the seller is to transfer and deliver and that of the buyer is to accept and pay in accordance with the contract. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 645, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-302. Unconscionable contract or clause

(1) If the court as a matter of law finds the contract or any clause of the contract to have been unconscionable at the time it was made the court may refuse to enforce the contract, or it may enforce the remainder of the contract without the unconscionable clause, or it may so limit the application of any unconscionable clause as to avoid any unconscionable result.

(2) When it is claimed or appears to the court that the contract or any clause thereof may be unconscionable the parties shall be afforded a reasonable opportunity to present evidence as to its commercial setting, purpose and effect to aid the court in making the determination. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 645, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Discovery

Interrogatories may be used to develop evidence of the commercial setting, purpose and effect of a contract at the time it was made for purpose of determining whether contract is unconscionable. B. Patterson v. Walker-Thomas Furniture Co., Inc. (D.C. App. 1971, 277 A.2d 111).

The two elements of which unconscionability is comprised; namely, an absence of meaningful choice and contract terms unreasonably favorable to the other party, must be particularized in some detail before a merchant is required to divulge his pricing policies through interrogatories and through the production of records in court, and an answer asserting affirmative defense of unconscionability only on basis of a stated conclusion that price is excessive is insufficient. Id.

Evidence—Sufficiency

Evidence that the buyer had been free to indulge in comparative shopping at the time she purchased household effects sustained findings that conditional sale contract under which buyer was obligated to pay $832 including $219.30 credit charge over two-year period for purchase of goods which cost seller only $234.35 was not unconscionable. M. C. Morris v. Capitol Furniture & Appliance Co., Inc. (D.C. App. 1971, 280 A.2d 775).

Impracticability of performance

The concept of impracticability assumes that performance was physically possible, a rule making nonperformance a condition precedent to recovery would unjustifiably encourage disappointment of expectations, and there is nothing necessarily inconsistent in claiming commercial impracticability for the method of performance actually adopted and, accordingly, impossibility issue may be raised in suit to recover cost of alternative method of performance. Transatlantic Financing Corporation v. United States (1966, 363 F.2d 312, 124 U.S. App. D.C. 183).

In some cases, even an express expectation may not, for purposes of doctrine of impossibility of performance, amount to a condition of performance. Id.

Unconscionable contract

In a proper case, gross overpricing may be raised in defense to action on sales contract as an element of unconscionability; however, price as an unreasonable contract term is only one of the elements that underpin proof of unconscionability. B. Patterson v. Walker-Thomas Furniture Co., Inc. (D.C. App. 1971, 277 A.2d 111).

That Congress enacted Uniform Commercial Code specifically providing that court may refuse to enforce contract which it finds to be unconscionable at time it was made does not mean that common law of District of Columbia was otherwise at time of enactment nor preclude court from adopting similar rule in exercise of its powers to develop common law for District of Columbia. Williams v. Walker-Thomas Furniture Co. (1965, 350 F.2d 445, 121 U.S. App. D.C. 315).

§ 28:2-303. Allocation or division of risks

Where this article allocates a risk or a burden as between the parties "unless otherwise agreed", the agreement may not only shift the allocation but may also divide the risk or burden. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 645, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-304. Price payable in money, goods, realty, or otherwise

(1) The price can be made payable in money or otherwise. If it is payable in whole or in part in goods each party is a seller of the goods which he is to transfer.

(2) Even though all or part of the price is payable in an interest in realty the transfer of the goods and the seller's obligations with reference to them are subject to this article, but not the transfer of the interest in realty or the transferor's obligations in connection therewith. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 645, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-305. Open price term

(1) The parties if they so intend can conclude a contract for sale even though the price is not settled. In such a case the price is a reasonable price at the time for delivery if:

(a) nothing is said as to price; or

(b) the price is left to be agreed by the parties and they fail to agree; or

(c) the price is to be fixed in terms of some agreed market or other standard as set or recorded by a third person or agency and it is not so set or recorded.

(2) A price to be fixed by the seller or by the buyer means a price for him to fix in good faith.

(3) When a price left to be fixed otherwise than by agreement of the parties fails to be fixed through fault of one party the other may at his option treat the contract as cancelled or himself fix a reasonable price.

(4) Where, however, the parties intend not to be bound unless the price be fixed or agreed and it is not fixed or agreed there is no contract. In such a case the buyer must return any goods already received or if unable so to do must pay their reasonable value at the time of delivery and the seller must return any portion of the price paid on account. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 645, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-306. Output, requirements and exclusive dealings

(1) A term which measures the quantity by the output of the seller or the requirements of the buyer means such actual output or requirements as may occur in good faith, except that no quantity unreasonably disproportionate to any stated estimate or in the absence of a stated estimate to any normal or otherwise comparable prior output or requirements may be tendered or demanded.

(2) A lawful agreement by either the seller or the buyer for exclusive dealing in the kind of goods concerned imposes unless otherwise agreed an obligation by the seller to use best efforts to supply the goods and by the buyer to use best efforts to promote their sale. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 646, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-307. Delivery in single lot or several lots.

Unless otherwise agreed all goods called for by a contract for sale must be tendered in a single delivery and payment is due only on such tender but where the circumstances give either party the right to make or demand delivery in lots the price if it can be apportioned may be demanded for each lot. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 646, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-308. Absence of specified place for delivery

Unless otherwise agreed:

(a) the place for delivery of goods is the seller's place of business or if he has none his residence; but

(b) in a contract for sale of identified goods which to the knowledge of the parties at the time of contracting are in some other place, that place is the place for their delivery; and

(c) documents of title may be delivered through customary banking channels.

§ 28:2-309. Absence of specific time provisions; notice of termination

(1) The time for shipment or delivery or any other action under a contract if not provided in this article or agreed upon shall be a reasonable time.

(2) Where the contract provides for successive performances but is indefinite in duration it is valid for a reasonable time but unless otherwise agreed may be terminated at any time by either party.

(3) Termination of a contract by one party except on the happening of an agreed event requires that reasonable notification be received by the other party and an agreement dispensing with notification is invalid if its operation would be unconscionable. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 646, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-310. Open time for payment or running of credit; authority to ship under reservation

Unless otherwise agreed:

(a) payment is due at the time and place at which the buyer is to receive the goods even though the place of shipment is the place of delivery; and

(b) if the seller is authorized to send the goods he may ship them under reservation, and may tender the documents of title, but the buyer may inspect the goods after their arrival before payment is due unless such inspection is inconsistent with the terms of the contract (section 28:2-513); and

(c) if delivery is authorized and made by way of documents of title otherwise than by subsection (b) then payment is due at the time and place at which the buyer is to receive the documents regardless of where the goods are to be received; and

(d) where the seller is required or authorized to ship the goods on credit the credit period runs from the time of shipment but post-dating the invoice or delaying its dispatch will correspondingly delay the starting of the credit period.

(Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 646, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Buyer's remedy for breach of warranty

Rescission is not the buyer's only remedy for a breach of warranty; the buyer may also affirm the contract and seek damages for its breach. Rubewa Products Co., Inc. v. Watson's Quality Turkey Products, Inc. (D.C. App. 1968, 242 A. 2d 609).

Place of inspection

Where turkey broker's remedy for turkey producer's breach of sales contract was not limited to rescission and sales contract did not provide for inspection upon delivery to broker, trial court's finding that place of inspection was point of delivery rather than ultimate destination was reversible error in broker's action against producer for breach of contract. Rubewa Products Co., Inc. v. Watson's Quality Turkey Products, Inc. (D.C. App. 1968, 242 A. 2d 609).

§ 28:2-311. Options and cooperation respecting performance

(1) An agreement for sale which is otherwise sufficiently definite (subsection (3) of section 28:2-204) to be a contract is not made invalid by the fact that it leaves particulars of performance to be specified by one of the parties. Any such specification must be made in good faith and within limits set by commercial reasonableness.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed specifications relating to assortment of the goods are at the buyer's option and except as otherwise provided in subsections (1)(c) and (3) of section 28:2-319 specifications or arrangements relating to shipment are at the seller's option.

(3) Where such specification would materially affect the other party's performance but is not seasonably made or where one party's cooperation is necessary to the agreed performance of the other but is not seasonably forthcoming, the other party in addition to all other remedies:

(a) is excused for any resulting delay in his own performance; and

(b) may also either proceed to perform in any reasonable manner or after the time for a material part of his own performance treat the failure to specify or to cooperate as a breach by failure to deliver or accept the goods.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-319.

§ 28:2-312. Warranty of title and against infringement; buyer's obligation against infringement

(1) Subject to subsection (2) there is in a contract for sale a warranty by the seller that:

(a) the title conveyed shall be good, and its transfer rightful; and

(b) the goods shall be delivered free from any security interest or other lien or encumbrance of which the buyer at the time of contracting has no knowledge.

(2) A warranty under subsection (1) will be excluded or modified only by specific language or by circumstances which give the buyer reason to know that the person selling does not claim title in himself or that he is purporting to sell only such right or title as he or a third person may have.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed a seller who is a merchant regularly dealing in goods of the kind warrants that the goods shall be delivered free of the rightful claim of any third person by way of infringement or the like but a buyer who furnishes specifications to the seller must hold the seller harmless against any such claim which arises out of compliance with the specifications. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 647, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-607.

§ 28:2-313. Express warranties by affirmation, promise, description, sample

(1) Express warranties by the seller are created as follows:

(a) Any affirmation of fact or promise made by the seller to the buyer which relates to the goods and becomes part of the basis of the bargain creates an express warranty that the goods shall conform to the affirmation or promise.

(b) Any description of the goods which is made part of the basis of the bargain creates an express warranty that the goods shall conform to the description.

(c) Any sample or model which is made part of the basis of the bargain creates an express warranty that the whole of the goods shall conform to the sample or model.

(2) It is not necessary to the creation of an express warranty that the seller use formal words such as "warrant" or "guarantee" or that he have a specific intention to make a warranty, but an affirmation merely of the value of the goods or a statement purporting to be merely the seller's opinion or commendation of the goods does not create a warranty. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 647, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Breach of warranty

In view of fact that the true strength of concrete would not be revealed until after 28-day curing period had elapsed, buyer's use of concrete originating at seller's plant, even though tests performed at jobsite indicated that concrete contained air in excess of normal bounds, did not constitute negligent or malicious act on part of the buyer so as to absolve the seller from breach of warranty. S. S. Bevard et al. v. Howat Concrete Company, Inc. (1970, 433 F. 2d 1202, 140 U.S. App. D.C. 96).

§ 28:2-314. Implied warranty: merchantability; usage of trade

(1) Unless excluded or modified (section 28:2-316), a warranty that the goods shall be merchantable is implied in a contract for their sale if the seller is a merchant with respect to goods of that kind. Under this section the serving for value of food or drink to be consumed either on the premises or elsewhere is a sale.

(2) Goods to be merchantable must be at least such as

(a) pass without objection in the trade under the contract description; and

(b) in the case of fungible goods, are of fair average quality within the description; and

(c) are fit for the ordinary purposes for which such goods are used; and

(d) run, within the variations permitted by the agreement, of even kind, quality and quantity within each unit and among all units involved; and

(e) are adequately contained, packaged, and labeled as the agreement may require; and

(f) conform to the promises or affirmations of fact made on the container or label if any.

(3) Unless excluded or modified (section 28:2-316), other implied warranties may arise from course of dealing or usage of trade. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 648, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

S. Bevard et al. v. Howat Concrete Company, Inc.* (1970, 433 F. 2d 1202, 140 U.S. App. D.C. 96).

Food and drink

The test in determining breach of implied warranty where there is injury caused by food or drink served in a restaurant is what should reasonably be expected by the consumer to be in the food served him rather than whether the food is wholesome, untainted, or contains a foreign substance. P. R. Hochberg v. O'Donnell's Restaurant, Inc. (D.C. App. 1971, 272 A. 2d 846).

Jury question

Question whether restaurant customer, who noticed that olive in cocktail contained hole at one end and who broke his tooth when he bit into pit, acted in a reasonable fashion in chewing olive with expectation that it contained no pit is for the jury in action against restaurant to recover for breach of implied warranty. P. R. Hochberg v. O'Donnell's Restaurant, Inc. (D.C. App. 1971, 272 A. 2d 846).

§ 28:2-315. Implied warranty: fitness for particular purpose

Where the seller at the time of contracting has reason to know any particular purpose for which the goods are required and that the buyer is relying on the seller's skill or judgment to select or furnish suitable goods, there is unless excluded or modified under the next section an implied warranty that the goods shall be fit for such purpose. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 648, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

Breach of warranty

In view of fact that the true strength of concrete would not be revealed until after 28-day curing period had elapsed, buyer's use of concrete originating at seller's plant, even though tests performed at jobsite indicated that concrete contained air in excess of normal bounds, did not constitute negligent or malicious act on part of the buyer so as to absolve the seller from breach of warranty. S. S. Bevard et al. v. Howat Concrete Company, Inc. (1970, 433 F. 2d 1202, 140 U.S. App. D.C. 96).

Seller's premises

Under the law of sales one who manufactures or sells a commodity impliedly warrants that the commodity will be fit for its intended purpose, but such warranty does not extend to include a guaranty that the seller's premises are fit for receiving the commodity, because tort law principles adequately provide for those safeguards under the duties which a landowner owes to business invitees, such as the duty to warn against dangerous conditions on the premises. Phoenix Assurance Company of New York v. Potomac Sand and Gravel Company (1972, 343 F. Supp. 658).

§ 28:2-316. Exclusion or modification of warranties

(1) Words or conduct relevant to the creation of an express warranty and words or conduct tending to negate or limit warranty shall be construed wherever reasonable as consistent with each other; but subject to the provisions of this article on parol or extrinsic evidence (section 28:2-202) negation or limitation is inoperative to the extent that such construction is unreasonable.

(2) Subject to subsection (3), to exclude or modify the implied warranty of merchantability or any part of it the language must mention merchantability and in case of a writing must be conspicuous, and to exclude or modify any implied warranty of fitness the exclusion must be by a writing and conspicuous. Language to exclude all implied warranties of fitness is sufficient if it states, for example, that "There are no warranties which extend beyond the description on the face hereof."

(3) Notwithstanding subsection (2)

(a) unless the circumstances indicate otherwise, all implied warranties are excluded by expressions like "as is", "with all faults" or other language which in common understanding calls the buyer's attention to the exclusion of warranties and makes plain that there is no implied warranty; and

(b) when the buyer before entering into the contract has examined the goods or the sample or model as fully as he desired or has refused to examine the goods there is no implied warranty with regard to defects which an examination ought in the circumstances to have revealed to him; and

(c) an implied warranty can also be excluded or modified by course of dealing or course of performance or usage of trade.

(4) Remedies for breach of warranty can be limited in accordance with the provisions of this article on liquidation or limitation of damages and on contractual modification of remedy (sections 28:2-718 and 28:2-719). (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 648, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-314.

§ 28:2-317. Cumulation and conflict of warranties express or implied

Warranties whether express or implied shall be construed as consistent with each other and as cumulative, but if such construction is unreasonable the intention of the parties shall determine which warranty is dominant. In ascertaining that intention the following rules apply:

(a) Exact or technical specifications displace an inconsistent sample or model or general language of description.

(b) A sample from an existing bulk displaces inconsistent general language of description.

(c) Express warranties displace inconsistent implied warranties other than an implied warranty of fitness for a particular purpose. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 649, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-318. Third party beneficiaries of warranties express or implied

A seller's warranty whether express or implied extends to any natural person who is in the family or household of his buyer or who is a guest in his home if it is reasonable to expect that such person may use, consume or be affected by the goods and who is injured in person by breach of the warranty. A seller may not exclude or limit the operation of this section. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 649, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-319. F.O.B. and F.A.S. terms

(1) Unless otherwise agreed the term F.O.B. (which means "free on board") at a named place, even though used only in connection with the stated price, is a delivery term under which

(a) when the term is F.O.B. the place of shipment, the seller must at that place ship the goods in the manner provided in this article (section 28:2-504) and bear the expense and risk of putting them into the possession of the carrier; or

(b) when the term is F.O.B. the place of destination, the seller must at his own expense and risk transport the goods to that place and there tender delivery of them in the manner provided in this article (section 28:2-503);

(c) when under either (a) or (b) the term is also F.O.B. vessel, car or other vehicle, the seller must in addition at his own expense and risk load the goods on board. If the term is F.O.B. vessel the buyer must name the vessel and in an appropriate case the seller must comply with the provisions of this article on the form of bill of lading (section 28:8-323).

(2) Unless otherwise agreed the term F.A.S. vessel (which means "free alongside") at a named port, even though used only in connection with the stated price, is a delivery term under which the seller must

(a) at his own expense and risk deliver the goods alongside the vessel in the manner usual in that port or on a dock designated and provided by the buyer; and

(b) obtain and tender a receipt for the goods in exchange for which the carrier is under a duty to issue a bill of lading.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed in any case falling within subsection (1) (a) or (c) or subsection (2) the buyer must seasonably give any needed instructions for making delivery, including when the term is F.A.S. or F.O.B. the loading berth of the vessel and in an appropriate case its name and sailing date. The seller may treat the failure of needed instructions as a failure of cooperation under this article (section 28:2-311). He may also at his option move the goods in any reasonable manner preparatory to delivery or shipment.

(4) Under the term F.O.B. vessel or F.A.S. unless otherwise agreed the buyer must make payment against tender of the required documents and the seller may not tender nor the buyer demand delivery of the goods in substitution for the documents. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 649, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REFERENCE IN TEXT

The reference in subsection (c) to section 28:8-323 is obviously an error, as there is no such section. In all probability it should be 28:2-323.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-311.

§ 28:2-320. C.I.F. and C. & F. terms

(1) The term C.I.F. means that the price includes in a lump sum the cost of the goods and the insurance and freight to the named destination. The term C. & F. or C.F. means that the price so includes cost and freight to the named destination.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed and even though used only in connection with the stated price and destination, the term C.I.F. destination or its equivalent requires the seller at his own expense and risk to

(a) put the goods into the possession of a carrier at the port for shipment and obtain a negotiable bill or bills of lading covering the entire transportation to the named destination; and

(b) load the goods and obtain a receipt from the carrier (which may be contained in the bill of lading) showing that the freight has been paid or provided for; and

(c) obtain a policy or certificate of insurance, including any war risk insurance, of a kind and on terms then current at the port of shipment in the usual amount, in the currency of the contract, shown to cover the same goods covered by the bill of lading and providing for payment of loss to the order of the buyer or for the account of whom it may concern; but the seller may add to the price the amount of the premium for any such war risk insurance; and

(d) prepare an invoice of the goods and procure any other documents required to effect shipment or to comply with the contract; and

(e) forward and tender with commercial promptness all the documents in due form and with any indorsement necessary to perfect the buyer's rights.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed the term C. & F. or its equivalent has the same effect and imposes upon the seller the same obligations and risks as a C.I.F. term except the obligation as to insurance.

(4) Under the term C.I.F. or C. & F. unless otherwise agreed the buyer must make payment against tender of the required documents and the seller may not tender nor the buyer demand delivery of the goods in substitution for the documents. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 650, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-321. C.I.F. or C. & F.: "net landed weights"; "payment on on<sup>1</sup> arrival"; warranty of condition on arrival.

Under a contract containing a term C.I.F. or C. & F.

(1) Where the price is based on or is to be adjusted according to "net landed weights", "delivered weights", "out turn" quantity or quality or the like, unless otherwise agreed the seller must reasonably estimate the price. The payment due on tender of the documents called for by the contract is the amount so estimated, but after final adjustment of the price a settlement must be made with commercial promptness.

(2) An agreement described in subsection (1) or any warranty of quality or condition of the goods on arrival places upon the seller the risk of ordinary deterioration, shrinkage and the like in transportation but has no effect on the place or time of identification to the contract for sale or delivery or on the passing of the risk of loss.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed where the contract provides for payment on or after arrival of the goods the seller must before payment allow such preliminary inspection as is feasible; but if the goods are lost delivery of the documents and payment are due when the goods should have arrived. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 650, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-513.

§ 28:2-322. Delivery "ex-ship"

(1) Unless otherwise agreed a term for delivery of goods "ex-ship" (which means from the carrying vessel) or in equivalent language is not restricted to a particular ship and requires delivery from a ship which has reached a place at the named port of destination where goods of the kind are usually discharged.

(2) Under such a term unless otherwise agreed

(a) the seller must discharge all liens arising out of the carriage and furnish the buyer with a direction which puts the carrier under a duty to deliver the goods; and

(b) the risk of loss does not pass to the buyer until the goods leave the ship's tackle or are otherwise properly unloaded.

§ 28:2-323. Form of bill of lading required in overseas shipment; "overseas"

(1) Where the contract contemplates overseas shipment and contains a term C.I.F. or C. & F. or F.O.B. vessel, the seller unless otherwise agreed must obtain a negotiable bill of lading stating that the goods have been loaded on board or, in the case of a term C.I.F. or C. & F., received for shipment.

(2) Where in a case within subsection (1) a bill of lading has been issued in a set of parts, unless otherwise agreed if the documents are not to be sent from abroad the buyer may demand tender of the full set; otherwise only one part of the bill of lading need be tendered. Even if the agreement expressly requires a full set

(a) due tender of a single part is acceptable within the provisions of this article on cure of improper delivery (subsection (1) of section 28:2-508); and

(b) even though the full set is demanded, if the documents are sent from abroad the person tendering an incomplete set may nevertheless require payment upon furnishing an indemnity which the buyer in good faith deems adequate.

(3) A shipment by water or by air or a contract contemplating such shipment is "overseas" insofar as by usage of trade or agreement it is subject to the commercial, financing or shipping practices characteristic of international deep water commerce. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 651, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-324. "No arrival, no sale" term

Under a term "no arrival, no sale" or terms of like meaning, unless otherwise agreed,

(a) the seller must properly ship conforming goods and if they arrive by any means he must tender them on arrival but he assumes no obligation that the goods will arrive unless he has caused the non-arrival; and

(b) where without fault of the seller the goods are in part lost or have so deteriorated as no longer to conform to the contract or arrive after the contract time, the buyer may proceed as if there had been casualty to identified goods (section 28:2-613).

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-613.

§ 28:2-325. "Letter of credit" term; "confirmed credit"

(1) Failure of the buyer seasonably to furnish an agreed letter of credit is a breach of the contract for sale.

(2) The delivery to seller of a proper letter of credit suspends the buyer's obligation to pay. If the letter of credit is dishonored, the seller may on seasonable notification to the buyer require payment directly from him.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed the term "letter of credit" or "banker's credit" in a contract for sale means an irrevocable credit issued by a financing agency of good repute and, where the shipment is overseas, of good international repute. The term "confirmed credit" means that the credit must also carry the direct obligation of such an agency which does business in the seller's financial market. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 652, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-103.

§ 28:2-326. Sale on approval and sale or return; consignment sales and rights of creditors

(1) Unless otherwise agreed, if delivered goods may be returned by the buyer even though they conform to the contract, the transaction is

(a) a "sale on approval" if the goods are delivered primarily for use, and

(b) a "sale or return" if the goods are delivered primarily for resale.

(2) Except as provided in subsection (3), goods held on approval are not subject to the claims of the buyer's creditors until acceptance; goods held on sale or return are subject to such claims while in the buyer's possession.

(3) Where goods are delivered to a person for sale and such person maintains a place of business at which he deals in goods of the kind involved, under a name other than the name of the person making delivery, then with respect to claims of creditors of the person conducting the business the goods are deemed to be on sale or return. The provisions of this subsection are applicable even though an agreement purports to reserve title to the person making delivery until payment or resale or uses such words as "on consignment" or "on memorandum". However, this subsection is not applicable if the person making delivery

(a) complies with an applicable law providing for a consignor's interest or the like to be evidenced by a sign, or

(b) establishes that the person conducting the business is generally known by his creditors to be substantially engaged in selling the goods of others, or

(c) complies with the filing provisions of the article on secured transactions (article 9).

(4) Any "or return" term of a contract for sale is to be treated as a separate contract for sale within the statute of frauds section of this article (section 28:2-201) and as contradicting the sale aspect of the contract within the provisions of this article on parol or extrinsic evidence (section 28:2-202). (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 652, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:1-201, 28:2-103.

§ 28:2-327. Special incidents of sale on approval and sale or return

(1) Under a sale on approval unless otherwise agreed

(a) although the goods are identified to the contract the risk of loss and the title do not pass to the buyer until acceptance; and

(b) use of the goods consistent with the purpose of trial is not acceptance but failure seasonably to notify the seller of election to return the goods is acceptance, and if the goods conform to the contract acceptance of any part is acceptance of the whole; and

(c) after due notification of election to return, the return is at the seller's risk and expense but a merchant buyer must follow any reasonable instructions.

(2) Under a sale or return unless otherwise agreed (a) the option to return extends to the whole or any commercial unit of the goods while in substantially their original condition, but must be exercised seasonably; and

(b) the return is at the buyer's risk and expense. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 652, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-509.

§ 28:2-328. Sale by auction

(1) In a sale by action if goods are put up in lots each lot is the subject of a separate sale.

(2) A sale by auction is complete when the auctioneer so announces by the fall of the hammer or in other customary manner. Where a bid is made while the hammer is falling in acceptance of a prior bid the auctioneer may in his discretion reopen the bidding or declare the goods sold under the bid on which the hammer was falling.

(3) Such a sale is with reserve unless the goods are in explicit terms put up without reserve. In an auction with reserve the auctioneer may withdraw the goods at any time until he announces completion of the sale. In an auction without reserve, after the auctioneer calls for bids on an article or lot, that article or lot cannot be withdrawn unless no bid is made within a reasonable time. In either case a bidder may retract his bid until the auctioneer's announcement of completion of the sale, but a bidder's retraction does not revive any previous bid.

(4) If the auctioneer knowingly receives a bid on the seller's behalf or the seller makes or procures such a bid, and notice has not been given that liberty for such bidding is reserved, the buyer may at his option avoid the sale or take the goods at the price of the last good faith bid prior to the completion of the sale. This subsection shall not apply to any bid at a forced sale. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 653, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

PART 4.—TITLE, CREDITORS AND GOOD FAITH PURCHASERS

§ 28:2-401. Passing of title; reservation for security; limited application of this section

Each provision of this article with regard to the rights, obligations and remedies of the seller, the buyer, purchasers or other third parties applies irrespective of title to the goods except where the provision refers to such title. Insofar as situations are not covered by the other provisions of this article and matters concerning title become material the following rules apply:

(1) Title to goods cannot pass under a contract for sale prior to their identification to the contract (section 28:2-501), and unless otherwise explicitly agreed the buyer acquires by their identification a special property as limited by this subtitle. Any retention or reservation by the seller of the title (property) in goods shipped or delivered to the buyer is limited in effect to a reservation of a security interest. Subject to these provisions and to the provisions of the article on secured transactions (article 9), title to goods passes from the seller to the buyer in any manner and on any conditions explicitly agreed on by the parties.

(2) Unless otherwise explicitly agreed title passes to the buyer at the time and place at which the seller completes his performance with reference to the physical delivery of the goods, despite any reservation of a security interest and even though a document of title is to be delivered at a different time or place; and in particular and despite any reservation of a security interest by the bill of lading

(a) if the contract requires or authorizes the seller to send the goods to the buyer but does not require him to deliver them at destination, title passes to the buyer at the time and place of shipment; but

(b) if the contract requires delivery at destination, title passes on tender there.

(3) Unless otherwise explicitly agreed where delivery is to be made without moving the goods,

(a) if the seller is to deliver a document of title, title passes at the time when and the place where he delivers such documents; or

(b) if the goods are at the time of contracting already identified and no documents are to be delivered, title passes at the time and place of contracting.

(4) A rejection or other refusal by the buyer to receive or retain the goods, whether or not justified, or a justified revocation of acceptance revests title to the goods in the seller. Such revesting occurs by operation of law and is not a "sale". (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 653, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:1-201, 28:2-106.

§ 28:2-402. Rights of seller's creditors against sold goods

(1) Except as provided in subsections (2) and (3), rights of unsecured creditors of the seller with respect to goods which have been identified to a contract for sale are subject to the buyer's rights to recover the goods under this article (sections 28:2-502 and 28:2-716).

(2) A creditor of the seller may treat a sale or an identification of goods to a contract for sale as void if as against him a retention of possession by the seller is fraudulent under any rule of law of the state where the goods are situated, except that retention of possession in good faith and current course of trade by a merchant-seller for a commercially reasonable time after a sale or identification is not fraudulent.

(3) Nothing in this article shall be deemed to impair the rights of creditors of the seller

(a) under the provisions of the article on secured transactions (article 9); or

(b) where identification to the contract or delivery is made not in current course of trade but in satisfaction of or as security for a pre-existing claim for money, security or the like and is made under circumstances which under any rule of law of the state where the goods are situated would apart from this article constitute the transaction a fraudulent transfer or voidable preference.

This section is referred to in sections 28:1-105, 28:7-504.

§ 28:2-403. Power to transfer; good faith purchase of goods; "entrusting"

(1) A purchaser of goods acquires all title which his transferor had or had power to transfer except that a purchaser of a limited interest acquires rights only to the extent of the interest purchased. A person with voidable title has power to transfer a good title to a good faith purchaser for value. When goods have been delivered under a transaction of purchase the purchaser has such power even though

(a) the transferor was deceived as to the identity of the purchaser, or

(b) the delivery was in exchange for a check which is later dishonored, or

(c) it was agreed that the transaction was to be a "cash sale", or

(d) the delivery was procured through fraud punishable as larcenous under the criminal law.

(2) Any entrusting of possession of goods to a merchant who deals in goods of that kind gives him power to transfer all rights of the entruster to a buyer in ordinary course of business.

(3) "Entrusting" includes any delivery and any acquiescence in retention of possession regardless of any condition expressed between the parties to the delivery or acquiescence and regardless of whether the procurement of the entrusting or the possessor's disposition of the goods have been such as to be larcenous under the criminal law.

(4) The rights of other purchasers of goods and of lien creditors are governed by the articles on secured transactions (article 9), bulk transfers (article 6) and documents of title (article 7). (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 654, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:2-103, 28:2-702, 28:7-503.

NOTES TO DECISIONS*Stolen goods

Sale of stolen property does not divest person from whom property was stolen of title even though the sale is made to a bona fide purchaser for value. M. Schrier v. Home Indemnity Company (D.C. App. 1971, 273 A. 2d 248).

In action brought by insurer, which reimbursed former owner of stolen automobile under theft policy, against subsequent purchaser to recover the automobile or its value, purchaser's statement that he is a bona fide purchaser does not raise a material issue of fact such as would preclude summary judgment. Id.

Voidable title

Automobile dealer who sold purchaser stolen automobile is not a "person with voidable title" within this section. M. Schrier v. Home Indemnity Company (D.C. App. 1971, 273 A. 2d 248).

PART 5.—PERFORMANCE*§ 28:2-501. Insurable interest in goods; manner of identification of goods

(1) The buyer obtains a special property and an insurable interest in goods by identification of existing goods as goods to which the contract refers even though the goods so identified are non-conforming and he has an option to return or reject them. Such identification can be made at any time and in any manner explicitly agreed to by the parties. In the absence of explicit agreement identification occurs

(a) when the contract is made if it is for the sale of goods already existing and identified;

(b) if the contract is for the sale of future goods other than those described in paragraph (c), when goods are shipped, marked or otherwise designated by the seller as goods to which the contract refers;

(c) when the crops are planted or otherwise become growing crops or the young are conceived if the contract is for the sale of unborn young to be born within twelve months after contracting or for the sale of crops to be harvested within twelve months or the next normal harvest season after contracting whichever is longer.

(2) The seller retains an insurable interest in goods so long as title to or any security interest in the goods remains in him and where the identification is by the seller alone he may until default or insolvency or notification to the buyer that the identification is final substitute other goods for those identified.

(3) Nothing in this section impairs any insurable interest recognized under any other statute or rule of law. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 655, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:2-103, 28:2-401.

§ 28:2-502. Buyer's right to goods on seller's insolvency

(1) Subject to subsection (2) and even though the goods have not been shipped a buyer who has paid a part or all of the price of goods in which he has a special property under the provisions of the immediately preceding section may on making and keeping good a tender of any unpaid portion of their price recover them from the seller if the seller becomes insolvent within ten days after receipt of the first installment on their price.

(2) If the identification creating his special property has been made by the buyer he acquires the right to recover the goods only if they conform to the contract for sale. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 655, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:2-402, 28:2-711.

§ 28:2-503. Manner of seller's tender of delivery

(1) Tender of delivery requires that the seller put and hold conforming goods at the buyer's disposition and give the buyer any notification reasonably necessary to enable him to take delivery. The manner, time and place for tender are determined by the agreement and this article, and in particular

(a) tender must be at a reasonable hour, and if it is of goods they must be kept available for the period reasonably necessary to enable the buyer to take possession; but

(b) unless otherwise agreed the buyer must furnish facilities reasonably suited to the receipt of the goods.

(2) Where the case is within the next section respecting shipment tender requires that the seller comply with its provisions.

(3) Where the seller is required to deliver at a particular destination tender requires that he comply with subsection (1) and also in any appropriate case tender documents as described in subsections (4) and (5) of this section.

(4) Where goods are in the possession of a bailee and are to be delivered without being moved

(a) tender requires that the seller either tender a negotiable document of title covering such goods or procure acknowledgment by the bailee of the buyer's right to possession of the goods; but

(b) tender to the buyer of a non-negotiable document of title or of a written direction to the bailee to deliver is sufficient tender unless the buyer seasonably objects, and receipt by the bailee of notification of the buyer's rights fixes those rights as against the bailee and all third persons; but risk of loss of the goods and of any failure by the bailee to honor the non-negotiable document of title or to obey the direction remains on the seller until the buyer has had a reasonable time to present the document or direction, and a refusal by the bailee to honor the document or to obey the direction defeats the tender.

(5) Where the contract requires the seller to deliver documents

(a) he must tender all such documents in correct form except as provided in this article with respect to bills of lading in a set (subsection (2) of section 28:2-323); and

(b) tender through customary banking channels is sufficient and dishonor of a draft accompanying the documents constitutes non-acceptance or rejection.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:2-319, 28:2-509.

§ 28:2-504. Shipment by seller

Where the seller is required or authorized to send the goods to the buyer and the contract does not require him to deliver them at a particular destination, then unless otherwise agreed he must

(a) put the goods in the possession of such a carrier and make such a contract for their transportation as may be reasonable having regard to the nature of the goods and other circumstances of the case; and

(b) obtain and promptly deliver or tender in due form any document necessary to enable the buyer to obtain possession of the goods or otherwise required by the agreement or by usage of trade; and

(c) promptly notify the buyer of the shipment. Failure to notify the buyer under paragraph (c) or to make a proper contract under paragraph (a) is a ground for rejection only if material delay or loss ensues. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 656, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-319.

§ 28:2-505. Seller's shipment under reservation

(1) Where the seller has identified goods to the contract by or before shipment:

(a) his procurement of a negotiable bill of lading to his own order or otherwise reserves in him a security interest in the goods. His procurement of the bill to the order of a financing agency or of the buyer indicates in addition only the seller's expectation of transferring that interest to the person named.

(b) a non-negotiable bill of lading to himself or his nominee reserves possession of the goods as security but except in a case of conditional delivery (subsection (2) of section 28:2-507) a non-negotiable bill of lading naming the buyer as consignee reserves no security interest even though the seller retains possession of the bill of lading.

(2) When shipment by the seller with reservation of a security interest is in violation of the contract for sale it constitutes an improper contract for transportation within the preceding section but impairs neither the rights given to the buyer by shipment and identification of the goods to the contract nor the seller's powers as a holder of a negotiable document. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 656, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-509.

§ 28:2-506. Rights of financing agency

(1) A financing agency by paying or purchasing for value a draft which relates to a shipment of goods acquires to the extent of the payment or purchase and in addition to its own rights under the draft and any document of title securing it any rights of the shipper in the goods including the right to stop delivery and the shipper's right to have the draft honored by the buyer.

(2) The right to reimbursement of a financing agency which has in good faith honored or purchased the draft under commitment to or authority from the buyer is not impaired by subsequent discovery of defects with reference to any relevant document which was apparently regular on its face. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 657, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-507. Effect of seller's tender; delivery on condition

(1) Tender of delivery is a condition to the buyer's duty to accept the goods and, unless otherwise agreed, to his duty to pay for them. Tender entitles the seller to acceptance of the goods and to payment according to the contract.

(2) Where payment is due and demanded on the delivery to the buyer of goods or documents of title, his right as against the seller to retain or dispose of them is conditional upon his making the payment due. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 657, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-505.

§ 28:2-508. Cure by seller of improper tender or delivery; replacement

(1) Where any tender or delivery by the seller is rejected because non-conforming and the time for performance has not yet expired, the seller may seasonably notify the buyer of his intention to cure and may then within the contract time make a conforming delivery.

(2) Where the buyer rejects a non-conforming tender which the seller had reasonable grounds to believe would be acceptable with or without money allowance the seller may if he seasonably notifies the buyer have a further reasonable time to substitute a conforming tender. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 657, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-323.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Buyer's refusal to allow correction of defect

Seller's proffered removal of television chassis for a short period in order to determine cause of color malfunction and ascertain extent of adjustment or correction needed to effect full operational efficiency presented no great inconvenience to buyer, and refusal of buyer's daughter, on buyer's behalf, to allow this precluded rescission. W. Wilson t/a etc. v. N. Scampoli (D.C. App. 1967, 228 A. 2d 848).

§ 28:2-509. Risk of loss in the absence of breach

(1) Where the contract requires or authorizes the seller to ship the goods by carrier

(a) if it does not require him to deliver them at a particular destination, the risk of loss passes to the buyer when the goods are duly delivered to the carrier even though the shipment is under reservation (section 28:2-505); but

(b) if it does require him to deliver them at a particular destination and the goods are there duly tendered while in the possession of the carrier, the risk of loss passes to the buyer when the goods are there duly so tendered as to enable the buyer to take delivery.

(2) Where the goods are held by a bailee to be delivered without being moved, the risk of loss passes to the buyer

(a) on his receipt of a negotiable document of title covering the goods; or

(b) on acknowledgment by the bailee of the buyer's right to possession of the goods; or

(c) after his receipt of a non-negotiable document of title or other written direction to deliver, as provided in subsection (4) (b) of section 28:2-503.

(3) In any case not within subsection (1) or (2), the risk of loss passes to the buyer on his receipt of the goods if the seller is a merchant; otherwise the risk passes to the buyer on tender of delivery.

(4) The provisions of this section are subject to contrary agreement of the parties and to the provisions of this article on sale on approval (section 28:2-327) and on effect of breach on risk of loss (section 28:2-510). (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 657, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-510. Effect of breach on risk of loss

(1) Where a tender or delivery of goods so fails to conform to the contract as to give a right of rejection the risk of their loss remains on the seller until cure or acceptance.

(2) Where the buyer rightfully revokes acceptance he may to the extent of any deficiency in his effective insurance coverage treat the risk of loss as having rested on the seller from the beginning.

(3) Where the buyer as to conforming goods already identified to the contract for sale repudiates or is otherwise in breach before risk of their loss has passed to him, the seller may to the extent of any deficiency in his effective insurance coverage treat the risk of loss as resting on the buyer for a commercially reasonable time. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 658, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-509.

§ 28:2-511. Tender of payment by buyer; payment by check

(1) Unless otherwise agreed tender of payment is a condition to the seller's duty to tender and complete any delivery.

(2) Tender of payment is sufficient when made by any means or in any manner current in the ordinary course of business unless the seller demands payment in legal tender and gives any extension of time reasonably necessary to procure it.

(3) Subject to the provisions of this subtitle on the effect of an instrument on an obligation (section 28:3-802), payment by check is conditional and is defeated as between the parties by dishonor of the check on due presentment. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 658, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-512. Payment by buyer before inspection

(1) Where the contract requires payment before inspection non-conformity of the goods does not excuse the buyer from so making payment unless

(a) the non-conformity appears without inspection; or

(b) despite tender of the required documents the circumstances would justify injunction against honor under the provisions of this subtitle (section 28:5-114).

(2) Payment pursuant to subsection (1) does not constitute an acceptance of goods or impair the buyer's right to inspect or any of his remedies. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 658, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-513. Buyer's right to inspection of goods

(1) Unless otherwise agreed and subject to subsection (3), where goods are tendered or delivered or identified to the contract for sale, the buyer has a right before payment or acceptance to inspect them at any reasonable place and time and in any reasonable manner. When the seller is required or authorized to send the goods to the buyer, the inspection may be after their arrival.

(2) Expenses of inspection must be borne by the buyer but may be recovered from the seller if the goods do not conform and are rejected.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed and subject to the provisions of this article on C.I.F. contracts (subsection (3) of section 28:2-321), the buyer is not entitled to inspect the goods before payment of the price when the contract provides.

(a) for delivery "C.O.D." or on other like terms; or

(b) for payment against documents of title, except where such payment is due only after the goods are to become available for inspection.

(4) A place or method of inspection fixed by the parties is presumed to be exclusive but unless otherwise expressly agreed it does not postpone identification or shift the place for delivery or for passing the risk of loss. If compliance becomes impossible, inspection shall be as provided in this section unless the place or method fixed was clearly intended as an indispensable condition failure of which avoids the contract. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 658, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-310.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Buyer's remedy for breach of warranty

Rescission is not the buyer's only remedy for a breach of warranty; the buyer may also affirm the contract and seek damages for its breach. Rubewa Products Co., Inc. v. Watson's Quality Turkey Products, Inc. (D.C. App. 1968, 242 A. 2d 609).

Place of inspection

Where broker's remedy for turkey producer's breach of sales contract was not limited to rescission and sales contract did not provide for inspection upon delivery to broker, trial court's finding that place of inspection was point of delivery rather than ultimate destination was reversible error in broker's action against producer for breach of contract. Rubewa Products Co., Inc. v. Watson's Quality Turkey Products, Inc. (D.C. App. 1968, 242 A. 2d 609).

§ 28:2-514. When documents deliverable on acceptance; when on payment

Unless otherwise agreed documents against which a draft is drawn are to be delivered to the drawee on acceptance of the draft if it is payable more than three days after presentment; otherwise, only on payment. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 659, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-515. Preserving evidence of goods in dispute

In furtherance of the adjustment of any claim or dispute

(a) either party on reasonable notification to the other and for the purpose of ascertaining the facts and preserving evidence has the right to inspect, test and sample the goods including such of them as may be in the possession or control of the other; and

(b) the parties may agree to a third party inspection or survey to determine the conformity or condition of the goods and may agree that the findings shall be binding upon them in any subsequent litigation or adjustment.

PART 6.—BREACH, REPUDIATION AND EXCUSE

§ 28:2-601. Buyer's rights on improper delivery

Subject to the provisions of this article on breach in installment contracts (section 28:2-612) and unless otherwise agreed under the sections on contractual limitations of remedy (sections 28:2-718 and 28:2-719), if the goods or the tender of delivery fail in any respect to conform to the contract, the buyer may

(a) reject the whole; or

(b) accept the whole; or

(c) accept any commercial unit or units and reject the rest.

§ 28:2-602. Manner and effect of rightful rejection

(1) Rejection of goods must be within a reasonable time after their delivery or tender. It is ineffective unless the buyer seasonably notifies the seller.

(2) Subject to the provisions of the two following sections on rejected goods (sections 28:2-603 and 28:2-604),

(a) after rejection any exercise of ownership by the buyer with respect to any commercial unit is wrongful as against the seller; and

(b) if the buyer has before rejection taken physical possession of goods in which he does not have a security interest under the provisions of this article (subsection (3) of section 28:2-711), he is under a duty after rejection to hold them with reasonable care at the seller's disposition for a time sufficient to permit the seller to remove them; but

(c) the buyer has no further obligations with regard to goods rightfully rejected.

(3) The seller's rights with respect to goods wrongfully rejected are governed by the provisions of this article on Seller's remedies in general (section 28:2-703). (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 659, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-606.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Finding

Finding that notification of rejection of goods by buyer to seller some six months after delivery was not seasonable notification within meaning of Uniform Commercial Code is not clearly erroneous. H. J. Robinson v. Jonathan Logan Financial (D.C. App. 1971, 277 A. 2d 115).

Notice of rejection

Notification of seller by buyer that buyer had problem with the manner of delivery of goods does not constitute seasonable notification of rejection. H. J. Robinson v. Jonathan Logan Financial (D.C. App. 1971, 277 A. 2d 115).

Return of goods

Where buyer, although indicating rejection of goods, refused to return goods because of fear of violence at his warehouse in area of city affected by rioting, fact that the seller was at first willing to take back goods and, in effect, cancel the contract rather than file an action for the price does not bar subsequent action for price following buyer's inaction. H. J. Robinson v. Jonathan Logan Financial (D.C. App. 1971, 277 A. 2d 115).

If buyer elects to rescind, he must within a reasonable length of time after delivery offer to return the goods. Talley v. Campbell Music Co. (D.C. App. 1966, 219 A. 2d 852).

Seasonable notice

Contractor which had supervisory employee on premises when delivery of fill was made and which did not object to delivery of fill for several days was not entitled to recover from subcontractor which supplied fill cost of removing fill which did not meet specifications. L. J. Robinson, Inc. v. Arber Construction Company, Inc. (D.C. App. 1972, 292 A. 2d 809).

§ 28:2-603. Merchant buyer's duties as to rightfully rejected goods

(1) Subject to any security interest in the buyer (subsection (3) of section 28:2-711), when the seller has no agent or place of business at the market of rejection a merchant buyer is under a duty after rejection of goods in his possession or control to follow any reasonable instructions received from the seller with respect to the goods and in the absence of such instructions to make reasonable efforts to sell them for the seller's account if they are perishable or threaten to decline in value speedily. Instructions are not reasonable if on demand indemnity for expenses is not forthcoming.

(2) When the buyer sells goods under subsection (1), he is entitled to reimbursement from the seller or out of the proceeds for reasonable expenses of caring for and selling them, and if the expenses include no selling commission then to such commission as is usual in the trade or if there is none to a reasonable sum not exceeding ten per cent on the gross proceeds.

(3) In complying with this section the buyer is held only to good faith and good faith conduct hereunder is neither acceptance nor conversion nor the basis of an action for damages. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 660, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-602.

§ 28:2-604. Buyer's options as to salvage of rightfully rejected goods

Subject to the provisions of the immediately preceding section on perishables if the seller gives no instructions within a reasonable time after notification of rejection the buyer may store the rejected goods for the seller's account or reship them to him or resell them for the seller's account with reimbursement as provided in the preceding section. Such action is not acceptance or conversion. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 660, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-602.

§ 28:2-605. Waiver of buyer's objections by failure to particularize

(1) The buyer's failure to state in connection with rejection a particular defect which is ascertainable by reasonable inspection precludes him from relying on the unstated defect to justify rejection or to establish breach

(a) where the seller could have cured it if stated seasonably; or

(b) between merchants when the seller has after rejection made a request in writing for a full and final written statement of all defects on which the buyer proposes to rely.

(2) Payments against documents made without reservation of rights precludes recovery of the payment for defects apparent on the face of the documents. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 660, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Seasonable objection

Contractor which had supervisory employee on premises when delivery of fill was made and which did not object to delivery of fill for several days was not entitled to recover from subcontractor which supplied fill cost of removing fill which did not meet specifications. L. J. Robinson, Inc. v. Arber Construction Company, Inc. (D.C. App. 1972, 292 A. 2d 809).

§ 28:2-606. What constitutes acceptance of goods

(1) Acceptance of goods occurs when the buyer

(a) after a reasonable opportunity to inspect the goods signifies to the seller that the goods are conforming or that he will take or retain them in spite of their nonconformity; or

(b) fails to make an effective rejection (subsection (1) of section 28:2-602), but such acceptance does not occur until the buyer has had a reasonable opportunity to inspect them; or

(c) does any act inconsistent with the seller's ownership; but if such act is wrongful as against the seller it is an acceptance only if ratified by him.

(2) Acceptance of a part of any commercial unit is acceptance of that entire unit. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 660, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:2-103, 28:2-201.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Rejection

Contractor which had supervisory employee on premises when delivery of fill was made and which did not object to delivery of fill for several days was not entitled to recover from subcontractor which supplied fill cost of removing fill which did not meet specifications. L. J. Robinson, Inc. v. Arber Construction Company, Inc. (D.C. App. 1972, 292 A. 2d 809).

Notification of seller by buyer that buyer had problem with the manner of delivery of goods does not constitute seasonable notification of rejection. H. J. Robinson v. Jonathan Logan Financial (D.C. App. 1971, 277 A. 2d 115).

§ 28:2-607. Effect of acceptance; notice of breach; burden of establishing breach after acceptance; notice of claim or litigation to person answerable over

(1) The buyer must pay at the contract rate for any goods accepted.

(2) Acceptance of goods by the buyer precludes rejection of the goods accepted and if made with knowledge of a non-conformity cannot be revoked because of it unless the acceptance was on the reasonable assumption that the non-conformity would be seasonably cured but acceptance does not of itself impair any other remedy provided by this article for non-conformity.

(3) Where a tender has been accepted

(a) the buyer must within a reasonable time after he discovers or should have discovered any breach notify the seller of breach or be barred from any remedy; and

(b) if the claim is one for infringement or the like (subsection (3) of section 28:2-312) and the buyer is sued as a result of such a breach he must so notify the seller within a reasonable time after he receives notice of the litigation or be barred from any remedy over for liability established by the litigation.

(4) The burden is on the buyer to establish any breach with respect to the goods accepted.

(5) Where the buyer is sued for breach of a warranty or other obligation for which his seller is answerable over

(a) he may give his seller written notice of the litigation. If the notice states that the seller may come in and defend and that if the seller does not do so he will be bound in any action against him by his buyer by any determination of fact common to the two litigations, then unless the seller after seasonable receipt of the notice does come in and defend he is so bound.

(b) if the claim is one for infringement or the like (subsection (3) of section 28:2-312) the original seller may demand in writing that his buyer turn over to him control of the litigation including settlement or else be barred from any remedy over and if he also agrees to bear all expense and to satisfy any adverse judgment, then unless the buyer after seasonable receipt of the demand does turn over control the buyer is so barred.

(6) The provisions of subsection (3), (4) and (5) apply to any obligation of a buyer to hold the seller harmless against infringement or the like (subsection (3) of section 28:2-312). (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 661, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Buyer's remedy for breach of warranty

Rescission is not the buyer's only remedy for a breach of warranty; the buyer may also affirm the contract and seek damages for its breach. Rubewa Products Co., Inc. v. Watson's Quality Turkey Products, Inc. (D.C. App. 1968, 242 A. 2d 609).

Place of inspection

Where turkey broker's remedy for turkey producer's breach of sales contract was not limited to rescission and sales contract did not provide for inspection upon delivery to broker, trial court's finding that place of inspection was point of delivery rather than ultimate destination was reversible error in broker's action against producer for breach of contract. Rubewa Products Co., Inc. v. Watson's Quality Turkey Products, Inc. (D.C. App. 1968, 242 A. 2d 609).

§ 28:2-608. Revocation of acceptance in whole or in part

(1) The buyer may revoke his acceptance of a lot or commercial unit whose non-conformity substantially impairs its value to him if he has accepted it

(a) on the reasonable assumption that its non-conformity would be cured and it has not been seasonably cured; or

(b) without discovery of such non-conformity if his acceptance was reasonably induced either by the difficulty of discovery before acceptance or by the seller's assurances.

(2) Revocation of acceptance must occur within a reasonable time after the buyer discovers or should have discovered the ground for it and before any substantial change in condition of the goods which is not caused by their own defects. It is not effective until the buyer notifies the seller of it.

(3) A buyer who so revokes has the same rights and duties with regard to the goods involved as if he had rejected them. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 661, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Buyer's refusal to allow correction of defect

Seller's proffered removal of television chassis for a short period in order to determine cause of color malfunction and ascertain extent of adjustment or correction needed to effect full operational efficiency presented no great inconvenience to buyer, and refusal of buyer's daughter, on buyer's behalf, to allow this precluded rescission, D.C. Code. W. Wilson t/a etc. v. N. Scampoli (D.C. App. 1967, 228 A. 2d 848).

§ 28:2-609. Right to adequate assurance of performance

(1) A contract for sale imposes an obligation on each party that the other's expectation of receiving due performance will not be impaired. When reasonable grounds for insecurity arise with respect to the performance of either party the other may in writing demand adequate assurance of due performance and until he receives such assurance may if commercially reasonable suspend any performance for which he has not already received the agreed return.

(2) Between merchants the reasonableness of grounds for insecurity and the adequacy of any assurance offered shall be determined according to commercial standards.

(3) Acceptance of any improper delivery or payment does not prejudice the aggrieved party's right to demand adequate assurance of future performance.

(4) After receipt of a justified demand failure to provide within a reasonable time not exceeding thirty days such assurance of due performance as is adequate under the circumstances of the particular case is a repudiation of the contract. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 662, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:2-210, 28:2-611.

§ 28:2-610. Anticipatory repudiation

When either party repudiates the contract with respect to a performance not yet due the loss of which will substantially impair the value of the contract to the other, the aggrieved party may

(a) for a commercially reasonable time await performance by the repudiating party; or

(b) resort to any remedy for breach (section 28:2-703 or section 28:2-711), even though he has notified the repudiating party that he would await the latter's performance and has urged retraction; and

(c) in either case suspend his own performance or proceed in accordance with the provisions of this article on the seller's right to identify goods to the contract notwithstanding breach or to salvage unfinished goods (section 28:2-704).

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:2-709, 28:5-115.

§ 28:2-611. Retraction of anticipatory repudiation

(1) Until the repudiating party's next performance is due he can retract his repudiation unless the aggrieved party has since the repudiation cancelled or materially changed his position or otherwise indicated that he considers the repudiation final.

(2) Retraction may be by any method which clearly indicates to the aggrieved party that the repudiating party intends to perform, but must include any assurance justifiably demanded under the provisions of this article (section 28:2-609).

(3) Retraction reinstates the repudiating party's rights under the contract with due excuse and allowance to the aggrieved party for any delay occasioned by the repudiation. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 662, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-612. "Installment contract"; breach

(1) An "installment contract" is one which requires or authorizes the delivery of goods in separate lots to be separately accepted, even though the contract contains a clause "each delivery is a separate contract" or its equivalent.

(2) The buyer may reject any installment which is non-conforming if the non-conformity substantially impairs the value of that installment and cannot be cured or if the non-conformity is a defect in the required documents; but if the non-conformity does not fall within subsection (3) and the seller gives adequate assurance of its cure the buyer must accept that installment.

(3) Whenever non-conformity or default with respect to one or more installments substantially impairs the value of the whole contract there is a breach of the whole. But the aggrieved party reinstates the contract if he accepts a non-conforming installment without seasonably notifying of cancellation or if he brings an action with respect only to past installments or demands performance as to future installments. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 662, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:2-103, 28:2-601, 28:2-616, 28:2-703, 28:2-711.

§ 28:2-613. Casualty to identified goods

Where the contract requires for its performance goods identified when the contract is made, and the goods suffer casualty without fault of either party before the risk of loss passes to the buyer, or in a proper case under a "no arrival, no sale" term (section 28:2-324) then

(a) if the loss is total the contract is avoided; and

(b) if the loss is partial or the goods have so deteriorated as no longer to conform to the contract the buyer may nevertheless demand inspection and at his option either treat the contract as avoided or accept the goods with due allowance from the contract price for the deterioration or the deficiency in quantity but without further right against the seller.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-324.

§ 28:2-614. Substituted performance

(1) Where without fault of either party the agreed berthing, loading, or unloading facilities fail or an agreed type of carrier becomes unavailable or the agreed manner of delivery otherwise becomes commercially impracticable but a commercially reasonable substitute is available, such substitute performance must be tendered and accepted.

(2) If the agreed means or manner of payment fails because of domestic or foreign governmental regulation, the seller may withhold or stop delivery unless the buyer provides a means or manner of payment which is commercially a substantial equivalent. If delivery has already been taken, payment by the means or in the manner provided by the regulation discharges the buyer's obligation unless the regulation is discriminatory, oppressive or predatory. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 663, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Impracticability of performance

The concept of impracticability assumes that performance was physically possible, a rule making nonperformance a condition precedent to recovery would unjustifiably encourage disappointment of expectations, and there is nothing necessarily inconsistent in claiming commercial impracticability for method of performance actually adopted and, accordingly, impossibility issue may be raised in suit to recover cost of alternative method of performance. Transatlantic Financing Corporation v. United States (1966, 363 F. 2d 312, 124 U.S. App. D.C. 183).

In some cases, even an express expectation may not, for purposes of doctrine of impossibility of performance, amount to a condition of performance. Id.

§ 28:2-615. Excuse by failure of presupposed conditions

Except so far as a seller may have assumed a greater obligation and subject to the preceding section on substituted performance:

(a) Delay in delivery or non-delivery in whole or in part by a seller who complies with paragraphs (b) and (c) is not a breach of his duty under a contract for sale if performance as agreed has been made impracticable by the occurrence of a contingency the non-occurrence of which was a basic assumption on which the contract was made or by compliance in good faith with any applicable foreign or domestic governmental regulation or order whether or not it later proves to be invalid.

(b) Where the causes mentioned in paragraph (a) affect only a part of the seller's capacity to perform, he must allocate production and deliveries among his customers but may at his option include regular customers not then under contract as well as his own requirements for further manufacture. He may so allocate in any manner which is fair and reasonable.

(c) The seller must notify the buyer seasonably that there will be delay or non-delivery and, when allocation is required under paragraph (b), of the estimated quota thus made available for the buyer.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Impossibility of performance

Alleged engineering difficulties encountered by defendant electronics manufacturer did not relieve it, on ground of practical impossibility, from liability to government, pursuant to terms of contract for sale of computer, for damages for delay in delivery and ultimate nondelivery of computer. United States v. Wegematic Corp. (1966, 360 F. 2d 674, Second Circuit).

Impracticability of performance

It might be an overstatement to say that increased cost and difficulty of performance could never constitute impracticability, but to justify relief under doctrine of impossibility of performance, there would have to be more of a variation between expected cost and cost of performance by available alternative than was present in case in which promisor could legitimately be presumed to have accepted some degree of abnormal risk and added expense above and beyond contract price of $305,842.92 was only $43,972. Transatlantic Financing Corporation v. United States (1966, 363 F. 2d 312, 124 U.S. App. D.C. 183).

The concept of impracticability assumes that performance was physically possible, a rule making nonperformance a condition precedent to recovery would unjustifiably encourage disappointment of expectations, and there is nothing necessarily inconsistent in claiming commercial impracticability for method of performance actually adopted and, accordingly, impossibility issue may be raised in suit to recover cost of alternative method of performance. Id.

In some cases, even an express expectation may not, for purposes of doctrine of impossibility of performance, amount to a condition of performance. Id.

§ 28:2-616. Procedure on notice claiming excuse

(1) Where the buyer receives notification of a material or indefinite delay or an allocation justified under the preceding section he may by written notification to the seller as to any delivery concerned, and where the prospective deficiency substantially impairs the value of the whole contract under the provisions of this article relating to breach of installment contracts (section 28:2-612), then also as to the whole,

(a) terminate and thereby discharge any unexecuted portion of the contract; or

(b) modify the contract by agreeing to take his available quota in substitution.

(2) If after receipt of such notification from the seller the buyer fails so to modify the contract within a reasonable time not exceeding thirty days the contract lapses with respect to any deliveries affected.

(3) The provisions of this section may not be negated by agreement except in so far as the seller has assumed a greater obligation under the preceding section. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 663, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

PART 7.—REMEDIES

§ 28:2-701. Remedies for breach of collateral contracts not impaired

Remedies for breach of any obligation or promise collateral or ancillary to a contract for sale are not impaired by the provisions of this article. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 664, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-702. Seller's remedies on discovery of buyer's insolvency

(1) Where the seller discovers the buyer to be insolvent he may refuse delivery except for cash including payment for all goods theretofore delivered under the contract, and stop delivery under this article (section 28:2-705).

(2) Where the seller discovers that the buyer has received goods on credit while insolvent he may reclaim the goods upon demand made within ten days after the receipt, but if misrepresentation of solvency has been made to the particular seller in writing within three months before delivery the ten day limitation does not apply. Except as provided in this subsection the seller may not base a right to reclaim goods on the buyer's fraudulent or innocent misrepresentation of solvency or of intent to pay.

(3) The seller's right to reclaim under subsection (2) is subject to the rights of a buyer in ordinary course or other good faith purchaser or lien creditor under this article (section 28:2-403). Successful reclamation of goods excludes all other remedies with respect to them. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 664, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-705.

§ 28:2-703. Seller's remedies in general

Where the buyer wrongfully rejects or revokes acceptance of goods or fails to make a payment due on or before delivery or repudiates with respect to a part or the whole, then with respect to any goods directly affected and, if the breach is of the whole contract (section 28:2-612), then also with respect to the whole undelivered balance, the aggrieved seller may

(a) withhold delivery of such goods;

(b) stop delivery by any bailee as hereafter provided (section 28:2-705);

(c) proceed under the next section respecting goods still unidentified to the contract;

(d) resell and recover damages as hereafter provided (section 28:2-706);

(e) recover damages for non-acceptance (section 28:2-708) or in a proper case the price (section 28:2-709);

(f) cancel.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:2-602, 28:2-610, 28:2-706.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Cancellation

Where buyer, although indicating rejection of goods, refused to return goods because of fear of violence at his warehouse in area of city affected by rioting, fact that the seller was at first willing to take back goods and, in effect, cancel the contract rather than file an action for the price does not bar subsequent action for price following buyer's inaction. H. J. Robinson v. Jonathan Logan Financial (D.C. App. 1971, 277 A. 2d 115).

§ 28:2-704. Seller's right to identify goods to the contract notwithstanding breach or to salvage unfinished goods

(1) An aggrieved seller under the preceding section may

(a) identify to the contract conforming goods not already identified if at the time he learned of the breach they are in his possession or control;

(b) treat as the subject of resale goods which have demonstrably been intended for the particular contract even though those goods are unfinished.

(2) Where the goods are unfinished an aggrieved seller may in the exercise of reasonable commercial judgment for the purposes of avoiding loss and of effective realization either complete the manufacture and wholly identify the goods to the contract or cease manufacture and resell for scrap or salvage value or proceed in any other reasonable manner.

(1) Subject to subsection (2) and to the provisions of this article with respect to proof of market price (section 28:2-723), the measure of damages for non-acceptance or repudiation by the buyer is the difference between the market price at the time and place for tender and the unpaid contract price together with any incidental damages provided in this article (section 28:2-710), but less expenses saved in consequence of the buyer's breach.

(2) If the measure of damages provided in subsection (1) is inadequate to put the seller in as good a position as performance would have done then the measure of damages is the profit (including reasonable overhead) which the seller would have made from full performance by the buyer, together with any incidental damages provided in this article (section 28:2-710), due allowance for costs reasonably incurred and due credit for payments or proceeds of resale. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 666, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:2-703, 28:2-723.

§ 28:2-709. Action for the price

(1) When the buyer fails to pay the price as it becomes due the seller may recover, together with any incidental damages under the next section, the price

(a) of goods accepted or of conforming goods lost or damaged within a commercially reasonable time after risk of their loss has passed to the buyer; and

(b) of goods identified to the contract if the seller is unable after reasonable effort to resell them at a reasonable price or the circumstances reasonably indicate that such effort will be unavailing.

(2) Where the seller sues for the price he must hold for the buyer any goods which have been identified to the contract and are still in his control except that if resale becomes possible he may resell them at any time prior to the collection of the judgment. The net proceeds of any such resale must be credited to the buyer and payment of the judgment entitles him to any goods not resold.

(3) After the buyer has wrongfully rejected or revoked acceptance of the goods or has failed to make a payment due or has repudiated (section 28:2-610), a seller who is held not entitled to the price under this section shall nevertheless be awarded damages for non-acceptance under the preceding section. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 666, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-703.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Cancellation

Where buyer, although indicating rejection of goods, refused to return goods because of fear of violence at his warehouse in area of city affected by rioting, fact that the seller was at first willing to take back goods and, in effect, cancel the contract rather than file an action for the price does not bar subsequent action for price following buyer's inaction. H. J. Robinson v. Jonathan Logan Financial (D.C. App. 1971, 277 A. 2d 115).

§ 28:2-710. Seller's incidental damages

Incidental damages to an aggrieved seller include any commercially reasonable charges, expenses or commissions incurred in stopping delivery, in the transportation, care and custody of goods after the buyer's breach, in connection with return or resale of the goods or otherwise resulting from the breach (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 667, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:2-706 to 28:2-708, 28:5-115.

§ 28:2-711. Buyer's remedies in general; buyer's security interest in rejected goods

(1) Where the seller fails to make delivery or repudiates or the buyer rightfully rejects or justifiably revokes acceptance then with respect to any goods involved, and with respect to the whole of the breach goes to the whole contract (section 28:2-612), the buyer may cancel and whether or not he has done so may in addition to recovering so much of the price as has been paid

(a) "cover" and have damages under the next section as to all the goods affected whether or not they have been identified to the contract; or

(b) recover damages for non-delivery as provided in this article (section 28:2-713).

(2) Where the seller fails to deliver or repudiates the buyer may also

(a) if the goods have been identified recover them as provided in this article (section 28:2-502); or

(b) in a proper case obtain specific performance or replevy the goods as provided in this article (section 28:2-716).

(3) On rightful rejection or justifiable revocation of acceptance a buyer has a security interest in goods in his possession or control for any payments made on their price and any expenses reasonably incurred in their inspection, receipt, transportation, care and custody and may hold such goods and resell them in like manner as an aggrieved seller (section 28:2-706). (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 667, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:2-602, 28:2-603, 28:2-610, 28:2-706.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Breach of warranty

In case of breach of warranty, buyer need not proceed by way of rescission, but may keep merchandise and seek recoupment by way of diminution of the purchase price under the contract. Talley v. Campbell Music Co. (D.C. App. 1966, 219 A. 2d 852).

Proof of damages

Where, in suit against seller for breach of express and implied warranty in a contract for sale to buyer of a combination radio-phonograph, buyer presented no evidence upon which to determine difference between value of phonograph as received and its value as warranted, or cost of repair, but instead sought to recover, and produced evidence with reference to, purchase price of instrument, a variance occurred between buyer's theory of recovery and proof of damages, preventing buyer from establishing a prima facie case for jury. Talley v. Campbell Music Co. (D.C. App. 1966, 219 A. 2d 852).

§ 28:2-712. "Cover"; buyer's procurement of substitute goods

(1) After a breach within the preceding section the buyer may "cover" by making in good faith and without unreasonable delay any reasonable purchase of or contract to purchase goods in substitution for those due from the seller.

(2) The buyer may recover from the seller as damages the difference between the cost of cover and the contract price together with any incidental or consequential damages as hereinafter defined (section 28:2-715), but less expenses saved in consequence of the seller's breach.

(3) Failure of the buyer to effect cover within this section does not bar him from any other remedy. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 667, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-103.

§ 28:2-713. Buyer's damages for non-delivery or repudiation

(1) Subject to the provisions of this article with respect to proof of market price (section 28:2-723), the measure of damages for non-delivery or repudiation by the seller is the difference between the market price at the time when the buyer learned of the breach and the contract price together with any incidental and consequential damages provided in this article (section 28:2-715), but less expenses saved in consequence of the seller's breach.

(2) Market price is to be determined as of the place for tender or, in cases of rejection after arrival or revocation of acceptance, as of the place of arrival. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 668, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:2-711, 28:2-723.

§ 28:2-714. Buyer's damages for breach in regard to accepted goods

(1) Where the buyer has accepted goods and given notification (subsection (3) of section 28:2-607) he may recover as damages for any non-conformity of tender the loss resulting in the ordinary course of events from the seller's breach as determined in any manner which is reasonable.

(2) The measure of damages for breach of warranty is the difference at the time and place of acceptance between the value of the goods accepted and the value they would have had if they had been as warranted, unless special circumstances show proximate damages of a different amount.

(3) In a proper case any incidental and consequential damages under the next section may also be recovered. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 668, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Breach of warranty

In view of fact that the true strength of concrete would not be revealed until after 28-day curing period had elapsed, buyer's use of concrete originating at seller's plant, even though tests performed at jobsite indicated that concrete contained air in excess of normal bounds, did not constitute negligent or malicious act on part of the buyer so as to absolve the seller from breach of warranty. S. S. Bevard et al. v. Howat Concrete Company, Inc. (1970, 433 F. 2d 1202, 140 U.S. App. D.C. 96).

Damages for breach of contract

Under breach of contract, whether a warranty or otherwise, defendant is liable for those damages which are a natural consequence and proximate result of his conduct. Rubewa Products Co., Inc. v. Watson's Quality Turkey Products, Inc. (D.C. App. 1968, 242 A. 2d 609).

If buyer affirms sale, his recovery is limited to difference in value of goods as delivered and value they would have had if they had met the warranty. Talley v. Campbell Music Co. (D.C. App. 1966, 219 A. 2d 852).

In case of breach of warranty, buyer need not proceed by way of rescission, but may keep merchandise and seek recoupment by way of diminution of the purchase price under the contract. Id.

Determination of damages

Even though there had been a loss in value of turkey products between time of their purchase by broker from producer and time of their ultimate sale, where broker, in action against producer, did not present evidence as to number of cartons of turkey that were mismarked or number of turkeys that were seasoned, both of which acts were in breach of contract between broker and producer, and did not present evidence as to extent of decrease in value of turkeys because of rancidity which was not chargeable to producer, broker failed to carry burden of proof on damages. Rubewa Products Co., Inc. v. Watson's Quality Turkey Products, Inc. (D.C. App. 1972, 294 A. 2d 378).

In action by turkey broker against turkey producer for damage suffered because of mismarking of turkey products and for delivering seasoned turkeys in breach of contract, where not all of the cartons of turkeys were mismarked and not all of the turkeys were salted, rule allowing random sampling to determine damage to whole was inapplicable. Id.

Loss of profits

Trial court, at retrial on issue of damages only in breach of contract action, did not abuse discretion in denying motion to amend complaint to include a claim for loss of profits. Rubewa Products Co., Inc. v. Watson's Quality Turkey Products, Inc. (D.C. App. 1972, 294 A. 2d 378).

Measure of damages

Under breach of contract, whether a warranty or otherwise, defendant is liable for those damages which are a natural consequence and proximate result of his conduct. J. A. Meyers et ano. v. G. Antone et ano. (D.C. App. 1967, 227 A. 2d 56).

Proof of damages

Where, in a suit against seller for breach of express and implied warranty in a contract for sale to buyer of a combination radio-phonograph, buyer presented no evidence upon which to determine difference between value of phonograph as received and its value as warranted, or cost of repair, but instead sought to recover, and produced evidence with reference to, purchase price of instrument, a variance occurred between buyer's theory of recovery and proof of damages, preventing buyer from establishing a prima facie case for jury. Talley v. Campbell Music Co. (D.C. App. 1966, 219 A. 2d 852).

§ 28:2-715. Buyer's incidental and consequential damages

(1) Incidental damages resulting from the seller's breach include expenses reasonably incurred in inspection, receipt, transportation and care and custody of goods rightfully rejected, any commercially reasonable charges, expenses or commissions in connection with effecting cover and any other reasonable expense incident to the delay or other breach.

(2) Consequential damages resulting from the seller's breach include

(a) any loss resulting from general or particular requirements and needs of which the seller at the time of contracting had reason to know and which could not reasonably be prevented by cover or otherwise; and

(b) injury to person or property proximately resulting from any breach of warranty.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:2-712, 28:2-713.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Breach of warranty

In view of fact that the true strength of concrete would not be revealed until after 28-day curing period had elapsed, buyer's use of concrete originating at seller's plant, even though tests performed at jobsite indicated that concrete contained air in excess of normal bounds, did not constitute negligent or malicious act on part of the buyer so as to absolve the seller from breach of warranty. S. S. Bevard et al. v. Howat Concrete Company, Inc. (1970, 433 F. 2d 1202, 140 U.S. App. D.C. 96).

§ 28:2-716. Buyer's right to specific performance or replevin

(1) Specific performance may be decreed where the goods are unique or in other proper circumstances.

(2) The decree for specific performance may include such terms and conditions as to payment of the price, damages, or other relief as the court may deem just.

(3) The buyer has a right of replevin for goods identified to the contract if after reasonable effort he is unable to effect cover for such goods or the circumstances reasonably indicate that such effort will be unavailing or if the goods have been shipped under reservation and satisfaction of the security interest in them has been made or tendered. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 668, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:2-402, 28:2-711.

§ 28:2-717. Deduction of damages from the price

The buyer on notifying the seller of his intention to do so may deduct all or any part of the damages resulting from any breach of the contract from any part of the price still due under the same contract. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 668, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-718. Liquidation or limitation of damages; deposits

(1) Damages for breach by either party may be liquidated in the agreement but only at an amount which is reasonable in the light of the anticipated or actual harm caused by the breach, the difficulties of proof of loss, and the inconvenience or non-feasibility of otherwise obtaining an adequate remedy. A term fixing unreasonably large liquidated damages is void as a penalty.

(2) Where the seller justifiably withholds delivery of goods because of the buyer's breach, the buyer is entitled to restitution of any amount by which the sum of his payments exceeds

(a) the amount to which the seller is entitled by virtue of terms liquidating the seller's damages in accordance with subsection (1), or

(b) in the absence of such terms, twenty per cent of the value of the total performance for which the buyer is obligated under the contract or $500, whichever is smaller.

(3) The buyer's right to restitution under subsection (2) is subject to offset to the extent that the seller establishes

(a) a right to recover damages under the provisions of this article other than subsection (1), and

(b) the amount or value of any benefits received by the buyer directly or indirectly by reason of the contract.

(4) Where a seller has received payment in goods their reasonable value or the proceeds of their resale shall be treated as payments for the purposes of subsection (2); but if the seller has notice of the buyer's breach before reselling goods received in part performance, his resale is subject to the conditions laid down in this article on resale by an aggrieved seller (section 28:2-706). (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 669, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:2-316, 28:2-601.

§ 28:2-719. Contractual modification or limitation of remedy

(1) Subject to the provisions of subsections (2) and (3) of this section and of the preceding section on liquidation and limitation of damages,

(a) the agreement may provide for remedies in addition to or in substitution for those provided in this article and may limit or alter the measure of damages recoverable under this article, as by limiting the buyer's remedies to return of the goods and repayment of the price or to repair and replacement of non-conforming goods or parts; and

(b) resort to a remedy as provided is optional unless the remedy is expressly agreed to be exclusive, in which case it is the sole remedy.

(2) Where circumstances cause an exclusive or limited remedy to fail of its essential purpose, remedy may be had as provided in this subtitle.

(3) Consequential damages may be limited or excluded unless the limitation or exclusion is unconscionable. Limitation of consequential damages for injury to the person in the case of consumer goods is prima facie unconscionable but limitation of damages where the loss is commercial is not. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 669, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:2-316, 28:2-601.

§ 28:2-720. Effect of "cancellation" or "rescission" on claims for antecedent breach

Unless the contrary intention clearly appears, expressions of "cancellation" or "rescission" of the contract or the like shall not be construed as a renunciation or discharge of any claim in damages for an antecedent breach. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 669, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

Cancellation

Where buyer, although indicating rejection of goods, refused to return goods because of fear of violence at his warehouse in area of city affected by rioting, fact that the seller was at first willing to take back goods and, in effect, cancel the contract rather than file an action for the price does not bar subsequent action for price following buyer's inaction. H. J. Robinson v. Jonathan Logan Financial (D.C. App. 1971, 277 A. 2d 115).

§ 28:2-721. Remedies for fraud

Remedies for material misrepresentation or fraud include all remedies available under this article for nonfraudulent breach. Neither rescission or a claim for rescission of the contract for sale nor rejection or return of the goods shall bar or be deemed inconsistent with a claim for damages or other remedy. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 670, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-722. Who can sue third parties for injury to goods

Where a third party so deals with goods which have been identified to a contract for sale as to cause actionable injury to a party to that contract

(a) a right of action against the third party is in either party to the contract for sale who has title to or a security interest or a special property or an insurable interest in the goods; and if the goods have been destroyed or converted a right of action is also in the party who either bore the risk of loss under the contract for sale or has since the injury assumed that risk as against the other;

(b) if at the time of the injury the party plaintiff did not bear the risk of loss as against the other party to the contract for sale and there is no arrangement between them for disposition of the recovery, his suit or settlement is, subject to his own interest, as a fiduciary for the other party to the contract;

(c) either party may with the consent of the other sue for the benefit of whom it may concern. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 670, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-723. Proof of market price: time and place

(1) If an action based on anticipatory repudiation comes to trial before the time for performance with respect to some or all of the goods, any damages based on market price (section 28:2-708 or section 28:2-713) shall be determined according to the price of such goods prevailing at the time when the aggrieved party learned of the repudiation.

(2) If evidence of a price prevailing at the times or places described in this article is not readily available the price prevailing within any reasonable time before or after the time described or at any other place which in commercial judgment or under usage of trade would serve as a reasonable substitute for the one described may be used, making any proper allowance for the cost of transporting the goods to or from such other place.

(3) Evidence of a relevant price prevailing at a time or place other than the one described in this article offered by one party is not admissible unless and until he has given the other party such notice as the court finds sufficient to prevent unfair surprise. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 670, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:2-708, 28:2-713.

§ 28:2-724. Admissibility of market quotations

Whenever the prevailing price or value of any goods regularly bought and sold in any established commodity market is in issue, reports in official publications or trade journals or in newspapers or periodicals of general circulation published as the reports of such market shall be admissible in evidence. The circumstances of the preparation of such a report may be shown to affect its weight but not its admissibility. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 670, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:2-725. Statute of limitations in contracts for sale

(1) An action for breach of any contract for sale must be commenced within four years after the cause of action has accrued. By the original agreement the parties may reduce the period of limitation to not less than one year but may not extend it.

(2) A cause of action accrues when the breach occurs, regardless of the aggrieved party's lack of knowledge of the breach. A breach of warranty occurs when tender of delivery is made, except that where a warranty explicitly extends to future performance of the goods and discovery of the breach must await the time of such performance the cause of action accrues when the breach is or should have been discovered.

(3) Where an action commenced within the time limited by subsection (1) is so terminated as to leave available a remedy by another action for the same breach such other action may be commenced after the expiration of the time limited and within six months after the termination of the first action unless the termination resulted from voluntary discontinuance or from dismissal for failure or neglect to prosecute.

(4) This section does not alter the law on tolling of the statute of limitations nor does it apply to causes of action which have accrued before this subtitle becomes effective. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 670, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 12-301.

NOTES TO DECISIONS*Negotiability

Money orders which were made "payable to" named payee and were not "payable to order or to bearer" were not negotiable. Nation-Wide Check Corporation v. A. J. Banks et al. (D.C. App. 1969, 260 A. 2d 367).

§ 28:3-105. When promise or order unconditional

(1) A promise or order otherwise unconditional is not made conditional by the fact that the instrument

(a) is subject to implied or constructive conditions; or

(b) states its consideration, whether performed or promised, or the transaction which gave rise to the instrument, or that the promise or order is made or the instrument matures in accordance with or "as per" such transaction; or

(c) refers to or states that it arises out of a separate agreement or refers to a separate agreement for rights as to prepayment or acceleration; or

(h) is limited to payment out of the entire assets of a partnership, unincorporated association, trust or estate by or on behalf of which the instrument is issued.

(2) A promise or order is not unconditional if the instrument

(b) states that it is to be paid only out of a particular fund or source except as provided in this section.

(c) with a stated discount or addition if paid before or after the date fixed for payment; or

§ 28:3-107. Money

(1) An instrument is payable in money if the medium of exchange in which it is payable is money at the time the instrument is made. An instrument payable in "currency" or "current funds" is payable in money.

(2) A promise or order to pay a sum stated in a foreign currency is for a sum certain in money and, unless a different medium of payment is specified in the instrument, may be satisfied by payment of that number of dollars which the stated foreign currency will purchase at the buying sight rate for that currency on the day on which the instrument is payable or, if payable on demand, on the day of demand. If such an instrument specifies a foreign currency as the medium of payment the instrument is payable in that currency. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 674, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

(d) at a definite time subject to extension at the option of the holder, or to extension to a further definite time at the option of the marker or acceptor or automatically upon or after a specified act or event.

(2) An instrument which by its terms is otherwise payable only upon an act or event uncertain as to time of occurrence is not payable at a definite time even though the act or event has occurred. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 675, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:3-102.

§ 28:3-110. Payable to order

(1) An instrument is payable to order when by its terms it is payable to the order or assigns of any person therein specified with reasonable certainty, or to him or his order, or when it is conspicuously designated on its face as "exchange" or the like and names a payee. It may be payable to the order of

(a) the maker or drawer; or

(b) the drawee; or

(c) a payee who is not maker, drawer, or drawee; or

(d) two or more payees together or in the alternative; or

(e) an estate, trust or fund, in which case it is payable to the order of the representative of such estate, trust or fund or his successors; or

(f) an office, or an officer by his title as such in which case it is payable to the principal but the incumbent of the office or his successors may act as if he or they were the holder; or

(g) a partnership or unincorporated association, in which case it is payable to the partnership or association and may be indorsed or transferred by any person thereto authorized.

(2) An instrument not payable to order is not made so payable by such words as "payable upon return of this instrument properly indorsed".

(3) An instrument made payable both to order and to bearer is payable to order unless the bearer words are handwritten or typewritten. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 675, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:3-111. Payable to bearer

An instrument is payable to bearer when by its terms it is payable to—

(a) bearer or the order of bearer; or

(b) a specified person or bearer; or

(c) "cash" or the order of "cash", or any other indication which does not purport to designate a specific payee.

§ 28:3-112. Terms and omissions not affecting negotiability

(1) The negotiability of an instrument is not affected by—

(a) the omission of a statement of any consideration or of the place where the instrument is drawn or payable; or

(b) a statement that collateral has been given to secure obligations either on the instrument or otherwise of an obligor on the instrument or that in the case of default on those obligations the holder may realize on or dispose of the collateral; or

(c) a promise or power to maintain or protect collateral or to give additional collateral; or

(d) a term authorizing a confession of judgment on the instrument if it is not paid when due; or

(e) a term purporting to waive the benefit of any law intended for the advantage or protection of any obligor; or

(f) a term in a draft providing that the payee by indorsing or cashing it acknowledges full satisfaction of an obligation of the drawer; or

(g) a statement in a draft drawn in a set of parts (section 28:3-801) to the effect that the order is effective only if no other part has been honored.

An instrument otherwise negotiable is within this article even though it is under a seal. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 676, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:3-114. Date, antedating, postdating

(1) The negotiability of an instrument is not affected by the fact that it is undated, antedated, or postdated.

(2) Where an instrument is antedated or postdated the time when it is payable is determined by the stated date if the instrument is payable on demand or at a fixed period after date.

(3) Where the instrument or any signature thereon is dated, the date is presumed to be correct. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 676, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:3-115. Incomplete instruments

(1) When a paper whose contents at the time of signing show that it is intended to become an instrument is signed while still incomplete in any necessary respect it cannot be enforced until completed, but when it is completed in accordance with authority given it is effective as completed.

(2) If the completion is unauthorized the rules as to material alteration apply (section 28:3-407), even though the paper was not delivered by the maker or drawer; but the burden of establishing that any completion is unauthorized is on the party so asserting. (Dec. 30, 1963, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, 77 Stat. 676, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:3-413.

§ 28:3-116. Instruments payable to two or more persons

An instrument payable to the order of two or more persons

(a) if in the alternative is payable to any one of them and may be negotiated, discharged or enforced by any of them who has possession of it;

(b) if not in the alternative is payable to all of them and may be negotiated, discharged or enforced only by all of them.

§ 28:3-117. Instruments payable with words of description

An instrument made payable to a named person with the addition of words describing him

(a) as agent or officer of a specified person is payable to his principal but the agent or officer may act as if he were the holder;

(b) as any other fiduciary for a specified person or purpose is payable to the payee and may be negotiated, discharged or enforced by him;

(c) in any other manner is payable to the payee unconditionally and the additional words are without effect on subsequent parties.

§ 28:3-118. Ambiguous terms and rules of construction

The following rules apply to every instrument:

(a) Where there is doubt whether the instrument is a draft or a note the holder may treat it as either. A draft drawn on the drawer is effective as a note.

(b) Handwritten terms control typewritten and printed terms, and typewritten control printed.

(c) Words control figures except that if the words are ambiguous figures control.

(d) Unless otherwise specified a provision for interest means interest at the judgment rate at the place of payment from the date of the instrument, or if it is undated from the date of issue.

(e) Unless the instrument otherwise specifies two or more persons who sign as maker, acceptor or drawer or indorser and as a part of the same transaction are jointly and severally liable even though the instrument contains such words as "I promise to pay".

(f) Unless otherwise specified consent to extension authorizes a single extension for not longer than the original period. A consent to extension, expressed in the instrument, is binding on secondary parties and accommodation makers. A holder may not exercise his option to extend an instrument over the objection of a maker or acceptor or other party who in accordance with section 28:3-604 tenders full payment when the instrument is due.

§ 28:3-119. Other writings affecting instrument

(1) As between the obligor and his immediate obligee or any transferee the terms of an instrument may be modified or affected by any other written agreement executed as a part of the same transaction, except that a holder in due course is not affected by any limitation of his rights arising out of the separate written agreement if he had no notice of the limitation when he took the instrument.

(2) A separate agreement does not affect the negotiability of an instrument. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 677, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:3-120. Instruments "payable through" bank

An instrument which states that it is "payable through" a bank or the like designates that bank as a collecting bank to make presentment but does not of itself authorize the bank to pay the instrument. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 677, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:3-121. Instruments payable at bank

A note or acceptance which states that it is payable at a bank is the equivalent of a draft drawn on the bank payable when it falls due out of any funds of the maker or acceptor in current account or otherwise available for such payment. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 677, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:3-122. Accrual of cause of action

(1) A cause of action against a maker or an acceptor accrues

(a) in the case of a time instrument on the day after maturity;

(b) in the case of a demand instrument upon its date or, if no date is stated, on the date of issue.

(2) A cause of action against the obligor of a demand or time certificate of deposit accrues upon demand, but demand on a time certificate may not be made until on or after the date of maturity.

(3) A cause of action against a drawer of a draft or an indorser of any instrument accrues upon demand following dishonor of the instrument. Notice of dishonor is a demand.

(4) Unless an instrument provides otherwise, interest runs at the rate provided by law for a judgment

(a) in the case of a maker, acceptor or other primary obligor of a demand instrument, from the date of demand;

(b) in all other cases from the date of accrual of the cause of action.

NOTES TO DECISIONS*Limitation of action

Where prime contractor's cause of action on note of sub-contractor ripened on October 27, 1963, the day after the note matured without payment, and the prime contractor's suit against sub-subcontractor on the note was brought during 1964, action tolled running of statute on the note, but the suit on the note did not interrupt running of the statute as to the prime contractor's claim against subcontractor on the obligations assigned by subcontractor as security for the note. Fox-Greenwald Sheet Metal Co., Inc. v. Markowitz Bros., Inc. et al. (1971, 452 F. 2d 1346, 147 U.S. App. D.C. 14).

Running of the statute of limitations on principal debt does not itself affect a creditor's right to resort to the security. Id.

PART 2.—TRANSFER AND NEGOTIATION*§ 28:3-201. Transfer: right to indorsement

(1) Transfer of an instrument vests in the transferee such rights as the transferor has therein, except that a transferee who has himself been a party to any fraud or illegality affecting the instrument or who as a prior holder had notice of a defense or claim against it cannot improve his position by taking from a later holder in due course.

(2) A transfer of a security interest in an instrument vests the foregoing rights in the transferee to the extent of the interest transferred.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed any transfer for value of an instrument not then payable to bearer gives the transferee the specifically enforceable right to have the unqualified indorsement of the transferor. Negotiation takes effect only when the indorsement is made and until that time there is no presumption that the transferee is the owner. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 678, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Stat. 678, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:3-603.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Bank's rights

A bank in which the payee deposited non-negotiable money orders has no greater rights than the payee. Nation-Wide Check Corporation v. A. J. Banks et al. (D.C. App. 1969, 260 A.2d 367).

§ 28:3-202. Negotiation

(1) Negotiation is the transfer of an instrument in such form that the transferee becomes a holder. If the instrument is payable to order it is negotiated by delivery with any necessary indorsement; if payable to bearer it is negotiated by delivery.

(2) An indorsement must be written by or on behalf of the holder and on the instrument or on a paper so firmly affixed thereto as to become a part thereof.

(3) An indorsement is effective for negotiation only when it conveys the entire instrument or any unpaid residue. If it purports to be of less it operates only as a partial assignment.

(4) Words of assignment, condition, waiver, guaranty, limitation or disclaimer of liability and the like accompanying an indorsement do not affect its character as an indorsement. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 678, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:3-102.

§ 28:3-203. Wrong or misspelled name

Where an instrument is made payable to a person under a misspelled name or one other than his own he may indorse in that name or his own or both; but signature in both names may be required by a person paying or giving value for the instrument. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 678, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:3-204. Special indorsement; blank indorsement

(1) A special indorsement specifies the person to whom or to whose order it makes the instrument payable. Any instrument specially indorsed becomes payable to the order of the special indorsee and may be further negotiated only by his indorsement.

(2) An indorsement in blank specifies no particular indorsee and may consist of a mere signature.

An instrument payable to order and indorsed in blank becomes payable to bearer and may be negotiated by delivery alone until specially indorsed.

(3) The holder may convert a blank indorsement into a special indorsement by writing over the signature of the indorser in blank any contract consistent with the character of the indorsement. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 678, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:3-205. Restrictive indorsements

An indorsement is restrictive which either

(a) is conditional; or

(b) purports to prohibit further transfer of the instrument; or

(c) includes the words "for collection", "for deposit", "pay any bank", or like terms signifying a purpose of deposit or collection; or

(d) otherwise states that it is for the benefit or use of the indorser or of another person.

(Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 679, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:3-102, 28:3-206, 28:3-419.

§ 28:3-206. Effect of restrictive indorsement

(1) No restrictive indorsement prevents further transfer or negotiation of the instrument.

(2) An intermediary bank, or a payor bank which is not the depository bank, is neither given notice nor otherwise affected by a restrictive indorsement of any person except the bank's immediate transferor or the person present for payment.

(3) Except for an intermediary bank, any transferee under an indorsement which is conditional or includes the words "for collection", "for deposit", "pay any bank", or like terms (subparagraphs (a) and (c) of section 28:3-205) must pay or apply any value given by him for or on the security of the instrument consistently with the indorsement and to the extent that he does so he becomes a holder for value. In addition such transferee is a holder in due course if he otherwise complies with the requirements of section 28:3-302 on what constitutes a holder in due course.

(4) The first taker under an indorsement for the benefit of the indorser or another person (subparagraph (d) of section 28:3-205) must pay or apply any value given by him for or on the security of the instrument consistently with the indorsement and to the extent that he does so he becomes a holder for value. In addition such taker is a holder in due course if he otherwise complies with the requirements of section 28:3-302 on what constitutes a holder in due course. A later holder for value is neither given notice nor otherwise affected by such restrictive indorsement unless he has knowledge that a fiduciary or other person has negotiated the instrument in any transaction for his own benefit or otherwise in breach of duty (subsection (2) of section 28:3-304). (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 679, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:3-419.

§ 28:3-207. Negotiation effective although it may be rescinded

(1) Negotiation is effective to transfer the instrument although the negotiation is

(a) made by an infant, a corporation exceeding its powers, or any other person without capacity; or

(b) obtained by fraud, duress or mistake of any kind; or

(c) part of an illegal transaction; or

(d) made in breach of duty.

(2) Except as against a subsequent holder in due course such negotiation is in an appropriate case subject to rescission, the declaration of a constructive trust or any other remedy permitted by law. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 679, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:3-208. Reacquisition

Where an instrument is returned to or reacquired by a prior party he may cancel any indorsement which is not necessary to his title and reissue or further negotiate the instrument, but any intervening party is discharged as against the reacquiring party and subsequent holders not in due course and if his indorsement has been cancelled is discharged as against subsequent holders in due course as well. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 679, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:3-601.

PART 3.—RIGHTS OF A HOLDER

§ 28:3-301. Rights of a holder

The holder of an instrument whether or not he is the owner may transfer or negotiate it and, except as otherwise provided in section 28:3-603 on payment or satisfaction, discharge it or enforce payment in his own name. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 680, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:3-302. Holder in due course

(1) A holder in due course is a holder who takes the instrument

(a) for value; and

(b) in good faith; and

(c) without notice that it is overdue or has been dishonored or of any defense against or claim to it on the part of any person.

(2) A payee may be a holder in due course.

(3) A holder does not become a holder in due course of an instrument:

(a) by purchase of it at judicial sale or by taking it under legal process; or

(b) by acquiring it in taking over an estate; or

(c) by purchasing it as part of a bulk transaction not in regular course of business of the transferor.

(4) A purchaser of a limited interest can be a holder in due course only to the extent of the interest purchased. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 680, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:3-102, 28:3-206, 28:4-104, 28:4-209, 28:5-103, 28:5-114, 28:9-105, 28:9-309,

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Alleged fraud

Evidence established that holder of first note, which had been given for allegedly fraudulent painting, obtained note from holder in due course, so that there could be a recovery on note notwithstanding alleged fraud. Blow v. Ammerman (1965, 350 F. 2d 729, 121 U.S. App. D.C. 351).

Burden of proof

In the case, the court held that the assignee of conditional sales contract and note, that called for "time price" more than 8% greater than balance due, did not establish that transaction was not usurious, and thus did not establish that it was holder in due course, since there was no showing that "finance charge" or "carrying charge" was included to compensate seller for expense other than price of loan. L. Fuller v. Universal Acceptance Corporation (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 506).

Forfeiture of interest

In this case the court held that the assignee of a conditional sales contract and note was not entitled to recover "finance charge" or "carrying charge" which exceeded 8% per annum since the assignee did not establish that it was holder in due course and that transaction was not usurious. L. Fuller v. Universal Acceptance Corporation (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 506).

Notice

Where it appeared on face of note and deed of trust that loan was made at over 6% rate of interest, loan was shown on the face to be payable in Washington, D.C., it was stated on note that lender was certain corporation "of Washington, D.C." and purchaser of note and deed of trust knew that such corporation was engaged in making such loans in District of Columbia, even if security instrument given in violation of District of Columbia Loan Shark Act is merely voidable rather than void, purchaser was not a holder in due course. In re Parkwood, Inc. (1972, 461 F. 2d 158, 149 U.S. App. D.C. 67).

Summary judgment

It was error to grant summary judgment in favor of holder of second note, which had been given for allegedly fraudulent painting sold to maker by transferor of holder, where issue was sufficient to raise a jury issue as to bad faith on part of holder of note. Blow v. Ammerman (1965, 350 F. 2d 729, 121 U.S. App. D.C. 351).

Tainted transaction

The court held, that in this case the working arrangement between the conditional seller of television set and the assignee of purchasers' note was tainted such that it bore a "badge of fraud" and supported trial judge's ruling in suit by assignee on note that the note was usurious and that assignee could not be given status of holder in due course. Universal Acceptance Corporation v. F. Marzullo et ano. (D.C. App. 1969, 260 A. 2d 90).

§ 28:3-303. Taking for value

A holder takes the instrument for value

(a) to the extent that the agreed consideration has been performed or that he acquires a security interest in or a lien on the instrument otherwise than by legal process; or

(b) when he takes the instrument in payment of or as security for an antecedent claim against any person whether or not the claim is due; or

(c) when he gives a negotiable instrument for it or makes an irrevocable commitment to a third person.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:1-201.

§ 28:3-304. Notice to purchaser

(1) The purchaser has notice of a claim or defense if

(a) the instrument is so incomplete, bears such visible evidence of forgery or alteration, or is otherwise so irregular as to call into question its validity, terms or ownership or to create an ambiguity as to the party to pay; or

(b) the purchaser has notice that the obligation of any party is voidable in whole or in part, or that all parties have been discharged.

(2) The purchaser has notice of a claim against the instrument when he has knowledge that a fiduciary has negotiated the instrument in payment of or as security for his own debt or in any transaction for his own benefit or otherwise in breach of duty.

(3) The purchaser has notice that an instrument is overdue if he has reason to know

(a) that any part of the principal amount is overdue or that there is an uncured default in payment of another instrument of the same series; or

(b) that acceleration of the instrument has been made; or

(c) that he is taking a demand instrument after demand has been made or more than a reasonable length of time after its issue. A reasonable time for a check drawn and payable within the states and territories of the United States and the District is presumed to be thirty days.

(4) Knowledge of the following facts does not of itself give the purchaser notice of a defense or claim

(a) that the instrument is antedated or postdated;

(b) that it was issued or negotiated in return for an executory promise or accompanied by a separate agreement, unless the purchaser has notice that a defense or claim has arisen from the terms thereof;

(c) that any party has signed for accommodation;

(d) that an incomplete instrument has been completed, unless the purchaser has notice of any improper completion;

(e) that any person negotiating the instrument is or was a fiduciary;

(f) that there has been default in payment of interest on the instrument or in payment of any other instrument, except one of the same series.

(5) The filing or recording of a document does not of itself constitute notice within the provisions of this article to a person who would otherwise be a holder in due course.

(6) To be effective notice must be received at such time and in such manner as to give a reasonable opportunity to act on it. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 680, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:3-206.

§ 28:3-305. Rights of a holder in due course

To the extent that a holder is a holder in due course he takes the instrument free from

(1) all claims to it on the part of any person; and

(2) all defenses of any party to the instrument with whom the holder has not dealt except

(a) infancy, to the extent that it is a defense to a simple contract; and

(b) such other incapacity, or duress, or illegality of the transaction, as renders the obligation of the party a nullity; and

(c) such misrepresentation as has induced the party to sign the instrument with neither knowledge nor reasonable opportunity to obtain knowledge of its character or its essential terms; and

(d) discharge in insolvency proceedings; and

(e) any other discharge of which the holder has notice when he takes the instrument.

(Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 681, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:3-408.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Alleged fraud

Evidence established that holder of first note, which had been given for allegedly fraudulent painting, obtained note from holder in due course, so that there could be a recovery on note notwithstanding alleged fraud. Blow v. Ammerman (1965, 350 F. 2d 729, 121 U.S. App. D.C. 351).

Directed Verdict

In an action on a note, the court agreed with appellants contention that the evidence raised fact questions as to whether note was secured from makers by misrepresentation and without their knowing or having reasonable opportunity to know of its character or essential terms so as to preclude direction of verdict for holder. J. L. Kearney, et al. v. The Commerce Investment Company (D.C. App. 1970, 262 A. 2d 804).

By moving for directed verdict, proponent admits, for purposes of motion, truth of evidence for opponent, with all reasonable inferences to be derived therefrom. Id.

Holder in due course

In a case where depository bank gave its customer provisional credit on a check deposited with the bank and permitted customer to withdraw a portion of the credit before bank discovered that the drawers had stopped payment, bank was a holder in due course as to amount of provisional credit withdrawn and, in absence of applicable defenses as provided in section 28:3-305, could recover from drawers. Falls Church Bank etc. v. Wesley Heights, Inc. (D.C. App. 1969, 256 A. 2d 915).

Summary judgment

It was error to grant summary judgment in favor of holder of second note, which had been given for allegedly fraudulent painting sold to maker by transferor of holder, where issue was sufficient to raise a jury issue as to bad faith on part of holder of note. Blow v. Ammerman (1965, 350 F. 2d 729, 121 U.S. App. D.C. 351).

§ 28:3-306. Rights of one not holder in due course

Unless he has the rights of a holder in due course any person takes the instrument subject to

(a) valid claims to it on the part of any person; and

(b) all defenses of any party which would be available in an action on a simple contract; and

(c) the defenses of want or failure of consideration, nonperformance of any condition precedent, nondelivery, or delivery for a special purpose (section 28:3-408); and

(d) the defense that he or a person through whom he holds the instrument acquired it by theft, or that payment or satisfaction to such holder would be inconsistent with the terms of a restrictive indorsement. The claim of any third person to the instrument is not otherwise available as a defense to any party liable thereon unless the third person himself defends the action for such party.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Alleged fraud

Evidence established that holder of first note, which had been given for allegedly fraudulent painting, obtained note from holder in due course, so that there could be a recovery on note notwithstanding alleged fraud. Blow v. Ammerman (1965, 350 F. 2d 729, 121 U.S. App. D.C. 351).

Burden of proof

In a case where payee transferred nonnegotiable money orders, the transferee, although not holder in due course, could establish a case against the payor, which had stopped payment on the money orders, by production of instruments and burden of proving want of consideration or any other defense was upon the payor. Nation-Wide Check Corporation v. A. J. Banks et ano. (D.C. App. 1969, 260 A. 2d 367).

Summary judgment

It was error to grant summary judgment in favor of holder of second note, which had been given for allegedly fraudulent painting sold to maker by transferor of holder, where issue was sufficient to raise a jury issue as to bad faith on part of holder of note. Blow v. Ammerman (1965, 350 F. 2d 729, 121 U.S. App. D.C. 351).

§ 28:3-307. Burden of establishing signatures, defenses and due course

(1) Unless specifically denied in the pleadings each signature on an instrument is admitted. When the effectiveness of a signature is put in issue

(a) the burden of establishing it is on the party claiming under the signature; but

(b) the signature is presumed to be genuine or authorized except where the action is to enforce the obligation of a purported signer who has died or become incompetent before proof is required.

(2) When signatures are admitted or established, production of the instrument entitles a holder to recover on it unless the defendant establishes a defense.

(3) After it is shown that a defense exists a person claiming the rights of a holder in due course has the burden of establishing that he or some person under whom he claims is in all respects a holder in due course. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 681, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Alleged fraud

Evidence established that holder of first note, which had been given for allegedly fraudulent painting, obtained note from holder in due course, so that there could be a recovery on note notwithstanding alleged fraud. Blow v. Ammerman (1965, 350 F. 2d 729, 121 U.S. App. D.C. 351).

Applicable law

Under Uniform Commercial Code, burden of a holder to prove himself a holder in due course applied to case in which trial occurred after Code's effective date, even though entire transaction occurred prior to such effective date. United Securities Corp v. Bruton (D.C. App. 1965, 213 A. 2d 892).

Bad faith

Knowledge of collateral fraudulent transactions of negotiator of note is circumstance bearing on whether particular note was taken in bad faith. Blow v. Ammerman (1965, 350 F. 2d 729, 121 U.S. App. D.C. 351).

Burden of proof

In the case, the court held that the assignee of conditional sale contract and note, that called for "time price" more than 8% greater than balance due, did not establish that transaction was not usurious, and thus did not establish that it was holder in due course, since there was no showing that "finance charge" or "carrying charge" was included to compensate seller for expense other than price of loan. L. Fuller v. Universal Acceptance Corporation (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 506).

In a case where payee transferred nonnegotiable money orders, the transferee, although not holder in due course, could establish a case against the payor, which had stopped payment on the money orders, by production of instruments and burden of proving want of consideration or any other defense was upon the payor. Nation-Wide Check Corporation v. A. J. Banks et ano. (D.C. App. 1969, 260 A. 2d 367).

Under Uniform Commercial Code the burden was on holder of purchase price note, where defense of defective workmanship in article sold was shown, to prove that it was in all respects a holder in due course, and such burden was not sustained where only evidence offered by holder to establish its status as such holder was that it purchased note on date shown on endorsement. United Securities Corp v. Bruton (D.C. App. 1965, 213 A. 2d 892).

Establishment of a defense

Without introduction of some evidence, the defenses of failure of consideration, fraud, and usury raised by the signer of note in his pleading, did not constitute "establishment of a defense" under statute providing that once signatures are admitted or established, production of the instrument entitles a holder to recover on it unless the defendant establishes a defense. Calvert Credit Corporation v. I. J. Humble (D.C. App. 1969, 249 A. 2d 518).

Forfeiture of interest

In this case the court held that the assignee of a conditional sales contract and note was not entitled to recover "finance charge" or "carrying charge" which exceeded 8% per annum since the assignee did not establish that it was holder in due course and that transaction was not usurious. L. Fuller v. Universal Acceptance Corporation (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 506).

Question of fact

Question whether holder of second note, which had been given for allegedly fraudulent painting, was holder in due course, in these circumstances, so as to be entitled to recover on note was issue of fact. Blow v. Ammerman (1965, 350 F. 2d 729, 121 U.S. App. D.C. 351).

It was error to grant summary judgment in favor of holder of second note, which had been given for allegedly fraudulent painting sold to maker by transferor of holder, where issue was sufficient to raise a jury issue as to bad faith on part of holder of note. Id.

PART 4.—LIABILITY OF PARTIES

§ 28:3-401. Signature

(1) No person is liable on an instrument unless his signature appears thereon.

(2) A signature is made by use of any name, including any trade or assumed name, upon an instrument, or by any word or mark used in lieu of a written signature. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 682, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:3-102.

§ 28:3-402. Signature in ambiguous capacity

Unless the instrument clearly indicates that a signature is made in some other capacity it is an indorsement. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 682, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:3-403. Signature by authorized representative

(1) A signature may be made by an agent or other representative, and his authority to make it may be established as in other cases of representation. No particular form of appointment is necessary to establish such authority.

(2) An authorized representative who signs his own name to an instrument

(a) is personally obligated if the instrument neither names the person represented nor shows that the representative signed in a representative capacity;

(b) except as otherwise established between the immediate parties, is personally obligated if the instrument names the person represented but does not show that the representative signed in a representative capacity, or if the instrument does not name the person represented but does show that the representative signed in a representative capacity.

(3) Except as otherwise established the name of an organization preceded or followed by the name and office of an authorized individual is a signature made in a representative capacity. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 682, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:3-404. Unauthorized signatures

(1) Any unauthorized signature is wholly inoperative as that of the person whose name is signed unless he ratifies it or is precluded from denying it; but it operates as the signature of the unauthorized signer in favor of any person who in good faith pays the instrument or takes it for value.

(2) Any unauthorized signature may be ratified for all purposes of this article. Such ratification does not of itself affect any rights of the person ratifying against the actual signer. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 682, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Evidence—Sufficiency

In a depositor's action against bank for reimbursement for bank's payment of allegedly forged checks, the court held that the fact that checks charged to depositor's checking account were not reflected in depositor's own records, which checks were not produced in evidence, did not provide a basis upon which the jury could reasonably have inferred or found that the missing checks were drawn by a forger and were, therefore, improperly charged to the depositor's account. B. G. Myrick v. National Savings & Trust Company (D.C. App. 1970, 268 A. 2d 526).

§ 28:3-405. Impostors; signature in name of payee

(1) An indorsement by any person in the name of a named payee is effective if

(a) an imposter by use of the mails or otherwise has induced the maker or drawer to issue the instrument to him or his confederate in the name of the payee; or

(b) a person signing as or on behalf of a maker or drawer intends the payee to have no interest in the instrument; or

(c) an agent or employee of the maker or drawer has supplied him with the name of the payee intending the latter to have no such interest.

(2) Nothing in this section shall affect the criminal or civil liability of the person so indorsing. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 683, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:3-406. Negligence contributing to alteration or unauthorized signature

Any person who by his negligence substantially contributes to a material alteration of the instrument or to the making of an unauthorized signature is precluded from asserting the alteration or lack of authority against a holder in due course or against a drawee or other payor who pays the instrument in good faith and in accordance with the reasonable commercial standards of the drawee's or payor's business. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 683, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Negligence

"In a depositor's action against bank for reimbursement for bank's payment of allegedly forged checks, the court held that the depositor was negligent as a matter of law in failing to inquire of bank as to her lack of receipt of monthly statements and cancelled checks, especially after bank informed depositor that bank's records showed she had no money in her account, and this negligence substantially contributed to the making of an unauthorized signature and depositor was precluded from asserting lack of bank's authority to pay allegedly forged checks. B. G. Myrick v. National Savings & Trust Company (D.C. App. 1970, 268 A. 2d 526).

§ 28:3-407. Alteration

(1) Any alteration of an instrument is material which changes the contract of any party thereto in any respect, including any such change in

(a) the number or relations of the parties; or

(b) an incomplete instrument, by completing it otherwise than as authorized; or

(c) the writing as signed, by adding to it or by removing any part of it.

(2) As against any person other than a subsequent holder in due course

(a) alteration by the holder which is both fraudulent and material discharges any party whose contract is thereby changed unless that party assents or is precluded from asserting the defense;

(b) no other alteration discharges any party and the instrument may be enforced according to its original tenor, or as to incomplete instruments according to the authority given.

(3) A subsequent holder in due course may in all cases enforce the instrument according to its original tenor, and when an incomplete instrument has been completed, he may enforce it as completed. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 683, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:3-102, 28:3-115, 28:3-601.

§ 28:3-408. Consideration

Want or failure of consideration is a defense as against any person not having the rights of a holder in due course (section 28:3-305), except that no consideration is necessary for an instrument or obligation thereon given in payment of or as security for an antecedent obligation of any kind. Nothing in this section shall be taken to displace any statute outside this subtitle under which a promise is enforceable notwithstanding lack or failure of consideration. Partial failure of consideration is a defense pro tanto whether or not the failure is in an ascertained or liquidated amount. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 683, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:3-306.

§ 28:3-409. Draft not an assignment

(1) A check or other draft does not of itself operate as an assignment of any funds in the hands of the drawee available for its payment, and the drawee is not liable on the instrument until he accepts it.

(2) Nothing in this section shall affect any liability in contract, tort or otherwise arising from any letter of credit or other obligation or representation which is not an acceptance. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 683, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:3-410. Definition and operation of acceptance

(1) Acceptance is the drawee's signed engagement to honor the draft as presented. It must be written on the draft, and may consist of his signature alone. It becomes operative when completed by delivery or notification.

(2) A draft may be accepted although it has not been signed by the drawer or is otherwise incomplete or is overdue or has been dishonored.

(3) Where the draft is payable at a fixed period after sight and the acceptor fails to date his acceptance the holder may complete it by supplying a date in good faith. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 684, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:3-102, 28:4-104, 28:5-103.

§ 28:3-411. Certification of a check

(1) Certification of a check is acceptance. Where a holder procures certification the drawer and all prior indorsers are discharged.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed a bank has no obligation to certify a check.

(3) A bank may certify a check before returning it for lack of proper indorsement. If it does so the drawer is discharged. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 684, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:3-102, 28:3-601, 28:4-104.

§ 28:3-412. Acceptance varying draft

(1) Where the drawee's proffered acceptance in any manner varies the draft as presented the holder may refuse the acceptance and treat the draft as dishonored in which case the drawee is entitled to have his acceptance cancelled.

(2) The terms of the draft are not varied by an acceptance to pay at any particular bank or place in the United States, unless the acceptance states that the draft is to be paid only at such bank or place.

(3) Where the holder assents to an acceptance varying the terms of the draft each drawer and indorser who does not affirmatively assent is discharged. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 684, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:3-601.

§ 28:3-413. Contract of maker, drawer and acceptor

(1) The maker or acceptor engages that he will pay the instrument according to its tenor at the time of his engagement or as completed pursuant to section 28:3-115 on incomplete instruments.

(2) The drawer engages that upon dishonor of the draft and any necessary notice of dishonor or protest he will pay the amount of the draft to the holder or to any indorser who takes it up. The drawer may disclaim this liability by drawing without recourse.

(3) By making, drawing or accepting the party admits as against all subsequent parties including the drawee the existence of the payee and his then capacity to indorse. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 684, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:3-414. Contract of indorser; order of liability

(1) Unless the indorsement otherwise specifies (as by such words as "without recourse") every indorser engages that upon dishonor and any necessary notice of dishonor and protest he will pay the instrument according to its tenor at the time of his indorsement to the holder or to any subsequent indorser who takes it up, even though the indorser who takes it up was not obligated to do so.

(2) Unless they otherwise agree indorsers are liable to one another in the order in which they indorse, which is presumed to be the order in which their signatures appear on the instrument. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 684, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:3-415. Contract of accommodation party

(1) An accommodation party is one who signs the instrument in any capacity for the purpose of lending his name to another party to it.

(2) When the instrument has been taken for value before it is due the accommodation party is liable in the capacity in which he has signed even though the taker knows of the accommodation.

(3) As against a holder in due course and without notice of the accommodation oral proof of the accommodation is not admissible to give the accommodation party the benefit of discharges dependent on his character as such. In other cases the accommodation character may be shown by oral proof.

(4) An indorsement which shows that it is not in the chain of title is notice of its accommodation character.

(5) An accommodation party is not liable to the party accommodated, and if he pays the instrument has a right of recourse on the instrument against such party. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 684, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:3-102.

§ 28:3-416. Contract of guarantor

(1) "Payment guaranteed" or equivalent words added to a signature mean that the signer engages that if the instrument is not paid when due he will pay it according to its tenor without resort by the holder to any other party.

(2) "Collection guaranteed" or equivalent words added to a signature mean that the signer engages that if the instrument is not paid when due he will pay it according to its tenor, but only after the holder has reduced his claim against the maker or acceptor to judgment and execution has been returned unsatisfied, or after the maker or acceptor has become insolvent or it is otherwise apparent that it is useless to proceed against him.

(3) Words of guaranty which do not otherwise specify guarantee payment.

(4) No words of guaranty added to the signature of a sole maker or acceptor affect his liability on the instrument. Such words added to the signature of one of two or more makers or acceptors create a presumption that the signature is for the accommodation of the others.

(5) When words of guaranty are used presentment, notice of dishonor and protest are not necessary to charge the user.

(6) Any guaranty written on the instrument is enforceable notwithstanding any statute of frauds. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 685, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:3-417. Warranties on presentment and transfer

(1) Any person who obtains payment or acceptance and any prior transferor warrants to a person who in good faith pays or accepts that

(a) he has a good title to the instrument or is authorized to obtain payment or acceptance on behalf of one who has a good title; and

(b) he has no knowledge that the signature of the maker or drawer is unauthorized, except that this warranty is not given by a holder in due course acting in good faith

(i) to a maker with respect to the maker's own signature; or

(ii) to a drawer with respect to the drawer's own signature, whether or not the drawer is also the drawee; or

(iii) to an acceptor of a draft if the holder in due course took the draft after the acceptance or obtained the acceptance without knowledge that the drawer's signature was unauthorized; and

(c) the instrument has not been materially altered, except that this warranty is not given by a holder in due course acting in good faith

(i) to the maker of a note; or

(ii) to the drawer of a draft whether or not the drawer is also the drawee; or

(iii) to the acceptor of a draft with respect to an alteration made prior to the acceptance if the holder in due course took the draft after the acceptance, even though the acceptance provided "payable as originally drawn" or equivalent terms; or

(iv) to the acceptor of a draft with respect to an alteration made after the acceptance.

(2) Any person who transfers an instrument and receives consideration warrants to his transferee and if the transfer is by indorsement to any subsequent holder who takes the instrument in good faith that

(a) he has a good title to the instrument or is authorized to obtain payment or acceptance on behalf of one who has a good title and the transfer is otherwise rightful; and

(b) all signatures are genuine or authorized; and

(c) the instrument has not been materially altered; and

(d) no defense of any party is good against him; and

(e) he has no knowledge of any insolvency proceeding instituted with respect to the maker or acceptor or the drawer of an unaccepted instrument.

(3) By transferring "without recourse" the transferor limits the obligation stated in subsection (2) (d) to a warranty that he has no knowledge of such a defense.

(4) A selling agent or broker who does not disclose the fact that he is acting only as such gives the warranties provided in this section, but if he makes such disclosure warrants only his good faith and authority. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 685, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:3-418. Finality of payment or acceptance

Except for recovery of bank payments as provided in the article on bank deposits and collections (article 4) and except for liability for breach of warranty on presentment under the preceding section, payment or acceptance of any instrument is final in favor of a holder in due course, or a person who has in good faith changed his position in reliance on the payment. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 686, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:3-419. Conversion of instrument; innocent representative

(1) An instrument is converted when

(a) a drawee to whom it is delivered for acceptance refuses to return it on demand; or

(b) any person to whom it is delivered for payment refuses on demand either to pay or to return it; or

(c) it is paid on a forged indorsement.

(2) In an action against a drawee under subsection (1) the measure of the drawee's liability is the face amount of the instrument. In any other action under subsection (1) the measure of liability is presumed to be the face amount of the instrument.

(3) Subject to the provisions of this subtitle concerning restrictive indorsements a representative, including a depository or collecting bank, who has a good faith and in accordance with the reasonable commercial standards applicable to the business of such representative dealt with an instrument or its proceeds on behalf of one who was not the true owner is not liable in conversion or otherwise to the true owner beyond the amount of any proceeds remaining in his hands.

(4) An intermediary bank or payor bank which is not a depository bank is not liable in conversion solely by reason of the fact that proceeds of an item indorsed restrictively (sections 28:3-205 and 28:3-206) are not paid or applied consistently with the restrictive indorsement of an indorser other than its immediate transferor. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 686, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:4-203.

PART 5.—PRESENTMENT, NOTICE OF DISHONOR AND PROTEST

§ 28:3-501. When presentment, notice of dishonor, and protest necessary or permissible

(1) Unless excused (section 28:3-511) presentment is necessary to charge secondary parties as follows:

(a) presentment for acceptance is necessary to charge the drawer and indorsers of a draft where the draft so provides, or is payable elsewhere than at the residence or place of business of the drawee, or its date of payment depends upon such presentment. The holder may at his option present for acceptance any other draft payable at a stated date;

(b) presentment for payment is necessary to charge any indorser;

(c) in the case of any drawer, the acceptor of a draft payable at a bank or the maker of a note payable at a bank, presentment for payment is necessary, but failure to make presentment discharges such drawer, acceptor or maker only as stated in section 28:3-502(1)(b).

(2) Unless excused (section 28:3-511)

(a) notice of any dishonor is necessary to charge any endorser;

(b) in the case of any drawer, the acceptor of a draft payable at a bank or the maker of a note payable at a bank, notice of any dishonor is necessary, but failure to give such notice discharges such drawer, acceptor or maker only as stated in section 28:3-502(1)(b).

(3) Unless excused (section 28:3-511) protest of any dishonor is necessary to charge the drawer and indorsers of any draft which on its face appears to be drawn or payable outside of the states and territories of the United States and the District. The holder may at his option make protest of any dishonor of any other instrument and in the case of a foreign draft may on insolvency of the acceptor before maturity make protest for better security.

(4) Notwithstanding any provision of this section, neither presentment nor notice of dishonor nor protest is necessary to charge an indorser who has indorsed an instrument after maturity. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 687, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965; Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 679, Pub. L. 88-509, § 5.)

AMENDMENT

1964—Section 5 of act Aug. 30, 1964, effective Jan. 1, 1965, amended the first sentence of clause (1)(a) by changing the word "that" to "than".

§ 28:3-502. Unexcused delay; discharge

(1) Where without excuse any necessary presentment or notice of dishonor is delayed beyond the time when it is due

(a) any indorser is discharged; and

(b) any drawer or the acceptor of a draft payable at a bank or the maker of a note payable at a bank who because the drawee or payor bank becomes insolvent during the delay is deprived of funds maintained with the drawee or payor bank to cover the instrument may discharge his liability by written assignment to the holder of his rights against the drawee or payor bank in respect of such funds, but such drawer, acceptor or maker is not otherwise discharged.

(2) Where without excuse a necessary protest is delayed beyond the time when it is due any drawer or indorser is discharged. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 687, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:3-501, 28:3-601.

§ 28:3-503. Time of presentment

(1) Unless a different time is expressed in the instrument the time for any presentment is determined as follows:

(a) where an instrument is payable at or a fixed period after a stated date any presentment for acceptance must be made on or before the date it is payable;

(b) where an instrument is payable after sight it must either be presented for acceptance or negotiated within a reasonable time after date or issue whichever is later;

(c) where an instrument shows the date on which it is payable presentment for payment is due on that date;

(d) where an instrument is accelerated presentment for payment is due within a reasonable time after the acceleration;

(e) with respect to the liability of any secondary party presentment for acceptance or payment of any other instrument is due within a reasonable time after such party becomes liable thereon.

(2) A reasonable time for presentment is determined by the nature of the instrument, any usage of banking or trade and the facts of the particular case. In the case of an uncertified check which is drawn and payable within the United States and which is not a draft drawn by a bank the following are presumed to be reasonable periods within which to present for payment or to initiate bank collection:

(a) with respect to the liability of the drawer, thirty days after date or issue whichever is later; and

(b) with respect to the liability of an indorser, seven days after his indorsement.

(3) Where any presentment is due on a day which is not a full business day for either the person making presentment or the party to pay or accept, presentment is due on the next following day which is a full business day for both parties.

(4) Presentment to be sufficient must be made at a reasonable hour, and if at a bank during its banking day. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 687, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:3-504. How presentment made

(1) Presentment is a demand for acceptance or payment made upon the maker, acceptor, drawee or other payor by or on behalf of the holder.

(2) Presentment may be made

(a) by mail, in which event the time of presentment is determined by the time of receipt of the mail; or

(b) through a clearing house; or

(c) at the place of acceptance or payment specified in the instrument or if there be none at the place of business or residence of the party to accept or pay. If neither the party to accept or pay nor anyone authorized to act for him is present or accessible at such place presentment is excused.

(3) It may be made

(a) to any one of two or more makers, acceptors, drawees or other payors; or

(b) to any person who has authority to make or refuse the acceptance or payment

(4) A draft accepted or a note made payable at a bank in the United States must be presented at such bank.

(5) In the cases described in section 28:4-210 presentment may be made in the manner and with the result stated in that section. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 688, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:3-102, 28:4-104.

§ 28:3-505. Rights of party to whom presentment is made

(1) The party to whom presentment is made may without dishonor require

(a) exhibition of the instrument; and

(b) reasonable identification of the person making presentment and evidence of his authority to make it if made for another; and

(c) that the instrument be produced for acceptance or payment at a place specified in it, or if there be none at any place reasonable in the circumstances; and

(d) a signed receipt on the instrument for any partial or full payment and its surrender upon full payment.

(2) Failure to comply with any such requirement invalidates the presentment but the person presenting has a reasonable time in which to comply and the time for acceptance or payment runs from the time of compliance. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 688, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:4-210.

§ 28:3-506. Time allowed for acceptance or payment

(1) Acceptance may be deferred without dishonor until the close of the next business day following presentment. The holder may also in good faith effort to obtain acceptance and without either dishonor of the instrument or discharge of secondary parties allow postponement of acceptance for an additional business day.

(2) Except as a longer time is allowed in the case of documentary drafts drawn under a letter of credit, and unless an earlier time is agreed to by the party to pay, payment of an instrument may be deferred without dishonor pending reasonable examination to determine whether it is properly payable, but payment must be made in any event before the close of business on the day of presentment.

§ 28:3-507. Dishonor; holder's right of recourse; term allowing re-presentment

(1) An instrument is dishonored when

(a) a necessary or optional presentment is duly made and due acceptance or payment is refused or cannot be obtained within the prescribed time or in case of bank collections the instrument is seasonably returned by the midnight deadline (section 28:4-301); or

(b) presentment is excused and the instrument is not duly accepted or paid.

(2) Subject to any necessary notice of dishonor and protest, the holder has upon dishonor an immediate right of recourse against the drawers and indorsers.

(3) Return of an instrument for lack of proper indorsement is not dishonor.

(4) A term in a draft or an indorsement thereof allowing a stated time for re-presentment in the event of any dishonor of the draft by nonacceptance if a time draft or by nonpayment if a sight draft gives the holder as against any secondary party bound by the term an option to waive the dishonor without affecting the liability of the secondary party and he may present again up to the end of the stated time. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 689, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:2-103, 28:3-102.

§ 28:3-508. Notice of dishonor

(1) Notice of dishonor may be given to any person who may be liable on the instrument by or on behalf of the holder or any party who has himself received notice, or any other party who can be compelled to pay the instrument. In addition an agent or bank in whose hands the instrument is dishonored may give notice to his principal or customer or to another agent or bank from which the instrument was received.

(2) Any necessary notice must be given by a bank before its midnight deadline and by any other person before midnight of the third business day after dishonor or receipt of notice of dishonor.

(3) Notice may be given in any reasonable manner. It may be oral or written and in any terms which identify the instrument and state that it has been dishonored. A misdescription which does not mislead the party notified does not vitiate the notice. Sending the instrument bearing a stamp, ticket or writing stating that acceptance or payment has been refused or sending a notice of debit with respect to the instrument is sufficient.

(4) Written notice is given when sent although it is not received.

(5) Notice to one partner is notice to each although the firm has been dissolved.

(6) When any party is in insolvency proceedings instituted after the issue of the instrument notice may be given either to the party or to the representative of his estate.

(7) When any party is dead or incompetent notice may be sent to his last known address or given to his personal representative.

(8) Notice operates for the benefit of all parties who have rights on the instrument against the party notified. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 689, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:3-102, 28:4-104.

§ 28:3-509. Protest; noting for protest

(1) A protest is a certificate or dishonor made under the hand and seal of a United States consul or vice consul or a notary public or other person authorized to certify dishonor by the law of the place where dishonor occurs. It may be made upon information satisfactory to such person.

(2) The protest must identify the instrument and certify either that due presentment has been made or the reason why it is excused and that the instrument has been dishonored by nonacceptance or nonpayment.

(3) The protest may also certify that notice of dishonor has been given to all parties or to specified parties.

(4) Subject to subsection (5) any necessary protest is due by the time that notice of dishonor is due.

(5) If, before protest is due, an instrument has been noted for protest by the officer to make protest, the protest may be made at any time thereafter as of the date of the noting. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 690, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:3-102, 28:4-104.

§ 28:3-510. Evidence of dishonor and notice of dishonor

The following are admissible as evidence and create a presumption of dishonor and of any notice of dishonor therein shown:

(a) a document regular in form as provided in the preceding section which purports to be a protest;

(b) the purported stamp or writing of the drawee, payor bank or presenting bank on the instrument or accompanying it stating that acceptance or payment has been refused for reasons consistent with dishonor;

(c) any book or record of the drawee, payor bank, or any collecting bank kept in the usual course of business which shows dishonor, even though there is no evidence of who made the entry. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 690, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:3-511. Waived or excused presentment, protest or notice of dishonor or delay therein

(1) Delay in presentment, protest or notice of dishonor is excused when the party is without notice that it is due or when the delay is caused by circumstances beyond his control and he exercises reasonable diligence after the cause of the delay ceases to operate.

(2) Presentment or notice or protest as the case may be is entirely excused when

(a) the party to be charged has waived it expressly or by implication either before or after it is due; or

(b) such party has himself dishonored the instrument or has countermanded payment or otherwise has no reason to expect or right to require that the instrument be accepted or paid; or

(c) by reasonable diligence the presentment or protest cannot be made or the notice given.

(3) Presentment is also entirely excused when

(a) the maker, acceptor or drawee of any instrument except a documentary draft is dead or in insolvency proceedings instituted after the issue of the instrument; or

(b) acceptance or payment is refused but not for want of proper presentment.

(4) Where a draft has been dishonored by nonacceptance a later presentment for payment and any notice of dishonor and protest for nonpayment are excused unless in the meantime the instrument has been accepted.

(5) A waiver of protest is also a waiver of presentment and of notice of dishonor even though protest is not required.

(6) Where a waiver of presentment or notice or protest is embodied in the instrument itself it is binding upon all parties; but where it is written above the signature of an indorser it binds him only. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 690, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:3-501.

PART 6.—DISCHARGE

§ 28:3-601. Discharge of parties

(1) The extent of the discharge of any party from liability on an instrument is governed by the sections on

(a) payment or satisfaction (section 28:3-603); or

(b) tender of payment (section 28:3-604); or

(c) cancellation or renunciation (section 28:3-605); or

(d) impairment of right of recourse or of collateral (section 28:3-606); or

(e) reacquisition of the instrument by a prior party (section 28:3-208); or

(f) fraudulent and material alteration (section 28:3-407); or

(g) certification of a check (section 28:3-411); or

(h) acceptance varying a draft (section 28:3-412); or

(i) unexcused delay in presentment or notice of dishonor or protest (section 28:3-502).

(2) Any party is also discharged from his liability on an instrument to another party by any other act or agreement with such party which would discharge his simple contract for the payment of money.

(3) The liability of all parties is discharged when any party who has himself no right of action or recourse on the instrument

(a) reacquires the instrument in his own right; or

(b) is discharged under any provision of this article except as otherwise provided with respect to discharge for impairment of recourse or of collateral (section 28:3-606).

§ 28:3-602. Effect of discharge against holder in due course

No discharge of any party provided by this article is effective against a subsequent holder in due course unless he has notice thereof when he takes the instrument. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 691, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:3-603. Payment or satisfaction

(1) The liability of any party is discharged to the extent of his payment or satisfaction to the holder even though it is made with knowledge of a claim of another person to the instrument unless prior to such payment or satisfaction the person making the claim either supplies indemnity deemed adequate by the party seeking the discharge or enjoins payment or satisfaction by order of a court of competent jurisdiction in an action in which the adverse claimant and the holder are parties. This subsection does not, however, result in the discharge of the liability

(a) of a party who in bad faith pays or satisfies a holder who acquired the instrument by theft or who (unless having the rights of a holder in due course) holds through one who so acquired it; or

(b) of a party (other than an intermediary bank or a payor bank which is not a depository bank) who pays or satisfies the holder of an instrument which has been restrictively indorsed in a manner not consistent with the terms of such restrictive indorsement.

(2) Payment or satisfaction may be made with the consent of the holder by any person including a stranger to the instrument. Surrender of the instrument to such a person gives him the rights of a transferee (section 28:3-201). (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 691, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:3-301, 28:3-601.

§ 28:3-604. Tender of payment

(1) Any party making tender of full payment to a holder when or after it is due is discharged to the extent of all subsequent liability for interest, costs, and attorney's fees.

(2) The holder's refusal of such tender wholly discharges any party who has a right of recourse against the party making the tender.

(3) Where the maker or acceptor of an instrument payable otherwise than on demand is able and ready to pay at every place of payment specified in the instrument when it is due, it is equivalent to tender. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 682, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:3-118, 28:3-601.

§ 28:3-605. Cancellation and renunciation

(1) The holder of an instrument may even without consideration discharge any party.

(a) in any manner apparent on the face of the instrument or the indorsement, as by intentionally cancelling the instrument or the party's signature by destruction or mutilation, or by striking out the party's signature; or

(b) by renouncing his rights by a writing signed and delivered or by surrender of the instrument to the party to be discharged.

(2) Neither cancellation nor renunciation without surrender of the instrument affects the title thereto. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 692, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:3-601.

§ 28:3-606. Impairment of recourse or of collateral

(1) The holder discharges any party to the instrument to the extent that without such party's consent the holder

(a) without express reservation of rights releases or agrees not to sue any person against whom the party has to the knowledge of the holder a right of recourse or agrees to suspend the right to enforce against such person the instrument or collateral or otherwise discharges such person, except that failure or delay in effecting any required presentment, protest or notice of dishonor with respect to any such person does not discharge any party as to whom presentment, protest or notice of dishonor is effective or unnecessary; or

(b) unjustifiably impairs any collateral for the instrument given by or on behalf of the party or any person against whom he has a right of recourse.

(2) By express reservation of rights against a party with a right of recourse the holder preserves

(a) all his rights against such party as of the time when the instrument was originally due; and

(b) the right of the party to pay the instrument as of that time; and

(c) all rights of such party to recourse against others.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:3-601.

PART 7.—ADVICE OF INTERNATIONAL SIGHT DRAFT

§ 28:3-701. Letter of advice of international sight draft

(1) A "letter of advice" is a drawer's communication to the drawee that a described draft has been drawn.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed when a bank receives from another bank a letter of advice of an international sight draft the drawee bank may immediately debit the drawer's account and stop the running of interest pro tanto. Such a debit and any resulting credit to any account covering outstanding drafts leaves in the drawer full power to stop payment or otherwise dispose of the amount and creates no trust or interest in favor of the holder.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed and except where a draft is drawn under a credit issued by the drawee, the drawee of an international sight draft owes the drawer no duty to pay an unadvised draft but if it does so and the draft is genuine, may appropriately debit the drawer's account. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 693, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

PART 8.—MISCELLANEOUS

§ 28:3-801. Drafts in a set

(1) Where a draft is drawn in a set of parts, each of which is numbered and expressed to be an order only if no other part has been honored, the whole of the parts constitutes one draft but a taker of any part may become a holder in due course of the draft.

(2) Any person who negotiates, indorses or accepts a single part of a draft drawn in a set thereby becomes liable to any holder in due course of that part as if it were the whole set, but as between different holders in due course to whom different parts have been negotiated the holder whose title first accrues has all rights to the draft and its proceeds.

(3) As against the drawee the first presented part of a draft drawn in a set is the part entitled to payment, or if a time draft to acceptance and payment. Acceptance of any subsequently presented part renders the drawee liable thereon under subsection (2). With respect both to a holder and to the drawer payment of a subsequently presented part of a draft payable at sight has the same effect as payment of a check notwithstanding an effective stop order (section 28:4-407).

(4) Except as otherwise provided in this section, where any part of a draft in a set is discharged by payment or otherwise the whole draft is discharged. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 693, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTIONS REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:3-112.

§ 28:3-802. Effect of instrument on obligation for which it is given

(1) Unless otherwise agreed where an instrument is taken for an underlying obligation.

(a) the obligation is pro tanto discharged if a bank is drawer, maker or acceptor of the instrument and there is no recourse on the instrument against the underlying obligor; and

(b) in any other case the obligation is suspended pro tanto until the instrument is due or if it is payable on demand until its presentment. If the instrument is dishonored action may be maintained on either the instrument or the obligation; discharge of the underlying obligor on the instrument also discharges him on the obligation.

(2) The taking in good faith of a check which is not postdated does not of itself so extend the time on the original obligation as to discharge a surety. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 693, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-511.

§ 28:3-803. Notice to third party

Where a defendant is sued for breach of an obligation for which a third person is answerable over under this article he may give the third person written notice of the litigation, and the person notified may then give similar notice to any other person who is answerable over to him under this article. If the notice states that the person notified may come in and defend and that if the person notified does not do so he will in any action against him by the person giving the notice be bound by any determination of fact common to the two litigations, then unless after reasonable receipt of the notice the person notified does come in and defend he is so bound. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 694, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:3-804. Lost, destroyed or stolen instruments

The owner of an instrument which is lost, whether by destruction, theft or otherwise, may maintain an action in his own name and recover from any party liable thereon upon due proof of his ownership, the facts which prevent his production of the instrument and its terms. The court may require security indemnifying the defendant against loss by reason of further claims on the instrument. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 694, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:3-805. Instruments not payable to order or to bearer

This article applies to any instrument whose terms do not preclude transfer and which is otherwise negotiable within this article but which is not payable to order or to bearer, except that there can be no holder in due course of such an instrument. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 694, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Burden of proof

In a case where payee transferred nonnegotiable money orders, the transferee, although not holder in due course, could establish a case against the payor, which had stopped payment on the money orders, by production of instruments and burden of proving want of consideration or any other defense was upon the payor. Nation-Wide Check Corporation v. A. J. Banks et al. (D.C. App. 1969, 260 A.2d 367).

PART 1.—GENERAL PROVISIONS AND DEFINITIONS

§ 28:4-101. Short title

This article shall be known and may be cited as Uniform Commercial Code—Bank Deposits and Collections. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 695, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:4-102. Applicability

(1) To the extent that items within this article are also within the scope of articles 3 and 8, they are subject to the provisions of those articles. In the event of conflict the provisions of this article govern those of article 3 but the provisions of article 8 govern those of this article.

(2) The liability of a bank for action or non-action with respect to any item handled by it for purposes of presentment, payment or collection is governed by the law of the place where the bank is located. In the case of action or non-action by or at a branch or separate office of a bank, its liability is governed by the law of the place where the branch or separate office is located. #### SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:1-105.

§ 28:4-103. Variation by agreement; measure of damages; certain action constituting ordinary care

(1) The effect of the provisions of this article may be varied by agreement except that no agreement can disclaim a bank's responsibility for its own lack of good faith or failure to exercise ordinary care or can limit the measure of damages for such lack or failure; but the parties may by agreement determine the standards by which such responsibility is to be measured if such standards are not manifestly unreasonable.

(2) Federal Reserve regulations and operating letters, clearing house rules, and the like, have the effect of agreements under subsection (1), whether or not specifically assented to by all parties interested in items handled.

(3) Action or non-action approved by this article or pursuant to Federal Reserve regulations or operating letters constitutes the exercise of ordinary care and, in the absence of special instructions, action or non-action consistent with clearing house rules and the like or with a general banking usage not disapproved by this article, prima facie constitutes the exercise of ordinary care.

(4) The specification or approval of certain procedures by this article does not constitute disapproval of other procedures which may be reasonable under the circumstances.

(5) The measure of damages for failure to exercise ordinary care in handling an item is the amount of the item reduced by an amount which could not have been realized by the use of ordinary care, and where there is bad faith it includes other damages, if any, suffered by the party as a proximate consequence. § 28:4-106. Separate office of a bank

A branch or separate office of a bank is a separate bank for the purpose of computing the time within which and determining the place at or to which action may be taken or notices or orders shall be given under this article and under article 3. The receipt of any notice or order by or the knowledge of one branch or separate office of a bank is not actual or constructive notice to or knowledge of any other branch or office of the same bank and does not impair the right of another branch or office to be a holder in due course of an item. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 697, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:4-107. Time of receipt of items

(1) For the purpose of allowing time to process items, prove balances and make the necessary entries on its books to determine its position for the day, a bank may fix an afternoon hour of two P.M. or later as a cut-off hour for the handling of money and items and the making of entries on its books.

(2) Any item or deposit of money received on any day after a cut-off hour so fixed or after the close of the banking day may be treated as being received at the opening of the next banking day. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 697, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:4-108. Delays

(1) Unless otherwise instructed, a collecting bank in a good faith effort to secure payment may, in the case of specific items and with or without the approval of any person involved, waive, modify or extend time limits imposed or permitted by this subtitle for a period not in excess of an additional banking day without discharge of secondary parties and without liability to its transferor or any prior party.

(2) Delay by a collecting bank or payor bank beyond time limits prescribed or permitted by this subtitle or by instructions is excused if caused by interruption of communication facilities, suspension of payments by another bank, war, emergency conditions or other circumstances beyond the control of the bank provided it exercises such diligence as the circumstances require. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 697, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:4-109. Process of posting

The "process of posting" means the usual procedure followed by a payor bank in determining to pay an item and in recording the payment including one or more of the following or other steps as determined by the bank:

(a) verification of any signature;

(b) ascertaining that sufficient funds are available;

(c) affixing a "paid" or other stamp;

(d) entering a charge or entry to a customer's account;

(e) correcting or reversing an entry or erroneous action with respect to the item.

PART 2.—COLLECTION OF ITEMS: DEPOSITARY AND COLLECTING BANKS

§ 28:4-201. Presumption and duration of agency status of collecting banks and provisional status of credits; applicability of article; item indorsed "pay any bank"

(1) Unless a contrary intent clearly appears and prior to the time that a settlement given by a collecting bank for an item is or becomes final (subsection (3) of section 28:4-211 and sections 28:4-212 and 28:4-213) the bank is an agent or sub-agent of the owner of the item and any settlement given for the item is provisional. This provision applies regardless of the form of indorsement or lack of indorsement and even though credit given for the item is subject to immediate withdrawal as of right or is in fact withdrawn; but the continuance of ownership of an item by its owner and any rights of the owner to proceeds of the item are subject to rights of a collecting bank such as those resulting from outstanding advances on the item and valid rights of setoff. When an item is handled by banks for purposes of presentment, payment and collection, the relevant provisions of this article apply even though action of parties clearly establishes that a particular bank has purchased the item and is the owner of it.

(2) After an item has been indorsed with the words "pay any bank" or the like, only a bank may acquire the rights of a holder

(a) until the item has been returned to the customer initiating collection; or

(b) until the item has been specially indorsed by a bank to a person who is not a bank.

(Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 698, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Holder in due course

In a case where depositary bank gave its customer provisional credit on a check deposited with the bank and permitted customer to withdraw a portion of the credit before bank discovered that the drawers had stopped payment, bank was a holder in due course as to amount of provisional credit withdrawn and, in absence of applicable defenses as provided in section 28:3-305, could recover from drawers. Falls Church Bank etc. v. Wesley Heights, Inc. (D.C. App. 1969, 256 A. 2d 915).

§ 28:4-202. Responsibility for collection; when action seasonable

(1) A collecting bank must use ordinary care in

(a) presenting an item or sending it for presentment; and

(b) sending notice of dishonor or non-payment or returning an item other than a documentary draft to the bank's transferor or directly to the depositary bank under subsection (2) of section 28:4-212 after learning that the item has not been paid or accepted, as the case may be; and

(c) settling for an item when the bank receives final settlement; and

(d) making or providing for any necessary protest; and

(e) notifying its transferor of any loss or delay in transit within a reasonable time after discovery thereof.

(2) A collecting bank taking proper action before its midnight deadline following receipt of an item, notice or payment acts seasonably; taking proper action within a reasonably longer time may be seasonable but the bank has the burden of so establishing.

(3) Subject to subsection (1) (a), a bank is not liable for the insolvency, neglect, misconduct, mistake or default of another bank or person or for loss or destruction of an item in transit or in the possession of others. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 698, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:4-203. Effect of instructions

Subject to the provisions of article 3 concerning conversion of instruments (section 28:3-419) and the provisions of both article 3 and this article the bank or constitute notice to it and a collecting bank's transferor can give instructions which affect the bank or constitute notice to it and a collecting bank is not liable to prior parties for any action taken pursuant to such instructions or in accordance with any agreement with its transferor. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 699, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:4-204. Methods of sending and presenting; sending direct to payor bank

(1) A collecting bank must send items by reasonably prompt method taking into consideration any relevant instructions, the nature of the item, the number of such items on hand, and the cost of collection involved and the method generally used by it or others to present such items.

(2) A collecting bank may send

(a) any item direct to the payor bank;

(b) any item to any non-bank payor if authorized by its transferor; and

(c) any item other than documentary drafts to any non-bank payor, if authorized by Federal Reserve regulation or operating letter, clearing house rule or the like.

(3) Presentment may be made by a presenting bank at a place where the payor bank has requested that presentment be made. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 699, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:4-205. Supplying missing indorsement; no notice from prior indorsement

(1) A depositary bank which has taken an item for collection may supply any indorsement of the customer which is necessary to title unless the item contains the words "payee's indorsement required" or the like. In the absence of such a requirement a statement placed on the item by the depositary bank to the effect that the item was deposited by a customer or credited to his account is effective as the customer's indorsement.

(2) An intermediary bank, or payor bank which is not a depositary bank, is neither given notice nor otherwise affected by a restrictive indorsement of any person except the bank's immediate transferor.

§ 28:4-206. Transfer between banks

Any agreed method which identifies the transferor bank is sufficient for the item's transfer to another bank. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 699, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:4-207. Warranties of customer and collecting bank on transfer or presentment of items; time for claims

(1) Each customer or collecting bank who obtains payment or acceptance of an item and each prior customer and collecting bank warrants to the payor bank or other payor who in good faith pays or accepts the item that

(a) he has a good title to the item or is authorized to obtain payment or acceptance on behalf of one who has a good title; and

(b) he has no knowledge that the signature of the maker or drawer is unauthorized, except that this warranty is not given by any customer or collecting bank that is a holder in due course and acts in good faith

(i) to a maker with respect to the maker's own signature; or

(ii) to a drawer with respect to the drawer's own signature, whether or not the drawer is also the drawee; or

(iii) to an acceptor of an item if the holder in due course took the item after the acceptance or obtained the acceptance without knowledge that the drawer's signature was unauthorized; and

(c) the item has not been materially altered, except that this warranty is not given by any customer or collecting bank that is a holder in due course and acts in good faith

(i) to the maker of a note; or

(ii) to the drawer of a draft whether or not the drawer is also the drawee; or

(iii) to the acceptor of an item with respect to an alteration made prior to the acceptance if the holder in due course took the item after the acceptance, even though the acceptance provided "payable as originally drawn" or equivalent terms; or

(iv) to the acceptor of an item with respect to an alteration made after the acceptance.

(2) Each customer and collecting bank who transfers an item and receives a settlement or other consideration for it warrants to his transferee and to any subsequent collecting bank who takes the item in good faith that

(a) he has a good title to the item or is authorized to obtain payment or acceptance on behalf of one who has a good title and the transfer is otherwise rightful; and

(b) all signatures are genuine or authorized; and

(c) the item has not been materially altered; and

(d) no defense of any party is good against him; and

(e) he has no knowledge of any insolvency proceeding instituted with respect to the maker or acceptor or the drawer of an unaccepted item.

In addition each customer and collecting bank so transferring an item and receiving a settlement or other consideration engages that upon dishonor and any necessary notice of dishonor and protest he will take up the item.

(3) The warranties and the engagement to honor set forth in the two preceding subsections arise notwithstanding the absence of indorsement of words of guaranty or warranty in the transfer or presentment and a collecting bank remains liable for their breach despite remittance to its transferor. Damages for breach of such warranties or engagement to honor shall not exceed the consideration received by the customer or collecting bank responsible plus finance charges and expenses related to the item, if any.

(4) Unless a claim for breach of warranty under this section is made within a reasonable time after the person claiming learns of the breach, the person liable is discharged to the extent of any loss caused by the delay in making claim. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 699, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:4-302.

§ 28:4-208. Security interest of collecting bank in items, accompanying documents and proceeds

(1) A bank has a security interest in an item and any accompanying documents or the proceeds of either

(a) in case of an item deposited in an account to the extent to which credit given for the item has been withdrawn or applied;

(b) in case of an item for which it has given credit available for withdrawal as of right, to the extent of the credit given whether or not the credit is drawn upon and whether or not there is a right of charge-back; or

(c) if it makes an advance on or against the item.

(2) When credit which has been given for several items received at one time or pursuant to a single agreement is withdrawn or applied in part the security interest remains upon all the items, any accompanying documents or the proceeds of either. For the purpose of this section, credits first given are first withdrawn.

(3) Receipt by a collecting bank of a final settlement for an item is a realization on its security interest in the item, accompanying documents and proceeds. To the extent and so long as the bank does not receive final settlement for the item or give up possession of the item or accompanying documents for purposes other than collection, the security interest continues and is subject to the provisions of article 9 except that

(a) no security agreement is necessary to make the security interest enforceable (subsection (1)

(b) of section 28:9-203); and

(b) no filing is required to perfect the security interest; and

(c) the security interest has priority over conflicting perfected security interests in the item, accompanying documents or proceeds. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 700, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Holder in due course

Where bank, by debiting entire amount of dishonored check for $149,266.44 against payee's account on receipt of notice of dishonor, found that payee was then overdrawn by $721.48, and bank entered this figure on payee's balance statement as a deficit for that day in payee's account, and where had not payee's account been previously credited by bank with a $2,823.33 check deposited subsequent to original receipt of dishonored check the overdraft at crucial time would have amounted to $3,544.81, bank is a holder in due course for $721.48, not $3,544.81, since bank elected to apply the $2,823.33 check to the deficit. *Security Bank v. #### § 28:4-209. When bank gives value for purposes of holder in due course

For purposes of determining its status as a holder in due course, the bank has given value to the extent that it has a security interest in an item provided that the bank otherwise complies with the requirements of section 28:3-302 on what constitutes a holder in due course. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 701, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:4-210. Presentment by notice of item not payable by, through or at a bank; liability of secondary parties

(1) Unless otherwise instructed, a collecting bank may present an item not payable by, through or at a bank by sending to the party to accept or pay a written notice that the bank holds the item for acceptance or payment. The notice must be sent in time to be received on or before the day when presentment is due and the bank must meet, any requirement of the party to accept or pay under section 28:3-505 by the close of the bank's next banking day after it knows of the requirement.

(2) Where presentment is made by notice and neither honor nor request for compliance with a requirement under section 28:3-505 is received by the close of business on the day after maturity or in the case of demand items by the close of business on the third banking day after notice was sent, the presenting bank may treat the item as dishonored and charge any secondary party by sending him notice of the facts. #### § 28:4-211. Media of remittance; provisional and final settlement in remittance cases

(1) A collecting bank may take in settlement of an item

(a) a check of the remitting bank or of another bank on any bank except the remitting bank; or

(b) a cashier's check or similar primary obligation of a remitting bank which is a member of or clears through a member of the same clearing house or group as the collecting bank; or

(c) appropriate authority to charge an account of the remitting bank or of another bank with the collecting bank; or

(d) if the item is drawn upon or payable by a person other than a bank, a cashier's check, certified check or other bank check or obligation.

(2) If before its midnight deadline the collecting bank properly dishonors a remittance check or authorization to charge on itself or presents or forwards for collection a remittance instrument of or on another bank which is of a kind approved by subsection (1) or has not been authorized by it, the collecting bank is not liable to prior parties in the event of the dishonor of such check, instrument or authorization.

(3) A settlement for an item by means of a remittance instrument or authorization to charge is or becomes a final settlement as to both the person making and the person receiving the settlement

(a) if the remittance instrument or authorization to charge is of a kind approved by subsection (1) or has not been authorized by the person receiving the settlement and in either case the person receiving the settlement acts seasonably before its midnight deadline in presenting, forwarding for collection or paying the instrument or authorization,—at the time the remittance instrument or authorization is finally paid by the payor by which it is payable;

(b) if the person receiving the settlement has authorized remittance by a non-bank check or obligation or by a cashier's check or similar primary obligation of or a check upon the payor or other remitting bank which is not of a kind approved by subsection (1) (b),—at the time of the receipt of such remittance check or obligation; or

(c) if in a case not covered by sub-paragraphs (a) or (b) the person receiving the settlement fails to seasonably present, forward for collection, pay or return a remittance instrument or authorization to it to charge before its midnight deadline,—at such midnight deadline.

§ 28:4-212. Right of charge-back or refund

(1) If a collecting bank has made provisional settlement with its customer for an item and itself fails by reason of dishonor, suspension of payments by a bank or otherwise to receive a settlement for the item which is or becomes final, the bank may revoke the settlement given by it, charge back the amount of any credit given for the item to its customer's account or obtain refund from its customer whether or not it is able to return the items if by its midnight deadline or within a longer reasonable time after it learns the facts it returns the item or sends notification of the facts. These rights to revoke, charge-back and obtain refund terminate if and when a settlement for the item received by the bank is or becomes final (subsection (3) of section 28:4-211 and subsections (2) and (3) of section 28:4-213).

(2) (Omitted.)

(3) A depository bank which is also the payor may charge-back the amount of an item to its customer's account or obtain refund in accordance with the section governing return of an item received by a payor bank for credit on its books (section 28:4-301).

(4) The right to charge-back is not affected by

(a) prior use of the credit given for the item; or

(b) failure by any bank to exercise ordinary care with respect to the item but any bank so failing remains liable.

(5) A failure to charge-back or claim refund does not affect other rights of the bank against the customer or any other party.

(6) If credit is given in dollars as the equivalent of the value of an item payable in a foreign currency the dollar amount of any charge-back or refund shall be calculated on the basis of the buying sight rate for the foreign currency prevailing on the day when the person entitled to the charge-back or refund learns that it will not receive payment in ordinary course. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 702, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

(a) in any case where the bank has received a provisional settlement for the item,—when such settlement becomes final and the bank has had a reasonable time to learn that the settlement is final;

(b) in any case where the bank is both a depository bank and a payor bank and the item is finally paid,—at the opening of the bank's second banking day following receipt of the item.

the item has a preferred claim against the payor bank.

(3) If a payor bank gives or a collecting bank gives or receives a provisional settlement for an item and thereafter suspends payments, the suspension does not prevent or interfere with the settlement becoming final if such finality occurs automatically upon the lapse of certain time or the happening of certain events (subsection (3) of section 28:4-211, subsections (1) (d), (2) and (3) of section 28:4-213).

(a) a demand item other than a documentary draft whether properly payable or not if the bank, in any case where it is not also the depository bank, retains the item beyond midnight of the banking day of receipt without settling for it or, regardless of whether it is also the depository bank, does not pay or return the item or send notice of dishonor until after its midnight deadline; or

(b) any other properly payable item unless within the time allowed for acceptance or payment of that item the bank either accepts or pays the item or returns it and accompanying documents. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 704, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

(d) completed the process of posting the item to the indicated account of the drawer, maker or other person to be charged therewith or otherwise has evidenced by examination of such indicated account and by action its decision to pay the item; or

(e) become accountable for the amount of the item under subsection (1) (d) of section 28:4-213 and section 28:4-302 dealing with the payor bank's responsibility for late return items.

(2) Subject to the provisions of subsection (1) items may be accepted, paid, certified or charged to the indicated account of its customer in any order convenient to the bank. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 705, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:4-403.

PART 4.—RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN PAYOR BANK AND ITS CUSTOMER

§ 28:4-401. When bank may charge customer's account

(1) As against its customer, a bank may charge against his account any item which is otherwise properly payable from that account even though the charge creates an overdraft.

(2) A bank which in good faith makes payment to a holder may charge the indicated account of its customer according to

- (a) the original tenor of his altered item; or
- (b) the tenor of his completed item, even though the bank knows the item has been completed unless the bank has notice that the completion was improper.

§ 28:4-402. Bank's liability to customer for wrongful dishonor

A payor bank is liable to its customer for damages proximately caused by the wrongful dishonor of an item. When the dishonor occurs through mistake liability is limited to actual damages proved. If so proximately caused and proved damages may include damages for an arrest or prosecution of the customer or other consequential damages. Whether any consequential damages are proximately caused by the wrongful dishonor is a question of fact to be determined in each case. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 705, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:4-403. Customer's right to stop payment; burden of proof of loss

(1) A customer may by order to his bank stop payment of any item payable for his account but the order must be received at such time and in such manner as to afford the bank a reasonable opportunity to act on it prior to any action by the bank with respect to the item described in section 28:4-303. No such order shall be valid, however, unless it shall be in writing specifically describing the item to which it relates by stating the amount, date and payee thereof.

(2) Anything in this section 28:4-403 to the contrary notwithstanding, any stop payment order transmitted by telephone by a customer to an officer of a bank, while such officer is on the premises thereof, shall be accepted by such bank, upon such identification that will ensure the order has been transmitted by such customer, as an effective order for a period of twenty-four hours, after which time it shall no longer be valid unless followed by a written order as provided in this section 28:4-403. A written order is effective for only six months unless renewed in writing. The bank may, at its option and without liability, stop payment of an item after the expiration of a stop payment order or any renewal thereof relating to such item.

(3) The burden of establishing the fact and amount of loss resulting from the payment of an item contrary to a binding stop payment order is on the customer. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 705, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:4-404.

§ 28:4-404. Bank not obligated to pay check more than six months old

A bank is under no obligation to a customer having a checking account to pay a check, other than a certified check, which is presented more than six months after its date, but it may charge its customer's account for a payment made thereafter in the absence of an effective stop payment order in accordance with section 28:4-403. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 706, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:4-405. Death or incompetence of customer

(1) A payor or collecting bank's authority to accept, pay or collect an item or to account for proceeds of its collection if otherwise effective is not rendered ineffective by incompetence of a customer of either bank existing at the time the item is issued or its collection is undertaken if the bank does not know of an adjudication of incompetence. Neither death nor incompetence of a customer revokes such authority to accept, pay, collect or account until the bank knows of the fact of death or of an adjudication of incompetence and has reasonable opportunity to act on it.

(2) Even with knowledge a bank may for ten days after the date of death pay or certify checks drawn on or prior to that date unless ordered to stop payment by a person claiming an interest in the account. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 706, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:4-406. Customer's duty to discover and report unauthorized signature or alteration

(1) When a bank sends to its customer a statement of account accompanied by items paid in good faith in support of the debit entries or holds the statement and items pursuant to a request or instructions of its customer or otherwise in a reasonable manner makes the statement and items available to the customer, the customer must exercise reasonable care and promptness to examine the statement and items to discover his unauthorized signature or any alteration on an item and must notify the bank promptly after discovery thereof.

(2) If the bank establishes that the customer failed with respect to an item to comply with the duties imposed on the customer by subsection (1) the customer is precluded from asserting against the bank

(a) his unauthorized signature or any alteration on the item if the bank also establishes that it suffered a loss by reason of such failure; and

(b) an unauthorized signature or alteration by the same wrongdoer on any other item paid in good faith by the bank after the first item and statement was available to the customer for a reasonable period not exceeding fourteen calendar days and before the bank receives notification from the customer of any such unauthorized signature or alteration.

(3) The preclusion under subsection (2) does not apply if the customer establishes lack of ordinary care on the part of the bank in paying the item(s).

(4) Without regard to care or lack of care of either the customer or the bank a customer who does not within one year from the time the statement and items are made available to the customer (subsection (1)) discover and report his unauthorized signature or any alteration on the face or back of the item or does not within three years from that time discover and report any unauthorized indorsement is precluded from asserting against the bank such unauthorized signature or indorsement or such alteration.

(5) If under this section a payor bank has a valid defense against a claim of a customer upon or resulting from payment of an item and waives or fails upon request to assert the defense the bank may not assert against any collecting bank or other prior party presenting or transferring the item a claim based upon the unauthorized signature or alteration giving rise to the customer's claim. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 706, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:4-407. Payor bank's right to subrogation on improper payment

If a payor bank has paid an item over the stop payment order of the drawer or maker or otherwise under circumstances giving a basis for objection by the drawer or maker, to prevent unjust enrichment and only to the extent necessary to prevent loss to the bank by reason of its payment of the item, the payor bank shall be subrogated to the rights

(a) of any holder in due course on the item against the drawer or maker; and

(b) of the payee or any other holder of the item against the drawer or maker either on the item or under the transaction out of which the item arose; and

(c) of the drawer or maker against the payee or any other holder of the item with respect to the transaction out of which the item arose.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:3-801.

PART 5.—COLLECTION OF DOCUMENTARY DRAFTS

§ 28:4-501. Handling of documentary drafts; duty to send for presentment and to notify customer of dishonor

A bank which takes a documentary draft for collection must present or send the draft and accompanying documents for presentment and upon learning that the draft has not been paid or accepted in due course must seasonably notify its customer of such fact even though it may have discounted or bought the draft or extended credit available for withdrawal as of right. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 707, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:4-502. Presentment of "on arrival" drafts

When a draft or the relevant instructions require presentment "on arrival", "when goods arrive" or the like, the collecting bank need not present until in its judgment a reasonable time for arrival of the goods has expired. Refusal to pay or accept because the goods have not arrived is not dishonor; the bank must notify its transferor of such refusal but need not present the draft again until it is instructed to do so or learns of the arrival of the goods. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 707, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:4-503. Responsibility of presenting bank for documents and goods; report of reasons for dishonor; referee in case of need

Unless otherwise instructed and except as provided in article 5 a bank presenting a documentary draft

(a) must deliver the documents to the drawee on acceptance of the draft if it is payable more than three days after presentment; otherwise, only on payment; and

(b) upon dishonor, either in the case of presentment for acceptance or presentment for payment, may seek and follow instructions from any referee in case of need designated in the draft or if the presenting bank does not choose to utilize his services it must use diligence and good faith to ascertain the reason for dishonor, must notify its transferor of the dishonor and of the results of its effort to ascertain the reasons therefor and must request instructions.

But the presenting bank is under no obligation with respect to goods represented by the documents except to follow any reasonable instructions seasonably received; it has a right to reimbursement for any expense incurred in following instructions and to prepayment of or indemnity for such expenses. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 707, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:4-504. Privilege of presenting bank to deal with goods; security interest for expenses

(1) A presenting bank which, following the dishonor of a documentary draft, has seasonably requested instructions but does not receive them within a reasonable time may store, sell, or otherwise deal with the goods in any reasonable manner.

(2) For its reasonable expenses incurred by action under subsection (1) the presenting bank has a lien upon the goods or their proceeds, which may be foreclosed in the same manner as an unpaid seller's lien. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 708, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

ARTICLE REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This article is referred to in section 28:7-509.

§ 28:5-101. Short title

The article shall be known and may be cited as Uniform Commercial Code—Letters of Credit. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 708, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:5-102. Scope

(1) This article applies

(a) to a credit issued by a bank if the credit requires a documentary draft or a documentary demand for payment; and

(b) to a credit issued by a person other than a bank if the credit requires that the draft or demand for payment be accompanied by a document of title; and

(c) to a credit issued by a bank or other person if the credit is not within subparagraphs (a) or (b) but conspicuously states that it is a letter of credit or is conspicuously so entitled.

(2) Unless the engagement meets the requirements of subsection (1), this article does not apply to engagements to make advances or to honor drafts or demands for payment, to authorities to pay or purchase, to guarantees or to general agreements.

(3) This article deals with some but not all of the rules and concepts of letters of credit as such rules or concepts have developed prior to this subtitle or may hereafter develop. The fact that this article states a rule does not by itself require, imply or negate application of the same or a converse rule to a situation not provided for or to a person not specified by this article. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 708, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:5-103, 28:5-104, 28:5-117.

§ 28:5-103. Definitions

(1) In this article unless the context otherwise requires

(a) "Credit" or "letter of credit" means an engagement by a bank or other person made at the request of a customer and of a kind within the scope of this article (section 28:5-102) that the issuer will honor drafts or other demands for payment upon compliance with the conditions specified in the credit. A credit may be either revocable or irrevocable. The engagement may be either an agreement to honor or a statement that the bank or other person is authorized to honor.

(b) A "documentary draft" or a "documentary demand for payment" is one honor of which is conditioned upon the presentation of a document or documents. "Document" means any paper including document of title, security, invoice, certificate, notice of default and the like.

(c) An "issuer" is a bank or other person issuing a credit.

(d) A "beneficiary" of a credit is a person who is entitled under its terms to draw or demand payment.

(e) An "advising bank" is a bank which gives notification of the issuance of a credit by another bank.

(f) A "confirming bank" is a bank which engages either that it will itself honor a credit already issued by another bank or that such a credit will be honored by the issuer or a third bank.

(g) A "customer" is a buyer or other person who causes an issuer to issue a credit. The term also includes a bank which procures issuance or confirmation on behalf of that bank's customer.

(2) Other definitions applying to this article and the sections in which they appear are:

"Notation of credit". Section 28:5-108.

"Presenter". Section 28:5-112(3).

(3) Definitions in other articles apply to this article and the sections in which they appear are:

"Accept" or "Acceptance". Section 28:3-410.

"Contract for sale". Section 28:2-106.

"Draft". Section 28:3-104.

"Holder in due course". Section 28:3-302.

"Midnight deadline". Section 28:4-104.

"Security". Section 28:8-102.

(4) In addition, article 1 contains general definitions and principles of construction and interpretation applicable throughout this article. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 709, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:5-104. Formal requirements; signing

(1) Except as otherwise required in subsection (1)(c) of section 28:5-102 on scope, no particular form of phrasing is required for a credit. A credit must be in writing and signed by the issuer and a confirmation must be in writing and signed by the confirming bank. A modification of the terms of a credit or confirmation must be signed by the issuer or confirming bank.

(2) A telegram may be a sufficient signed writing if it identifies its sender by an authorized authentication. The authentication may be in code and the authorized naming of the issuer in an advice of credit is a sufficient signing. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 709, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:5-105. Consideration

No consideration is necessary to establish a credit or to enlarge or otherwise modify its terms. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 710, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:5-106. Time and effect of establishment of credit

(1) Unless otherwise agreed a credit is established

(a) as regards the customer as soon as a letter of credit is sent to him or the letter of credit or an authorized written advice of its issuance is sent to the beneficiary; and

(b) as regards the beneficiary when he receives a letter of credit or an authorized written advice of its issuance.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed once an irrevocable credit is established as regards the customer it can be modified or revoked only with the consent of the customer and once it is established as regards the beneficiary it can be modified or revoked only with his consent.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed after a revocable credit is established it may be modified or revoked by the issuer without notice to or consent from the customer or beneficiary.

(4) Notwithstanding any modification or revocation of a revocable credit any person authorized to honor or negotiate under the terms of the original credit is entitled to reimbursement for or honor of any draft or demand for payment duly honored or negotiated before receipt of notice of the modification or revocation and the issuer in turn is entitled to reimbursement from its customer. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 710, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:5-107. Advice of credit; confirmation; error in statement of terms

(1) Unless otherwise specified an advising bank by advising a credit issued by another bank does not assume any obligation to honor drafts drawn or demands for payment made under the credit but it does assume obligation for the accuracy of its own statement.

(2) A confirming bank by confirming a credit becomes directly obligated on the credit to the extent of its confirmation as though it were its issuer and acquires the rights of an issuer.

(3) Even though an advising bank incorrectly advises the terms of a credit it has been authorized to advise the credit is established as against the issuer to the extent of its original terms.

(4) Unless otherwise specified the customer bears as against the issuer all risks of transmission and reasonable translation or interpretation of any message relating to a credit. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 710, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:5-108. "Notation credit"; exhaustion of credit

(1) A credit which specifies that any person purchasing or paying drafts drawn or demands for payment made under it must note the amount of the draft or demand on the letter or advice of credit is a "notation credit".

(2) Under a notation credit

(a) a person paying the beneficiary or purchasing a draft or demand for payment from him acquires a right to honor only if the appropriate notation is made and by transferring or forwarding for honor the documents under the credit such a person warrants to the issuer that the notation has been made; and

(b) unless the credit or a signed statement that an appropriate notation has been made accompanies the draft or demand for payment the issuer may delay honor until evidence of notation has been procured which is satisfactory to it but its obligation and that of its customer continue for a reasonable time not exceeding thirty days to obtain such evidence.

(3) If the credit is not a notation credit

(a) the issuer may honor complying drafts or demands for payment presented to it in the order in which they are presented and is discharged pro tanto by honor of any such draft or demand;

(b) as between competing good faith purchasers of complying drafts or demands the person first purchasing has priority over a subsequent purchaser even though the later purchased draft or demand has been first honored.

(Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 710, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:5-103.

§ 28:5-109. Issuer's obligation to its customer

(1) An issuer's obligation to its customer includes good faith and observance of any general banking usage but unless otherwise agreed does not include liability or responsibility

(a) for performance of the underlying contract for sale or other transaction between the customer and the beneficiary; or

(b) for any act or omission of any person other than itself or its own branch or for loss or destruction of a draft, demand or document in transit or in the possession of others; or

(c) based on knowledge or lack of knowledge of any usage of any particular trade.

(2) An issuer must examine documents with care so as to ascertain that on their face they appear to comply with the terms of the credit but unless otherwise agreed assumes no liability or responsibility for the genuineness, falsification or effect of any document which appears on such examination to be regular on its face.

(3) A non-bank issuer is not bound by any banking usage of which it has no knowledge. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 711, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:5-110. Availability of credit in portions; presenter's reservation of lien or claim

(1) Unless otherwise specified a credit may be used in portions in the discretion of the beneficiary.

(2) Unless otherwise specified a person by presenting a documentary draft or demand for payment under a credit relinquishes upon its honor all claims to the documents and a person by transferring such draft or demand or causing such presentment authorizes such relinquishment. An explicit reservation of claim makes the draft or demand non-complying. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 711, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:5-111. Warranties on transfer and presentment

(1) Unless otherwise agreed the beneficiary by transferring or presenting a documentary draft or demand for payment warrants to all interested parties that the necessary conditions of the credit have been complied with. This is in addition to any warranties arising under articles 3, 4, 7 and 8.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed a negotiating, advising, confirming, collecting or issuing bank presenting or transferring a draft or demand for payment under a credit warrants only the matters warranted by a collecting bank under article 4 and any such bank transferring a document warrants only the matters warranted by an intermediary under articles 7 and 8. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 711, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:5-112. Time allowed for honor or rejection; withholding honor or rejection by consent; "presenter"

(1) A bank to which a documentary draft or demand for payment is presented under a credit may without dishonor of the draft, demand, or credit

(a) defer honor until the close of the third banking day following receipt of the documents; and

(b) further defer honor if the presenter has expressly or impliedly consented thereto.

Failure to honor within the time here specified constitutes dishonor of the draft or demand and of the credit.

(2) Upon dishonor the bank may unless otherwise instructed fulfill its duty to return the draft or demand and the documents by holding them at the disposal of the presenter and sending him an advice to that effect.

(3) "Presenter" means any person presenting a draft or demand for payment for honor under a credit even though that person is a confirming bank or other correspondent which is acting under an issuer's authorization. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 711, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:5-103.

§ 28:5-113. Indemnities

(1) A bank seeking to obtain (whether for itself or another) honor, negotiation or reimbursement under a credit may give an indemnity to induce such honor, negotiation or reimbursement.

(2) An indemnity agreement inducing honor, negotiation or reimbursement

(a) unless otherwise explicitly agreed applies to defects in the documents but not in the goods; and

(b) unless a longer time is explicitly agreed expires at the end of ten business days following receipt of the documents by the ultimate customer unless notice of objection is sent before such expiration date. The ultimate customer may send notice of objection to the person from whom he received the documents and any bank receiving such notice is under a duty to send notice to its transferor before its midnight deadline.

§ 28:5-114. Issuer's duty and privilege to honor; right to reimbursement

(1) An issuer must honor a draft or demand for payment which complies with the terms of the relevant credit regardless of whether the goods or documents conform to the underlying contract for sale or other contract between the customer and the beneficiary. The issuer is not excused from honor of such a draft or demand by reason of an additional general term that all documents must be satisfactory to the issuer, but an issuer may require that specified documents must be satisfactory to it.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed when documents appear on their face to comply with the terms of a credit but a required document does not in fact conform to the warranties made on negotiation or transfer of a document of title (section 28:7-507) or of a security (section 28:8-306) or is forged or fraudulent or there is fraud in the transaction

(a) the issuer must honor the draft or demand for payment if honor is demanded by a negotiating bank or other holder of the draft or demand which has taken the draft or demand under the credit and under circumstances which would make it a holder in due course (section 28:3-302) and in an appropriate case would make it a person to whom a document of title has been duly negotiated (section 28:7-502) or a bona fide purchaser of a security (section 28:8-302); and

(b) in all other cases as against its customer, an issuer acting in good faith may honor the draft or demand for payment despite notification from the customer of fraud, forgery or other defect not apparent on the face of the documents but a court of appropriate jurisdiction may enjoin such honor.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed an issuer which has duly honored a draft or demand for payment is entitled to immediate reimbursement of any payment made under the credit and to be put in effectively available funds not later than the day before maturity of any acceptance made under the credit.

(4) (5) (Omitted.) (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 712, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-512.

§ 28:5-115. Remedy for improper dishonor or anticipatory repudiation

(1) When an issuer wrongfully dishonors a draft or demand for payment presented under a credit the person entitled to honor has with respect to any documents the rights of a person in the position of a seller (section 28:2-707) and may recover from the issuer the face amount of the draft or demand together with incidental damages under section 28:2-710 on seller's incidental damages and interest but less any amount realized by resale or other use or disposition of the subject matter of the transaction. In the event no resale or other utilization is made the documents, goods or other subject matter involved in the transaction must be turned over to the issuer on payment of judgment.

(2) When an issuer wrongfully cancels or otherwise repudiates a credit before presentment of a draft or demand for payment drawn under it the beneficiary has the rights of a seller after anticipatory repudiation by the buyer under section 28:2-610 if he learns of the repudiation in time reasonably to avoid procurement of the required documents. Otherwise the beneficiary has an immediate right of action for wrongful dishonor. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 713, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:5-116. Transfer and assignment

(1) The right to draw under a credit can be transferred or assigned only when the credit is expressly designated as transferable or assignable.

(2) Even though the credit specifically states that it is nontransferable or nonassignable the beneficiary may before performance of the conditions of the credit assign his right to proceeds. Such an assignment is an assignment of a contract right under article 9 on secured transactions and is governed by that article except that

(a) the assignment is ineffective until the letter of credit or advice of credit is delivered to the assignee which delivery constitutes perfection of the security interest under article 9; and

(b) the issuer may honor drafts or demands for payment drawn under the credit until it receives a notification of the assignment signed by the beneficiary which reasonably identifies the credit involved in the assignment and contains a request to pay the assignee; and

(c) after what reasonably appears to be such a notification has been received the issuer may without dishonor refuse to accept or pay even to a person otherwise entitled to honor until the letter of credit or advice of credit is exhibited to the issuer.

(3) Except where the beneficiary has effectively assigned his right to draw or his right to proceeds, nothing in this section limits his right to transfer or negotiate drafts or demands drawn under the credit. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 713, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:5-117. Insolvency of bank holding funds for documentary credit

(1) Where an issuer or an advising or confirming bank or a bank which has for a customer procured issuance of a credit by another bank becomes insolvent before final payment under the credit and the credit is one to which this article is made applicable by paragraphs (a) or (b) of section 28:5-102(1) on scope, the receipt or allocation of funds or collateral to secure or meet obligations under the credit shall have the following results:

(a) to the extent of any funds or collateral turned over after or before the insolvency as indemnity against or specifically for the purpose of payment of drafts or demands for payment drawn under the designated credit, the drafts or demands are entitled to payment in preference over depositors or other general creditors of the issuer or bank; and

§ 28:6-101. Short title

This article shall be known and may be cited as Uniform Commercial Code—Bulk Transfers. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 714, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:6-102. "Bulk transfer"; transfers of equipment; enterprises subject to this article; bulk transfers subject to this article

(1) A "bulk transfer" is any transfer in bulk and not in the ordinary course of the transferor's business of a major part of the materials, supplies, merchandise or other inventory (section 28:9-109) of an enterprise subject to this article.

(2) A transfer of a substantial part of the equipment (section 28:9-109) of such an enterprise is a bulk transfer if it is made in connection with a bulk transfer of inventory, but not otherwise.

(3) The enterprises subject to this article are all those whose principal business is the sale of merchandise from stock, including those who manufacture what they sell.

(4) Except as limited by the following section all bulk transfers of goods located within the District are subject to this article. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 714, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:1-105.

§ 28:6-103. Transfers excepted from this article

The following transfers are not subject to this article:

(1) Those made to give security for the performance of an obligation;

(2) General assignments for the benefit of all the creditors of the transferor, and subsequent transfers by the assignee thereunder;

(3) Transfers in settlement or realization of a lien or other security interest;

(4) Sales by executors, administrators, receivers, trustees in bankruptcy, or any public officer under judicial process;

(5) Sales made in the course of judicial or administrative proceedings for the dissolution or reorganization of a corporation and of which notice is sent to the creditors of the corporation pursuant to order of the court or administrative agency;

(6) Transfers to a person maintaining a known place of business in the District who becomes bound to pay the debts of the transferor in full and gives public notice of that fact, and who is solvent after becoming so bound;

(7) A transfer to a new business enterprise organized to take over and continue the business, if public notice of the transaction is given and the new enterprise assumes the debts of the transferor and he receives nothing from the transaction except an interest in the new enterprise junior to the claims of creditors;

(8) Transfers of property which is exempt from execution.

Public notice under subsection (6) or subsection (7) may be given by publishing once a week for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation where the transferor had its principal place of business in the District an advertisement including the names and addresses of the transferor and transferee and the effective date of the transfer. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 714, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:9-111.

§ 28:6-104. Schedule of property, list of creditors

(1) Except as provided with respect to auction sales (section 28:6-108), a bulk transfer subject to this article is ineffective against any creditor of the transferor unless:

(a) The transferee requires the transferor to furnish a list of his existing creditors prepared as stated in this section; and

(b) The parties prepare a schedule of the property transferred sufficient to identify it; and

(c) The transferee preserves the list and schedule for six months next following the transfer and permits inspection of either or both and copying therefrom at all reasonable hours by any creditor of the transferor, or files the list and schedule in the office of the Recorder of Deeds of the District.

(2) The list of creditors must be signed and sworn to or affirmed by the transferor or his agent. It must contain the names and business addresses of all creditors of the transferor, with the amounts when known, and also the names of all persons who are known to the transferor to assert claims against him even though such claims are disputed. If the transferor is the obligor of an outstanding issue of bonds, debentures or the like as to which there is an indenture trustee, the list of creditors need include only the name and address of the indenture trustee and the aggregate outstanding principal amount of the issue.

(3) Responsibility for the completeness and accuracy of the list of creditors rests on the transferor, and the transfer is not rendered ineffective by errors or omissions therein unless the transferee is shown to have had knowledge. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 715, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:6-107, 28:6-108.

§ 28:6-105. Notice to creditors

In addition to the requirements of the preceding section, any bulk transfer subject to this article except one made by auction sale (section 28:6-108) is ineffective against any creditor of the transferor unless at least ten days before he takes possession of the goods or pays for them, whichever happens first, the transferee gives notice of the transfer in the manner and to the persons hereafter provided (section 28:6-107). (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 715, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:6-107, 28:6-109.

§ 28:6-106. Omitted

§ 28:6-107. The notice

(1) The notice to creditors (section 28:6-105) shall state:

(a) that a bulk transfer is about to be made: and

(b) the names and business addresses of the transferor and transferee, and all other business names and addresses used by the transferor within three years last past so far as known to the transferee; and

(c) whether or not all the debts of the transferor are to be paid in full as they fall due as a result of the transaction, and if so, the address to which creditors should send their bills.

(2) If the debts of the transferor are not to be paid in full as they fall due or if the transferee is in doubt on that point then the notice shall state further:

(a) the location and general description of the property to be transferred and the estimated total of the transferor's debts;

(b) the address where the schedule of property and list of creditors (section 28:6-104) may be inspected;

(c) whether the transfer is to pay existing debts and if so the amount of such debts and to whom owing;

(d) whether the transfer is for new consideration and if so the amount of such consideration and the time and place of payment.

(3) The notice in any case shall be delivered personally or sent by registered or certified mail to all the persons shown on the list of creditors furnished by the transferor (section 28:6-104) and to all other persons who are known to the transferee to hold or assert claims against the transferor. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 716, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:6-105, 28:6-109.

§ 28:6-108. Auction sales; "auctioneer"

(1) A bulk transfer is subject to this article even though it is by sale at auction, but only in the manner and with the results stated in this section.

(2) The transferor shall furnish a list of his creditors and assist in the preparation of a schedule of the property to be sold, both prepared as before stated (section 28:6-104).

(3) The person or persons other than the transferor who direct, control or are responsible for the auction are collectively called the "auctioneer". The auctioneer shall:

(a) receive and retain the list of creditors and prepare and retain the schedule of property for the period stated in this article (section 28:6-104);

(b) give notice of the auction personally or by registered or certified mail at least ten days before it occurs to all persons shown on the list of creditors and to all other persons who are known to him to hold or assert claims against the transferor.

(4) Failure of the auctioneer to perform any of these duties does not affect the validity of the sale or the title of the purchasers, but if the auctioneer knows that the auction constitutes a bulk transfer such failure renders the auctioneer liable to the creditors of the transferor as a class for the sums owing to them from the transferor up to but not exceeding the net proceeds of the auction. If the auctioneer consists of several persons their liability is joint and several. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 716, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:6-104, 28:6-105.

§ 28:6-109. What creditors protected

(1) The creditors of the transferor mentioned in this article are those holding claims based on transactions or events occurring before the bulk transfer, but creditors who become such after notice to creditors is given (sections 28:6-105 and 28:6-107) are not entitled to notice.

(2) (Omitted.) (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 716, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:6-110. Subsequent transfers

When the title of a transferee to property is subject to a defect by reason of his non-compliance with the requirements of this article, then:

(1) a purchaser of any of such property from such transferee who pays no value or who takes with notice of such non-compliance takes subject to such defect, but

(2) a purchaser for value in good faith and without such notice takes free of such defect.

§ 28:6-111. Limitation of actions and levies

No action under this article shall be brought nor levy made more than six months after the date on which the transferee took possession of the goods unless the transfer has been concealed. If the transfer has been concealed, actions may be brought or levies made within six months after its discovery. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 717, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

This article shall be known and may be cited as Uniform Commercial Code—Documents of Title. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 718, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:7-102. Definitions and index of definitions

(1) In this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Bailee" means the person who by a warehouse receipt, bill of lading or other document of title acknowledges possession of goods and contracts to deliver them.

(b) "Consignee" means the person named in a bill to whom or to whose order the bill promises delivery.

(c) "Consignor" means the person named in a bill as the person from whom the goods have been received for shipment.

(d) "Delivery order" means a written order to deliver goods directed to a warehouseman, carrier or other person who in the ordinary course of business issues warehouse receipts or bills of lading.

(e) "Document" means document of title as defined in the general definitions in article 1 (section 28:1-201).

(f) "Goods" means all things which are treated as movable for the purposes of a contract of storage or transportation.

(g) "Issuer" means a bailee who issues a document except that in relation to an unaccepted delivery order it means the person who orders the possessor of goods to deliver. Issuer includes any person for whom an agent or employee purports to act in issuing a document if the agent or employee has real or apparent authority to issue documents, notwithstanding that the issuer received no goods or that the goods were misdescribed or that in any other respect the agent or employee violated his instructions.

(h) "Warehouseman" is a person engaged in the business of storing goods for hire.

(2) Other definitions applying to this article or to specified parts thereof, and the sections in which they appear are:

"Duty negotiate" section 28:7-501.

"Person entitled under the document" section 28:7-403(4).

(3) Definitions in other articles applying to this article and the sections in which they appear are:

"Contract for sale" section 28:2-106.

"Overseas" section 28:2-323.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:2-103.

§ 28:7-103. Relation of article to treaty, statute, tariff, classification or regulation

To the extent that any treaty or statute of the United States, regulatory statute of the District or tariff, classification or regulation filed or issued pursuant thereto is applicable, the provisions of this article are subject thereto. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 719, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:7-104. Negotiable and non-negotiable warehouse receipt, bill of lading or other document of title

(a) if by its terms the goods are to be delivered to bearer or to the order of a named person; or

(b) where recognized in overseas trade, if it runs to a named person or assigns.

(2) Any other document is non-negotiable. A bill of lading in which it is stated that the goods are consigned to a named person is not made negotiable by a provision that the goods are to be delivered only against a written order signed by the same or another named person. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 719, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

PART 2.—WAREHOUSE RECEIPTS: SPECIAL PROVISIONS

PART REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This part is referred to in section 28:7-105.

§ 28:7-201. Who may issue a warehouse receipt; storage under government bond

(1) A warehouse receipt may be issued by any warehouseman.

(2) Where goods including distilled spirits and agricultural commodities are stored under a statute requiring a bond against withdrawal or a license for the issuance of receipts in the nature of warehouse receipts, a receipt issued for the goods has like effect as a warehouse receipt even though issued by a person who is the owner of the goods and is not a warehouseman. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 719, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:7-202. Form of warehouse receipt; essential terms; optional terms

(1) A warehouse receipt need not be in any particular form.

(2) Unless a warehouse receipt embodies within its written or printed terms each of the following, the warehouseman is liable for damages caused by the omission to a person injured thereby:

(a) the location of the warehouse where the goods are stored;

(b) the date of issue of the receipt;

(c) the consecutive number of the receipt;

(d) a statement whether the goods received will be delivered to the bearer, to a specified person, or to a specified person or his order;

(e) the rate of storage and handling charges, except that where goods are stored under a field warehousing arrangement a statement of that fact is sufficient on a non-negotiable receipt;

(f) a description of the goods or of the packages containing them;

(g) the signature of the warehouseman, which may be made by his authorized agent;

(h) if the receipt is issued for goods of which the warehouseman is owner, either solely or jointly or in common with others, the fact of such ownership; and

(i) a statement of the amount of advances made and of liabilities incurred for which the warehouseman claims a lien or security interest (section 28:7-209). If the precise amount of such advances made or of such liabilities incurred is, at the time of the issue of the receipt, unknown to the warehouseman or to his agent who issues it, a statement of the fact that advances have been made or liabilities incurred and the purpose thereof is sufficient.

(3) A warehouseman may insert in his receipt any other terms which are not contrary to the provisions of this subtitle and do not impair his obligation of delivery (section 28:7-403) or his duty of care (section 28:7-204). Any contrary provisions shall be ineffective. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 719, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:7-203. Liability for non-receipt or misdescription

A party to or purchaser for value in good faith of a document of title other than a bill of lading relying in either case upon the description therein of the goods may recover from the issuer damages caused by the non-receipt or misdescription of the goods, except to the extent that the document conspicuously indicates that the issuer does not know whether any part or all of the goods in fact were received or conform to the description, as where the description is in terms of marks or labels or kind, quantity or condition, or the receipt or description is qualified by "contents, condition and quality unknown", "said to contain" or the like, if such indication be true, or the party or purchaser otherwise has notice. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 720, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:7-204. Duty of care; contractual limitation of warehouseman's liability

(1) A warehouseman is liable for damages for loss of or injury to the goods caused by his failure to exercise such care in regard to them as a reasonably careful man would exercise under like circumstances but unless otherwise agreed he is not liable for damages which could not have been avoided by the exercise of such care.

(2) Damages may be limited by a term in the warehouse receipt or storage agreement limiting the amount of liability in case of loss or damage, and setting forth a specific liability per article or item, or value per unit of weight, beyond which the warehouseman shall not be liable: Provided, however, That such liability may on written request of the bailor at the time of signing such storage agreement or within a reasonable time after receipt of the warehouse receipt be increased on part or all of the goods thereunder, in which event increased rates may be charged based on such increased valuation, but that no such increase shall be permitted contrary to a lawful limitation of liability contained in the warehouseman's tariff, if any. No such limitation is effective with respect to the warehouseman's liability for conversion to his own use.

(3) Reasonable provisions as to the time and manner of presenting claims and instituting actions based on the bailment may be included in the warehouse receipt or tariff.

(4) (Omitted.) (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 720, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:7-202.

NOTES TO DECISIONS*Negligence

In a case where warehouse was of fire resistant construction, fire alarm system was effectively operating, police and fireman service were near, warehouse was patrolled at fixed intervals by outside guard and iron bars and wire-mesh screening covered the windows on the ground warehouseman was not negligent in failing to provide 24-hour inside guard service or in failing to adequately secure windows and was not liable for damage to stored furniture from fire set by demented policeman after policeman removed wire-mesh screen, but, in any event, arson under the circumstances peculiar to this case was not a foreseeable result of any failure on part of warehouseman. Union Storage Co., Inc. v. J. D. McIntyre, et al. (D.C. App. 1969, 256 A.2d 787).

§ 28:7-205. Title under warehouse receipt defeated in certain cases

A buyer in the ordinary course of business of fungible goods sold and delivered by a warehouseman who is also in the business of buying and selling such goods takes free of any claim under a warehouse receipt even though it has been duly negotiated. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 721, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:7-502.

§ 28:7-206. Termination of storage at warehouseman's option

(1) A warehouseman may on notifying the person on whose account the goods are held and any other person known to claim an interest in the goods require payment of any charges and removal of the goods from the warehouse at the termination of the period of storage fixed by the document, or, if no period is fixed, within a stated period not less than thirty days after the notification. If the goods are not removed before the date specified in the notification, the warehouseman may sell them in accordance with the provisions of the section on enforcement of a warehouseman's lien (section 28:7-210).

(2) If a warehouseman in good faith believes that the goods are about to deteriorate or decline in value to less than the amount of his lien within the time prescribed in subsection (1) for notification, advertisement and sale, the warehouseman may specify in the notification any reasonable shorter time for removal of the goods and in case the goods are not removed, may sell them at public sale held not less than one week after a single advertisement or posting.

(3) If as a result of a quality or condition of the goods of which the warehouseman had no notice at the time of deposit the goods are a hazard to other property or to the warehouse or to persons, the warehouseman may sell the goods at public or private sale without advertisement on reasonable notification to all persons known to claim an interest in the goods. If the warehouseman after a reasonable effort is unable to sell the goods he may dispose of them in any lawful manner and shall incur no liability by reason of such disposition.

(4) The warehouseman must deliver the goods to any person entitled to them under this article upon due demand made at any time prior to sale or other disposition under this section.

(5) The warehouseman may satisfy his lien from the proceeds of any sale or disposition under this section but must hold the balance for delivery on the demand of any person to whom he would have been bound to deliver the goods. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 721, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:7-207. Goods must be kept separate; fungible goods

(1) Unless the warehouse receipt otherwise provides, a warehouseman must keep separate the goods covered by each receipt so as to permit at all times identification and delivery of those goods except that different lots of fungible goods may be commingled.

(2) Fungible goods so commingled are owned in common by the persons entitled thereto and the warehouseman is severally liable to each owner for that owner's share. Where because of overissue a mass of fungible goods is insufficient to meet all the receipts which the warehouseman has issued against it, the persons entitled include all holders to whom overissued receipts have been duly negotiated. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 721, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:7-208. Altered warehouse receipts

Where a blank in a negotiable warehouse receipt has been filled in without authority, a purchaser for value and without notice of the want of authority, may treat the insertion as authorized. Any other unauthorized alteration leaves any receipt enforceable against the issuer according to its original tenor. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 721, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:7-209. Lien of warehouseman

(1) A warehouseman has a lien against the bailor on the goods covered by a warehouse receipt or on the proceeds thereof in his possession for charges for storage or transportation (including demurrage and terminal charges), insurance, labor, or charges present or future in relation to the goods, and for expenses necessary for preservation of the goods or reasonably incurred in their sale pursuant to law. If the person on whose account the goods are held is liable for like charges or expenses in relation to other goods whenever deposited and it is stated in the receipt that a lien is claimed for charges and expenses in relation to other goods, the warehouseman also has a lien against him for such charges and expenses whether or not the other goods have been delivered by the warehouseman. But against a person to whom a negotiable warehouse receipt is duly negotiated a warehouseman's lien is limited to charges in an amount or at a rate specified on the receipt or if no charges are so specified then to a reasonable charge for storage of the goods covered by the receipt subsequent to the date of the receipt.

(2) The warehouseman may also reserve a security interest against the bailor for a maximum amount specified on the receipt for charges other than those specified in subsection (1), such as for money advanced and interest. Such a security interest is governed by the article on secured transactions (article 9).

(3) A warehouseman's lien for charges and expenses under subsection (1) or a security interest under subsection (2) is also effective against any person who so entrusted the bailor with possession of the goods that a pledge of them by him to a good faith purchaser for value would have been valid but is not effective against a person as to whom the document confers no right in the goods covered by it under section 28:7-503.

(4) A warehouseman loses his lien on any goods which he voluntarily delivers or which he unjustifiably refuses to deliver. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 722, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:7-202.

§ 28:7-210. Enforcement of warehouseman's lien

(1) Except as provided in subsection (2), a warehouseman's lien may be enforced by public or private sale of the goods in bloc or in parcels, at any time or place and on any terms which are commercially reasonable, after notifying all persons known to claim an interest in the goods. Such notification must include a statement of the amount due, the nature of the proposed sale and the time and place of any public sale. The fact that a better price could have been obtained by a sale at a different time or in a different method from that selected by the warehouseman is not of itself sufficient to establish that the sale was not made in a commercially reasonable manner. If the warehouseman either sells the goods in the usual manner in any recognized market therefor, or if he sells at the price current in such market at the time of his sale, or if he has otherwise sold in conformity with commercially reasonable practices among dealers in the type of goods sold, he has sold in a commercially reasonable manner. A sale of more goods than apparently necessary to be offered to insure satisfaction of the obligation is not commercially reasonable except in cases covered by the preceding sentence.

(2) A warehouseman's lien on goods other than goods stored by a merchant in the course of his business may be enforced only as follows:

(a) All persons known to claim an interest in the goods must be notified.

(b) The notification must be delivered in person or sent by registered or certified letter to the last known address of any person to be notified.

(c) The notification must include an itemized statement of the claim, a description of the goods subject to the lien, a demand for payment within a specified time not less than ten days after receipt of the notification, and a conspicuous statement that unless the claim is paid within that time the goods will be advertised for sale and sold by auction at a specified time and place.

(d) The sale must conform to the terms of the notification.

(e) The sale must be held at the nearest suitable place to that where the goods are held or stored.

(f) After the expiration of the time given in the notification, an advertisement of the sale must be published once a week for two weeks consecutively in a newspaper of general circulation where the sale is to be held. The advertisement must include a description of the goods, the name of the person on whose account they are being held, and the time and place of the sale. The sale must take place at least fifteen days after the first publication. If there is no newspaper of general circulation where the sale is to be held, the advertisement must be posted at least ten days before the sale in not less than six conspicuous places in the neighborhood of the proposed sale.

(3) Before any sale pursuant to this section any person claiming a right in the goods may pay the amount necessary to satisfy the lien and the reasonable expenses incurred under this section. In that event the goods must not be sold, but must be retained by the warehouseman subject to the terms of the receipt and this article.

(4) The warehouseman may buy at any public sale pursuant to this section.

(5) A purchaser in good faith of goods sold to enforce a warehouseman's lien takes the goods free of any rights of persons against whom the lien was valid, despite noncompliance by the warehouseman with the requirements of this section.

(6) The warehouseman may satisfy his lien from the proceeds of any sale pursuant to this section but must hold the balance, if any, for delivery on demand to any person to whom he would have been bound to deliver the goods.

(7) The rights provided by this section shall be in addition to all other rights allowed by law to a creditor against his debtor.

(8) Where a lien is on goods stored by a merchant in the course of his business the lien may be enforced in accordance with either subsection (1) or (2).

(9) The warehouseman is liable for damages caused by failure to comply with the requirements for sale under this section and in case of willful violation is liable for conversion. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 722, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:7-206, 28:7-308.

PART 3.—BILLS OF LADING: SPECIAL PROVISIONS

PART REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This part is referred to in section 28:7-105.

§ 28:7-301. Liability for non-receipt or misdescription; "said to contain"; "shipper's load and count"; improper handling

(1) A consignee of a non-negotiable bill who has given value in good faith or a holder to whom a negotiable bill has been duly negotiated relying in either case upon the description therein of the goods, or upon the date therein shown, may recover from the issuer damages caused by the misdating of the bill or the non-receipt or misdescription of the goods, except to the extent that the document indicates that the issuer does not know whether any part or all of the goods in fact were received or conform to the description, as where the description is in terms of marks or labels or kind, quantity, or condition or the receipt or description is qualified by "contents or condition of contents of packages unknown", "said to contain", "shipper's weight, load and count" or the like, if such indication be true.

(2) When goods are loaded by an issuer who is a common carrier, the issuer must count the packages of goods if package freight and ascertain the kind and quantity if bulk freight. In such cases "shipper's weight, load and count" or other words indicating that the description was made by the shipper are ineffective except as to freight concealed by packages.

(3) When bulk freight is loaded by a shipper who makes available to the issuer adequate facilities for weighing such freight, an issuer who is a common carrier must ascertain the kind and quantity within a reasonable time after receiving the written request of the shipper to do so. In such cases "shipper's weight" or other words of like purport are ineffective.

(4) The issuer may be inserting in the bill the words "shipper's weight, load and count" or other words of like purport indicate that the goods were loaded by the shipper; and if such statement be true the issuer shall not be liable for damages caused by the improper loading. But their omission does not imply liability for such damages.

(5) The shipper shall be deemed to have guaranteed to the issuer the accuracy at the time of shipment of the description, marks, labels, number, kind, quantity, condition and weight, as furnished by him; and the shipper shall indemnify the issuer against damage caused by inaccuracies in such particulars. The right of the issuer to such indemnity shall in no way limit his responsibility and liability under the contract of carriage to any person other than the shipper. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 723, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:7-302. Through bills of lading and similar documents

(1) The issuer of a through bill of lading or other document embodying an undertaking to be performed in part by persons acting as its agents or by connecting carriers is liable to anyone entitled to recover on the document for any breach by such other persons or by a connecting carrier of its obligation under the document but to the extent that the bill covers an undertaking to be performed overseas or in territory not contiguous to the continental United States or an undertaking including matters other than transportation this liability may be varied by agreement of the parties.

(2) Where goods covered by a through bill of lading or other document embodying an undertaking to be performed in part by persons other than the issuer are received by any such person, he is subject with respect to his own performance while the goods are in his possession to the obligation of the issuer. His obligation is discharged by delivery of the goods to another such person pursuant to the document, and does not include liability for breach by any other such persons or by the issuer.

(3) The issuer of such through bill of lading or other document shall be entitled to recover from the connecting carrier or such other person in possession of the goods when the breach of the obligation under the document occurred, the amount it may be required to pay to anyone entitled to recover on the document therefor, as may be evidenced by any receipt, judgment, or transcript thereof, and the amount of any expense reasonably incurred by it in defending any action brought by anyone entitled to recover on the document therefor. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 724, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:7-303. Diversion; reconsignment; change of instructions

(1) Unless the bill of lading otherwise provides, the carrier may deliver the goods to a person or destination other than that stated in the bill or may otherwise dispose of the goods on instructions from

(a) the holder of a negotiable bill; or

(b) the consignor on a non-negotiable bill notwithstanding contrary instructions from the consignee; or

(c) the consignee on a non-negotiable bill in the absence of contrary instructions from the consignor, if the goods have arrived at the billed destination or if the consignee is in possession of the bill; or

(d) the consignee on a non-negotiable bill if he is entitled as against the consignor to dispose of them.

(2) Unless such instructions are noted on a negotiable bill of lading, a person to whom the bill is duly negotiated can hold the bailee according to the original terms. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 724, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:7-403.

§ 28:7-304. Bills of lading in a set

(1) Except where customary in overseas transportation, a bill of lading must not be issued in a set of parts. The issuer is liable for damages caused by violation of this subsection.

(2) Where a bill of lading is lawfully drawn in a set of parts, each of which is numbered and expressed to be valid only if the goods have not been delivered against any other part, the whole of the parts constitute one bill.

(3) Where a bill of lading is lawfully issued in a set of parts and different parts are negotiated to different persons, the title of the holder to whom the first due negotiation is made prevails as to both the document and the goods even though any later holder may have received the goods from the carrier in good faith and discharged the carrier's obligation by surrender of his part.

(4) Any person who negotiates or transfers a single part of a bill of lading drawn in a set is liable to holders of that part as if it were the whole set.

(5) The bailee is obliged to deliver in accordance with part 4 of this article against the first presented part of a bill of lading lawfully drawn in a set. Such delivery discharges the bailee's obligation on the whole bill. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 725, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:7-305. Destination bills

(1) Instead of issuing a bill of lading to the consignor at the place of shipment a carrier may at the request of the consignor procure the bill to be issued at destination or at any other place designated in the request.

(2) Upon request of anyone entitled as against the carrier to control the goods while in transit and on surrender of any outstanding bill of lading or other receipt covering such goods, the issuer may procure a substitute bill to be issued at any place designated in the request. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 725, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:7-306. Altered bills of lading

An unauthorized alteration or filling in of a blank in a bill of lading leaves the bill enforceable according to its original tenor. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 725, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:7-307. Lien of carrier

(1) A carrier has a lien on the goods covered by a bill of lading for charges subsequent to the date of its receipt of the goods for storage or transportation (including demurrage and terminal charges) and for expenses necessary for preservation of the goods incident to their transportation or reasonably incurred in their sale pursuant to law. But against a purchaser for value of a negotiable bill of lading a carrier's lien is limited to charges stated in the bill or the applicable tariffs, or if no charges are stated then to a reasonable charge.

(2) A lien for charges and expenses under subsection (1) on goods which the carrier was required by law to receive for transportation is effective against the consignor or any person entitled to the goods unless the carrier had notice that the consignor lacked authority to subject the goods to such charges and expenses. Any other lien under subsection (1) is effective against the consignor and any person who permitted the bailor to have control or possession of the goods unless the carrier had notice that the bailor lacked such authority.

(3) A carrier loses his lien on any goods which he voluntarily delivers or which he unjustifiably refuses to deliver. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 725, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:7-308. Enforcement of carrier's lien

(1) A carrier's lien may be enforced by public or private sale of the goods, in bloc or in parcels, at any time or place and on any terms which are commercially reasonable, after notifying all persons known to claim an interest in the goods. Such notification must include a statement of the amount due, the nature of the proposed sale and the time and place of any public sale. The fact that a better price could have been obtained by a sale at a different time or in a different method from that selected by the carrier is not of itself sufficient to establish that the sale was not made in a commercially reasonable manner. If the carrier either sells the goods in the usual manner in any recognized market therefor or if he sells at the price current in such market at the time of his sale or if he has otherwise sold in conformity with commercially reasonable practices among dealers in the type of goods sold he has sold in a commercially reasonable manner. A sale of more goods than apparently necessary to be offered to ensure satisfaction of the obligation is not commercially reasonable except in cases covered by the preceding sentence.

(2) Before any sale pursuant to this section any person claiming a right in the goods may pay the amount necessary to satisfy the lien and the reasonable expenses incurred under this section. In that event the goods must not be sold, but must be retained by the carrier subject to the terms of the bill and this article.

(3) The carrier may buy at any public sale pursuant to this section.

(4) A purchaser in good faith of goods sold to enforce a carrier's lien takes the goods free of any rights of persons against whom the lien was valid, despite noncompliance by the carrier with the requirements of this section.

(5) The carrier may satisfy his lien from the proceeds of any sale pursuant to this section but must hold the balance, if any, for delivery on demand to any person to whom he would have been bound to deliver the goods.

(6) The rights provided by this section shall be in addition to all other rights allowed by law to a creditor against his debtor.

(7) A carrier's lien may be enforced in accordance with either subsection (1) or the procedure set forth in subsection (2) of section 28:7-210.

(8) The carrier is liable for damages caused by failure to comply with the requirements for sale under this section and in case of willful violation is liable for conversion. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 726, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:7-309. Duty of care; contractual limitation of carrier's liability

(1) A carrier who issues a bill of lading whether negotiable or non-negotiable must exercise the degree of care in relation to the goods which a reasonably careful man would exercise under like circumstances. This subsection does not repeal or change any law or rule of law which imposes liability upon a common carrier for damages not caused by its negligence.

(2) Damages may be limited by a provision that the carrier's liability shall not exceed a value stated in the document if the carrier's rates are dependent upon value and the consignor by the carrier's tariff is afforded an opportunity to declare a higher value or a value as lawfully provided in the tariff, or where no tariff is filed he is otherwise advised of such opportunity; but no such limitation is effective with respect to the carrier's liability for conversion to its own use.

(3) Reasonable provisions as to the time and manner of presenting claims and instituting actions based on the shipment may be included in a bill of lading or tariff. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 726, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

PART 4.—WAREHOUSE RECEIPTS AND BILLS OF LADING: GENERAL OBLIGATIONS

PART REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This part is referred to in sections 28:7-304, 28:7-503.

§ 28:7-401. Irregularities in issue of receipt or bill or conduct of issuer

The obligations imposed by this article on an issuer apply to a document of title regardless of the fact that

(a) the document may not comply with the requirements of this article or of any other law or regulation regarding its issue, form or content; or

(b) the issuer may have violated laws regulating the conduct of his business; or

(c) the goods covered by the document were owned by the bailee at the time the document was issued; or

(d) the person issuing the document does not come within the definition of warehouseman if it purports to be a warehouse receipt.

§ 28:7-402. Duplicate receipt or bill; overissue

Neither a duplicate nor any other document of title purporting to cover goods already represented by an outstanding document of the same issuer confers any right in the goods, except as provided in the case of bills in a set, overissue of documents for fungible goods and substitutes for lost, stolen or destroyed documents. But the issuer is liable for damages caused by his overissue or failure to identify a duplicate document as such by conspicuous notation on its face. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 727, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:7-403. Obligation of warehouseman or carrier to deliver; excuse

(1) The bailee must deliver the goods to a person entitled under the document who complies with subsections (2) and (3), unless and to the extent that the bailee establishes any of the following:

(a) delivery of the goods to a person whose receipt was rightful as against the claimant;

(b) damage to or delay, loss or destruction of the goods for which the bailee is not liable;

(c) previous sale or other disposition of the goods in lawful enforcement of a lien or on warehouseman's lawful termination of storage;

(d) the exercise by a seller of his right to stop delivery pursuant to the provisions of the article on sales (section 28:2-705);

(e) a diversion, reconsignment or other disposition pursuant to the provisions of this article (section 28:7-303) or tariff regulating such right;

(f) release, satisfaction or any other fact affording a personal defense against the claimant;

(g) any other lawful excuse.

(2) A person claiming goods covered by a document of title must satisfy the bailee's lien where the bailee so requests or where the bailee is prohibited by law from delivering the goods until the charges are paid.

(3) Unless the person claiming is one against whom the document confers no right under section 28:7-503(1), he must surrender for cancellation or notation of partial deliveries any outstanding negotiable document covering the goods, and the bailee must cancel the document or conspicuously note the partial delivery thereon or be liable to any person to whom the document is duly negotiated.

(4) "Person entitled under the document" means holder in the case of a negotiable document, or the person to whom delivery is to be made by the terms of or pursuant to written instructions under a non-negotiable document. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 727, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:7-102, 28:7-202, 28:7-503.

§ 28:7-404. No liability for good faith delivery pursuant to receipt or bill

A bailee who in good faith including observance of reasonable commercial standards has received goods and delivered or otherwise disposed of them according to the terms of the document of title or pursuant to this article is not liable therefor. This rule applies even though the person from whom he received the goods had no authority to procure the document or to dispose of the goods and even though the person to whom he delivered the goods had no authority to receive them. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 728, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

PART 5.—WAREHOUSE RECEIPTS AND BILLS OF LADING: NEGOTIATION AND TRANSFER

§ 28:7-501. Form of negotiation and requirements of “due negotiation”

(1) A negotiable document of title running to the order of a named person is negotiated by his indorsement and delivery. After his indorsement in blank or to bearer any person can negotiate it by delivery alone.

(2) (a) A negotiable document of title is also negotiated by delivery alone when by its original terms it runs to bearer.

(b) When a document running to the order of a named person is delivered to him the effect is the same as if the document had been negotiated.

(3) Negotiation of a negotiable document of title after it has been indorsed to a specified person requires indorsement by the special indorsee as well as delivery.

(4) A negotiable document of title is “duly negotiated” when it is negotiated in the manner stated in this section to a holder who purchases it in good faith without notice of any defense against or claim to it on the part of any person and for value, unless it is established that the negotiation is not in the regular course of business or financing or involves receiving the document in settlement or payment of a money obligation.

(5) Indorsement of a non-negotiable document neither makes it negotiable nor adds to the transferee's rights.

(6) The naming in a negotiable bill of a person to be notified of the arrival of the goods does not limit the negotiability of the bill nor constitute notice to a purchaser thereof of any interest of such person in the goods. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 728, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:7-102, 28:9-309.

§ 28:7-502. Rights acquired by due negotiation

(1) Subject to the following section and to the provisions of section 28:7-205 on fungible goods, a holder to whom a negotiable document of title has been duly negotiated acquires thereby:

(a) title to the document;

(b) title to the goods;

(c) all rights accruing under the law of agency or estoppel, including rights to goods delivered to the bailee after the document was issued; and

(d) the direct obligation of the issuer to hold or deliver the goods according to the terms of the document free of any defense or claim by him except those arising under the terms of the document or under this article. In the case of a delivery order the bailee's obligation accrues only upon acceptance and the obligation acquired by the holder is that the issuer and any indorser will procure the acceptance of the bailee.

(2) Subject to the following section, title and rights so acquired are not defeated by any stoppage of the goods represented by the document or by surrender of such goods by the bailee, and are not impaired even though the negotiation or any prior negotiation constituted a breach of duty or even though any person has been deprived of possession of the document by misrepresentation, fraud, accident, mistake, duress, loss, theft or conversion, or even though a previous sale or other transfer of the goods or document has been made to a third person. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 728, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:5-114.

§ 28:7-503. Document of title to goods defeated in certain cases

(1) A document of title confers no right in goods against a person who before issuance of the document had a legal interest or a perfected security interest in them and who neither

(a) delivered or entrusted them or any document of title covering them to the bailor or his nominee with actual or apparent authority to ship, store or sell or with power to obtain delivery under this article (section 28:7-403) or with power of disposition under this subtitle (sections 28:2-403 and 28:9-307) or other statute or rule of law; nor

(b) acquiesced in the procurement by the bailor or his nominee of any document of title.

(2) Title to goods based upon an unaccepted delivery order is subject to the rights of anyone to whom a negotiable warehouse receipt or bill of lading covering the goods has been duly negotiated. Such a title may be defeated under the next section to the same extent as the rights of the issuer or a transferee from the issuer.

(3) Title to goods based upon a bill of lading issued to a freight forwarder is subject to the rights of anyone to whom a bill issued by the freight forwarder is duly negotiated; but delivery by the carrier in accordance with part 4 of this article, pursuant to its own bill of lading discharges the carrier's obligation to deliver. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 729, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:7-209, 28:7-403.

§ 28:7-504. Rights acquired in the absence of due negotiation; effect of diversion; seller's stoppage of delivery

(1) A transferee of a document, whether negotiable or non-negotiable, to whom the document has been delivered but not duly negotiated, acquires the title and rights which his transferor had or had actual authority to convey.

(2) In the case of a non-negotiable document, until but not after the bailee receives notification of the transfer, the rights of the transferee may be defeated

(a) by those creditors of the transferor who could treat the sale as void under section 28:2-402; or

(b) by a buyer from the transferor in ordinary course of business if the bailee has delivered the goods to the buyer or received notification of his rights; or

(c) as against the bailee by good faith dealings of the bailee with the transferor.

(3) A diversion or other change of shipping instructions by the consignor in a non-negotiable bill of lading which causes the bailee not to deliver to the consignee defeats the consignee's title to the goods if they have been delivered to a buyer in ordinary course of business and in any event defeats the consignee's rights against the bailee.

(4) Delivery pursuant to a non-negotiable document may be stopped by a seller under section 28:2-705, and subject to the requirement of due notification there provided. A bailee honoring the seller's instructions is entitled to be indemnified by the seller against any resulting loss or expense. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 729, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:7-505. Indorser not a guarantor for other parties

The indorsement of a document of title issued by a bailee does not make the indorser liable for any default by the bailee or by previous indorsers. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 730, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:7-506. Delivery without indorsement: right to compel indorsement

The transferee of a negotiable document of title has a specifically enforceable right to have his transferor supply any necessary indorsement but the transfer becomes a negotiation only as of the time the indorsement is supplied. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 730, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:7-507. Warranties on negotiation or transfer of receipt or bill

Where a person negotiates or transfers a document of title for value otherwise than as a mere intermediary under the next following section, then unless otherwise agreed he warrants to his immediate purchaser only in addition to any warranty made in selling the goods

(a) that the document is genuine; and

(b) that he has no knowledge of any fact which would impair its validity or worth; and

(c) that his negotiation or transfer is rightful and fully effective with respect to the title to the document and the goods it represents.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:5-114.

§ 28:7-508. Warranties of collecting bank as to documents

A collecting bank or other intermediary known to be entrusted with documents on behalf of another or with collection of a draft or other claim against delivery of documents warrants by such delivery of the documents only its own good faith and authority. This rule applies even though the intermediary has purchased or made advances against the claim or draft to be collected. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 730, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:7-509. Receipt or bill: when adequate compliance with commercial contract

The question whether a document is adequate to fulfill the obligations of a contract for sale or the conditions of a credit is governed by the articles on sales (article 2) and on letters of credit (article 5). (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 730, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

PART 6.—WAREHOUSE RECEIPTS AND BILLS OF LADING: MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

§ 28:7-601. Lost and missing documents

(1) If a document has been lost, stolen, or destroyed, a court may order delivery of the goods or issuance of a substitute document and the bailee may without liability to any person comply with such order. If the document was negotiable the claimant must post security approved by the court to indemnify any person who may suffer loss as a result of non-surrender of the document. If the document was not negotiable, such security may be required at the discretion of the court. The court may also in its discretion order payment of the bailee's reasonable costs and counsel fees.

(2) A bailee who without court order delivers goods to a person claiming under a missing negotiable document is liable to any person injured thereby, and if the delivery is not in good faith becomes liable for conversion. Delivery in good faith is not conversion if made in accordance with a filed classification or tariff or, where no classification or tariff is filed, if the claimant posts security with the bailee in an amount at least double the value of the goods at the time of posting to indemnify any person injured by the delivery who files a notice of claim within one year after the delivery. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 730, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:7-602. Attachment of goods covered by a negotiable document

Except where the document was originally issued upon delivery of the goods by a person who had no power to dispose of them, no lien attaches by virtue of any judicial process to goods in the possession of a bailee for which a negotiable document of title is outstanding unless the document be first surrendered to the bailee or its negotiation enjoined, and the bailee shall not be compelled to deliver the goods pursuant to process until the document is surrendered to him or impounded by the court. One who purchases the document for value without notice of the process or injunction takes free of the lien imposed by judicial process. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 731, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:7-603. Conflicting claims; interpleader

If more than one person claims title or possession of the goods, the bailee is excused from delivery until he has had a reasonable time to ascertain the validity of the adverse claims or to bring an action to compel all claimants to interplead and may compel such interpleader, either in defending an action for non-delivery of the goods, or by original action, which ever is appropriate. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 731, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:8-104. Effect of overissue; "overissue"

(1) The provisions of this article which validate a security or compel its issue or reissue do not apply to the extent that validation, issue or reissue would result in overissue; but

(a) if an identical security which does not constitute an overissue is reasonably available for purchase, the person entitled to issue or validation may compel the issuer to purchase and deliver such a security to him against surrender of the security, if any, which he holds; or

(b) if a security is not so available for purchase, the person entitled to issue or validation may recover from the issuer the price he or the last purchaser for value paid for it with interest from the date of his demand.

(2) In any action on a security

(a) unless specifically denied in the pleadings, each signature on the security or in a necessary indorsement is admitted;

(b) when the effectiveness of a signature is put in issue the burden of establishing it is on the party claiming under the signature but the signature is presumed to be genuine or authorized;

(c) when signatures are admitted or established production of the instrument entitles a holder to recover on it unless the defendant establishes a defense or a defect going to the validity of the security; and

(d) after it is shown that a defense or defect exists the plaintiff has the burden of establishing that he or some person under whom he claims is a person against whom the defense or defect is ineffective (section 28: 8-202).

§ 28:8-106. Applicability

The validity of a security and the rights and duties of the issuer with respect to registration of transfer are governed by the law (including the conflict of laws rules) of the jurisdiction of organization of the issuer. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 733, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

§ 28:8-107. Securities deliverable; action for price

(2) When the buyer fails to pay the price as it comes due under a contract of sales the seller may recover the price

(a) of securities accepted by the buyer; and

PART 2.—ISSUE—ISSUER

§ 28:8-201. "Issuer"

(1) With respect to obligations on or defenses to a security "issuer" includes a person who

(a) places or authorizes the placing of his name on a security (otherwise than as authenticating trustee, registrar, transfer agent or the like) to evidence that it represents a share, participation or other interest in his property or in an enterprise or to evidence his duty to perform an obligation evidenced by the security; or

(b) directly or indirectly creates fractional interests in his rights or property which fractional interests are evidenced by securities; or

(c) becomes responsible for or in place of any person described as an issuer in this section.

(2) With respect to obligations on or defenses to a security a guarantor is an issuer to the extent of his guaranty whether or not his obligation is noted on the security.

(3) With respect to registration of transfer (part 4 of this article) "issuer" means a person on whose behalf transfer books are maintained. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 734, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:8-102.

§ 28:8-202. Issuer's responsibility and defenses; notice of defect or defense

(1) Even against a purchaser for value and without notice, the terms of a security include those stated on the security and those made part of the security by reference to another instrument, indenture or document or to a constitution, statute, ordinance, rule, regulation, order or the like to the extent that the terms so referred to do not conflict with the stated terms. Such a reference does not of itself charge a purchaser for value with notice of a defect going to the validity of the security even though the security expressly states that a person accepting it admits such notice.

(2) (a) A security other than one issued by a government or governmental agency or unit even though issued with a defect going to its validity is valid in the hands of a purchaser for value and without notice of the particular defect unless the defect involves a violation of constitutional provisions in which case the security is valid in the hands of a subsequent purchaser for value and without notice of the defect.

(b) The rule of subparagraph (a) applies to an issuer which is a government or governmental agency or unit only if either there has been substantial compliance with the legal requirements governing the issue or the issuer has received a substantial consideration for the issue as a whole or for the particular security and a stated purpose of the issue is one for which the issuer has power to borrow money or issue the security.

(3) Except as otherwise provided in the case of certain unauthorized signatures on issue (section 28:8-205), lack of genuineness of a security is a complete defense even against a purchaser for value and without notice.

(4) All other defenses of the issuer including nondelivery and conditional delivery of the security are ineffective against a purchaser for value who has taken without notice of the particular defense.

(5) Nothing in this section shall be construed to affect the right of a party to a "when, as and if issued" or a "when distributed" contract to cancel the contract in the event of a material change in the character of the security which is the subject of the contract or in the plan or arrangement pursuant to which such security is to be issued or distributed. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 734, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:8-105.

§ 28:8-203. Staleness as notice of defects or defenses

(1) After an act or event which creates a right to immediate performance of the principal obligation evidenced by the security or which sets a date on or after which the security is to be presented or surrendered for redemption or exchange, a purchaser is charged with notice of any defect in its issue or defense of the issuer

(a) if the act or event is one requiring the payment of money or the delivery of securities or both on presentation or surrender of the security and such funds or securities are available on the date set for payment or exchange and he takes the security more than one year after that date; and

(b) if the act or event is not covered by paragraph (a) and he takes the security more than two years after the date set for surrender or presentation or the date on which such performance became due.

(2) A call which has been revoked is not within subsection (1). (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 735, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:8-204. Effect of issuer's restrictions on transfer

Unless noted conspicuously on the security a restriction on transfer imposed by the issuer even though otherwise lawful is ineffective except against a person with actual knowledge of it. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 735, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 29-908g.

§ 28:8-205. Effect of unauthorized signature on issue

An unauthorized signature placed on a security prior to or in the course of issue is ineffective that the signature is effective in favor of a purchaser for value and without notice of the lack of authority if the signing has been done by

(a) an authenticating trustee, registrar, transfer agent or other person entrusted by the issuer with the signing of the security or of similar securities or their immediate preparation for signing; or

(b) an employee of the issuer or of any of the foregoing entrusted with responsible handling of the security.

(Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 735, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:8-202.

§ 28:8-206. Completion or alteration of instrument

(1) Where a security contains the signatures necessary to its issue or transfer but is incomplete in any other respect

(a) any person may complete it by filling in the blanks as authorized; and

(b) even though the blanks are incorrectly filled in, the security as completed is enforceable by a purchaser who took it for value and without notice of such incorrectness.

(2) A complete security which has been improperly altered even though fraudulently remains enforceable but only according to its original terms. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 735, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:8-207. Rights of issuer with respect to registered owners

(1) Prior to due presentment for registration of transfer of a security in registered form the issuer or indenture trustee may treat the registered owner as the person exclusively entitled to vote, to receive notifications and otherwise to exercise all the rights and powers of an owner.

(2) Nothing in this article shall be construed to affect the liability of the registered owner of a security for calls, assessments or the like. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 735, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:8-208. Effect of signature of authenticating trustee, registrar or transfer agent

(1) A person placing his signature upon a security as authenticating trustee, registrar, transfer agent or the like warrants to a purchaser for value without notice of the particular defect that

(a) the security is genuine; and

(b) his own participation in the issue of the security is within his capacity and within the scope of the authorization received by him from the issuer; and

(c) he has reasonable grounds to believe that the security is in the form and within the amount the issuer is authorized to issue.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed, a person by so placing his signature does not assume responsibility for the validity of the security in other respects. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 736, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

PART 3.—PURCHASE

§ 28:8-301. Rights acquired by purchaser; "adverse claim"; title acquired by bona fide purchaser

(1) Upon delivery of a security the purchaser acquires the rights in the security which his transferor had or had actual authority to convey except that a purchaser who has himself been a party to any fraud or illegality affecting the security or who as a prior holder had notice of an adverse claim cannot improve his position by taking from a later bona fide purchaser. "Adverse claim" includes a claim that a transfer was or would be wrongful or that a particular adverse person is the owner of or has an interest in the security.

(2) A bona fide purchaser in addition to acquiring the rights of a purchaser also acquires the security free of any adverse claim.

(3) A purchaser of a limited interest acquires rights only to the extent of the interest purchased. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 736, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:8-102, 28:8-320, 28:9-309.

§ 28:8-302. "Bona fide purchaser"

A "bona fide purchaser" is a purchaser for value in good faith and without notice of any adverse claim who takes delivery of a security in bearer form or of one in registered form issued to him or indorsed to him or in blank. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 736, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:5-114, 28:8-102.

§ 28:8-303. "Broker"

"Broker" means a person engaged for all or part of his time in the business of buying and selling securities, who in the transaction concerned acts for, or buys a security from or sells a security to a customer. Nothing in this article determines the capacity in which a person acts for purposes of any other statute or rule to which such person is subject. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 736, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:8-102.

§ 28:8-304. Notice to purchaser of adverse claims

(1) A purchaser (including a broker for the seller or buyer but excluding an intermediary bank) of a security is charged with notice of adverse claims if

(a) the security whether in bearer or registered form has been indorsed "for collection" or "for surrender" or for some other purpose not involving transfer; or

(b) the security is in bearer form and has on it an unambiguous statement that it is the property of a person other than the transferor. The mere writing of a name on a security is not such a statement.

(2) The fact that the purchaser (including a broker for the seller or buyer) has notice that the security is held for a third person or is registered in the name of or indorsed by a fiduciary does not create a duty of inquiry into the rightfulness of the transfer or constitute notice of adverse claims. If, however, the purchaser (excluding an intermediary bank) has knowledge that the proceeds are being used or that the transaction is for the individual benefit of the fiduciary or otherwise in breach of duty, the purchaser is charged with notice of adverse claims. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 736, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:8-310.

§ 28:8-305. Staleness as notice of adverse claims

An act or event which creates a right to immediate performance of the principal obligation evidenced by the security or which sets a date on or after which the security is to be presented or surrendered for redemption or exchange does not of itself constitute any notice of adverse claims except in the case of a purchase

(a) after one year from any date set for such presentment or surrender for redemption or exchange; or

(b) after six months from any date set for payment of money against presentation or surrender of the security if funds are available for payment on that date.

§ 28:8-306. Warranties on presentment and transfer

(1) A person who presents a security for registration of transfer or for payment or exchange warrants to the issuer that he is entitled to the registration, payment or exchange. But a purchaser for value without notice of adverse claims who receives a new, reissued or re-registered security on registration of transfer warrants only that he has no knowledge of any unauthorized signature (section 28:8-311) in a necessary indorsement.

(2) A person by transferring a security to a purchaser for value warrants only that

(a) his transfer is effective and rightful; and

(b) the security is genuine and has not been materially altered; and

(c) he knows no fact which might impair the validity of the security.

(3) Where a security is delivered by an intermediary known to be entrusted with delivery of the security on behalf of another or with collection of a draft or other claim against such delivery, the intermediary by such delivery warrants only his own good faith and authority even though he has purchased or made advances against the claim to be collected against the delivery.

(4) A pledge or other holder for security who redelivers the security received, or after payment and on order of the debtor delivers that security to a third person makes only the warranties of an intermediary under subsection (3).

(5) A broker gives to his customer and to the issuer and a purchaser the warranties provided in this section and has the rights and privileges of a purchaser under this section. The warranties of and in favor of the broker acting as an agent are in addition to applicable warranties given by and in favor of his customer. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 737, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:5-114.

§ 28:8-307. Effect of delivery without indorsement; right to compel indorsement

Where a security in registered form has been delivered to a purchaser without a necessary indorsement he may become a bona fide purchaser only as of the time the indorsement is supplied, but against the transferor the transfer is complete upon delivery and the purchaser has a specifically enforceable right to have any necessary indorsement supplied. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 737, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:8-308. Indorsement, how made; special indorsement; indorser not a guarantor; partial assignment

(1) An indorsement of a security in registered form is made when an appropriate person signs on it or on a separate document an assignment or transfer of the security or a power to assign or transfer it or when the signature of such person is written without more upon the back of the security.

(2) An indorsement may be in blank or special. An indorsement in blank includes an indorsement to bearer. A special indorsement specifies the person to whom the security is to be transferred, or who has power to transfer it. A holder may convert a blank indorsement into a special indorsement.

(3) "An appropriate person" in subsection (1) means

(a) the person specified by the security or by special indorsement to be entitled to the security; or

(b) where the person so specified as described as a fiduciary but is no longer serving in the described capacity,—either that person or his successor; or

(c) where the security or indorsement so specifies more than one person as fiduciaries and one or more are no longer serving in the described capacity,—the remaining fiduciary or fiduciaries, whether or not a successor has been appointed or qualified; or

(d) where the person so specified is an individual and is without capacity to act by virtue of death, incompetence, infancy or otherwise,—his executor, administrator, guardian or like fiduciary; or

(e) where the security or indorsement so specifies more than one person as tenants by the entirety or with right of survivorship and by reason of death all cannot sign,—the survivor or survivors; or

(f) a person having power to sign under applicable law or controlling instrument; or

(g) to the extent that any of the foregoing persons may act through an agent,—his authorized agent.

(4) Unless otherwise agreed the indorser by his indorsement assumes no obligation that the security will be honored by the issuer.

(5) An indorsement purporting to be only of part of a security representing units intended by the issuer to be separately transferable is effective to the extent of the indorsement.

(6) Whether the person signing is appropriate is determined as of the date of signing and an indorsement by such a person does not become unauthorized for the purposes of this article by virtue of any subsequent change of circumstances.

(7) Failure of a fiduciary to comply with a controlling instrument or with the law of the state having jurisdiction of the fiduciary relationship, including any law requiring the fiduciary to obtain court approval of the transfer, does not render his indorsement unauthorized for the purposes of this article. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 738, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:8-312, 28:8-401, 28:8-402, 28:8-404.

§ 28:8-309. Effect of indorsement without delivery

An indorsement of a security whether special or in blank does not constitute a transfer until delivery of the security on which it appears or if the indorsement is on a separate document until delivery of both the document and the security. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 738, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:8-310. Indorsement of security in bearer form

An indorsement of a security in bearer form may give notice of adverse claims (section 28:8-304) but does not otherwise affect any right to registration the holder may possess. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 738, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:8-311. Effect of unauthorized indorsement

Unless the owner has ratified an unauthorized indorsement or is otherwise precluded from asserting its ineffectiveness

(a) he may assert its ineffectiveness against the issuer or any purchaser other than a purchaser for value and without notice of adverse claims who has in good faith received a new, re-issued or re-registered security on registration of transfer; and

(b) an issuer who registers the transfer of a security upon the unauthorized indorsement is subject to liability for improper registration (section 28:8-404).

(Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 739, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:8-306, 28:8-315.

§ 28:8-312. Effect of guaranteeing signature or indorsement

(1) Any person guaranteeing a signature of an indorser of a security warrants that at the time of signing

(a) the signature was genuine; and

(b) the signer was an appropriate person to indorse (section 28:8-308); and

(c) the signer had legal capacity to sign.

But the guarantor does not otherwise warrant the rightfulness of the particular transfer.

(2) Any person may guarantee an indorsement of a security and by so doing warrants not only the signature (subsection 1) but also the rightfulness of the particular transfer in all respects. But no issuer may require a guarantee of indorsement as a condition to registration of transfer.

(3) The foregoing warranties are made to any person taking or dealing with the security in reliance on the guarantee and the guarantor is liable to such person for any loss resulting from breach of the warranties. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 739, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:8-402.

§ 28:8-313. When delivery to the purchaser occurs; purchaser's broker as holder

(1) Delivery to a purchaser occurs when

(a) he or a person designated by him acquires possession of a security; or

(b) his broker acquires possession of a security specially indorsed to or issued in the name of the purchaser; or

(c) his broker sends him confirmation of the purchase and also by book entry or otherwise identifies a specific security in the broker's possession as belonging to the purchaser; or

(d) with respect to an identified security to be delivered while still in the possession of a third person when that person acknowledges that he holds for the purchaser; or

(e) appropriate entries on the books of a clearing corporation are made under section 28:8-320.

(2) The purchaser is the owner of a security held for him by his broker, but is not the holder except as specified in subparagraphs (b), (c) and (e) of subsection (1). Where a security is part of a fungible bulk the purchaser is the owner of a proportionate property interest in the fungible bulk.

(3) Notice of an adverse claim received by the broker or by the purchaser after the broker takes delivery as a holder for value is not effective either as to the broker or as to the purchaser. However, as between the broker and the purchaser the purchaser may demand delivery of an equivalent security as to which no notice of an adverse claim has been received. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 739, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:8-314. Duty to deliver, when completed

(1) Unless otherwise agreed where a sale of a security is made on an exchange or otherwise through brokers

(a) the selling customer fulfills his duty to deliver when he places such a security in the possession of the selling broker or of a person designated by the broker or if requested causes an acknowledgment to be made to the selling broker that it is held for him; and

(b) the selling broker including a correspondent broker acting for a selling customer fulfills his duty to deliver by placing the security or a like security in the possession of the buying broker or a person designated by him or by effecting clearance of the sale in accordance with the rules of the exchange on which the transaction took place.

(2) Except as otherwise provided in this section and unless otherwise agreed, a transferor's duty to deliver a security under a contract of purchase is not fulfilled until he places the security in form to be negotiated by the purchaser in the possession of the purchaser or of a person designated by him or at the purchaser's request causes an acknowledgment to be made to the purchaser that it is held for him. Unless made on an exchange a sale to a broker purchasing for his own account is within this subsection and not within subsection (1). (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 740, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:8-315. Action against purchaser based upon wrongful transfer

(1) Any person against whom the transfer of a security is wrongful for any reason, including his incapacity, may against anyone except a bona fide purchaser reclaim possession of the security or obtain possession of any new security evidencing all or part of the same rights or have damages.

(2) If the transfer is wrongful because of an unauthorized indorsement, the owner may also reclaim or obtain possession of the security or new security even from a bona fide purchaser if the ineffectiveness of the purported indorsement can be asserted against him under the provisions of this article on unauthorized indorsements (section 28:8-311).

(3) The right to obtain or reclaim possession of a security may be specifically enforced and its transfer enjoined and the security impounded pending the litigation. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 740, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:8-316. Purchaser's right to requisites for registration of transfer on books

Unless otherwise agreed the transferor must on due demand supply his purchaser with any proof of his authority to transfer or with any other requisite which may be necessary to obtain registration of the transfer of the security but if the transfer is not for value a transferor need not do so unless the purchaser furnishes the necessary expenses. Failure to comply with a demand made within a reasonable time gives the purchaser the right to reject or rescind the transfer. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 740, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:8-317. Attachment or levy upon security

(1) No attachment or levy upon a security or any share or other interest evidenced thereby which is outstanding shall be valid until the security is actually seized by the officer making the attachment or levy but a security which has been surrendered to the issuer may be attached or levied upon at the source.

(2) A creditor whose debtor is the owner of a security shall be entitled to such aid from courts of appropriate jurisdiction, by injunction or otherwise, in reaching such security or in satisfying the claim by means thereof as is allowed at law or in equity in regard to property which cannot readily be attached or levied upon by ordinary legal process. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 740, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:8-318. No conversion by good faith delivery

An agent or bailee who in good faith (including observance of reasonable commercial standards if he is in the business of buying, selling or otherwise dealing with securities) has received securities and sold, pledged or delivered them according to the instructions of the principal is not liable for conversion or for participation in breach of fiduciary duty although the principal had no right to dispose of them. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 741, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:8-319. Statute of frauds

A contract for the sale of securities is not enforceable by way of action or defense unless

(a) there is some writing signed by the party against whom enforcement is sought or by his authorized agent or broker sufficient to indicate that a contract has been made for sale of a stated quantity of described securities at a defined or stated price; or

(b) delivery of the security has been accepted or payment has been made but the contract is enforceable under this provision only to the extent of such delivery or payment; or

(c) within a reasonable time a writing in confirmation of the sale or purchase and sufficient against the sender under paragraph (a) has been received by the party against whom enforcement is sought and he has failed to send written objection to its contents within ten days after its receipt; or

(d) the party against whom enforcement is sought admits in his pleading, testimony or otherwise in court that a contract was made for sale of a stated quantity of described securities at a defined or stated price.

(Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 741, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:1-206.

§ 28:8-320. Transfer or pledge within a central depository system

(1) If a security

(a) is in the custody of a clearing corporation or of a custodian bank or a nominee of either subject to the instructions of the clearing corporation; and

(b) is in bearer form or indorsed in blank by an appropriate person or registered in the name of the clearing corporation or custodian bank or a nominee of either; and then, in addition to other methods, a transfer or pledge of the security or any interest therein may be effected by the making of appropriate entries on the books of the clearing corporation reducing the account of the transferor or pledgor and increasing the account of the transferee or pledgee by the amount of the obligation or the number of shares or rights transferred or pledged.

(c) is shown on the account of a transferor or pledgor on the books of the clearing corporation;

(2) Under this section entries may be with respect to like securities or interests therein as a part of a fungible bulk and may refer merely to a quantity of a particular security without reference to the name of the registered owner, certificate or bond number or the like and, in appropriate cases, may be on a net basis taking into account other transfers or pledges of the same security.

(3) A transfer or pledge under this section has the effect of a delivery of a security in bearer form or duly indorsed in blank (section 28:8-301) representing the amount of the obligation or the number of shares or rights transferred or pledged. If a pledge or the creation of a security interest is intended, the making of entries has the effect of a taking of delivery by the pledgee or a secured party (sections 28:9-304 and 28:9-305). A transferee or pledgee under this section is a holder.

(4) A transfer or pledge under this section does not constitute a registration of transfer under part 4 of this article.

(5) That entries made on the books of the clearing corporation as provided in subsection (1) are not appropriate does not affect the validity or effect of the entries nor the liabilities or obligations of the clearing corporation to any person adversely affected thereby. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 741, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:8-313.

PART 4.—REGISTRATION

PART REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This part is referred to in sections 28:8-201, 28:8-320.

§ 28:8-401. Duty of issuer to register transfer

(1) Where a security in registered form is presented to the issuer with a request to register transfer, the issuer is under a duty to register the transfer as requested if

(a) the security is indorsed by the appropriate person or persons (section 28:8-308); and

(b) reasonable assurance is given that those indorsements are genuine and effective (section 28:8-402); and

(c) the issuer has no duty to inquire into adverse claims or has discharged any such duty (section 28:8-403); and

(d) any applicable law relating to the collection of taxes has been complied with; and

(e) the transfer is in fact rightful or is to a bona fide purchaser.

(2) Where an issuer is under a duty to register a transfer of a security the issuer is also liable to the person presenting it for registration or his principal for loss resulting from any unreasonable delay in registration or from failure or refusal to register the transfer. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 742, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:8-402. Assurance that indorsements are effective

(1) The issuer may require the following assurance that each necessary indorsement (section 28:8-308) is genuine and effective

(a) in all cases, a guarantee of the signature (subsection (1) of section 28:8-312) of the person indorsing; and

(b) where the indorsement is by an agent, appropriate assurance of authority to sign;

(c) where the indorsement is by a fiduciary, appropriate evidence of appointment or incumbency;

(d) where there is more than one fiduciary, reasonable assurance that all who are required to sign have done so;

(e) where the indorsement is by a person not covered by any of the foregoing, assurance appropriate to the case corresponding as nearly as may be to the foregoing.

(2) A "guarantee of the signature" in subsection (1) means a guarantee signed by or on behalf of a person reasonably believed by the issuer to be responsible. The issuer may adopt standards with respect to responsibility provided such standards are not manifestly unreasonable.

(3) "Appropriate evidence of appointment or incumbency" in subsection (1) means

(a) in the case of a fiduciary appointed or qualified by a court, a certificate issued by or under the direction or supervision of that court or an officer thereof and dated within sixty days before the date of presentation for transfer; or

(b) in any other case, a copy of a document showing the appointment or a certificate issued by or on behalf of a person reasonably believed by the issuer to be responsible or, in the absence of such a document or certificate, other evidence reasonably deemed by the issuer to be appropriate. The issuer may adopt standards with respect to such evidence provided such standards are not manifestly unreasonable. The issuer is not charged with notice of the contents of any document obtained pursuant to this paragraph (b) except to the extent that the contents relate directly to the appointment or incumbency.

(4) The issuer may elect to require reasonable assurance beyond that specified in this section but if it does so and for a purpose other than that specified in subsection 3(b) both requires and obtains a copy of a will, trust, indenture, articles of co-partnership, by-laws or other controlling instrument it is charged with notice of all matters contained therein affecting the transfer. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 742, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:8-102, 28:8-401, 28:8-403.

§ 28:8-403. Limited duty of inquiry

(1) An issuer to whom a security is presented for registration is under a duty to inquire into adverse claims if

(a) a written notification of an adverse claim is received at a time and in a manner which affords the issuer a reasonable opportunity to act on it prior to the issuance of a new, reissued or re-registered security and the notification identifies the claimant, the registered owner and the issue of which the security is a part and provides an address for communications directed to the claimant; or

(b) the issuer is charged with notice of an adverse claim from a controlling instrument which it has elected to require under subsection (4) of section 28:8-402.

(2) The issuer may discharge any duty of inquiry by any reasonable means, including notifying an adverse claimant by registered or certified mail at the address furnished by him or if there be no such address at his residence or regular place of business that the security has been presented for registration of transfer by a named person, and that the transfer will be registered unless within thirty days from the date of mailing the notification, either

(a) an appropriate restraining order, injunction or other process issues from a court of competent jurisdiction; or

(b) an indemnity bond sufficient in the issuer's judgment to protect the issuer and any transfer agent, registrar or other agent of the issuer involved, from any loss which it or they may suffer by complying with the adverse claim is filed with the issuer.

(3) Unless an issuer is charged with notice of an adverse claim from a controlling instrument which it has elected to require under subsection (4) of section 28:8-402 or receives notification of an adverse claim under subsection (1) of this section, where a security presented for registration is indorsed by the appropriate person or persons the issuer is under no duty to inquire into adverse claims. In particular

(a) an issuer registering a security in the name of a person who is a fiduciary or who is described as a fiduciary is not bound to inquire into the existence, extent, or correct description of the fiduciary relationship and thereafter the issuer may assume without inquiry that the newly registered owner continues to be the fiduciary until the issuer receives written notice that the fiduciary is no longer acting as such with respect to the particular security;

(b) an issuer registering transfer on an indorsement by a fiduciary is not bound to inquire whether the transfer is made in compliance with a controlling instrument or with the law of the state having jurisdiction of the fiduciary relationship, including any law requiring the fiduciary to obtain court approval of the transfer; and

(c) the issuer is not charged with notice of the contents of any court record or file or other recorded or unrecorded document even though the document is in its possession and even though the transfer is made on the indorsement of a fiduciary to the fiduciary himself or to his nominee.

(Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 743, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:8-401, 28:8-404.

§ 28:8-404. Liability and non-liability for registration

(1) Except as otherwise provided in any law relating to the collection of taxes, the issuer is not liable to the owner or any other person suffering loss as a result of the registration of a transfer of a security if

(a) there were on or with the security the necessary indorsements (section 28:8-308); and

(b) the issuer had no duty to inquire into adverse claims or has discharged any such duty (section 28:8-403).

(2) Where an issuer has registered a transfer of a security to a person not entitled to it the issuer on demand must deliver a like security to the true owner unless

(a) the registration was pursuant to subsection (1); or

(b) the owner is precluded from asserting any claim for registering the transfer under subsection (1) of the following section; or

(c) such delivery would result in overissue, in which case the issuer's liability is governed by section 28:8-104.

(Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 744, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:8-311.

§ 28:8-405. Lost, destroyed and stolen securities

(1) Where a security has been lost, apparently destroyed or wrongfully taken and the owner fails to notify the issuer of that fact within a reasonable time after he has notice of it and the issuer registers a transfer of the security before receiving such a notification, the owner is precluded from asserting against the issuer any claim for registering the transfer under the preceding section or any claim to a new security under this section.

(2) Where the owner of a security claims that the security has been lost, destroyed or wrongfully taken, the issuer must issue a new security in place of the original security if the owner

(a) so requests before the issuer has notice that the security has been acquired by a bona fide purchaser; and

(b) files with the issuer a sufficient indemnity bond; and

(c) satisfies any other reasonable requirements imposed by the issuer.

(3) If, after the issue of the new security, a bona fide purchaser of the original security presents it for registration of transfer, the issuer must register the transfer unless registration would result in overissue, in which event the issuer's liability is governed by section 28:8-104. In addition to any rights on the indemnity bond, the issuer may recover the new security from the person to whom it was issued or any person taking under him except a bona fide purchaser. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 744, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:8-406. Duty of authenticating trustee, transfer agent or registrar

(1) Where a person acts as authenticating trustee, transfer agent, registrar, or other agent for an issuer in the registration of transfers of its securities or in the issue of new securities or in the cancellation of surrendered securities

(a) he is under a duty to the issuer to exercise good faith and due diligence in performing his functions; and

(b) he has with regard to the particular functions he performs the same obligation to the holder or owner of the security and has the same rights and privileges as the issuer has in regard to those functions.

(2) Notice to an authenticating trustee, transfer agent, registrar or other such agent is notice to the issuer with respect to the functions performed by the agent. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 744, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:8-407. Limitation of actions

(1) In the event of registration, either before or after this subtitle becomes effective, of a transfer or purported transfer of a security to a person not entitled to it, no action of any kind, legal or equitable, to compel the issue, reissue or delivery of a like security or to obtain damages or any other relief as a result of or in connection with such registration may be brought, subject to subsection (2), by the true owner or any other person against an issuer, authenticating trustee, transfer agent, registrar, or other agent for an issuer in the registration of transfers of its securities, more than eight years after the date on which such registration to a person not entitled has taken place.

(2) The time limitations in subsections (1) and (3) of this section may not be tolled or suspended for any reason. This section is additional to, and does not prevent or affect the application of, any other statute of limitations as a defense to any action. This section applies to claims or causes of action which have accrued before this subtitle becomes effective as well as to those which accrue after this subtitle becomes effective. This section does not apply to any action against an issuer which at the time of such registration has fewer than fifty persons registered upon books maintained for that purpose as holders of the class and series, if any, of the security so registered to the person not entitled to it.

(3) If the eight year period specified in this section expires prior to one year after the effective date of this subtitle, such period is extended to one year after such effective date. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 745, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

This section is referred to in section 28:1-105.

§ 28:9-103. Accounts, contract rights, general intangibles and equipment relating to another jurisdiction; and incoming goods already subject to a security interest

(1) If the office where the assignor of accounts or contract rights keep his records concerning them is in the District, the validity and perfection of a security interest therein and the possibility and effect of proper filing is governed by this article; otherwise by the law (including the conflict of laws rules) of the jurisdiction where such office is located.

(2) If the chief place of business of a debtor is in the District, this article governs the validity and perfection of a security interest and the possibility and effect of proper filing with regard to general intangibles or with regard to goods of a type which are normally used in more than one jurisdiction (such as automotive equipment, rolling stock, airplanes, road building equipment, commercial harvesting equipment, construction machinery and the like) if such goods are classified as equipment or classified as inventory by reason of their being leased by the debtor to others. Otherwise, the law (including the conflict of laws rules) of the jurisdiction where such chief place of business is located shall govern. If the chief place of business is located in a jurisdiction which does not provide for perfection of the security interest by filing or recording in that jurisdiction, then the security interest may be perfected by filing in the District. For the purpose of determining the validity and perfection of a security interest in an airplane, the chief place of business of a debtor who is a foreign air carrier under the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, as amended, is the designated office of the agent upon whom service of process may be made on behalf of the debtor.

(3) If personal property other than that governed by subsections (1) and (2) is already subject to a security interest when it is brought into the District, the validity of the security interest in the District is to be determined by the law (including the conflict of laws rules) of the jurisdiction where the property was when the security interest attached. However, if the parties to the transaction understood at the time that the security interest attached that the property would be kept in the District and it was brought into the District within 30 days after the security interest attached for purposes other than transportation through the District, then the validity of the security interest in the District is to be determined by the law of the District. If the security interest was already perfected under the law of the jurisdiction where the property was when the security interest attached and before being brought into the District, the security interest continues perfected in the District for four months and also thereafter if within the four month period it is perfected in the District. The security interest may also be perfected in the District after the expiration of the four month period; in such case perfection dates from the time of perfection in the District. If the security interest was not perfected under the law of the jurisdiction where the property was when the security interest attached and before being brought into the District, it may be perfected in the District; in such case perfection dates from the time of perfection in the District.

(4) Notwithstanding subsections (2) and (3), if personal property is covered by a certificate of title issued under a statute of the District or any other jurisdiction which requires indication on a certificate of title of any security interest in the property as a condition of perfection, then the perfection is governed by the law of the jurisdiction which issued the certificate.

(5) Notwithstanding subsection (1) and section 28:9-302, if the office where the assignor of accounts or contracts rights keeps his records concerning them is not located in a jurisdiction which is a part of the United States, its territories or possessions, and the accounts or contract rights are within the jurisdiction of the District or the transaction which creates the security interest otherwise bears an appropriate relation to the District, this article governs the validity and perfection of the security interest and the security interest may only be perfected by notification to the account debtor. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 747, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Perfection of lien

Once a security interest (lien) is noted on a certificate of title in a state that requires notation of a security interest (lien) on the certificate of title as a condition of perfection, the security interest (lien) remains perfected when the vehicle is removed to another state even if the debtor has not obtained a new certificate of title with the security interest (lien) noted on the certificate of title in the other state. *T. ### § 28:9-105. Definitions and index of definitions

(1) In this article unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Account debtor" means the person who is obligated on an account, chattel paper, contract right or general intangible;

(b) "Chattel paper" means a writing or writings which evidence both a monetary obligation and a security interest in or a lease of specific goods. When a transaction is evidenced both by such a security agreement or a lease and by an instrument or a series of instruments, the group of writings taken together constitutes chattel paper;

(c) "Collateral" means the property subject to a security interest, and includes accounts, contract rights and chattel paper which have been sold;

(d) "Debtor" means the person who owes payment or other performance of the obligation secured, whether or not he owns or has rights in the collateral, and includes the seller of accounts, contract rights or chattel paper. Where the debtor and the owner of the collateral are not the same person, the term "debtor" means the owner of the collateral in any provision of the article dealing with the collateral, the obligor in any provision dealing with the obligation, and may include both where the context so requires;

(e) "Document" means document of title as defined in the general definitions of article 1 (section 28:1-201);

(f) "Goods" includes all things which are movable at the time the security interest attaches or which are fixtures (section 28:9-313), but does not include money, documents, instruments, accounts, chattel paper, general intangibles, contract rights and other things in action. "Goods" also include the unborn young of animals and growing crops;

(g) "Instrument" means a negotiable instrument (defined in section 28:3-104), or a security (defined in section 28:8-102) or any other writing which evidences a right to the payment of money and is not itself a security agreement or lease and is of a type which is in ordinary course of business transferred by delivery with any necessary indorsement or assignment;

(h) "Security agreement" means an agreement which creates or provides for a security interest;

(i) "Secured party" means a lender, seller or other person in whose favor there is a security interest, including a person to whom accounts, contract rights or chattel paper have been sold. When the holders of obligations issued under an indenture of trust, equipment trust agreement or the like are represented by a trustee or other person, the representative is the secured party.

"Account" means any right to payment for goods sold or leased or for services rendered which is not evidenced by an instrument or chattel paper. "Contract right" means any right to payment under a contract not yet earned by performance and not evidenced by an instrument or chattel paper. "General intangibles" means any personal property (including things in action) other than goods, accounts, contract rights, chattel paper, documents and instruments. ### § 28:9-107. Definitions: "purchase money security interest"

A security interest is a "purchase money security interest" to the extent that it is

- (a) taken or retained by the seller of the collateral to secure all or part of its price; or

(b) taken by a person who by making advances or incurring an obligation gives value to enable the debtor to acquire rights in or the use of collateral if such value is in fact so used.

(Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 750, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:9-105.

§ 28:9-108. When after-acquired collateral not security for antecedent debt

Where a secured party makes an advance, incurs an obligation, releases a perfected security interest, or otherwise gives new value which is to be secured in whole or in part by after-acquired property his security interest in the after-acquired collateral shall be deemed to be taken for new value and not as security for an antecedent debt if the debtor acquires his rights in such collateral either in the ordinary course of his business or under a contract of purchase made pursuant to the security agreement within a reasonable time after new value is given. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 750, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:9-109. Classification of goods; "consumer goods"; "equipment"; "farm products"; "inventory"

Goods are

(1) "consumer goods" if they are used or bought for use primarily for personal, family or household purposes;

(2) "equipment" if they are used or bought for use primarily in business (including farming or a profession) or by a debtor who is a non-profit organization or a governmental subdivision or agency or if the goods are not included in the definitions of inventory, farm products or consumer goods;

(3) "farm products" if they are crops or livestock or supplies used or produced in farming operations or if they are products of crops or livestock in their unmanufactured states (such as ginned cotton, woolclip, maple syrup, milk and eggs), and if they are in the possession of a debtor engaged in raising, fattening, grazing or other farming operations. If goods are farm products they are neither equipment nor inventory;

(4) "inventory" if they are held by a person who holds them for sale or lease or to be furnished under contracts of service or if he has so furnished them, or if they are raw materials, work in process or materials used or consumed in a business. Inventory of a person is not to be classified as his equipment. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 750, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

This section is referred to in sections 28:2-103, 28:6-102, 28:9-105.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Classification of goods

Under the provisions of the Uniform Commercial Code, classification of goods is mutually exclusive. Franklin Investment Co., Inc. v. E. P. Homburg (D.C. App. 1969, 252 A. 2d 95).

Among the same parties and at the same point in time, a product may be classified as both "inventory" and "consumer goods." Id.

The manner in which a product is classified under the secured transactions provisions of the Uniform Commercial Code is determined at time of agreement between parties giving rise to security interest, and, as to them, categorization remains unaffected by later transfer of product in question. Id.

Inventory

An automobile held by a used car dealer for purpose of sale to buying public in the ordinary course of business was "inventory" and remained so despite subsequent sale of automobile, and, thus, under provision of Uniform Commercial Code a buyer of the automobile in ordinary course of business bought the same free of security interest of dealer's chattel mortgagee. Franklin Investment Co. Inc. v. E. P. Homburg. (D.C. App. 1969, 252 A. 2d 95).

§ 28:9-110. Sufficiency of description

For the purposes of this article any description of personal property or real estate is sufficient whether or not it is specific if it reasonably identifies what is described. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 750, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:9-111. Applicability of bulk transfer laws

The creation of a security interest is not a bulk transfer under article 6 (see section 28:6-103). (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 750, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:9-112. Where collateral is not owned by debtor

Unless otherwise agreed, when a secured party knows that collateral is owned by a person who is not the debtor, the owner of the collateral is entitled to receive from the secured party any surplus under section 28:9-502(2) or under section 28:9-504(1), and is not liable for the debt or for any deficiency after resale, and he has the same right as the debtor.

(a) to receive statements under section 28:9-208;

(b) to receive notice of and to object to a secured party's proposal to retain the collateral in satisfaction of the indebtedness under section 28:9-505;

(c) to redeem the collateral under section 28:9-506;

(d) to obtain injunctive or other relief under section 28:9-507(1); and

(e) to recover losses caused to him under section 28:9-208(2).

§ 28:9-113. Security interests arising under article on sales

A security interest arising solely under the article on sales (article 2) is subject to the provisions of this article except that to the extent that and so long as the debtor does not have or does not lawfully obtain possession of the goods

(a) no security agreement is necessary to make the security interest enforceable; and

(b) no filing is required to perfect the security interest; and

(c) the rights of the secured party on default by the debtor are governed by the article on sales (article 2).

(Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 751, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:9-203, 28:9-302.

PART 2.—VALIDITY OF SECURITY AGREEMENT AND RIGHTS OF PARTIES THERETO

§ 28:9-201. General validity of security agreement

Except as otherwise provided by this title a security agreement is effective according to its terms between the parties, against purchasers of the collateral and against creditors. Nothing in this article validates any charge or practice illegal under any statute or regulation thereunder governing usury, small loans, retail installment sales, or the like, or extends the application of any such statute or regulation to any transaction not otherwise subject thereto. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 751, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:9-202. Title to collateral immaterial

Each provision of this article with regard to rights, obligations and remedies applies whether title to collateral is in the secured party or in the debtor. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 751, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:9-203. Enforceability of security interest; proceeds, formal requisites

(1) Subject to the provisions of section 28:4-208 on the security interest of a collecting bank and section 28:9-113 on a security interest arising under the article on sales, a security interest is not enforceable against the debtor or third parties unless

(a) the collateral is in the possession of the secured party; or

(b) the debtor has signed a security agreement which contains a description of the collateral and in addition, when the security interest covers crops or oil, gas or minerals to be extracted or timber to be cut, a description of the land concerned. In describing collateral, the word "proceeds" is sufficient without further description to cover proceeds of any character.

(2) A transaction, although subject to this article, is also subject to chapter 20 of Title 2, relating to pawnbrokers, chapter 6 of Title 26, relating to money lenders, chapter 7 of Title 40, relating to liens on motor vehicles, and chapter 9 of Title 40, relating to installment sales of motor vehicles, and in the case of conflict between the provisions of this article and any such statute, the provisions of such statute control. Failure to comply with any applicable statute has only the effect which is specified therein. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 751, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:1-206, 28:4-208.

§ 28:9-204. When security interest attaches; after-acquired property; future advances

(1) A security interest cannot attach until there is agreement (subsection (3) of section 28:1-201) that it attach and value is given and the debtor has rights in the collateral. It attaches as soon as all of the events in the preceding sentence have taken place unless explicit agreement postpones the time of attaching.

(2) For the purposes of this section the debtor has no rights

(a) in crops until they are planted or otherwise become growing crops, in the young of livestock until they are conceived;

(b) in fish until caught, in oil, gas or minerals until they are extracted, in timber until it is cut;

(c) in a contract right until the contract has been made;

(d) in an account until it comes into existence.

(3) Except as provided in subsection (4) a security agreement may provide that collateral, whenever acquired, shall secure all obligations covered by the security agreement.

(4) No security interest attaches under an after-acquired property clause

(a) to crops which become such more than one year after the security agreement is executed except that a security interest in crops which is given in conjunction with a lease or a land purchase or improvement transaction evidenced by a contract, mortgage or deed of trust may if so agreed attach to crops to be grown on the land concerned during the period of such real estate transaction;

(b) to consumer goods other than accessions (section 28:9-314) when given as additional security unless the debtor acquires rights in them within ten days after the secured party gives value.

(5) Obligations covered by a security agreement may include future advances or other value whether or not the advances or value are given pursuant to commitment. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 752, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:9-312.

§ 28:9-205. Use or disposition of collateral without accounting permissible

A security interest is not invalid or fraudulent against creditors by reason of liberty in the debtor to use, commingle or dispose of all or part of the collateral (including returned or repossessed goods) or to collect or compromise accounts, contract rights or chattel paper, or to accept the return of goods or make repossessions, or to use, commingle or dispose of proceeds, or by reason of the failure of the secured party to require the debtor to account for proceeds or replace collateral. This section does not relax the requirements of possession where perfection of a security interest depends upon possession of the collateral by the secured party or by a bailee. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 752, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:9-206. Agreement not to assert defenses against assignee; modification of sales warranties where security agreement exists

(1) Subject to any statute or decision which establishes a different rule for buyers or lessees of consumer goods, an agreement by a buyer or lessee that he will not assert against an assignee any claim or defense which he may have against the seller or lessor is enforceable by an assignee who takes his assignment for value, in good faith and without notice of a claim or defense, except as to defenses of a type which may be asserted against a holder in due course of a negotiable instrument under the article on commercial paper (article 3). A buyer who as part of one transaction signs both a negotiable instrument and a security agreement makes such an agreement.

(2) When a seller retains a purchase money security interest in goods the article on sales (article 2) governs the sale and any disclaimer, limitation or modification of the seller's warranties. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 752, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:9-318.

§ 28:9-207. Rights and duties when collateral is in secured party's possession

(1) A secured party must use reasonable care in the custody and preservation of collateral in his possession. In the case of an instrument or chattel paper reasonable care includes taking necessary steps to preserve rights against prior parties unless otherwise agreed.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed, when collateral is in the secured party's possession

(a) reasonable expenses (including the cost of any insurance and payment of taxes or other charges) incurred in the custody, preservation, use or operation of the collateral are chargeable to the debtor and are secured by the collateral;

(b) the risk of accidental loss or damage is on the debtor to the extent of any deficiency in any effective insurance coverage;

(c) the secured party may hold as additional security any increase or profits (except money) received from the collateral, but money so received, unless remitted to the debtor, shall be applied in reduction of the secured obligation;

(d) the secured party must keep the collateral identifiable but fungible collateral may be commingled;

(e) the secured party may repledge the collateral upon terms which do not impair the debtor's right to redeem it.

(3) A secured party is liable for any loss caused by his failure to meet any obligation imposed by the preceding subsections but does not lose his security interest.

(4) A secured party may use or operate the collateral for the purpose of preserving the collateral or its value or pursuant to the order of a court of appropriate jurisdiction or, except in the case of consumer goods, in the manner and to the extent provided in the security agreement. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 753, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:9-501.

§ 28:9-208. Request for statement of account or list of collateral

(1) A debtor may sign a statement indicating what he believes to be the aggregate amount of unpaid indebtedness as of a specified date and may send it to the secured party with a request that the statement be approved or corrected and returned to the debtor. When the security agreement or any other record kept by the secured party identifies the collateral a debtor may similarly request the secured party to approve or correct a list of the collateral.

(2) The secured party must comply with such a request within two weeks after receipt by sending a written correction or approval. If the secured party claims a security interest in all of a particular type of collateral owned by the debtor he may indicate that fact in his reply and need not approve or correct an itemized list of such collateral. If the secured party without reasonable excuse fails to comply he is liable for any loss caused to the debtor thereby; and if the debtor has properly included in his request a good faith statement of the obligation or a list of the collateral or both the secured party may claim a security interest only as shown in the statement against persons misled by his failure to comply. If he no longer has an interest in the obligation or collateral at the time the request is received he must A successor in interest is not subject to this section until a request is received by him.

(3) A debtor is entitled to such a statement once every six months without charge. The secured party disclose the name and address of any successor in interest known to him and he is liable for any loss caused to the debtor as a result of failure to disclose. may require payment of a charge not exceeding $10 for each additional statement furnished. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 753, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

PART 3.—RIGHTS OF THIRD PARTIES; PERFECTED AND UNPERFECTED SECURITY INTERESTS; RULES OF PRIORITY

§ 28:9-301. Persons who take priority over unperfected security interests; "lien creditor"

(1) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (2), an unperfected security interest is subordinate to the rights of

(a) persons entitled to priority under section 28:9-312;

(b) a person who becomes a lien creditor without knowledge of the security interest and before it is perfected;

(c) in the case of goods, instruments, documents, and chattel paper, a person who is not a secured party and who is a transferee in bulk or other buyer not in ordinary course of business to the extent that he gives value and receives delivery of the collateral without knowledge of the security interest and before it is perfected;

(d) in the case of accounts, contract rights, and general intangibles, a person who is not a secured party and who is a transferee to the extent that he gives value without knowledge of the security interest and before it is perfected.

(2) If the secured party files with respect to a purchase money security interest before or within ten days after the collateral comes into possession of the debtor, he takes priority over the rights of a transferee in bulk or of a lien creditor which arise between the time the security interest attaches and the time of filing.

(3) A "lien creditor" means a creditor who has acquired a lien on the property involved by attachment, levy or the like and includes an assignee for benefit of creditors from the time of assignment, and a trustee in bankruptcy from the date of the filing of the petition or a receiver in equity from the time of appointment. Unless all the creditors represented had knowledge of the security interest such a representative of creditors is a lien creditor without knowledge even though he personally has knowledge of the security interest. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 754, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

(a) a security interest in collateral in possession of the secured party under section 28:9-305;

(c) a purchase money security interest in farm equipment having a purchase price not in excess of $2,500; but filing is required for a fixture under section 28:9-313 or for a motor vehicle required to be licensed;

(d) a purchase money security interest in consumer goods; but filing is required for a fixture under section 28:9-313 or for a motor vehicle required to be licensed;

(e) an assignment of accounts or contract rights which does not alone or in conjunction with other assignments to the same assignee transfer a significant part of the outstanding accounts or contract rights of the assignor;

(f) a security interest of a collecting bank (section 28:4-208) or arising under the article on sales (see section 28:9-113) or covered in subsection (3) of this section.

(2) If a secured party assigns a perfected security interest, no filing under this article is required in order to continue the perfected status of the security interest against creditors of and transferees from the original debtor.

(3) The filing provisions of this article do not apply to a security interest properly subject to a statute

(a) of the United States which provides for a national registration or filing of all security interests in such property; or

(b) of the United States pertaining to the District which provides for central filing of security interests in a motor vehicle or trailer which is not inventory held for sale for which a certificate of title is required to be issued under the provisions of chapter 7 of Title 40.

(4) A security interest in property covered by a statute described in subsection (3) can be perfected only by registration or filing under that statute or by indication of the security interest on a certificate of title or a duplicate thereof by a public official. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 754, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:9-103, 28:9-303.

§ 28:9-303. When security interest is perfected; continuity of perfection

(1) A security interest is perfected when it has attached and when all of the applicable steps required for perfection have been taken. Such steps are specified in sections 28:9-302, 28:9-304, 28:9-305, and 28:9-306. If such steps are taken before the security interest attaches, it is perfected at the time when it attaches.

(2) If a security interest is originally perfected in any way permitted under this article and is subsequently perfected in some other way under this article, without an intermediate period when it was unperfected, the security interest shall be deemed to be perfected continuously for the purposes of this article. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 755, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:9-304. Perfection of security interest in instruments, documents, and goods covered by documents; perfection by permissive filing; temporary perfection without filing or transfer of possession

(1) A security interest in chattel paper or negotiable documents may be perfected by filing. A security interest in instruments (other than instruments which constitute part of chattel paper) can be perfected only by the secured party's taking possession, except as provided in subsections (4) and (5).

(2) During the period that goods are in the possession of the issuer of a negotiable document therefor, a security interest in the goods is perfected by perfecting a security interest in the document, and any security interest in the goods otherwise perfected during such period is subject thereto.

(3) A security interest in goods in the possession of a bailee other than one who has issued a negotiable document therefor is perfected by issuance of a document in the name of the secured party or by the bailee's receipt of notification of the secured party's interest or by filing as to the goods.

(4) A security interest in instruments or negotiable documents is perfected without filing or the taking of possession for a period of 21 days from the time it attaches to the extent that it arises for new value given under a written security agreement.

(5) A security interest remains perfected for a period of 21 days without filing where a secured party having a perfected security interest in an instrument, a negotiable document or goods in possession of a bailee other than one who has issued a negotiable document therefor

(a) makes available to the debtor the goods or documents representing the goods for the purpose of ultimate sale or exchange or for the purpose of loading, unloading, storing, shipping, transshipping, manufacturing, processing or otherwise dealing with them in a manner preliminary to their sale or exchange; or

(b) delivers the instrument to the debtor for the purpose of ultimate sale or exchange or of presentation, collection, renewal or registration of transfer.

(6) After the 21 day period in subsections (4) and (5) perfection depends upon compliance with applicable provisions of this article. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 755, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:8-320, 28:9-302, 28:9-303, 28:9-308, 28:9-312.

§ 28:9-305. When possession by secured party perfects security interest without filing

A security interest in letters of credit and advices of credit (subsection (2)(a) of section 28:5-116), goods, instruments, negotiable documents or chattel paper may be perfected by the secured party's taking possession of the collateral. If such collateral other than goods covered by a negotiable document is held by a bailee, the secured party is deemed to have possession from the time the bailee receives notification of the secured party's interest. A security interest is perfected by possession from the time possession is taken without relation back and continues only so long as possession is retained, unless otherwise specified in this article. The security interest may be otherwise perfected as provided in this article before or after the period of possession by the secured party. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 756, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:8-320, 28:9-302, 28:9-303.

§ 28:9-306. "Proceeds"; secured party's rights on disposition of collateral

(1) "Proceeds" includes whatever is received when collateral or proceeds is sold, exchanged, collected or otherwise disposed of. The term also includes the account arising when the right to payment is earned under a contract right. Money, checks and the like are "cash proceeds". All other proceeds are "non-cash proceeds".

(2) Except where this article otherwise provides, a security interest continues in collateral notwithstanding sale, exchange or other disposition thereof by the debtor unless his action was authorized by the secured party in the security agreement or otherwise, and also continues in any identifiable proceeds including collections received by the debtor.

(3) The security interest in proceeds is a continuously perfected security interest if the interest in the original collateral was perfected but it ceases to be a perfected security interest and becomes unperfected ten days after receipt of the proceeds by the debtor unless

(a) a filed financing statement covering the original collateral also covers proceeds; or

(b) the security interest in the proceeds is perfected before the expiration of the ten day period.

(4) In the event of insolvency proceedings instituted by or against a debtor, a secured party with a perfected security interest in proceeds has a perfected security interest.

(a) in identifiable non-cash proceeds;

(b) in identifiable cash proceeds in the form of money which is not commingled with other money or deposited in a bank account prior to the insolvency proceedings;

(c) in identifiable cash proceeds in the form of checks and the like which are not deposited in a bank account prior to the insolvency proceedings; and

(d) in all cash and bank accounts of the debtor, if other cash proceeds have been commingled or deposited in a bank account, but the perfected security interest under this paragraph (d) is

(i) subject to any right of set-off; and

(ii) limited to an amount not greater than the amount of any cash proceeds received by the debtor within ten days before the institution of the insolvency proceedings and commingled or deposited in a bank account prior to the insolvency proceedings less the amount of cash proceeds received by the debtor and paid over to the secured party during the ten day period.

(5) If a sale of goods results in an account or chattel paper which is transferred by the seller to a secured party, and if the goods are returned to or are repossessed by the seller or the secured party, the following rules determine priorities:

(a) If the goods were collateral at the time of sale for an indebtedness of the seller which is still unpaid, the original security interest attaches again to the goods and continues as a perfected security interest if it was perfected at the time when the goods were sold. If the security interest was originally perfected by a filing which is still effective, nothing further is required to continue the perfected status; in any other case, the secured party must take possession of the returned or repossessed goods or must file.

(b) An unpaid transferee of the chattel paper has a security interest in the goods against the transferor. Such security interest is prior to a security interest asserted under paragraph (a) to the extent that the transferee of the chattel paper was entitled to priority under section 28:9-308.

(c) An unpaid transferee of the account has a security interest in the goods against the transferor. Such security interest is subordinate to a security interest asserted under paragraph (a).

(d) A security interest of an unpaid transferee asserted under paragraph (b) or (c) must be perfected for protection against creditors of the transferor and purchasers of the returned or repossessed goods.

(Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 756, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Inventory

An automobile held by a used car dealer for purpose of sale to buying public in the ordinary course of business was "inventory" and remained so despite subsequent sale of automobile, and, thus, under provision of Uniform

Commercial Code a buyer of the automobile in ordinary course of business bought the same free of security interest of dealer's chattel mortgagee. Franklin Investment Co., Inc. v. E. P. Homburg (D.C. App. 1969, 252 A. 2d 95).

§ 28:9-307. Protection of buyers of goods

(1) A buyer in ordinary course of business (subsection (9) of section 28:1-201) other than a person buying farm products from a person engaged in farming operations takes free of a security interest created by his seller even though the security interest is perfected and even though the buyer knows of its existence.

(2) In the case of consumer goods and in the case of farm equipment having an original purchase price not in excess of $2,500 (other than fixtures, see section 28:9-313), a buyer takes free of a security interest even though perfected if he buys without knowledge of the security interest, for value and for his own personal, family or household purposes or his own farming operations unless prior to the purchase the secured party has filed a financing statement covering such goods. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 757, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:7-503, 28:9-312.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Classification of goods

Under the provisions of the Uniform Commercial Code, classification of goods is mutually exclusive. Franklin Investment Co., Inc. v. E. P. Homburg (D.C. App. 1969, 252 A. 2d 95).

Among the same parties and at the same point in time, a product may be classified as both "inventory" and "consumer goods." Id.

The manner in which a product is classified under secured transactions provisions of the Uniform Commercial Code is determined at time of agreement between parties giving rise to security interest, and, as to them, categorization remains unaffected by later transfer of product in question. Id.

Inventory

An automobile held by a used car dealer for purpose of sale to buying public in the ordinary course of business was "inventory" and remained so despite subsequent sale of automobile, and, thus, under provision of Uniform Commercial Code a buyer of the automobile in ordinary course of business bought the same free of security interest of dealer's chattel mortgagee. Franklin Investment Co., Inc. v. E. P. Homburg (D.C. App. 1969, 252 A. 2d 95).

§ 28:9-308. Purchase of chattel paper and non-negotiable instruments

A purchaser of chattel paper or a non-negotiable instrument who gives new value and takes possession of it in the ordinary course of his business and without knowledge that the specific paper or instrument is subject to a security interest has priority over a security interest which is perfected under section 28:9-304 (permissive filing and temporary perfection). A purchaser of chattel paper who gives new value and takes possession of it in the ordinary course of his business has priority over a security interest in chattel paper which is claimed merely as proceeds of inventory subject to a security interest (section 28:9-306), even though he knows that the specific paper is subject to the security interest. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 758, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:9-306, 28:9-312.

§ 28:9-309. Protection of purchasers of instruments and documents

Nothing in this article limits the rights of a holder in due course of a negotiable instrument (section 28:3-302) or a holder to whom a negotiable document of title has been duly negotiated (section 28:7-501) or a bona fide purchaser of a security (section 28:8-301) and such holders or purchasers take priority over an earlier security interest even though perfected. Filing under this article does not constitute notice of the security interest to such holders or purchasers. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 758, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:9-312.

§ 28:9-310. Priority of certain liens arising by operation of law

When a person in the ordinary course of his business furnishes services or materials with respect to goods subject to a security interest, a lien upon goods in the possession of such person given by statute or rule of law for such materials or services takes priority over a perfected security interest unless the lien is statutory and the statute expressly provides otherwise. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 758, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:9-102, 28:9-104, 28:9-312.

§ 28:9-311. Alienability of debtor's rights: judicial process

The debtor's rights in collateral may be voluntarily or involuntarily transferred (by way of sale, creation of a security interest, attachment, levy, garnishment or other judicial process) notwithstanding a provision in the security agreement prohibiting any transfer or making the transfer constitute a default. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 758, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:9-312. Priorities among conflicting security interests in the same collateral

(1) The rules of priority stated in the following sections shall govern where applicable: section 28:4-208 with respect to the security interest of collecting banks in items being collected, accompanying documents and proceeds; section 28:9-301 on certain priorities; section 28:9-304 on goods covered by documents; section 28:9-306 on proceeds and repossessions; section 28:9-307 on buyers of goods; section 28:9-308 on possessory against non-possessory interests in chattel paper or non-negotiable instruments; section 28:9-309 on security interests in negotiable instruments, documents or securities; section 28:9-310 on priorities between perfected security interests and liens by operation of law; section 28:9-313 on security interests in fixtures as against interests in real estate; section 28:9-314 on security interests in accessions as against interest in goods; section 28:9-315 on conflicting security interests where goods lose their identity or become part of a product; and section 28:9-316 on contractual subordination.

(2) A perfected security interest in crops for new value given to enable the debtor to produce the crops during the production season and given not more than three months before the crops become growing crops by planting or otherwise takes priority over an earlier perfected security interest to the extent that such earlier interest secures obligations due more than six months before the crops become growing crops by planting or otherwise, even though the person giving new value had knowledge of the earlier security interest.

(3) A purchase money security interest in inventory collateral has priority over a conflicting security interest in the same collateral if

(a) the purchase money security interest is perfected at the time the debtor receives possession of the collateral; and

(b) any secured party whose security interest is known to the holder of the purchase money security interest or who, prior to the date of the filing made by the holder of the purchase money security interest, had filed a financing statement covering the same items or type of inventory, has received notification of the purchase money security interest before the debtor receives possession of the collateral covered by the purchase money security interest; and

(c) such notification states that the person giving the notice has or expects to acquire a purchase money security interest in inventory of the debtor, describing such inventory by item or type.

(4) A purchase money security interest in collateral other than inventory has priority over a conflicting security interest in the same collateral if the purchase money security interest is perfected at the time the debtor receives possession of the collateral or within ten days thereafter.

(5) In all cases not governed by other rules stated in this section (including cases of purchase money security interests which do not qualify for the special priorities set forth in subsections (3) and (4) of this section), priority between conflicting security interests in the same collateral shall be determined as follows:

(a) in the order of filing if both are perfected by filing, regardless of which security interest attached first under section 28:9-204(1) and whether it attached before or after filing;

(b) in the order of perfection unless both are perfected by filing, regardless of which security interest attached first under section 28:9-204(1) and, in the case of a filed security interest, whether it attached before or after filing; and

(c) in the order of attachment under section 28:9-204(1) so long as neither is perfected.

(6) For the purpose of the priority rules of the immediately preceding subsection, a continuously perfected security interest shall be treated at all times as if perfected by filing if it was originally so perfected and it shall be treated at all times as if perfected otherwise than by filing if it was originally perfected otherwise than by filing. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 758, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:9-301.

§ 28:9-313. Priority of security interests in fixtures

(1) The rules of this section do not apply to goods incorporated into a structure in the manner of lumber, bricks, tile, cement, glass, metal work and the like and no security interest in them exists under this article unless the structure remains personal property under applicable law. The law of the District other than this subtitle determines whether and when other goods becomes fixtures. This subtitle does not prevent creation of an encumbrance upon fixtures or real estate pursuant to the law applicable to real estate.

(2) A security interest which attaches to goods before they become fixtures takes priority as to the goods over the claims of all persons who have an interest in the real estate except as stated in subsection (4).

(3) A security interest which attaches to goods after they become fixtures is valid against all persons subsequently acquiring interests in the real estate except as stated in subsection (4) but is invalid against any person with an interest in the real estate at the time the security interest attaches to the goods who has not in writing consented to the security interests or disclaimed an interest in the goods as fixtures.

(4) The security interests described in subsections (2) and (3) do not take priority over

(a) a subsequent purchaser for value of any interest in the real estate; or

(b) a creditor with a lien on the real estate subsequently obtained by judicial proceedings; or

(c) a creditor with a prior encumbrance of record on the real estate to the extent that he makes subsequent advances

if the subsequent purchase is made, the lien by judicial proceedings is obtained, or the subsequent advance under the prior encumbrance is made or contracted for without knowledge of the security interest and before it is perfected. A purchaser of the real estate at a foreclosure sale other than an encumbrancer purchasing at his own foreclosure sale is a subsequent purchaser within this section.

(5) When under subsections (2) or (3) and (4) a secured party has priority over the claims of all persons who have interests in the real estate, he may, on default, subject to the provisions of part 5, remove his collateral from the real estate but he must reimburse any encumbrancer or owner of the real estate who is not the debtor and who has not otherwise agreed for the cost of repair of any physical injury, but not for any diminution in value of the real estate caused by the absence of the goods removed or by any necessity for replacing them. A person entitled to reimbursement may refuse permission to remove until the secured party gives adequate security for the performance of this obligation. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 759, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:9-104, 28:9-105, 28:9-302, 28:9-307, 28:9-312.

§ 28:9-314. Accessions

(1) A security interest in goods which attaches before they are installed in or affixed to other goods taxes priority as to the goods installed or affixed (called in this section "accessions") over the claims of all persons to the whole except as stated in subsection (3) and subject to section 28:9-315(1).

(2) A security interest which attaches to goods after they become part of a whole is valid against all persons subsequently acquiring interests in the whole except as stated in subsection (3) but is invalid against any person with an interest in the whole at the time the security interest attaches to the goods who has not in writing consented to the security interest or disclaimed an interest in the goods as part of the whole.

(3) The security interests described in subsections (1) and (2) do not take priority over

(a) a subsequent purchaser for value of any interest in the whole; or

(b) a creditor with a lien on the whole subsequently obtained by judicial proceedings; or

(c) a creditor with a prior perfected security interest in the whole to the extent that he makes subsequent advances

if the subsequent purchase is made, the lien by judicial proceedings obtained or the subsequent advance under the prior perfected security interest is made or contracted for without knowledge of the security interest and before it is perfected. A purchaser of the whole at a foreclosure sale other than the holder of a perfected security interest purchasing at his own foreclosure sale is a subsequent purchaser within this section.

(4) When under subsections (1) or (2) and (3) a secured party has an interest in accessions which has priority over the claims of all persons who have interests in the whole, he may on default subject to the provisions of part 5 remove his collateral from the whole but he must reimburse any encumbrancer or owner of the whole who is not the debtor and who has not otherwise agreed for the cost of repair of any physical injury but not for any diminution in value of the whole caused by the absence of the goods removed or by any necessity for replacing them. A person entitled to reimbursement may refuse permission to remove until the secured party gives adequate security for the performance of this obligation. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 760, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:9-204, 28:9-312, 28:9-315.

§ 28:9-315. Priority when goods are commingled or processed

(1) If a security interest in goods was perfected and subsequently the goods or a part thereof have become part of a product or mass, the security interest continues in the product or mass if

(a) the goods are so manufactured, processed, assembled, or commingled that their identity is lost in the product or mass; or

(b) a financing statement covering the original goods also covers the product into which the goods have been manufactured, processed or assembled. In a case to which paragraph (b) applies, no separate security interest in that part of the original goods which has been manufactured, processed or assembled into the product may be claimed under section 28:9-314.

(2) When under subsection (1) more than one security interest attaches to the product or mass, they rank equally according to the ratio that the cost of the goods to which each interest originally attached bears to the cost of the total product or mass. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 761, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:9-312, 28:9-314.

§ 28:9-316. Priority subject to subordination

Nothing in this article prevents subordination by agreement by any person entitled to priority. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 761, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:9-312.

§ 28:9-317. Secured party not obligated on contract of debtor

The mere existence of a security interest or authority given to the debtor to dispose of or use collateral does not impose contract or tort liability upon the secured party for the debtor's acts or omissions. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 761, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:9-318. Defenses against assignee; modification of contract after notification of assignment; term prohibiting assignment ineffective; identification and proof of assignment

(1) Unless an account debtor has made an enforceable agreement not to assert defenses or claims arising out of a sale as provided in section 28:9-206 the rights of an assignee are subject to

(a) all the terms of the contract between the account debtor and assignor and any defense or claim arising therefrom; and

(b) any other defense or claim of the account debtor against the assignor which accrues before the account debtor receives notification of the assignment.

(2) So far as the right to payment under an assigned contract right has not already become an account, and notwithstanding notification of the assignment, any modification of or substitution for the contract made in good faith and in accordance with reasonable commercial standards is effective against an assignee unless the account debtor has otherwise agreed but the assignee acquires corresponding rights under the modified or substituted contract. The assignment may provide that such modification or substitution is a breach by the assignor.

(3) The account debtor is authorized to pay the assignor until the account debtor receives notification that the account has been assigned and that payment is to be made to the assignee. A notification which does not reasonably identify the rights assigned is ineffective. If requested by the account debtor, the assignee must seasonably furnish reasonable proof that the assignment has been made and unless he does so the account debtor may pay the assignor.

(4) A term in any contract between an account debtor and an assignor which prohibits assignment of an account or contract right to which they are parties is ineffective. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 761, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Defenses against assignee

Assignee of chose in action takes it subject to all defenses, including setoffs, existing at time of assignment. Hudson Supply & Equipment Co., etc. v. Home Factors Corp., etc. (D.C. App. 1965, 210 A. 2d 837).

Where asserted claims of buyer against seller existed at time seller assigned accounts receivable, credits to which buyer was entitled should have been set off against assignee's claim against buyer based on accounts. Id.

PART REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This part is referred to in sections 42-102, 42-104, 42-106, 42-107, 45-701.

§ 28:9-401. Place of filing; erroneous filing; removal of collateral

(1) The proper place to file in order to perfect a security interest is, in all cases, in the office of the Recorder of Deeds of the District. In this article, "filing officer" means said Recorder.

(2) A filing which is made in good faith in an improper place is nevertheless effective with regard to any collateral as to which the filing complied with the requirements of this article and is also effective with regard to collateral covered by the financing statement against any person who has knowledge of the contents of such financing statement.

(3) A filing which is made in the proper place continues effective even though the debtor's residence or place of business or the location of the collateral or its use, whichever controlled the original filing, is thereafter changed.

(4) If collateral is brought into the District from another jurisdiction, the rules stated in section 28:9-103 determine whether filing is necessary in the District. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 762, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:9-105.

§ 28:9-402. Formal requisites of financing statement; amendments

(1) A financing statement is sufficient if it is signed by the debtor and the secured party, gives an address of the secured party from which information concerning the security interest may be obtained, gives a mailing address of the debtor and contains a statement indicating the types, or describing the items, of collateral. A financing statement may be filed before a security agreement is made or a security interest otherwise attaches. When the financing statement covers crops growing or to be grown or goods which are or are to become fixtures, the statement must also contain a description of the real estate concerned. A copy of the security agreement is sufficient as a financing statement if it contains the above information and is signed by both parties.

(2) A financing statement which otherwise complies with subsection (1) is sufficient although it is signed only by the secured party when it is filed to perfect a security interest in

(a) collateral already subject to a security interest in another jurisdiction when it is brought into the District. Such a financing statement must state that the collateral was brought into the District under such circumstances.

(b) proceeds under section 28:9-306 if the security interest in the original collateral was perfected. Such a financing statement must describe the original collateral.

(3) A form substantially as follows is sufficient to comply with subsection (1):

Signature of Secured Party (or Assignee) _____

(4) The term "financing statement" as used in this article means the original financing statement and any amendments but if any amendment adds collateral, it is effective as to the added collateral only from the filing date of the amendment.

(5) A financing statement substantially complying with the requirements of this section is effective even though it contains minor errors which are not seriously misleading. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 762, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:9-403. What constitutes filing; duration of filing; effect of lapsed filing; duties of filing officer

(1) Presentation for filing of a financing statement and tender of the filing fee or acceptance of the statement by the filing officer constitutes filing under this article.

(2) A filed financing statement which states a maturity date of the obligation secured of five years or less is effective until such maturity date and thereafter for a period of sixty days. Any other filed financing statement is effective for a period of five years from the date of filing. The effectiveness of a filed financing statement lapses on the expiration of such sixty day period after a stated maturity date or on the expiration of such five year period, as the case may be, unless a continuation statement is filed prior to the lapse. Upon such lapse the security interest becomes unperfected. A filed financing statement which states that the obligation secured is payable on demand is effective for five years from the date of filing.

(3) A continuation statement may be filed by the secured party (i) within six months before and sixty days after a stated maturity date of five years or less, and (ii) otherwise within six months prior to the expiration of the five year period specified in subsection (2). Any such continuation statement must be signed by the secured party, identify the original statement by file number and state that the original statement is still effective. Upon timely filing of the continuation statement, the effectiveness of the original statement is continued for five years after the last date to which the filing was effective whereupon it lapses in the same manner as provided in subsection (2) unless another continuation statement is filed prior to such lapse. Succeeding continuation statements may be filed in the same manner to continue the effectiveness of the original statement. Unless a statute on disposition of public records provides otherwise, the filing officer may remove a lapsed statement from the files and destroy it.

(4) A filing officer shall mark each statement with a consecutive file number and with the date and hour of filing and shall hold the statement for public inspection. In addition the filing officer shall index the statements according to the name of the debtor and shall note in the index the file number and the address of the debtor given in the statement.

(5) The uniform fee for filing, indexing and furnishing filing data for an original or a continuation statement shall be $2.00. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 763, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28:9-405.

§ 28:9-404. Termination statement

(1) Whenever there is no outstanding secured obligation and no commitment to make advances, incur obligations or otherwise give value, the secured party must on written demand by the debtor send the debtor a statement that he no longer claims a security interest under the financing statement, which shall be identified by file number. A termination statement signed by a person other than the secured party of record must include or be accompanied by the assignment or a statement by the secured party of record that he has assigned the security interest to the signer of the termination statement. The uniform fee for filing and indexing such an assignment or statement thereof shall be $2.00. If the affected secured party fails to send such a termination statement within ten days after proper demand therefor he shall be liable to the debtor for one hundred dollars, and in addition for any loss caused to the debtor by such failure.

(2) On presentation to the filing officer of such a termination statement he must note it in the index. The filing officer shall remove from the files, mark "terminated" and send or deliver to the secured party the financing statement and any continuation statement, statement of assignment or statement of release pertaining thereto.

(3) The uniform fee for filing and indexing a termination statement including sending or delivering the financing statement shall be $2.00. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 764, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 42-104, 42-107.

§ 28:9-405. Assignment of security interest; duties of filing officer; fees

(1) A financing statement may disclose an assignment of a security interest in the collateral described in the statement by indication in the statement of the name and address of the assignee or by an assignment itself or a copy thereof on the face or back of the statement. Either the original secured party or the assignee may sign this statement as the secured party. On presentation to the filing officer of such a financing statement the filing officer shall mark the same as provided in section 28:9-403(4). The uniform fee for filing, indexing and furnishing filing data for a financing statement so indicating an assignment shall be $2.00.

(2) A secured party may assign of record all or a part of his rights under a financing statement by the filing of a separate written statement of assignment signed by the secured party of record and setting forth the name of the secured party of record and the debtor, the file number and the date of filing of the financing statement and the name and address of the assignee and containing a description of the collateral assigned. A copy of the assignment is sufficient as a separate statement if it complies with the preceding sentence. On presentation to the filing officer of such a separate statement, the filing officer shall mark such separate statement with the date and hour of the filing. He shall note the assignment on the index of the financing statement. The uniform fee for filing, indexing and furnishing filing data about such a separate statement of assignment shall be $2.00.

(3) After the disclosure of filing of an assignment under this section, the assignee is the secured party of record. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 764, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:9-406. Release of collateral; duties of filing officer; fees

A secured party of record may by his signed statement release all or a part of any collateral described in a filed financing statement. The statement of release is sufficient if it contains a description of the collateral being released, the name and address of the debtor, the name and address of the secured party, and the file number of the financing statement. Upon presentation of such a statement to the filing officer he shall attach the statement of release to the instrument to which it relates and shall enter on the released instrument and on the index record thereof the word "released", the date of filing of the statement of release, and a facsimile of his signature. The uniform fee for filing and noting such a statement of release shall be $2.00. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 765, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:9-407. Information from filing officer

(1) If the person filing any financing statement, termination statement, statement of assignment, or statement of release, furnishes the filing officer a copy thereof, the filing officer shall upon request note upon the copy the file number and date and hour of the filing of the original and deliver or send the copy to such person.

(2) Upon request of any person, the filing officer shall issue his certificate showing whether there is on file on the date and hour stated therein, any presently effective financing statement naming a particular debtor and any statement of assignment thereof and if there is, giving the date and hour of filing of each such statement and the names and addresses of each secured party therein. The uniform fee for such a certificate shall be $1.00 plus $0.50 for each financing statement and for each statement of assignment reported therein. Upon request the filing officer shall furnish a copy of any filed financing, continuation or termination statement or statement of assignment or release for a uniform fee of $3.00 for the first two pages or less, and $1.00 for each additional page, plus $0.50 for certification. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 765, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

PART 5.—DEFAULT

PART REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This part is referred to in sections 28:9-313, 28:9-314.

§ 28:9-501. Default; procedure when security agreement covers both real and personal property

(1) When a debtor is in default under a security agreement, a secured party has the rights and remedies provided in this part and except as limited by subsection (3) those provided in the security agreement. He may reduce his claim to judgment, foreclose or otherwise enforce the security interest by any available judicial procedure. If the collateral is documents the secured party may proceed either as to the documents or as to the goods covered thereby. A secured party in possession has the rights, remedies and duties provided in section 28:9-207. The rights and remedies referred to in this subsection are cumulative.

(2) After default, the debtor has the rights and remedies provided in this part, those provided in the security agreement and those provided in section 28:9-207.

(3) To the extent that they give rights to the debtor and impose duties on the secured party, the rules stated in the subsections referred to below may not be waived or varied except as provided with respect to compulsory disposition of collateral (subsection (1) of section 28:9-505) and with respect to redemption of collateral (section 28:9-506) but the parties may by agreement determine the standards by which the fulfillment of these rights and duties is to be measured if such standards are not manifestly unreasonable:

(a) subsection (2) of section 28:9-502 and subsection (2) of section 28:9-504 insofar as they require accounting for surplus proceeds of collateral;

(b) subsection (3) of section 28:9-504 and subsection (1) of section 28:9-505 which deal with disposition of collateral;

(c) subsection (2) of section 28:9-505 which deals with acceptance of collateral as discharge of obligation;

(d) section 28:9-506 which deals with redemption of collateral; and

(e) subsection (1) of section 28:9-507 which deals with the secured party's liability for failure to comply with this part.

(4) If the security agreement covers both real and personal property, the secured party may proceed under this part as to the personal property or he may proceed as to both the real and the personal property in accordance with his rights and remedies in respect of the real property in which case the provisions of this part do not apply.

(5) When a secured party has reduced his claim to judgment the lien of any levy which may be made upon his collateral by virtue of any execution based upon the judgment shall relate back to the date of the perfection of the security interest in such collateral. A judicial sale, pursuant to such execution, is a foreclosure of the security interest by judicial procedure within the meaning of this section, and the secured party may purchase at the sale and thereafter hold the collateral free of any other requirements of this article. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 765, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:9-502. Collection rights of secured party

(1) When so agreed and in any event on default the secured party is entitled to notify an account debtor or the obligor on an instrument to make payment to him whether or not the assignor was theretofore making collections on the collateral, and also to take control of any proceeds to which he is entitled under section 28:9-306.

(2) A secured party who by agreement is entitled to charge back uncollected collateral or otherwise to full or limited recourse against the debtor and who undertakes to collect from the account debtors or obligors must proceed in a commercially reasonable manner and may deduct his reasonable expenses of realization from the collections. If the security agreement secures an indebtedness, the secured party must account to the debtor for any surplus, and unless otherwise agreed, the debtor is liable for any deficiency. But, if the underlying transaction was a sale of accounts, contract rights, or chattel paper, the debtor is entitled to any surplus or is liable for any deficiency only if the security agreement so provides. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 766, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:9-112, 28:9-501.

§ 28:9-503. Secured party's right to take possession after default

Unless otherwise agreed a secured party has on default the right to take possession of the collateral. In taking possession a secured party may proceed without judicial process if this can be done without breach of the peace or may proceed by action. If the security agreement so provides the secured party may require the debtor to assemble the collateral and make it available to the secured party at a place to be designated by the secured party which is reasonably convenient to both parties. Without removal a secured party may render equipment unusable, and may dispose of collateral on the debtor's premises under section 28:9-504. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 766, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:9-504. Secured party's right to dispose of collateral after default; effect of disposition

(1) A secured party after default may sell, lease or otherwise dispose of any or all of the collateral in its then condition or following any commercially reasonable preparation or processing. Any sale of goods is subject to the article on sales (article 2). The proceeds of disposition shall be applied in the order following to

(a) the reasonable expenses of retaking, holding, preparing for sale, selling and the like and, to the extent provided for in the agreement and not prohibited by law, the reasonable attorneys' fees and legal expenses incurred by the secured party;

(b) the satisfaction of indebtedness secured by the security interest under which the disposition is made;

(c) the satisfaction of indebtedness secured by any subordinate security interest in the collateral if written notification of demand therefor is received before distribution of the proceeds is completed. If requested by the secured party, the holder of a subordinate security interest must seasonably furnish reasonable proof of his interest, and unless he does so, the secured party need not comply with his demand.

(2) If the security interest secures an indebtedness, the secured party must account to the debtor for any surplus, and, unless otherwise agreed, the debtor is liable for any deficiency. But if the underlying transaction was a sale of accounts, contract rights, or chattel paper, the debtor is entitled to any surplus or is liable for any deficiency only if the security agreement so provides.

(3) Disposition of the collateral may be by public or private proceedings and may be made by way of one or more contracts. Sale or other disposition may be as a unit or in parcels and at any time and place and on any terms but every aspect of the disposition including the method, manner, time, place and terms must be commercially reasonable. Unless collateral is perishable or threatens to decline speedily in value or is of a type customarily sold on a recognized market, reasonable notification of the time and place of any public sale or reasonable notification of the time after which any private sale or other intended disposition is to be made shall be sent by the secured party to the debtor, and except in the case of consumer goods to any other person who has a security interest in the collateral and who has duly filed a financing statement indexed in the name of the debtor in the District or who is known by the secured party to have a security interest in the collateral. The secured party may buy at any public sale and if the collateral is of a type customarily sold in a recognized market or is of a type which is the subject of widely distributed standard price quotations he may buy at private sale.

(4) When collateral is disposed of by a secured party after default, the disposition transfers to a purchaser for value all of the debtor's rights therein, discharges the security interest under which it is made and any security interest or lien subordinate thereto. The purchaser takes free of all such rights and interests even though the secured party fails to comply with the requirements of this Part or of any judicial proceedings

(a) in the case of a public sale, if the purchaser has no knowledge of any defects in the sale and if he does not buy in collusion with the secured party, other bidders or the person conducting the sale; or

(b) in any other case, if the purchaser acts in good faith.

(5) A person who is liable to a secured party under a guaranty, indorsement, repurchase agreement or the like and who receives a transfer of collateral from the secured party or is subrogated to his rights has thereafter the rights and duties of the secured party. Such a transfer of collateral is not a sale or disposition of the collateral under this article. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 766, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:9-112, 28:9-501, 28:9-503, 28:9-505, 28:9-506.

§ 28:9-505. Compulsory disposition of collateral; acceptance of the collateral as discharge of obligation

(1) If the debtor has paid sixty per cent of the cash price in the case of a purchase money security interest in consumer goods or sixty per cent of the loan in the case of another security interest in consumer goods, and has not signed after default a statement renouncing or modifying his rights under this part a secured party who has taken possession of collateral must dispose of it under section 28:9-504 and if he fails to do so within ninety days after he takes possession the debtor at his option may recover in conversion or under section 28:9-507(1) on secured party's liability.

(2) In any other case involving consumer goods or any other collateral a secured party in possession may, after default, propose to retain the collateral in satisfaction of the obligation. Written notice of such proposal shall be sent to the debtor and except in the case of consumer goods to any other secured party who has a security interest in the collateral and who has duly filed a financing statement indexed in the name of the debtor in the District or is known by the secured party in possession to have a security interest in it. If the debtor or other person entitled to receive notification objects in writing within thirty days from the receipt of the notification or if any other secured party objects in writing within thirty days after the secured party obtains possession the secured party must dispose of the collateral under section 28:9-504. In the absence of such written objection the secured party may retain the collateral in satisfaction of the debtor's obligation. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 768, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:9-112, 28:9-501, 28:9-506, 28-3812.

§ 28:9-506. Debtor's right to redeem collateral

At any time before the secured party has disposed of collateral or entered into a contract for its disposition under section 28:9-504 or before the obligation has been discharged under section 28:9-505(2) the debtor or any other secured party may unless otherwise agreed in writing after default redeem the collateral by tendering fulfillment of all obligations secured by the collateral as well as the expenses reasonably incurred by the secured party in retaking, holding and preparing the collateral for disposition, in arranging for the sale, and to the extent provided in the agreement and not prohibited by law, his reasonable attorneys' fees and legal expenses. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 768, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28:9-112, 28:9-501.

§ 28:9-507. Secured party's liability for failure to comply with this part

(1) If it is established that the secured party is not proceeding in accordance with the provisions of this Part disposition may be ordered or restrained on appropriate terms and conditions. If the disposition has occurred the debtor or any person entitled to notification or whose security interest has been made known to the secured party prior to the disposition has a right to recover from the secured party any loss caused by a failure to comply with the provisions of this Part. If the collateral is consumer goods, the debtor has a right to recover in any event an amount not less than the credit service charge plus ten per cent of the principal amount of the debt or the time price differential plus ten per cent of the cash price.

(2) The fact that a better price could have been obtained by a sale at a different time or in a different method from that selected by the secured party is not of itself sufficient to establish that the sale was not made in a commercially reasonable manner. If the secured party either sells the collateral in the usual manner in any recognized market therefor or if he sells at the price current in such market at the time of his sale or if he has otherwise sold in conformity with reasonable commercial practices among dealers in the type of property sold he has sold in a commercially reasonable manner. The principles stated in the two preceding sentences with respect to sales also apply as may be appropriate to other types of disposition. A disposition which has been approved in any judicial proceeding or by any bona fide creditors' committee or representative of creditors shall conclusively be deemed to be commercially reasonable, but this sentence does not indicate that any such approval must be obtained in any case nor does it indicate that any disposition not so approved is not commercially reasonable. (Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 768, Pub. L. 88-243, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28:10-103. Inconsistent laws; what law governs

§ 28:10-104. Laws not repealed

(1) The article on documents of title (article 7) does not repeal or modify any laws prescribing the form or contents of documents of title or the services or facilities to be afforded by bailees, or otherwise regulating bailees' businesses in respects not specifically dealt with herein; but the fact that such laws are violated does not affect the status of a document of title which otherwise complies with the definition of a document of title (section 28:1-201).

(2) This subtitle does not supersede or modify the District of Columbia Uniform Act for Simplification of Fiduciary Security Transfers, approved July 5, 1960 (74 Stat. 322), being all of subchapter II of chapter 23 of Title 28 of the District of Columbia Code, 1961 edition, and if in any respect there is any inconsistency between that Act and article 8 of this subtitle relating to investment securities, the provisions of that Act, rather than article 8, control. ## NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

Decisions under prior law

All parts of a deed of assignment for the benefit of creditors will be considered in arriving at the general intention of the instrument, and if consistent with the language two constructions can be given, that is to be adopted which will render it legal and operative rather than illegal and void. Cissell v. Johnston (1894, 4 App. D.C. 335).

An attempt to limit the benefit of the trust to such creditors only as shall release their demands if not paid in full is a preference within the meaning of act Feb. 24, 1893, 27 Stat. 474, and void, and all liabilities within the provisions of the assignment shall be paid pro rata from the assets thereof. Id.

Assignment by debtor to a creditor of a fund due him under a contract with District of Columbia for erection of school buildings, with directions to the assignee after paying his own claim, to distribute the residue among certain other creditors, passes the legal title to the fund and creates a trust for creditors named although at the time some of them had no knowledge of the transaction and did not assent to it. Smith v. Herrell (1898, 11 App. D.C. 425).

Confession of judgment by an insolvent debtor in favor of a bona fide creditor is not such a preference as is prohibited by act Feb. 24, 1893, 27 Stat. 474, § 2, declaring void preferences of one creditor over another. Strasburger v. Dodge (1898, 12 App. D.C. 37).

Under laws of Maryland the general words of an assignment for benefit of creditors are restricted by particular description of a schedule which is made part of it; and where such assignment executed in Washington, D.C., purports to convey a life estate of the assignor in lands in Maryland as expressed in schedule, the assignee will take only such life estate, although assignment purports to convey all of assignor's property. Keane v. Chamberlain (1899, 14 App. D.C. 84).

§ 28-2102. Extent of assignment—Assets exempt

An assignment vests in the assignee the title to all property, except what is legally exempt, belonging to the debtor at the time of making the assignment and comprehended within its general terms. The inventory annexed to an assignment is not conclusive as to the amount of the debtor's estate.

An assignment for the benefit of creditors does not include or cover property exempt from levy or sale on execution unless the exemption is expressly waived. The court may direct the manner in which exempt property may be ascertained and set aside before a sale by a trustee. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 667, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

Section is based on last clause of section 28-2601 and all of section 28-2610. The first clause of section 28-2601 is set out as section 28-2101 of this revision.

Changes are made in phraseology.

§ 28-2103. Assignee

Only a resident of the District of Columbia may be an assignee in an assignment for the benefit of creditors. His asset shall appear in writing in, or at the end of, or indorsed on, the assignment. An assignment is invalid unless acknowledged and recorded within five days after its execution in the land records of the District. A trust created by an assignment shall be executed under the supervision and control of the court having probate jurisdiction. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 668, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91-358, title I, § 151(a), 84 Stat. 569.)

1970—Section 151(a) of Act July 29, 1970, Public Law 91-358, amended section by striking out "United States District Court for the District of Columbia" and inserting in lieu thereof "court having probate jurisdiction".

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

Jurisdiction of municipal court

Where dispute between judgment creditor and garnishee involved much less than $3,000 jurisdiction of Municipal Court for District of Columbia, Civil Division, such court had jurisdiction to decide that there were funds in garnishee's hands which should be subjected to payment of judgment, and in so deciding such court was not administering or supervising a trust which should have been under supervision and control of United States District Court and which was in an amount far in excess of such $3,000 jurisdictional amount, notwithstanding that garnishee, in acquiring assets and funds of judgment debtor, may have acted as trustee for benefit of creditors in transactions totalling some $35,000. Pinkston v. Carter (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 150 A. 2d 629).

Right to maintain action

Assignment is admissible in evidence in a suit by the assignee to show his right to maintain the action. Mazza v. Russell (1917, 47 App. D.C. 87).

Validity of deed of trust

Where deed of trust conveying assets of company was not recorded within five days from date of execution as required by this section, company had its principal place of business in District of Columbia but trustee was not resident of district as required, deed reserved surplus for benefit of company's stockholders, no creditors were named therein, deed authorized trustee to operate business as far as seemed practicable to trustee and person who executed deed as secretary for company had not held that office or any other office for some eight months, deed was invalid and did not create a lien or right superior to that of attaching judgment creditor, and claim of trustee to commission must yield to claim of judgment creditor. Pinkston v. Carter (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 150 A. 2d 629).

§ 28-2104. Bond of assignee

Immediately upon the filing for record of an assignment for the benefit of creditors, the assignee shall execute and file in the clerk's office of the court having probate jurisdiction his bond to the United States, in an amount and with security to be approved by a judge thereof, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties according to law, and the court may from time to time require the assignee, or a trustee appointed in his place, to give additional security when required by the interests of the creditors. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 668, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91-358, title I, § 151(a), 84 Stat. 569.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

§ 28-2105. Nonperformance by assignee—Trustee

If an assignee named in an assignment for the benefit of creditors fails or refuses to comply with any of the requirements of sections 21-2103 and 21-2104,<sup>1</sup> a judge of the court having probate jurisdiction may, on the application of the assignor or a creditor interested in the assignment, remove the assignee and appoint a trustee in his place to execute the trusts created by the assignment, who shall give bond as the court may require. And the court may accept the resignation of an assignee or trustee, and in case of his resignation, death, or removal from the District, appoint a trustee in his place. The court, for cause shown, on the application of an interested person, may remove an assignee or trustee and appoint a trustee in his place, and make and enforce all orders necessary to put the newly appointed trustee in possession of all property covered by the assignment. Upon the death of an assignee or trustee the court may require his executor or administrator to settle his account and to deliver over to his successor all property belonging to the trust, in default of which the successor may bring suit upon the bond of the deceased assignee or trustee or upon the bond of the executor or administrator, accordingly as the assignee or trustee, executor or administrator is the party in default. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 668, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91-358, title I, § 151(b), 84 Stat. 569.)

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-2604 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1257, ch. 854, § 438; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 530, ch. 1329).

The reference to "the justice holding the equity court" has been changed to read "a judge of the District Court" inasmuch as the distinction between law and equity has been abolished. The words "moneys, books, papers and other effects" following "property" are deleted as redundant and surplusage.

Changes are made in phraseology.

§ 28-2106. Duties of assignee

An assignee or trustee, after giving bond, shall collect and take into his possession all the property covered by the assignment, and to that end he may bring suit in his own name to recover debts due or property belonging to the assignor and embraced in the assignment. The court may require the assignor to be examined under oath touching his property, and may make all orders necessary to prevent any fraudulent transfer of or change in the property of the assignor. The assignee or trustee shall return inventories of the assets coming to his hands and, upon the direction of the court, sell and dispose of them; and his conveyance of any property of the assignor, real or personal, transfers the entire title of the assignor therein to the purchaser. When the assets have been converted into money the assignee or trustee shall settle his accounts and make distribution among the creditors, under the direction of the court, according to the usual course of proceeding in creditor's suits. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 668, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code 1961 ed., § 28-2605 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1257, ch. 854, § 439).

The reference to proceedings "in equity" is deleted in the last sentence inasmuch as the distinction between law and equity has been abolished.

Changes are made in phraseology.

§ 28-2107. Preferences prohibited

A provision in a voluntary assignment made for the payment of one debt or liability in preference to another is void, and all debts and liabilities within the provisions of the assignment shall be paid pro rata from the assets. This section does not affect the priority of liens and incumbrances created bona fide and existing before the execution of the assignment. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 669, Pub. L. 88-509 § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-2606 Mar. 3, 1901 31 Stat. 1258, ch. 854, § 440).

Changes are made in phraseology.

§ 28-2108. Proceedings for benefit of all creditors

A proceeding instituted under this chapter by one or more creditors is deemed to be for the equal benefit of all creditors, but the court may make such allowance to the creditor or creditors instituting the same, out of the fund to be distributed, or expenses, including counsel fees, as may be just and equitable. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 669, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

§ 28-2109. Assignment to hinder or defraud creditors

This chapter does not prevent a creditor otherwise entitled from attacking an assignment as made to hinder or defraud the creditors of the assignor. When the court finds an assignment to have been made with that intent, it may enjoin any proceeding thereunder, and upon finally decreeing the assignment to be void may appoint a trustee with power to take possession of all the property of the debtor, and may make and enforce all orders necessary to put him in possession of the property. The trustee shall qualify in the same manner and perform the same duties as the trustees provided for by this chapter. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 669, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-2608 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1258, ch. 854, § 442).

Changes are made in phraseology.

CROSS REFERENCE

§ 28-2110. Notice to creditors

The court shall require a trustee, whether named in the assignment or appointed by the court, in pursuance of this chapter, to give notice as the court may think proper to all the creditors of the assignor to produce and prove their respective claims against the assignor before the auditor of the court, to the end that they may be fairly adjudicated and the creditors may share equally the assets of the insolvent assignor, subject, however, to any legal priorities created by valid incumbrances antedating the assignment. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 669, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-2609 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1258, ch. 854, § 443).

Changes are made in phraseology.

Chapter 23.—ASSIGNMENT OF CHOSSES IN ACTION

Sec.

28-2301. Assignment of judgment or money decree.

28-2302. Assignment of bond or obligation.

28-2303. Assignment of nonnegotiable contract.

28-2304. General assignments including choses in action.

28-2305. Contract to assign future salary or wages.

§ 28-2301. Assignment of judgment or money decree

A judgment or money decree may be assigned in writing, and upon the assignment thereof being filed in the clerk's office the assignee may maintain an action or sue out an execution on the judgment in his own name, as the original plaintiff might have done. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 669, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-2501 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1256, ch. 854, § 431).

The reference to "a scire facias" is deleted as obsolete under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

Changes are made in phraseology.

Attorneys' equitable lien

The interest in client's judgment of attorneys created by contingent fee contract was not equivalent to an assignment of a cause of action and resulting judgment, but rather attorneys' interest was like an equitable lien, and, hence, attorneys, in seeking to enforce collection of the judgment for benefit of client and themselves upon refusal of client to do so, was not required to observe provisions of statute relating to assignment of judgments. Falcone and Millstein v. Hall et al. (1256, 235 F. 2d 860, 98 U.S. App. D.C. 363).

Decree for alimony

"A decree ordering the payment of a periodical allowance of alimony in the future is not assignable," although accrued alimony (under an order which it was beyond the power of the court in its discretion to modify or vacate) may be assigned. Lynham v. Hufty (1915, 44 App. D.C. 589).

Judgment improperly entered

Where the rules require that judgment shall not be entered for four days after verdict, a judgment improperly entered by the clerk within that time is not absolutely void, and may be assigned. Hutchinson v. Brown (1896, 8 App. D.C. 157).

§ 28-2302. Assignment of bond or obligation

An obligee named in a bond or obligation under seal for the payment of money may assign it in writing and the assignee may maintain an action thereon in his own name (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 669, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-2502 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1256, ch. 854, § 432).

A minor change is made in phraseology.

§ 28-2303. Assignment of nonnegotiable contract

An owner of a nonnegotiable written agreement for the payment of money, including a nonnegotiable bill of exchange and a promissory note, or for the delivery of personal property, an open account, debt, and demand of a liquidated character, except a claim against the United States or the salary of a public officer, may assign it in writing, and the assignee may maintain an action thereon in his own name. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 669, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-2503 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1256, ch. 854, § 433).

Changes are made in phraseology.

Action by assignor after assignment

Evidence tending to prove that action was brought, not in the name of the assignee, or in the name of the assignor to the use of the assignee, but by the assignor after his assignment, was properly excluded where such defense had not been pleaded. Pierce v. Gillet & Co. (1935, 75 F. 2d 675, 64 App. D.C. 156).

Where corporation had sold its claim against defendant prior to commencement of its action against defendant, corporation had no right to enforce such claim. York Blouse Corp. v. Kaplowitz Bros. (D.C. Mun. App. 1953, 97 A. 2d 465).

In action by corporation, which had sold its claim against defendant prior to bringing of action, for purchase price of certain merchandise, allegedly sold and delivered, request of corporation for leave to add as additional parties plaintiff the stockholders of corporation was properly denied. Id.

Where assignors assigned claims for the purpose of permitting assignee to manager the litigation and there was no evidence of fraud or any other circumstances which raised any questions as to assignee's legal title to the claims he was asserting, assignee had the right to maintain an action on the claims assigned in his own name. Compton v. Atwell (D.C. Mun. App. 1952, 86 A. 2d 623).

Indispensable party

When the rights of an assignee will be affected by an action, the assignee is an indispensable party. York Blouse Corp. v. Kaplowitz Bros. (D.C. Mun. App. 1953, 97 A. 2d 465).

Possessory action

Owners' agent for management of realty, who was made assignee of leases from agent for former owners, had a right to bring a possessory action against tenant in his own name under the right of an assignee of a nonnegotiable instrument to sue in his own name. Koehne v. Harvey (D.C. Mun. App. 1946, 45 A. 2d 780).

Purpose

Obvious purpose of this section was to vest in the assignee the right to sue in his own name. Since the procedural right had not been previously available to him, as the real party in interest, he is able to sue in the name of his assignor. District of Columbia v. Hamilton National Bank (D.C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 60).

Real party in interest

Where defendant owed four small accounts and three of his creditors made written assignment, purporting to be absolute, of their accounts to the fourth creditor, but the creditors had orally agreed that assignments were only for purpose of enabling one creditor to sue, action brought by assignee was within exception provided by Municipal Court Rules allowing a party to sue in his own name without joining party for whose benefit action was brought. Compton v. Atwell (1953, 207 F. 2d 139, 93 U.S. App. D.C. 99).

Where corporation had sold its claim against defendant prior to commencement of its action against defendant, assignee was the real party in interest and indispensable party. York Blouse Corp. v. Kaplowitz Bros. (D.C. Mun. App. 1953, 97 A. 2d 465).

When substantive law gives an assignee the right to sue in his own name and rule of court requires suit by the real party in interest, action on assigned claim must be brought by the assignee in his own name. Id.

Rights of Assignee

Assignee of conditional sales contract was merely assignee of nonnegotiable chose in action and took no greater rights than assignor had. Ledman v. G.A.C. Finance Corp. of Baltimore (D.C. App. 1965, 213 A. 2d 246).

Single cause of action

Creditor has no right to split up a single cause of action, either by the institution in his own name of separate suits upon separate fractions thereof, or by the assignment of such several parts to several persons without knowledge and consent to the debtor, so as to require the latter to respond to different actions and to incur accumulation. Sincell v. Davis (1904, 24 App. D.C. 218).

A single cause of action may be assigned, and the assignee may sue upon it in his own name, usually subject to all the equities existing between the assignor and the debtor; but this does not authorize the distribution of a single cause of action into fractional parts, and their assignment to several persons without the consent of the debtor. Id.

Stock certificates

It is well settled that certificates of stock are not negotiable instruments. At the same time, they are so constantly used as collateral and passed from hand to hand, when the blank transfer and power of attorney on their backs has been formally executed by the party to whom they were issued, that the general custom in the city of Washington is to regard the holder as the owner for the purpose of selling or pledging them. National Safe Deposit Sav. & Trust Co. v. Hibbs (1909, 32 App. D.C. 459, affirmed 33 S. Ct. 818, 229 U.S. 391, 57 L. Ed. 1241).

While indorsed certificates of stock do not become negotiable instruments in a strictly legal sense, they nevertheless so approximate them that the ordinary rules of agency and estoppel which apply in the case of chattels are applied to them with great liberality in the behalf of an innocent purchaser. Id.

Subscriptions to capital stock of corporation

Subscriptions to the capital stock of a corporation may be assigned by the corporation, so as to give the assignee a right to sue in his own name. Crook v. International Trust Co. (1909, 32 App. D.C. 490).

§ 28-2304. General assignments including choses in action

In a general assignment which includes choses in action, it is not necessary to execute a separate assignment of each chose in action, but the assignee, by virtue of the general assignment, may sue in his own name on the several choses in action included therein. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 670, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-2504 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1256, ch. 854, § 434).

The reference to the "Municipal Court" is changed to "Criminal Division of the Court of General Sessions" in view of the change in name by Public Law 88-241.

Changes are made in phraseology.

Action by assignor after assignment

As defenses must be pleaded the court did not err in excluding evidence even though it might have proved that the action was not in the name of the assignee, or in the name of the assignor to the use of the assignee, as the practice was at common law, but an action by an assignor after his assignment. Pierce v. Gillet & Co. (1935, 75 F. 2d 675, 64 App. D.C. 156).

§ 28-2305. Contract to assign future salary or wages

(a) A contract attempting or purporting to transfer or assign salary or wages to be earned by the debtor, if made in the District of Columbia, is invalid and contrary to public policy and unenforceable, and if made outside the District of Columbia, is unenforceable in any court within the District of Columbia.

(b) Whoever, in the District of Columbia demands or receives from a debtor an assignment of salary or wages to be thereafter earned by the debtor, or notifies an employer that he holds an assignment of such salary or wages, upon conviction shall be fined not more than $200 or imprisoned not more than sixty days. Prosecutions under this subsection shall be upon information filed in the Criminal Division of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia by the Corporation Counsel of the District of Columbia or one of his assistants. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 670, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91-358, title I, § 155(a), 84 Stat. 570.)

AMENDMENT

1970—Section 155(a) of Act July 29, 1970, Public Law 91-358 amended subsec. (b) by striking out "District of Columbia Court of General Sessions" and inserting in lieu thereof "Superior Court of the District of Columbia."

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11-101.

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-2505 (Mar. 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 434-A, as added Dec. 20, 1944, 58 Stat. 819, ch. 610, § 3).

The phrase "after the date of such contract" is deleted as redundant in view of the provision relating to salary or wages "to be earned", indicating it relates to future salary and wages.

Changes are made in phraseology.

Chapter 25.—BONDS AND UNDERTAKINGS

Sec.

28-2501. Definitions.

28-2502. Action on bond<sup>1</sup> in a penal sum containing an avoidance condition.

28-2503. Action on bond to United States—Interest by private person.

28-2504. Fiduciary's bond—Discharge only after accounting.

§ 28-2501. Definitions

A bond, when required by or referred to in this Code, means an obligation in a certain sum or penalty, subject to a condition, on breach of which it is to become absolute and enforceable by action.

An undertaking means an agreement entered into by a party to a suit or proceeding, with or without sureties, upon which a judgment or decree may be rendered in the same suit or proceeding against the party and his sureties, if any, the party and sureties submitting themselves to the jurisdiction of the court for that purpose. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 670, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

The definition of a bond is from section 28-2401, and the definition of an undertaking is from section 28-2402. Changes are made in phraseology.

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRESENT LAW

Judgment on bond in the same suit

A defendant in whose favor a judgment had been rendered, as an alternative to an independent action, could file a motion in the case demanding judgment against plaintiff and his surety for damages alleged to have been sustained by attachment of defendant's funds, but assertion to claim in such manner did not disable plaintiff from utilizing defensive rights available to him were an independent action filed. G. P. Schmidt v. L. T. Smith (1965, 344 F. 2d 168, 120 U.S. App. D.C. 74).

District Court may adopt reasonable rules and practices governing assertion of a claim by defendant for damages arising from wrongful attachment, and time within which it may be so asserted may be limited by rules so as to avoid holding original case open unduly long. Id.

While rule 73(f) was not available as a means of serving surety on attachment bond on defendant's motion for judgment against plaintiff and surety for damages sustained by the attachment, the ability of defendant to make service upon surety was not thereby necessarily foreclosed. Id.

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

Automobile negligence action against nonresident

The undertaking in favor of a nonresident defendant which is required of a plaintiff who institutes automobile negligence action in District of Columbia against such nonresident by service of process on Director of Vehicles and Traffic, is such an "undertaking" as is defined as an agreement by a party to a suit upon which a judgment or decree may be rendered in same suit or proceeding in which it has been filed. Dew v. Simon (D.C. Mun. App. 1953, 95 A. 2d 482).

Bonds and undertakings distinguished

Unlike the ordinary appeal bond, which is an obligation under seal, with a fixed penalty, and a definite condition, limited to become effective or otherwise by the determination of the appeal, an undertaking is without seal, or fixed penalty, and without condition; and is simply a promise or an assumption of liability, to perform a judgment, or to pay damages and costs. Tenney v. Taylor (1893, 1 App. D.C. 223).

Purpose and effect

While an undertaking differs in form from the bond, its essential purpose and effect are the same as those of the bond, to give the guaranty of an additional person as security for the costs that might be incurred and the damages that might result to an appellee by the prosecution of an appeal that prevents him from realizing his claim as speedily and as effectively as he might otherwise have done. Tenney v. Taylor (1893, 1 App. D.C. 223).

§ 28-2502. Action on bonds in a penal sum containing an avoidance condition

A bond in a penal sum, containing a condition that it shall be void on the payment of a certain sum of money, or the performance of an act or of certain duties, has the same effect for the purpose of maintaining an action upon it as if it contained a covenant to pay the money or perform the act or the duties specified in the condition. But the damages to be recovered for a breach, or successive breaches, of the condition, as against the sureties therein, may not exceed the penalty of the bond. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 670, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-2405 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1265, ch. 854, § 480).

Changes are made in phraseology.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 15-106.

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

Construction

In suit against sureties bond is to be strictly construed. United States v. Maloney (1894, 4 App. D.C. 505).

Recitals in bond, and all material traversable matter set forth in breaches assigned and which have not been traversed are to be taken as admitted and withdrawn from the province of the jury. Id.

Forgery

Surety can not plead forgery of principal's name to bond when surety executes it after its purported execution by the principal. United States v. Boyd (1896, 8 App. D.C. 440).

Sureties

By the execution of a bond and its return to the principal or his agent for delivery to the obligee the surety becomes estopped to set up any condition not known to that obligee, upon which his signature has been obtained. United States v. Boyd (1896, 8 App. D.C. 440).

Discontinuance of a suit as to the principal will not, in the absence of explanation, be sufficient to release the sureties on his bond who were named as codefendants. Starr v. United States (1896, 8 App. D.C. 552, reversed on other grounds 17 S. Ct. 223, 164 U.S. 627, 41 L. Ed. 557).

§ 28-2503. Action on bond to United States—Interest by private person

When a bond is executed to the United States by a fiduciary or public officer, conditioned for the performance of certain duties, in the performance of which private persons are interested, a person aggrieved by a breach of the condition may maintain an action thereon in his own name against the obligor and his sureties to recover damages for the injury suffered by him in consequence of the breach. The custodian of the bond shall furnish a certified copy thereof to the party for that purpose on payment of the legal fees therefor. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 670, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-2406 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1265, ch. 854, § 481; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 530, ch. 1329).

Changes are made in phraseology.

Action on official bond

Action on an official bond running to the District of Columbia cannot be maintained by one not a party thereto, in the absence of the consent of the District or an express statute authorizing such action. District of Columbia to Use of Langellotti v. Fidelity & Deposit Co. (1921, 271 F. 383, 50 App. D.C. 309).

Disbursing officer

Although bond required of a disbursing officer of the Government when first filed was not properly executed and it was returned to the principal who properly executed it, there is no presumption against its genuineness, in a suit by the Government against the surety, and in such transaction the relation between the Government and the disbursing officer is not that of principal and agent. Howgate v. United States (1894, 3 App. D.C. 277, affirmed 17 S. Ct. 682, 166 U.S. 571, 41 L. Ed. 1119).

In action by United States on the bond of an alleged delinquent disbursing officer, a duly authenticated transcript from the Treasury Department of the accounts of the disbursing officer offered in evidence by the United States is not admissible, for it does not include all transactions with the United States during term of service, but only those transactions connected with the appropriations for which such official is alleged to be in default need be shown by such transcript. Goff v. United States (1903, 22 App. D.C. 512).

Plumbing inspector

Those injured by neglect of the inspector of plumbing in the performance of his official duties may maintain an action in the name of the District of Columbia to his use on the bond given by the inspector, under a plumbing regulation requiring the inspector to give a bond of $5,000, "conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties of his office." District of Columbia v. Ball (1903, 22 App. D.C. 543).

Plumbing regulations of District of Columbia requiring inspector of plumbing to give bond with sureties for benefit of persons aggrieved by his acts of neglect, is valid, although the act of Congress of April 23, 1892 (27 Stat. 21, ch. 53) authorizing appointment of inspector of plumbing does not require bond. Id.

One who purchases house in which plumbing is defective without knowledge of such facts existing, may maintain action on official bond of inspector of plumbing for failure to inspect plumbing when the house was in the course of construction. Id.

Questions on appeal

Where person claiming to have posted collateral under agreement for surety bond for release of certain alien did not, in suit for recovery for alleged breach of such agreement, mention this section providing cause of action for those aggrieved by breach of bond given to United States to secure performance of a duty, this section could not be relied upon on appeal. Chong Moe Dan v. Maryland Casualty Co. of Baltimore (D.C. Mun. App. 1953, 93 A. 2d 286).

§ 28-2504. Fiduciary's bond—Discharge only after accounting

A person appointed by order or decree of the court to a fiduciary office may not discharge his bond for the due performance of his duties, by receipts, releases, or acquittances from himself, as attorney for parties interested, to himself as fiduciary; but the funds or estate for the application whereof he is responsible shall be considered as remaining in his hands, and the bond shall continue in force as against both principal and sureties until the funds or estate are fully accounted for and paid over or delivered to the parties interested therein, or their attorney, other than himself. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 671, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-2407 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1265, ch. 854, § 482).

Changes are made in phraseology.

Sale trustee

Bond of a trustee appointed by court in an equity cause to sell real estate which runs to the United States, can be put in suit by person injuriously affected and in such suit the United States is the nominal plaintiff only. Morse v. United States ex rel. Hine (1907, 29 App. D.C. 433).

When decree for sale of infant's real estate is void for want of jurisdiction, the bond of trustee appointed to make the sale is void also, and the surety may show such invalidity in a suit against him on the bond by the United States. Id.

This section does not apply where payment was by the sale trustee to himself as testamentary trustee. United States Fidelity & Guar. Co. v. Klein (1932, 54 F. 2d 828, 60 App. D.C. 354, certiorari denied 52 S. Ct. 394, 285 U.S. 544, 76 L. Ed. 936).

§ 28-2902. Registration in name of a fiduciary

A corporation or transfer agent registering a security in the name of a person who is a fiduciary or who is described as a fiduciary is not bound to inquire into the existence, extent, or correct description of the fiduciary relationship, and thereafter the corporation and its transfer agent may assume without inquiry that the newly registered owner continues to be the fiduciary until the corporation or transfer agent receives written notice that the fiduciary is no longer acting as such with respect to the particular security. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 672, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

§ 28-2903. Assignment by fiduciary

Except as otherwise provided by this chapter, a corporation or transfer agent making a transfer of a security pursuant to an assignment by a fiduciary:

(1) may assume without inquiry that the assignment, even though to the fiduciary himself or his nominee, is within his authority and capacity and is not in breach of his fiduciary duties;

(2) may assume without inquiry that the fiduciary has complied with any controlling instrument and with the law of the jurisdiction governing the fiduciary relationship, including any law requiring the fiduciary to obtain court approval of the transfer; and

(3) is not charged with notice of and is not bound to obtain or examine any court record or recorded or unrecorded document relating to the fiduciary relationship or the assignment, even though the record or document is in its possession. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 673, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

§ 28-2904. Evidence of appointment of incumbency

A corporation or transfer agent making a transfer pursuant to an assignment by a fiduciary who is not the registered owner shall require the following evidence of appointment or incumbency:

(1) in the case of a fiduciary appointed or qualified by a court, a certificate issued by or under the direction or supervision of the court or an officer thereof, and dated within sixty days before the transfer; or

(2) in any other case, a copy of a document showing the appointment or a certificate issued by or on behalf of a person reasonably believed by the corporation or transfer agent to be responsible or, in the absence of such a document or certificate, other evidence reasonably deemed by the corporation or transfer agent to be appropriate. Corporations and transfer agents may adopt reasonable standards with respect to evidence of appointment or incumbency under this subsection. Neither the corporation nor transfer agent is charged with notice of the contents of any document obtained pursuant to this subsection except to the extent that the contents relate directly to the appointment or incumbency.

(Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 673, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

Changes are made in phraseology.

§ 28-2905. Adverse claims

(a) A person asserting a claim of beneficial interest adverse to the transfer of a security pursuant to an assignment by a fiduciary may notify in writing the corporation or transfer agent of the claim. The corporation or transfer agent is not put on notice unless the written notice (1) identifies the claimant, the registered owner, and the issue of which the security is a part, (2) provides an address for communications directed to the claimant, and (3) is received before the transfer. This chapter does not relieve the corporation or transfer agent of any liability for making or refusing to make the transfer after it is so put on notice, unless it proceeds in the manner authorized by subsection (b).

(b) As soon as practicable after the presentation of a security for transfer pursuant to an assignment by a fiduciary, a corporation or transfer agent which has received notice of a claim of beneficial interest adverse to the transfer may send notice of the presentation by registered or certified mail to the claimant at the address given by him. If the corporation or transfer agent so mails such a notice it shall withhold the transfer for thirty days after the mailing and shall then make the transfer unless restrained by a court order. Minor changes are made in phraseology.

§ 28-2907. Nonliability of third persons

(a) A person who participates in the acquisition, disposition, assignment or transfer of a security by or to a fiduciary including a person who guarantees the signature of the fiduciary is not liable for participation in any breach of fiduciary duty by reason of failure to inquire whether the transaction involves such a breach unless it is shown that he acted with actual knowledge that the proceeds of the transaction were being or were to be used wrongfully for the individual benefit of the fiduciary or that the transaction was otherwise in breach of duty.

(b) When a corporation or transfer agent makes a transfer pursuant to an assignment by a fiduciary, a person who guaranteed the signature of the fiduciary is not liable on the guarantee to any person to whom the corporation or transfer agent by reason of this chapter incurs no liability.

(c) This section does not impose any liability upon the corporation or its transfer agent. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 674, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

(b) This chapter applies to the rights and duties of a person other than the corporation and its transfer agents with regard to acts and omissions in the District of Columbia in connection with the acquisition, disposition, assignment or transfer of a security by or to a fiduciary and of a person who guarantees in the District of Columbia the signature of a fiduciary in connection with such a transaction. Sec.

28-3101. Intent to defraud creditors.

28-3102. Intent to defraud purchasers.

28-3103. Fiduciaries' suit to vacate fraudulent transaction.<sup>1</sup>

§ 28-3101. Intent to defraud creditors

A conveyance or assignment, in writing or otherwise, of an estate or interest in land or its rents and profits, or in goods or things in action, and a charge upon the same, and a bond or other evidence of debt given, or judgment or decree suffered, with the intent to hinder or defraud persons having just claims or demands, of their lawful suits, damages, or demands, is void as against the persons so hindered or defrauded.

This section does not affect the title of a purchaser for value, unless it appears that he had previous notice of the fraudulent intent of his immediate grantor, or of the fraud rendering void the title of the grantor. The question of fraudulent intent is a question of fact and not of law. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 674, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-3101 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1368, ch. 854, § 1120).

The word "delay" in the phrase "hinder, delay, or defraud" is deleted as redundant.

Changes are made in phraseology.

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRESENT LAW

Tenancy by entirety

If an inter-spousal transaction happens to infringe rules imperiling conveyances that hinder, delay or defraud creditors, the transaction is open to attack by affected creditors. In re Estate of J. S. Wall (1971, 440 F. 2d 215, 142 U.S. App. D.C. 187).

In general

By the terms of the statute a final judgment at common law is made a lien, not only upon the legal, but as well upon the equitable, interests in real estate of the judgment debtor from the date when the same is rendered, and this section likewise makes every conveyance of lands with intent to defraud creditors not merely voidable, but void. Reilly v. Sabin (1936, 81 F. 2d 259, 65 App. D.C. 125).

Where it did not appear that anyone but plaintiff was hindered, delayed, or defrauded by transfer of property sought to be set aside as fraudulent, judgment to the extent that it avoided transfer as against other persons should be modified. Brady v. Games (1942, 128 F. 2d 754, 76 U.S. App. D.C. 47).

A court should not enrich a fraudulent grantee at expense of parties not responsible for original grantor's attempt to avoid creditors. Hurwitz v. Hurwitz (1943, 136 F. 2d 796, 78 U.S. App. D.C. 66, 148 A.L.R. 226).

Every case involving question whether debtor made fraudulent conveyances depends on its own circumstances. Beaton Co. v. Berberich (1943, 135 F. 2d 831, 77 U.S. App. D.C. 377).

Even if a conveyance is, on its face, presumptively fraudulent, it is susceptible of explanation. Snider v. Kelly (1943, 135 F. 2d 817, 77 U.S. App. D.C. 363, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 62, 320 U.S. 764, 88 L. Ed. 456).

Consideration

Where there was substantial evidence to support findings that note and deed of trust recorded on date prior to date when the United States filed notice of tax lien were without consideration and in fraud of creditors, such findings were not clearly erroneous and hence judgment based on such findings would be affirmed. H. Milloff and S. Milloff v. United States and A. Goldkind (1962, 306 F. 2d 783, 113 U.S. App. D.C. 176).

In action for judgment declaring plaintiff to be common-law wife of a defendant, and as such entitled to an inchoate right of dower in certain realty allegedly conveyed by him to his daughter before establishment of marriage, evidence, including undisputed testimony that defendant paid $4,000 for property in question and conveyed it to his daughter, for $10 which was the entire consideration, established that codefendant was not a purchaser for valuable consideration within meaning of this section. Leonardo v. Leonardo et ano. (1958, 251 F. 2d 22, 102 U.S. App. D.C. 119).

Words "valuable consideration" as used in portion of this section providing that such section shall not be construed to impair title of a purchaser for a "valuable consideration" means fair equivalent of the property conveyed. Id.

The sum of $10, constituting the entire consideration allegedly paid for realty worth $4,000, did not constitute "valuable consideration" within meaning of that term as used in this section providing that certain conveyances of realty made with intent of defrauding creditors shall be void except as against a purchaser for a valuable consideration, without notice. Id.

Construction

This section providing that conveyances made with intent of defrauding certain persons shall be void is entitled to liberal construction. Leonardo v. Leonardo et ano. (1958, 251 F. 2d 22, 102 U.S. App. D.C. 119).

Duty of court

Where issue regarding whether conveyance is fraudulent is presented to trial court, its duty is to determine from circumstances surrounding transaction of parties whether the intent proscribed by this section was present and in doing so, it should apply the rule that the parties intend the natural and probable consequences of their acts, and if the inevitable consequences of a conveyance are to hinder, delay or defraud creditors, the court must so hold notwithstanding denial of such intent by the parties. Snider v. Kelly (1943, 135 F. 2d 817, 77 U.S. App. D.C. 363, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 62, 320 U.S. 764, 88 L. Ed. 456).

Evidence

Fraud must be shown by clear and convincing evidence and by evidence which is not equivocal that is, equally consistent with either honesty or deceit, but circumstantial evidence is sufficient to prove fraud. Wynne et al. v. Boone et al. (1951, 191 F. 2d 220, 88 U.S. App. D.C. 363).

Evidence sustained trial court's judgment setting aside, as in fraud of creditors, conveyances of realty. Id.

Fraudulent conveyance

Where company extended credit to its customers and received promissory notes which were endorsed in blank without recourse to bank as security for credit extended to the company ranging from 60 to 65 percent of the face value of pledged notes and company acted as bank's agent for collection and remitted payments to a special account at the bank which was used to reduce debt owed by company to bank, and company submitted quarterly reports to bank indicating status of collections from consumer-debtors and company's book accounts indicated that consumer notes were pledged to the bank, the transfer of security from the company to the bank was not a fraudulent conveyance under District of Columbia law providing that transfers which are intended to hinder, delay or defraud creditors or transferor are voidable. M. Stevan, Trustee etc. v. Union Trust Company etc., et al. (1963, 316 F. 2d 687, 115 U.S. App. D.C. 36).

Good faith

In determining whether debtor's conveyances are fraudulent, the vital question is the good faith of the transactions. Beaton Co. v. Berberich (1943, 135 F. 2d 831, 77 U.S. App. D.C. 377).

Intent of parties

In suit to set aside, as fraud on creditors, conveyances of realty, where grantee was found to be in same position as grantor, so far as knowledge and intent were concerned, and conveyance was found to have been fraudulent, neither grantor nor grantee could claim to have been injured by creditor's pursuit of one remedy rather than another. Wynne et al. v. Boone et al. (1951, 191 F. 2d 220, 88 U.S. App. D.C. 363).

In creditor's suit to declare void certain transfers of title and of interests by debtor to others, record sustained determination that the transactions were consistent with an honest purpose and were free from fraud and wrongdoing. Beaton Co. v. Berberich (1943, 135 F. 2d 831, 77 U.S. App. D.C. 377).

Where it appears from all surrounding circumstances that acts of parties are consistent with an honest purpose, it is not an inevitable consequence that conveyance will hinder, delay or defraud creditors, and the court should find accordingly. Snider v. Kelly (1943, 135 F. 2d 817, 77 U.S. App. D.C. 363, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 62, 320 U.S. 764, 88 L. Ed. 456).

Mortgages

A mortgage made with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud the bankrupt's creditors may be declared void. Universal Dealers Co. v. Cromelin (1940, 109 F. 2d 828, 71 App. D.C. 234, certiorari denied 60 S. Ct. 1088, 310 U.S. 641, 84 L. Ed. 1409).

The giving of the mortgage followed by withholding it from record pursuant to an agreement or understanding, operated to hinder, delay, and defraud the bankrupt's creditors as the parties are presumed to intend the natural and probable consequences of their own acts and whatever may have been the intention of the petitioner is immaterial. In re Nolan Motor Co., Inc. (D.C.D.C. 1938, 25 F. Supp. 186, affirmed 109 F. 2d 282, 711 App. D.C. 234, certiorari denied 60 S. Ct. 1088, 310 U.S. 641, 84 L. Ed. 1409).

Other persons

Under this section providing that every conveyance of realty made with intent to defraud creditors or "other persons" having just claims shall be void as against persons so defrauded, a wife, in regard to her property rights arising from marriage, is one of the "other persons" protected. Leonardo v. Leonardo et ano. (1958, 251 F. 2d 22, 102 U.S. App. D.C. 119).

Pleading, sufficiency of Judgment creditor's complaint alleging fraudulent conveyances of real estate was sufficient to allege fraudulent intent on part of debtor in making conveyance. F. S. Bowen Electric Co., Inc. v. J. D. Hedin Construction Co., Inc. (1963, 316 F. 2d 362, 114 U.S. App. D.C. 361).

Presumptions

In determining whether debtor made fraudulent transfer, certain rebuttable presumptions go into balance, in creditor's favor, but if it appears from circumstances that challenged acts of parties to transfer are consistent with an honest purpose, the presumptions are overcome. Beaton Co. v. Berberich (1943, 135 F. 2d 831, 77 U.S. App. D.C. 377).

Question of fact

In District of Columbia, fraud is matter of fact, and therefore, where creditors established that conveyance had been made and recorded with intent to defraud, it would not be necessary to success of their suit to set aside conveyance that they proved that grantor was insolvent. Wynne et al. v. Boone et al. (1951, 191 F. 2d 220, 88 U.S. App. D.C. 363).

Under this section, the question of fraudulent intent is a "question of fact" and not a "question of law". Snider v. Kelly (1943, 135 F. 2d 817, 77 U.S. App. D.C. 363, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 62, 320 U.S. 764, 88 L. Ed. 456).

Quitclaim deeds

Where circumstances indicated that debtor was not owner of property or any part of it but at best had a claim which, in hands of creditor, might have had some nuisance value as a cloud on title, that real owner was debtor's brother and that deed from debtor to brother was in nature of a quitclaim to clear brother's title, evidence sustained findings and conclusion that conveyance did not violate this section regarding fraudulent conveyances. Snider v. Kelly (1943, 135 F. 2d 817, 77 U.S. App. D.C. 363, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 62, 320 U.S. 764, 88 L. Ed. 456).

Review

Finding that payment by insolvent corporation of its debt to its sole stockholder and managing director was made with intent to hinder or delay a creditor was not clearly erroneous and supported conclusion that transfer was void as against creditor. Ferro Inc., and Powell Jr. v. John Thompson Beacon Windows, Ltd. (1960, 278 F. 2d 280, 107 U.S. App. D.C. 400).

On appeal from judgment setting aside conveyance as fraud on creditors, sole function of Court of Appeals is to decide whether or not trial judge was clearly in error in being convinced by evidence presented, and it is not function of Court of Appeals to weigh evidence and it is not necessary that Court of Appeals itself find evidence on issue of fraud to be clear and convincing. Wynne et al. v. Boone et al. (1951, 191 F. 2d 220, 88 U.S. App. D.C. 363).

Summary judgment

Evidence in hearing on motion for summary judgment in action to set aside fraudulent conveyances showed existence of genuine issue of fact as to debtor's alleged fraudulent intent precluding summary judgment. F. S. Bowen Electric Co., Inc. v. J. D. Hedin Construction Co., Inc. (1963, 316 F. 2d 362, 114 U.S. App. D.C. 361).

Transfer to wife of bankrupt

Where there was a fraudulent transfer of bankrupt's property to wife, conveyance was set aside in equity. Harding v. Aaronson (1934, 69 F. 2d 845, 63 App. D.C. 107).

§ 28-3102. Intent to defraud purchasers

A conveyance of an estate or interest in land, or its rents and profits, and a charge upon the same, made or created with the intent to defraud prior or subsequent purchasers for a valuable consideration of the same lands, rents, or profits, are void, as against the purchasers. Such a conveyance or charge is not deemed fraudulent in favor of a subsequent purchaser who has actual or legal notice thereof at the time of his purchase, unless it appears that the grantee in the conveyance, or the person to be benefited by the charge, was privy to the fraud intended. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 675, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-3102 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1368, ch. 854, § 1121).

Changes are made in phraseology.

Question of fact

In action for breach of contract for conveyance of realty, questions of good faith and collusive intent are questions of fact requiring submission to the jury. Buchanan v. Farmer (D.C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 367).

§ 28-3103. Fiduciary's suit to vacate fraudulent transaction

An executor, administrator, receiver, assignee, or trustee of an estate, or of the property and effects of an insolvent estate, corporation, association, partnership, or individual, may, for the benefit of creditors and others interested in the estate or property so held in trust, disaffirm, treat as void, and resist all acts done, transfers, and agreements made in fraud of the rights of a creditor, including themselves and others interested in an estate or property held by or of right belonging to him or the estate. Whoever, in fraud of the rights of creditors and others receives, takes, or in any manner interferes with the estate, property, or effects of a deceased person or insolvent corporation, association, partnership, or individual is liable, in the proper action, to the executors, administrators, receivers, or trustees of the estate or property for the same, or the value of any property or effects so received or taken, and for all damages caused by such acts to the trust estate. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 675, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-3103 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1368, ch. 854, § 1122).

This section is rewritten in the present tense, to conform to the style of the revision.

Changes are made in phraseology.

Action to avoid deed

Section authorizes executors to file suit setting aside or canceling a deed executed by testator and to collect the expenses incident thereto. Ramsey v. Curtis (1950, 182 F. 2d 687, 86 U.S. App. D.C. 386).

Increase of rights

This section is "procedural", and the person for whose benefit transfer is sought to be set aside can get no increased substantive rights because administrator is bringing the suit. Hurwitz v. Hurwitz (1943, 136 F. 2d 796, 78 U.S. App. D.C. 66, 148 A.L.R. 226).

Where administratrix of deceased grantor sought to set aside transfers that allegedly had illegal purpose of defeating creditors and administratrix did not seek to benefit creditors, but to set aside the transfers for benefit of grantor's heirs, the heirs obtained no additional rights because their interests were represented by administratrix. Id.

Trust, enforcement of

Administratrix of deceased grantor could enforce "re-sulting trust" and recover proceeds of realty on behalf of heirs of grantor, notwithstanding evidence that transfers which administratrix sought to set aside had illegal purpose of defeating grantor's creditors. Hurwitz v. Hurwitz (1943, 136 F. 2d 796, 78 U.S. App. D.C. 66, 148 A.L.R. 226).

§ 28-3301. Rate of interest expressed in contract

Except as otherwise provided in section 28-3308, and chapter 36 of this subtitle, the parties to an instrument in writing for the payment of money at a future time may contract therein for the payment of interest on the principal amount thereof at a rate not exceeding 8 percent per annum. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 675, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965; Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 1, 85 Stat. 665.)

AMENDMENT

1971—Section 1 of Act Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, inserted the words "Except as otherwise provided in section 28-3308, and chapter 36 of this subtitle".

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-2702 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1377, ch. 854, § 1179; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 568, ch. 153, § 1).

The words "bond, bill, promissory note" are deleted as surplusage and covered by "instrument in writing."

Changes are made in phraseology.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRESENT LAW

Credit charge as usury

Credit charge of $219 for purchase over two-year period of merchandise that was available to buyer at cash price of $594.85 plus $17.85 sales tax does not constitute "interest" and is not usury. M. C. Morris v. Capitol Furniture & Appliance Co., Inc. (D.C. App. 1971, 280 A. 2d 775).

Overcharge of interest as usury

Receipt by deed of trust note holder of more than six but less than eight per cent interest violated note provision for six per cent interest but did not constitute "usury" within statute providing that parties to written instrument may contract for any rate not exceeding eight per cent. J. J. Urciolo and P. M. Urciolo v. R. S. Nash (D.C. App. 1965, 211 A. 2d 769).

Time-price sale

Bona fide sale of property on credit at a price that exceeds cash price by more than legal rate of interest does not constitute usury since seller is privileged to fix one price for cash and another for credit. M. C. Morris v. Capitol Furniture & Appliance Co., Inc. (D.C. App. 1971, 280 A. 2d 775).

Where cash sale price of sofa was $320, installment sale contract provided for cash price of $400, $12 sales tax, insurance premium of $7.03 and finance charge and fee for related services in amount of $94.56 and seller, which assigned agreement to finance corporation, merely received its cash price plus fee of $82.48 for transacting the loan and did not contemplate and enlarged credit price sale when the contract was executed and did not intend to protect its right of repossession, transaction was not a bona fide sale at a time price but was rather a cloak for a usurious loan. W. Lee v. Household Finance Corporation (D.C. App. 1970, 263 A. 2d 635).

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

Additional loan as usury

Usury sustained based on additional loan payable to intermediary. Quinn v. National Mtg. & Inv. Co. (1932, 57 F. 2d 410, 61 App. D.C. 44).

Bonus as usury

A commission or bonus paid to same person who is entitled to interest is to be considered as additional "interest" for purpose of usury law. Industrial Bank Washington, Inc., et al. v. Page (1957, 249 2d 938, 102 U.S. App. D.C. 33).

Where bank was offering to make loan at six percent with one person commission and consent to such contract was obtained when borrower signed note and in writing approved settlement sheet containing item of the one percent commission, the contract was within the eight percent provision of the usury statute, precluding borrower from recovering the amount of interest. Id.

"Bonus" being a sum paid to the creditor for the continued use of the money, clearly counts as interest for the purpose of the usury law; and a bonus, which, when added to the nominal interest on a 2-year extension exceeded 8 percent, was usurious. Bowen v. Mount Vernon Sav. Bank (1939, 105 F. 2d 796, 70 App. D.C. 273).

Incomplete transaction

Where transaction contemplated, with usurious rates, never took place, claim of usury could not be sustained Rosslyn Steel & Cement Co. v. Etchison (1932, 57 F. 2d 409, 61 App. D.C. 43).

Usury

Filing of certificate of withdrawal by foreign corporation did not change status previously acquired by corporation's contracts so that under statute allowing corporations to seek financing without regard to lawful interest rates its complaint for recovery of usurious interest under prior contracts was barred. Indian Lake Estates, Inc. v. Ten Individual Defendants (1965, 350 F. 2d 435, 121 U.S. App. D.C. 305).

§ 28-3302. Rate of interest not expressed and on judgments

The rate of interest in the District upon the loan or forbearance of money, goods, or things in action, and the rate to be allowed in judgments and decrees, in the absence of express contract, is 6 percent per annum. Interest, when authorized by law, on judgments against the District of Columbia, is at the rate of not exceeding 4 percent per annum. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 675, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-2701 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1377, ch. 854, § 1178; July 1, 1902, 32 Stat. 610, ch. 1352).

Changes are made in phraseology.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW*Judgments

While act April 22, 1870, 16 Stat. 91, ch. 59, fixed the rate of interest on judgments it did not cause such judgments or decrees to bear interest which would not have borne interest previously thereto. Washington & G. R. Co. v. Tobriner (1893, 13 S. Ct. 557, 147 U.S. 571, 37 L. Ed. 284).

If a judgment regularly rendered in the Supreme (District) Court of the District in a common-law action of tort cannot bear interest a fortiori it should not be permitted to run upon the judgment of the court of claims. Gray v. District of Columbia (1893, 1 App. D.C. 20).

Legal rates

When debtor defaults, compensation equal to value of the money, which is legal interest upon it, will be permitted during time the party is in default, provided a claim is made in declaration for the interest. District of Columbia v. Metropolitan R. Co. (1896, 8 App. D.C. 322, affirmed 25 S. Ct. 28, 195 U.S. 322, 49 L. Ed. 219).

All that plaintiff was entitled to recover was the principal sum, with interest at the legal rate after the termination of the contract rate, less the credits which she admitted. Richards v. Bippus (1901, 18 App. D.C. 293).

Occasional loans on real estate

A nonresident who makes occasional loans on real estate is not engaged "in the business" of loaning money. Zirkle v. Daly (1932, 54 F. 2d 455, 60 App. D.C. 344).

Usury

Filing of certificate of withdrawal by foreign corporation did not change status previously acquired by corporation's contracts so that under statute allowing corporations to seek financing without regard to lawful interest rates its complaint for recovery of usurious interest under prior contracts was barred. Indian Lake Estates, Inc. v. Ten Individual Defendants (1965, 350 F. 2d 435, 121 U.S. App. D.C. 305).

"When the promise to pay a sum above the legal interest depends upon a contingency, and not upon any happening of a certain event, the loan is not usurious." Whelpley v. Ross (1905, 25 App. D.C. 207).

Illegality of the transaction does not affect the obligation to pay a tax, and though the accruals represented legally uncollectible usury, there was at all times a reasonable expectation that they would be paid, and this fact is enough to constitute them income to the same extent as if the several amounts were actually paid. Barker v. Magruder (1938, 95 F. 2d 122, 68 App. D.C. 211).

Usury law protects the maker in spite of knowledge. The same financial pressure which forced him to submit to usury in the first place may force him to renew. To permit a mere renewal or extension of the contract to purge the usury would defeat the purpose of the statute. Bowen v. Mount Vernon Sav. Bank (1939, 105 F. 2d 796, 70 App. D.C. 273).

§ 28-3303. Usury defined

If a person or corporation contracts in the District,

(1) verbally, to pay a greater rate of interest than 6 percent per annum, or

(2) in writing, to pay a greater rate than is permitted under section 28-3301 or 28-3308 or under chapter 36 of this subtitle, the creditor shall forfeit the whole of the interest so contracted to be received.

This section does not affect sections 26-601 to 26-611. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 675, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965; Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 2, 85 Stat. 665.)

REFERENCE IN TEXT

Sections 26-601 to 26-611, referred to in the last sentence, refer to the Act of Feb. 4, 1913, as amended. Subsequent to the enactment of this section, the Act of Feb. 4, 1913, was amended by adding a new section 14 which has been classified to section 26-612.

AMENDMENT

1971—Section 2 of Act Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, amended clause (2) by striking out "8 per centum per annum" and inserting "is permitted under section 28-3301 or 28-3308 or under chapter 36 of this subtitle" in lieu thereof.

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-2703 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1377, ch. 854, § 1180; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 542, ch. 1329; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 568, ch. 153, § 1).

The last sentence is substituted for the proviso.

The use of provisos is discontinued because most "provisos" are not true provisos and simply reflect the use of legalistic terminology which is being corrected in the codification bills generally.

Changes are made in phraseology.

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRESENT LAW*Burden of proof

In the case, the court held that the assignee of conditional sale contract and note, that called for "time price" more than 8% greater than balance due, did not establish that transaction was not usurious, and thus did not establish that it was holder in due course, since there was no showing that "finance charge" or "carrying charge" was included to compensate seller for expense other than price of loan. L. Fuller v. Universal Acceptance Corporation (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 506).

Commission as constituting usury

Commission paid by a borrower to a loan broker for obtaining a loan from a third person does not constitute usury. J. Oliver v. United Mortgage Company, Inc., etc. (D.C. App. 1967, 230 A. 2d 722).

Even if loan broker had advanced his own funds to borrower, but had done so for convenience only and with expectation of reimbursing himself promptly from funds supplied by lender, broker who had retained commission for that service was not liable to borrower for allegedly usurious interest on ground that broker was principal on loan. Id.

Borrower was not entitled to recover portion of commission retained by loan broker for arranging loan on ground that transaction was usurious in absence of showing that broker was acting solely as agent of lender. Id.

Construction

Though Loan Shark Act of 1913 was primarily intended to regulate and limit business of making small loans for security, such Act does have application to loans in excess of $200; and such Act is not an amendment or exception to the usury statute. In re Parkwood, Inc. (1972, 461 F. 2d 158, 149 U.S. App. D.C. 67).

Credit charge as usury

Credit charge of $219 for purchase over two-year period of merchandise that was available to buyer at cash price of $594.85 plus $17.85 sales tax does not constitute "interest" and is not usury. M. C. Morris v. Capitol Furniture & Appliance Co., Inc. (D.C. App. 1971, 280 A. 2d 775).

Evidence

A showing that buyer under conditional sale contract was charged $47.88 for use of $300 for 12 months made a prima facie showing of usury, although total sum was labeled "time price", since credit had been prearranged through finance company to which contract was assigned. L. Fuller v. Universal Acceptance Corporation. (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 506).

An usurer cannot conceal his handiwork by avoiding use of term "interest". Id.

Forfeiture

In this case the court held that the assignee of a conditional sales contract and note was not entitled to recover "finance charge" or "carrying charge" which exceeded 8% per annum since the assignee did not establish that it was holder in due course and that transaction was not usurious. L. Fuller v. Universal Acceptance Corporation. (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 506).

Jurisdiction

The District of Columbia Court of General Sessions is without jurisdiction to render a declaratory judgment that centralized credit services' finance charges computed at annual rates of 18% and 12% exceeded interest rate which Congress has deemed lawful. P. Simmons v. Central Charge Service, Inc. (D.C. App. 1970, 269 A. 2d 850).

Nature of defense of usury

Usury as a defense attacks the original transaction as not bona fide and denies assignee of note the status of holder in due course. Universal Acceptance Corporation v. F. Marzullo et ano. (D.C. App. 1969, 260 A. 2d 90).

Placement fees

Where if the total of loan placement fee, appraisal fee and charge for credit report is deducted from face amount of loan the effective yield is 6.96 percent, the loan is not usurious. L. L. Bettum v. Montgomery Federal Savings & Loan Association, Inc. (Md. App. 1971, 277 A. 2d 600).

Pleading

A complaint against a centralized credit service, which sought to recover all interest paid by plaintiff and persons similarly situated and to which there was a statement attached showing that the defendant service charged 18% interest per annum on certain amounts and 12% interest per annum on other sum without any assertion that the statement constituted plaintiff's account, asked, in essence, for an advisory opinion that the defendant services' finance charges were usurious and should cease, and failed to state a cause of action. P. Simmons v. Central Charge Service, Inc. (D.C. App. 1970, 269 A. 2d 850).

Tainted transaction

The court held, that in this case the working arrangement between the conditional seller of television set and the assignee of purchasers' note was tainted such that it bore a "badge of fraud" and supported trial judge's ruling in suit by assignee on note that the note was usurious and that assignee could not be given status of holder in due course. Universal Acceptance Corporation v. F. Marzullo et ano. (D.C. App. 1969, 260 A. 2d 90).

Time-price sale

Bona fide sale of property on credit at a price that exceeds cash price by more than legal rate of interest does not constitute usury since seller is privileged to fix one price for cash and another for credit. M. C. Morris v. Capitol Furniture & Appliance Co., Inc. (D.C. App. 1971, 280 A. 2d 775).

Where cash sale price of sofa was $320, installment sale contract provided for cash price of $400, $12 sales tax, insurance premium of $7.03 and finance charge and fee for related services in amount of $94.56 and seller, which assigned agreement to finance corporation, merely received its cash price plus fee of $82.48 for transacting the loan and did not contemplate an enlarged credit price sale when the contract was executed and did not intend to protect its right of repossession, transaction was not a bona fide sale at a time price but was rather a cloak for a usurious loan. W. Lee v. Household Finance Corporation (D.C. App. 1970, 263 A. 2d 635).

In general

Money exacted by the lender from the borrower for the use of money in excess of the legal rate allowed by this section is usury under whatever name or pretense the exaction, extension, or forbearance may be designated. Von Rosen v. Dean (1930, 41 F. 2d 982, 59 App. D.C. 359).

It is the agreement and not necessarily its performance which renders debit usurious. Holcombe v. O'Sullivan (D.C. Mun. App. 1953, 93 A. 2d 96).

Bonus as usury

Where face amount of promissory note was $2,133 payable three years after date with interest at six percent per annum, but only $1,933 was advanced to maker of note, with $200 constituting a bonus, such note was usurious under usury statute. Holcombe v. O'Sullivan (D.C. Mun. App. 1953, 93 A. 2d 96).

Note or obligation is affected with usury if principal makes the loan, knowing that his agent has exacted a bonus or commission, though for his own sole benefit, which, with the interest payable to the principal, would amount to more than the rate permitted by law. Richards v. Bippus (1901, 18 App. D.C. 293).

Burden of proof

Under usury statute burden is upon borrower to show that contract was usurious. Industrial Bank of Washington, Inc., et al. v. Page (1957, 249 F. 2d 938, 102 U.S. App. D.C. 33).

In action on promissory note defendant had burden of proving alleged usury but defendant was not required to prove usury where usury was established by plaintiff's evidence. Holcombe v. O'Sullivan (D.C. Mun. App. 1953, 93 A. 2d 96).

Burden of proof is upon the borrower to show that the lender knew or was chargeable with the knowledge that his agent exacted a commission in obtaining loan for borrower in excess of the legal rate of interest. Such knowledge may be implied as well as actual. Searl v. Earll (D.C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 374).

Commissions

A commission or bonus paid to same person who is entitled to interest is to be considered as additional "interest" for purpose of usury law. Industrial Bank of Washington, Inc., et al. v. Page (1957, 249 F. 2d 938, 102 U.S. App. D.C. 33).

Where bank was offering to make loan at six percent with one percent commission and consent to such contract was obtained when borrower signed note and in writing approved settlement sheet containing item of the one percent commission, the contract was within the eight percent provision of the usury statute, precluding borrower from recovering the amount of interest, Id.

The usury statute may be violated by deducting a commission in advance as well as by any other means by which money in excess of legal rate is exacted. Holcombe v. O'Sullivan (D.C. Mun. App. 1953, 93 A. 2d 96).

Where a lender's agent with the lenders' knowledge and approval, takes the borrower's separate promissory note payable to himself for his compensation for obtaining the loan for the borrower, the agent cannot recover on the note when the interest on the principal loan plus the agent's commission exceeds the legal rate. Searl v. Earll (D.C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 374).

This section may be violated by deducting a commission in advance as well as by any other means by which money in excess of the legal rate is exacted. Hartman v. Lubar (D.C. Mun. App. 1946, 49 A. 2d 553).

Construction

The Loan Shark Law, § 26-601 et seq., the usury law, this section and § 28-2704 et seq., and the statute regarding financial institutions, § 47-1701 et seq. are to be read together and when so read constitute a comprehensive code for business of lending money in the District of Columbia. Hartman v. Lubar (1943, 133 F. 2d 44, 77 U.S. App. D.C. 95, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 1329, 319 U.S. 767, 87 L. Ed. 1716, rehearing denied 64 S. Ct. 30, 320 U.S. 808, 88 L. Ed. 488).

Corporate financing—interest rates

Filing of certificate of withdrawal by foreign corporation did not change status previously acquired by corporation's contracts so that under statute allowing corporations to seek financing without regard to lawful interest rates its complaint for recovery of usurious interest under prior contracts was barred. Indian Lake Estates, Inc. v. Ten Individual Defendants (1965, 350 F. 2d 435, 121 U.S. App. D.C. 305).

Defense

Usury can be invoked as a defense but not as an affirmative cause of action; that is, usury may be used as a shield but not as a sword. Royall v. Yudelevit et al. (D.C.D.C. 1953, 161 F. Supp. 217, reversed on other grounds 268 F. 2d 577).

Where there is a single consideration for one or more promises and any part of the transaction is illegal, the promises are wholly unenforceable. Searl v. Earll (D.C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 374).

Forfeiture

Under this section providing as to a usurious contract that creditor shall forfeit the whole of the interest, forfeiture applies not only to the usurious excess, but also to the lawful interest included in the contract rate, and this section forfeits all of the interest contracted for, if unpaid, or permits recovery, if paid by action within one year after payment. Searl et ano. v. Earll (1955, 221 F. 2d 24, 95 U.S. App. D.C. 151).

Holder in due course

In suit between makers of promissory notes aggregating $10,200, secured by deeds of trust on realty, and endorsee of such notes, involving issue as to whether the loan transaction was usurious, evidence sustained finding that the endorsee was not, as he claimed, a holder in due course for value without notice, but that he had actually and knowingly lent money to makers and had used payee as an intermediary to avoid the usury statute. Meredith et al. v. Cabell et al. (1954, 211 F. 2d 810, 94 U.S. App. D.C. 73).

Judgment

In suit between makers of promissory notes aggregating $10,200, secured by deeds of trust on realty, and endorsee of such notes who was in fact the actual lender, involving issue as to whether the loan transaction was usurious, evidence sustained finding that the endorsee had advanced to the makers, in return for the notes, only the sum of $7,510, of which $5,476.10 had been repaid, and warranted judgment that, unless unpaid balance be paid within 30 days, trustees designated in deeds of trust might sell property to satisfy amount found to be due. Meredith et al. v. Cabell et al. (1954, 211 F. 2d 810, 94 U.S. App. D.C. 73).

Knowledge of holder

One who acquires promissory notes with knowledge of usury in their inception is not a bona fide holder for value. Mollohan v. Masters (D.C.D.C. 45 App. D.C. 414, certiorari denied 37 S. Ct. 245, 242 U.S. 652, 61 L. Ed. 546).

Laws applicable to contract

In absence of evidence to contrary it would be presumed that a promissory note which was dated at Washington, D.C., the place of payment being blank, was made in District of Columbia and was payable at place of making and was therefore subject to District of Columbia usury law. Holcombe v. O'Sullivan (D.C. Mun. App. 1953, 93 A. 2d 96).

Usurious contract examined and held to be subject to laws of District of Columbia, although expressly declared to be made pursuant to laws of Virginia. Washington Nat. Bldg. & Loans Assn. v. Pifer (1908, 31 App. D.C. 434, 14 Ann. Cas. 734). See also, Croissant v. Empire State Realty Co. (1907, 29 App. D.C. 538).

Where agreement made in Maryland between defendant and certain individuals provided that the individuals should organize a corporation to acquire land in District of Columbia, the corporation to erect buildings thereon and execute to individuals a $19,000 mortgage thereon payable in one year, to be assigned to defendant upon payment of $15,000 to the corporation, and mortgage note was delivered in District of Columbia, where defendant paid the $15,000 and corporation paid the note in full one year later, as between the corporation and defendant the contract was made in District of Columbia, the laws of which permitted corporation to recover money usuriously exacted. Plitt v. Seven Corners Realty (1945, 149 F. 2d 832, 80 U.S. App. D.C. 134).

Liability of agent

An agent was personally liable for unlawful interest which he turned over to his principal with knowledge that the principal was not entitled thereto. Searl et ano. v. Earll (1955, 221 F. 2d 24, 95 U.S. App. D.C. 151).

In suit to recover the unpaid balance on a note given by defendants to plaintiff as commission for securing a loan from plaintiff's wife with counterclaim for usury, plaintiff was subject to separate liability and to a suit individually without joinder of his wife as principal. Id.

Limitations

In suit to recover the unpaid balance of a note with defense of usury, where concealment by plaintiff from defendants of the fact that the lender was his wife constituted fraud, bar of limitations against assertion of the defense of usury did not begin to run against the defendants until the fraud was discovered. Searl et ano. v. Earll (1955, 221 F. 2d 24, 95 U.S. App. D.C. 151).

Occasional loans on real estate

A nonresident who makes occasional loans on real estate is not engaged "in the business" of loaning money within the meaning of the Loan Shark Law. Zirkle v. Daly (1932, 54 F. 2d 455, 60 App. D.C. 344).

Prepayment charge

Even if premium charged by lender for privilege of permitting borrower to prepay entire amount of outstanding balance on note secured by deed of trust on realty could be considered as interest, transaction was not usurious where total amount of interest paid plus the premium was less than lawful maximum interest computed to date the loan was paid. Atlantic Life Ins. Co. of Richmond, Va. v. Wolf (D.C. Mun. App. 1947, 54 A. 2d 641).

Where neither note nor deed of trust on realty securing the note contained any provision permitting repayment by borrower before specified date of maturity, or vested any right or option of acceleration in borrower, the charge of premium to permit borrower to prepay entire amount of outstanding balance on note could not be considered as "interest", as regards usury. Id.

Purchase at discount

It is not usurious to purchase a note at a discount. Elliott v. Schlein (D.C. Mun. App. 1954, 104 A. 2d 418).

Where discounted notes were taken by creditor in payment of debt and not as security therefor, there was no mortgage so as to render the transaction usurious though the parties agreed that if proceeds realized exceeded amount of debt, debtors should be reimbursed accordingly and that in case of deficiency they would make it up. Krevait v. Turover (D.C. Mun. App. 1944, 39 A. 2d 207).

Where defendants owed plaintiffs money which they could not pay, it was not usury for defendant to give and plaintiff to receive in payment of the debt notes at a discount of 3 percent of their face value multiplied by the number of years required for the maturity of the notes. Id.

It is not usurious to purchase a note at a discount or to accept in payment of a debt a note at less than its face value. Id.

A purchase of negotiable paper in market overt "at a heavy discount below the face value" does not show usury. Metropolitan Loan & Trust Co. v. Schafer (1916, 44 App. D.C. 356).

Licensing statute

"Loan shark law" making it illegal to engage in business of loaning money without procuring a license is a licensing statute, unrelated to and unaffected by usury statutes. Indian Lake Estates, Inc. v. Ten Individual Defendants (1965, 350 F. 2d 435, 121 U.S. App. D.C. 305).

Set-off

Usurious interest cannot be set off against the principal debt. Presbrey v. Thomas (1893, 1 App. D.C. 171).

When usurious interest has been paid or taken, the sole and exclusive remedy for the borrower is by a suit within 12 months to recover the amount of the usury; and the usurious interest could not be made the subject of set-off or counterclaim, when after the lapse of 12 months suit is instituted for the recovery of the principal claim. Lawrence v. Middle States Loan Bldg. & Constr. Co. (1895, 7 App. D.C. 161).

"A defense of usury good against one obligation will not constitute a valid offset against a distinct and independent obligation, though between the same parties." Metropolitan Loan & Trust Co. v. Schafer (1916, 44 App. D.C. 356).

"If suit is brought on the principal debt after payment of usurious interest, such usury may be made a valid set-off against the principal debt. Usury upon obligations paid and canceled can not be used as a set-off against a subsequent obligation even between the same parties either in law or in equity." Id.

Sufficiency of pleading

In suit to recover the unpaid balance on a note, counterclaim was a sufficient pleading of the defense of usury as a vindication of the defendant's legal right or the remedying of a legal wrong. Searl et ano. v. Earll (1955, 221 F. 2d 24, 95 U.S. App. D.C. 151).

Summary judgment

Assuming original contracts and engagements were illegal and void because of violation of usury statutes and "loan shark law", claims of complaint that parties entered into agreements purporting to settle and compromise original contracts and engagements and that settlement agreements did not eliminate illegality presented complex issues of fact and law and mixed questions of law and fact not susceptible of disposition by summary judgment. Indian Lake Estates, Inc. v. Lichtman (1962, 311 F. 2d 776, 114 U.S. App. D.C. 90).

§ 28-3304. Action to recover usury paid

If a person or corporation in the District directly or indirectly takes or receives a greater amount of interest than is declared by this chapter to be lawful, whether in advance or not, the person or corporation paying the same may within one year after the date of payment sue for and recover the amount of the unlawful interest so paid. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 676, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-2704 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1377, ch. 854, § 1181).

Changes are made in phraseology.

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRESENT LAW*Pleading

A complaint against a centralized credit service, which sought to recover all interest paid by plaintiff and persons similarly situated and to which there was a statement attached showing that the defendant service charged 18% interest per annum on certain amounts and 12% interest per annum on other sum without any assertion that the statement constituted plaintiff's account, asked, in essence, for an advisory opinion that the defendant services' finance charges were usurious and should cease, and failed to state a cause of action. P. Simmons v. Central Charge Service, Inc. (D.C. App. 1970, 269 A. 2d 850).

Time limitation

An action by makers of a promissory note secured by deeds of trust on Washington, D.C. property to recover usurious portion of interest, would have to be brought within one year of date of payment of interest under District of Columbia Code provision. J. Katz et al. v. Simcha Company, Inc. (Court of App. Md. 1968, 246 A. 2d 555).

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW*Admissibility of evidence

Where there was evidence that indorsee finance company for which trustee brought replevin suit to recover chattels named in chattel trust deed securing a note was in the business of lending money rather than solely that of discounting notes in the sense of buying from a creditor an existing obligation at less than face value, proffered evidence consisting of court trials of five municipal court cases in which finance company sued to recover on notes assigned to it was material to defendant's defense that finance company was in business of lending money at rate of interest greater than 6 percent, without required license and should have been admitted. Hartman v. Lubar (D.C. Mun. App. 1946, 49 A. 2d 553).

Cancellation

A suit for cancellation of note and deed of trust on ground of usury, regarded as suit for declaratory judgment that complete defense existed to the obligation on the note, was not barred by this section or three-year general statute, § 12-201. Hill v. Hawes (1944, 144 F. 2d 511, 79 U.S. App. D.C. 168).

This section applies to recovery of any payments made on usurious obligation in excess of amount necessary to extinguish the note, though cancellation of usurious obligation was not barred. Id.

Commissions

Commissions deducted in advance by the lender constitute usury. Von Rosen v. Dean (1930, 41 F. 2d 982, 59 App. D.C. 359).

Construction

The time limitation in this section permitting recovery of all interest paid on a usurious transaction provided suit is begun within one year from date of such payment, is not a general statute of limitations but is a limitation imposed by statute which created right and is limitation of right itself. Earll v. Searl (D.C. Mun. App. 1954, 101 A. 2d 248).

Corporate financing—interest rates

Filing of certificate of withdrawal by foreign corporation did not change status previously acquired by corporation's contracts so that under statute allowing corporations to seek financing without regard to lawful interest rates its complaint for recovery of usurious interest under prior contracts was barred. Indian Lake Estates, Inc. v. Ten Individual Defendants (1965, 350 F. 2d 435, 121 U.S. App. D.C. 305).

Defenses

There are no limitations on claim of usury as a defense in a suit based on usurious obligations. Hill v. Hawes (1944, 144 F. 2d 511, 79 U.S. App. D.C. 168).

Although plaintiff's action to recover unpaid balance on note given by defendants to plaintiff as commission for obtaining a loan was brought more than one year after last payment, usury would defeat recovery pro tanto on the note, but affirmative relief by way of recovery of payments made was barred by this section. Earll v. Searl (D.C. Mun. App. 1954, 101 A. 2d 248).

Inferences

Where defendant had subpoenas duces tecum served upon officers of indorsee finance company for which trustee was maintaining replevin suit to compel them to produce at trial all records regarding the company for purpose of showing that company was in business of lending money at rate of interest greater than 6 percent without required license, and officers failed to produce the records, jury could infer from failure to produce subpoenaed records that contents thereof would have been unfavorable to trustee's case. Hartman v. Lubar (D.C. Mun. App. 1946, 49 R. 2d 553).

Interest forfeited

Whole of the interest contracted to be paid by the terms of the trust is forfeited as usury when the trust deed for amount in addition to the loan was payable to an intermediary who professed to sell the same to the actual lender. Quinn v. National Mtg. & Inv. Co. (1932, 57 F. 2d 410, 61 App. D.C. 44).

This section authorizing recovery of all "unlawful interest" paid on a loan, does not limit recovery to the amount above the lawful rate of interest, but authorizes recovery of the whole of the interest paid. Cockrell v. First Federal Savings & Loan Ass'n (D.C. Mun. App. 1943, 33 A. 2d 621).

Joint action

Action for recovery of usury brought by joint makers of note within one year after last payment on debt by one of the makers was not barred, even as to maker who had made no payment on debt for more than one year. Knott v. Jackson (D.C. Mun. App. 1943, 31 A. 2d 662).

Where makers related by marriage or blood executed a joint and several note secured by joint deed of trust on two properties, and proceeds of note were used by them under an apparent joint agreement, the three joint makers could maintain joint action and obtain joint judgment for usury admittedly paid, even though they could not show exactly what amount each had individually paid. Id.

Laches

An action to cancel usurious obligation was not barred by laches, in view of this section allowing recovery of usurious payments made within one year before suit, regardless of date of the note, since refusal of cancellation would merely result in circuitry of action. Hill v. Hawes (1944, 144 F. 2d 511, 79 U.S. App. D.C. 168).

Pleading

Where borrowers sought to recover usurious interest more than one year after last payment, lender's agent did not waive defense of one year time limitation by failing to plead it in view of fact that time limitation was imposed by this section which created the right and unlike statute of limitations it did not have to be pleaded in defense. Earll v. Searl (D.C. Mun. App. 1954, 101 A. 2d 248).

Where both the original and amended complaints were based on a claim for usury paid on account of a loan to plaintiff and it was apparent that defendants were not misled by an amendment setting up different dates and amounts, the amendment did not set up a "new cause of action" barred by limitations. Cockrell v. First Federal Savings & Loan Ass'n (D.C. Mun. App. 1943, 33 A. 2d 621).

Purchase at discount

Evidence did not sustain finding that lender was purchaser of note secured by trust deed and was not in fact the lender of the amount loaned thereon but established that the pretense of buying the note from the vendor was nothing more than an attempt to cover up the usurious loan, and hence the borrower was entitled to recover usurious interest paid. Elliott v. Schlein (D.C. Mun. App. 1954, 104 A. 2d 418).

Questions for jury

In action by joint makers of note for recovery of usury, question whether $50 payment made by lender to his attorney on account of expenses and fees in connection with the loan was proper charge against the borrowers was properly submitted to jury. Knott v. Jackson (D.C. Mun. App. 1943, 31 A. 2d 662).

Where joint makers of note instituted joint action for recovery of usury but lender contended that one maker, upon making payment more than one year before institution of action, was released from all obligation under note and that as a consequence her claim was barred by one-year limitation of this section, question whether such maker was released from further personal liability at time she made the payment was properly submitted to jury. Id.

Repayment of loan

One-year limitation runs, not from the time that usurious interest may have been deducted, but from the time the last payment was made. "Until that time the full amount of the deduction had not been paid by her. There could be no usurious interest collected until the appellee had paid the full amount she received, together with legal interest." Brown v. Slocum (1908, 30 App. D.C. 576).

Section 28-2703 et seq. relating to usury do not destroy the obligation to repay the principal on account of the usury, but requires a forfeiture of all interest contracted for, if unpaid, or permits its recovery, if paid, by action begun within one year after payment. Cockrell v. First Federal Savings & Loan Ass'n (D.C. Mun. App. 1943, 33 A. 2d 621).

An action to recover usurious interest paid can only be maintained after last payment on debt has been made. Knott v. Jackson (D.C. Mun. App. 1943, 31 A. 2d 662).

A loan transaction which would be free from usury if loan were paid at agreed maturity date is not rendered usurious by borrower's voluntary repayment of loan before maturity, even though, by reason of such repayment, amount of interest received by lender exceeds lawful interest computed to day the loan is paid, provided that total interest received by lender does not exceed lawful interest computed to maturity date stipulated in loan contract. Atlantic Life Ins. Co. of Richmond, Va. v. Wolf (D.C. Mun. App. 1947, 54 A. 2d 641).

Running of period

In action to recover unpaid balance on note given by defendants to plaintiff as commision for obtaining a loan which was made by plaintiff's wife to defendants through straw party, one year time limitation would not be extended in absence of evidence of fraud on part of plaintiff in concealing name of actual lender. Earll v. Searl (D.C. Mun. App. 1954, 101 A. 2d 248).

Sufficiency of evidence

In replevin by trustee of indorsee finance company to recover chattels named in trust deed securing a note, evidence that loan was usurious, in that an amount in excess of legal rate was deducted in advance and that plaintiff knew the amount deducted in advance, was sufficient to make defense of illegality available to defendant. Hartman v. Lubar (D.C. Mun. App. 1946, 49 A. 2d 553).

§ 28-3305. Unlawful interest credited on principal debt

In an action upon a contract for the payment of money with interest at a rate forbidden by law, any payment of interest that may have been made on account of the contract is deemed to be payment made on account of the principal debt; and judgment shall be rendered for no more than the balance found due after deducting and properly crediting the interest so paid. A bona fide indorsee of negotiable paper purchased before due is not affected by any usury exacted by a former holder of the paper unless he had notice of the usury before his purchase. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 676, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-2705 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1378, ch. 854, § 1182; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 542, ch. 1329).

Changes are made in phraseology.

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

Innocent holders for value

No relief to borrowers of money at usurious rates against innocent holders for value. Whipp v. Glueck (1932, 58 F. 2d 523, 61 App. D. C. 118).

Maker of new notes

Quaere, whether maker of new notes to take the place of former usurious notes to which he was a party can take advantage of this section and plead usury as a defense to all except the principal sum due. King v. Curtin (1908, 31 App. D.C. 23).

Recovery of interest

Finance company, which was not a holder in due course of promissory note calling for usurious rate of interest, was not entitled to recover any interest on note. J. W. Beatty v. Franklin Investment Co. Inc. (1963, 319 F. 2d 712, 115 U.S. App. D.C. 311).

§ 28-3306. Parties compelled to testify

When in an action to recover a debt the defendant claims that payment of unlawful interest on the debt has been made to the plaintiff or those under whom he claims, which the defendant is entitled to have credited on the principal of the debt, the plaintiff or the party who received the unlawful interest may be examined as a witness to prove the payment, and may not be excused from testifying in relation thereto. A creditor who is made defendant in a proceeding for discovery as to payments of unlawful interest made to him may not be excused from answering. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 676, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-2706 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1378, ch. 854, § 1183).

Changes are made in phraseology.

§ 28-3307. District of Columbia Council authorized to exempt certain mortgages and loans

The District of Columbia Council is authorized from time to time to provide by regulation for the exemption from the provisions of this chapter of any mortgage or loan insured or guaranteed under the National Housing Act or chapter 37 of title 38, United States Code, the interest rate of which is subject to regulation by an officer or agency of the Federal Government. The Council is further authorized to amend or repeal any such regulation at any time, but no such amendment or repeal shall affect any such loan or mortgage lawfully made or committed to be made while such exemption is in effect. (Added Aug. 20, 1970, Pub. L. 91-385, § 2(a), 84 Stat. 828.)

REFERENCE IN TEXT

The National Housing Act, referred to in text, is classified to 12 U.S.C. 1701 et seq.

§ 28-3308. Finance charge on direct installment loans

(a) On a loan in which the principal does not exceed $25,000 (other than a loan directly secured on real estate or a direct motor vehicle installment loan covered by chapter 36 of this subtitle) to be repaid in equal or substantially equal monthly, or other periodic, installments, any federally insured bank or savings and loan association doing business in the District of Columbia may contract for and receive interest at the rate permitted under this chapter or, in lieu of such interest, a finance charge, which, if expressed as an annual percentage rate, does not exceed a rate of 11½ percent per annum on the unpaid balances of principal. This section does not limit or restrict the manner of contracting for the finance charge, whether by way of discount, add-on or simple interest, so long as the annual percentage rate of the finance charge does not exceed that permitted by this section.

(b) If such installment loan is precomputed,

(1) the finance charge may be calculated on the assumption that all scheduled payments will be made when due, and

(2) except as provided in subsection (c), upon prepayment in full of the unpaid balance of a precomputed direct installment loan, refinancing, or consolidation, an amount not less than the unearned portion of the finance charge calculated according to this section shall be rebated to the debtor. If the rebate otherwise required is less than $1, no rebate need be made.

(c) Upon prepayment in full of such direct installment loan other than a refinancing or consolidation, whether or not precomputed, the lender may collect or retain a minimum charge within the limits stated in this section of the finance charge earned at the time of prepayment is less than any minimum charge contracted for. The minimum charge may not exceed the smaller of the following: (1) the amount of the finance charge contracted for, or (2) $5 in a transaction which had a principal of $75 or less, or $7.50 in a transaction which had a principal of more than $75.

(d) The unearned portion of the finance charge is a fraction of the finance charge of which the numerator is the sum of the periodic balances scheduled to follow the computational period in which the prepayment occurs, and the denominator is the sum of all periodic balances under either the related loan agreement or, if the balance owing resulted from a refinancing or a consolidation, under the related refinancing agreement or consolidation agreement.

(e) As used in this section, "finance charge", and "annual percentage rate" shall have the respective meanings under the provisions of the Truth-in-Lending Act (82 Stat. 146 et seq.; 15 U.S.C. 1601 et seq.) and the regulations and interpretations thereunder; and "federally insured bank or savings and loan association" means an insured bank as defined in section 3 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act or an "insured institution" as defined in section 401 of the National Housing Act. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 3, 85 Stat. 665.)

REFERENCE IN TEXT

Section 3 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act and section 401 of the National Housing Act, referred to in subsec. (e), are classified to 12 U.S.C. 1813 and 12 U.S.C. 1724, respectively.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28-3301, 28-3303, 28-3802.

Chapter 35.—STATUTE OF FRAUDS*Sec.

- 28-3501. Estate created otherwise than by deed.
- 28-3502. Special promise to answer for debt or default of another.
- 28-3503. Declaration, grant, and assignment of trust.
- 28-3504. New promise or acknowledgment of contract—
Action against joint contractors.
- 28-3505. New promise or acknowledgment of debt incurred during infancy.

§ 28-3501. Estate created otherwise than by deed

An estate, attempted to be created for a greater term than one year in real estate, other than by deed, is an estate by sufferance. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 676, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-3001 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1367, ch. 854, § 1116).

The term "real estate" is substituted for "lands, tenements, or hereditaments" to conform with the style of revisions generally.

Changes are made in phraseology.

CROSS REFERENCE

Other provisions requiring estates in lands to be created by written instrument, see §§ 45-106, 45-820.

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW*Assignment of lease

An assignment of a lease conveys an interest in realty and comes within the statute of frauds if for a greater term than one year, however, it is well established that an oral agreement creating an interest in land which has been carried into effect is valid and enforceable and where the lessee turns the premises over to the assignee and the assignee enters into possession with the consent of the lessor and pays rent, the assignment is complete and the rights and liabilities of the parties are not affected by the statute. Diatz v. Washington Technical School (D.C. Mun. App. 1950, 73 A. 2d 227, rehearing denied 73 A. 2d 718).

Executed oral assignment

An oral agreement creating an interest in land which has been carried into effect is valid. Mars v. Spanos (1944, 139 F. 2d 369, 78 U.S. App. D.C. 230).

Where retiring partner received back his contributions to partnership and orally assigned to copartner rights in five-year lease of store, lease became property of general partnership under oral agreement between assignee and third person, and general partnership immediately took possession of leased premises with implied consent of landlord and discharged obligations under lease until dissolved by order of court, as respects rights of assignors and assignees, both assignments were completely executed and hence not avoidable for violation of this section. Id.

Extension agreement

A written six months' extension agreement which was entered into by lessor and lessees before expiration of five-year lease, and which did not create or purport to create a new estate, and which made no change in original lease except to fix new expiration date, was valid although not under seal, and lessees would not be entitled to thirty-day notice to quit as tenants at sufferance. Binder v. Jaffe (D.C. Mun. App. 1953, 101 A. 2d 260).

Lease by agent-lessor

Where by terms of lease the agent-lessor formally let and demised property to lessee for a term and in the acknowledgment the instrument was referred to as deed of lease, deed, and "act and deed" of the parties and instrument was signed and sealed by agent-lessor, such instrument was a conveyance which satisfied statute requiring that a lease shall be evidenced by deed signed and sealed by the lessor and consequently lessee was not a tenant by sufferance. Paul v. Holloway (D.C. Mun. App. 1956, 122 A. 2d 774).

Ouster of tenants

Plaintiff-grantee could not ignore the legal procedure provided for ousting tenants, and compromise with them for a sum which it might elect to pay, and then recover that sum from defendant-grantors upon any basis of breach of warranty. Standard Sav. Bank v. Stone (1922, 280 F. 1016, 2d App. D.C. 42).

Parol agreement

In suit for specific performance of deceased's alleged parol agreement to leave house and premises to plaintiff in consideration for his caring for deceased, where plaintiff and wife moved into house after it was purchased by deceased, plaintiff paid no rent during lifetime of deceased who occupied room of house and occasionally ate meals with plaintiff, evidence supported judgment dismissing action on ground that performance was not sufficient to take case out of operation of statute of frauds. Slaughter v. Madison (1943, 135 F. 2d 650, 77 U.S. App. D.C. 226, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 1331, 319 U.S. 768, 87 L. Ed. 1717).

Termination of oral tenancy

Where, at most, claim of tenant was that landlord orally promised that tenant could remain in possession of lot used as a parking lot at such rental as landlord might from time to time fix and to which tenant might agree, landlord's notice to tenant to quit terminated the tenancy, though landlord had allegedly agreed that lease was to run until landlord desired to erect a building on the lot. Snitman v. Goodman et al. (D.C. Mun. App. 1955, 118 A. 2d 394).

§ 28-3502. Special promise to answer for debt or default of another

An action may not be brought to charge an executor or administrator upon a special promise to answer damages out of his own estate, or to charge the defendant upon a special promise to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of another person, or to charge a person upon an agreement made upon consideration of marriage, or upon a contract or sale of real estate, of any interest in or concerning it, or upon an agreement that is not to be performed within one year from the making thereof, unless the agreement upon which the action is brought, or a memorandum or note thereof, is in writing, which need not state the consideration and signed by the party to be charged therewith or a person authorized by him. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 676, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-3002 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1367, ch. 854, § 1117).

Changes are made in phraseology.

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRESENT LAW*Conflict of laws

For the purpose of determining whether a corporate officer's personal guaranty of work to be performed by the corporation was within the statute of frauds, there was no significant difference between the form of statute in force in District of Columbia and Maryland. I. R. Friedman v. D. Clark (Md. C. App. 1969, 248 A. 2d 867).

Memorandum

The general rule is that the essential terms of agreement required to be in writing by virtue of statute of frauds must be expressed in writing without resort to parol evidence. Educational Enterprises, Inc. v. P. C. Greening (D.C. App. 1970, 265 A. 2d 287).

Oral promise

Even if oral agreement was made whereby defendant was to purchase, each year, football season tickets as agent of plaintiffs, statute of frauds was applicable to bar action, notwithstanding any hardship incurred by claimants in reliance. G. G. Tauber et ano. v. G. M. Jacobson et ano. (D.C. App. 1972, 293 A. 2d 861).

Parol evidence

In this case, the court of appeals held that the trial court properly ruled that parol evidence of employer's policy regarding bonuses was admissible as aid in interpretation of handwritten agreement, which was signed by employer some nine months after oral promise to pay employee certain salary for a year and which provided that "Earning—Salary and Bonus" for year totaled specified amount, to explain that total compensation for year was limited to specified amount and that employee would not receive an additional amount by way of discretionary Christmas bonus. Educational Enterprises, Inc. v. P. C. Greening (D.C. App. 1970, 265 A.2d 287).

Sufficiency of writing

Letter wherein shopping center operators indicated appreciation for company's efforts in assisting operators in their application for proper zoning and stated that in event of success operators would give company opportunity to be major tenant with rental and terms at least equal to that of any other major department store in the center, together with full performance by company of the assistance services, was sufficient writing to satisfy District of Columbia statute of frauds. City Stores Company v. H. M. Ammerman et al. (1967, 266 F. Supp. 766).

Unilateral contract

Defendants' letter stating that defendants would give plaintiff opportunity to become major tenant in contemplated shopping center with rental and terms at least equal to that of any other major store in center was sufficient evidence of unilateral contract to satisfy District of Columbia statute of frauds. H. M. Ammerman et al. v. City Stores Company (1968, 394 F.2d 950, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 325).

Acknowledgment

Where defendant, with whom plaintiff had made a gratuitous bailment of money, wrote plaintiff, in response to letters requesting payment of the money, that he was in no position "at present" to send plaintiff any money, the letter was sufficient acknowledgment of the debt to stop running of statute of limitations. Irvine v. Grado-ville (1955, 221 F.2d 544, 95 U.S. D.C. 263).

Ambiguities

Necessary elements of a writing required by statute of frauds may not be supplied by parol, but ambiguities in the terms may be resolved by other evidence. Sweeney v. Jacobsen (D.C.D.C. 1952, 103 F. Supp. 399, affirmed 202 F.2d 461, 92 U.S. App. D.C. 93).

Application generally

This section applies to an agreement which appears from its terms to be incapable of performance within a year. Street v. Maddux (1928, 24 F.2d 617, 58 App. D.C. 42).

In action brought by real estate broker for damages resulting from alleged breach by defendant of agreement whereunder defendant allegedly promised to pay to broker and defendant's son an amount equal to retail price of realty over specified amount, if broker and defendant's son would assist defendant in obtaining title to realty for specified price, wherein broker claimed no interest in realty, statute of frauds was not applicable and afforded no defense. Kyle v. Wiley (D.C. Mun. App. 1951, 78 A.2d 769).

Approval

The fact that printed form used in making agreement for purchase of realty provided that the deposit was subject to the owner's approval did not render agreement signed by purchasers and broker but not by owner unenforceable under this section where such approval had previously been given in exchange of telegrams between owner and broker. Ochs v. Weil (1944, 142 F.2d 758, 79 U.S. App. D.C. 84).

Contract signed by purchaser only

Where purchaser brought action against vendor for breach of contract to convey land and only produced carbon copy of contract bearing only the signature of the purchaser, such document was no more than an offer to buy and was within statute of frauds and was unenforceable against vendor. Greenfield v. Murray, Executor (D.C. Mun. App. 1955, 117 A.2d 227).

Description of property

If contract contains in itself no description of the property to be sold, standing alone, no court of equity could specifically enforce it, but, if the description is found in other writings, forming part and parcel of the transaction, the omission is not fatal. Shell Eastern Petroleum Products v. White (1934, 68 F.2d 379, 62 App. D.C. 332).

Estoppel

One who induces another by a parol agreement to change his position so materially that unless inducing agreement is enforced a fraud results is estopped to set up statute of frauds to bar such enforcement. Brewood v. Cook et al. (1953, 207 F.2d 439, 92 U.S. App. D.C. 386).

That employee, upon obtaining employment, came from Harrisburg to Washington, did not estop employer asserting that alleged oral contract for two years' employment was barred by statute of frauds. Easter v. Kass-Berger, Inc. (D.C. Mun. App. 1956, 121 A.2d 868).

Evidence

In action against vendor by purchaser to have contract for sale of realty canceled and to recover payments made under the contract, on ground that purchaser was induced to sign a contract by fraudulent misrepresentations of vendor, evidence of settlement agreed to by the parties after suit had been begun, was properly admitted over objection that offers to compromise are not admissible in support of a contested claim or defense, though agreement was oral and payments were not to be completed within one year, so that no suit could have been brought on the agreement itself. Hiltbold v. Stern (D.C. Mun. App. 1951, 82 A.2d 123).

Fraud

Doctrine of fraud may be invoked to prevent statute of frauds from becoming an instrument of fraud. Easter v. Kass-Berger, Inc. (D.C. Mun. App. 1956, 121 A.2d 868).

In absence of other and stronger circumstances, a mere refusal to perform an oral agreement is not such fraud as to prevent application of statute of frauds, despite hardship to a plaintiff. Id.

Improvements

One who has been induced to alter his position and make improvements on property based on a parol contract may enforce such contract in the courts notwithstanding this section. De Grazia v. Anderson (D.C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A.2d 194).

Memorandum

One party's memorandum, evidencing oral agreement for sale of land, not signed by other parties or any one on their behalf was insufficient. Bell v. Morgan (1952, 199 F.2d 168, 91 U.S. App. D.C. 65).

Where there was a full and definite agreement as to all essentials which parties intended to be binding, and the parties signed a memorandum which was sufficient to satisfy the statute of frauds, execution of a formal contract as contemplated by the memorandum was not necessary to effect a valid contract between the parties. Sweeney v. Jacobsen (D.C.D.C. 1952, 103 F. Supp. 393, affirmed 202 F.2d 461, 92 U.S. App. D.C. 93).

Written memorandum, signed by two parties, which stated that a $500 deposit had been received from one of the parties, and that such deposit represented partial payment on agreed price of $7,500 cash and assumption of existing note in purchase of business and machinery of named business, the location of which was stated, plus agreement of lease, and which stated that formal contract was to be drawn later, with full settlement within 30 days of such memorandum, was sufficiently definite and certain to satisfy statute of frauds, since it left no doubt as to who was purchaser, who was seller, what property was involved, and what the terms were. Id.

A written memorandum, to remove an oral agreement for two years' employment of statute of frauds, must state all promises of parties with sufficient clarity and definiteness to render essential terms of agreement clear without resort to parol testimony. Easter v. Kass-Berger, Inc. (D.C. Mun. App. 1956, 121 A.2d 868).

Letter wherein defendant offered employment and stated that defendant was likely to be busy for at least the succeeding two years was not a sufficient memorandum of an alleged oral contract for two years' employment to remove contract from statute of frauds. Id.

— Disclosure or vendor

A contract for the sale of land, where the memorandum fails to disclose the name of the vendor, can not be enforced. Storow v. Concord Club (1934, 70 F.2d 852, 63 App. D.C. 190).

Where owner employed broker to sell realty and in response to broker's telegram regarding cash offer and query "Advise immediately if accepted," owner telegraphed broker to accept offer and asked for $1,000 deposit and thereafter broker and purchasers signed agreement which identified purchasers and property and fully set out purchase price and manner of payment, the contract was binding under this section, notwithstanding the owner's name did not appear in the agreement and it was never signed by him. Ochs v. Weil (1944, 142 F. 2d 758, 79 U.S. App. D.C. 84).

Where owner employed broker to sell realty and in response to broker's telegram regarding cash offer and query "Advise immediately if accepted," owner telegraphed broker to accept offer, the fact that agreement, which was signed by broker and purchasers, did not name owner and was sent to owner who refused to sign it did not establish that broker did not have authority to make agreement binding on owner under this section. Id.

Where contract for sale of real estate described the seller as the "seller" and there was no description of the premises allegedly involved except that the contract stated that the premises were "owner occupied", there was no reasonably sufficient description of the premises involved and parol testimony was inadmissible to supply the description. Fitzgan v. Burke (D.C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 721).

Option within year

While plaintiff's contract with defendant was in parol, the option might have been exercised within a year, and the statute therefore did not apply. Campbell v. Rawlings (1922, 280 F. 1011, 52 App. D.C. 37, 23 A.L.R. 854).

Oral promise

Where debt of open advertising account had been incurred by corporation, and after corporation had become insolvent, one of the officers made several payments on debt with his personal funds and stated that he wanted advertiser to get his money, it was doubtful that oral statement constituted a promise to pay corporate debt and even assuming it did, any claim based on it was barred by statute of frauds. Alvin Epstein Advertising Corp. v. Helfer and Spector (D.C. Mun. App. 1957, 138 A. 2d 925).

— Stockholder's oral promise

In action by creditor of corporation against its sole stockholder on alleged oral promise to pay corporation's debts, evidence, verbal or documentary, failed to establish consideration which would support an original promise to pay debt, independent of simultaneous responsibility of corporation. Smith v. Lo Castro (D.C. Mun. App. 1957, 134 A. 2d 486).

— Extension by oral agreement

Under District of Columbia law, provision for time of performance in contract for sale of business and leasehold of premises upon which business was conducted, which contract was required to be in writing and signed by party to be charged, could validly be extended by oral agreement, where time was not of essence of contract. Jacobsen v. Sweeney (1953, 202 F. 2d 461, 92 U.S. App. D.C. 93).

Where lessor and lessees entered into written six months' extension agreement before expiration of five-year lease, lessees were not entitled to remain in possession past the extension period on basis of alleged parol option for additional six months' extension beyond first extension in view of fact that alleged option did not comply with Statute of Frauds and was not supported by any consideration. Binder v. Jaffe (D.C. Mun. App. 1953, 161 A. 2d 260).

Parol evidence

Where time is not of the essence of a written contract within the statute of frauds, strict compliance with covenant as to time of performance may be waived, prior to breach, by oral agreement of the parties without affecting other provisions of the written contract, and the mutual promises of the parties are sufficient consideration for such oral agreement. Sweeney v. Jacobsen (D.C.D.C. 1952, 103 F. Supp. 393, affirmed 202 F. 2d 461, 92 U.S. App. D.C. 93).

The existence of a separate oral agreement as to any matter on which a written contract is silent, and which is not inconsistent with its terms, may be proved by parol, if under the circumstances it may be properly inferred that the party did not intend the writing to be a complete and final statement of the whole transaction. Jay's Restaurant v. Jack Stone Co. (D.C. Mun. App. 1949, 62 A. 2d 799).

Performance—Defeasance distinguished

An oral contract wherein plaintiff was to assume duties of resident manager of an apartment development for which services he was to receive $75 per week in addition to a rent-free apartment for the duration of the contract which was to continue until plaintiff completed his law studies as a student duly matriculated at a law school or unless plaintiff were obliged to discontinue his law studies because of deficient scholarship or for some similar reason, was void under the statute of frauds as an agreement not to be performed within the space of one year from the making thereof, in view of fact that at the time of contract plaintiff had approximately three years of law studies to complete, and in view of fact that provision for termination of the contract which might have occurred within one year was not performance necessary to take the agreement out of the operation of the statute. Coan, Jr. v. Orsinger and Tyler Gardens Corp. (1959, 265 F. 2d 575, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 201).

Fact that a contract may be terminated, or further performance rendered impossible, within the period of one year, does not take it out of the statute of frauds where the obligation is one which cannot be performed within the year, since discharge from liability under a contract is not performance thereof within the statute. Id.

— Partial performance

Remaining in employ of one orally agreeing to devise real estate when husband wished to move to another city did not amount to such a change in the course of service in life of promisee as would justify invocation of exceptional rule of equity permitting specific performance. Faunce v. Woods (1925, 5 F. 2d 753, 55 App. D.C. 330, 40 A.L.R. 208).

That employee worked for six weeks under alleged oral contract for two years' employment was not sufficient part performance to take contract from statute of frauds. Easter v. Kass-Berger, Inc. (D.C. Mun. App. 1956, 121 A. 2d 868).

Generally, nothing short of full performance will take a contract not to be performed within one year from within statute of frauds. Id.

— Susceptible of performance within one year

An alleged co-broker's agreement was not within the statute of frauds where it would have been fully performed as soon as the purchaser purchased the building site which could have occurred within one year, it being immaterial that the sale for which commissions were sought took place more than a year after the alleged co-broker's agreement. Snyder etc. v. Hillegeist et al. (1957, 246 F. 2d 649, 100 U.S. App. D.C. 368).

An agreement which is capable, possible or susceptible of performance within one year is not within the statute of frauds. Id.

— Time of performance

Although time of performance was specifically provided in written memorandum, in view of mutual agreement between parties on or before date of performance to waive strict compliance and to extend time for the performance, time was not of the essence of the contract, and therefore the contract as orally extended was not void under statute of frauds. Sweeney v. Jacobsen (D.C.D.C. 1952, 103 F. Supp. 393, affirmed 202 F. 2d 461, 92 U.S. App. D.C. 93).

Personal obligation

Where principal contract did not cover additional work which owner, through general contractor requested plumbing subcontractor to perform for owner, subcontractor's claim against owner was based on owner's personal promise to pay owner's own debt and not debt of another, and § 38-121 authorizing subcontractor to recover amount owed by original contractor from owner who specially promises in writing for consideration to be answerable for such amount was inapplicable to subcontractor's claim against owner, and such claim was not within this section requiring special promise to answer for debt of another person to be in writing. Jones v. Guice (D.C. Mun. App. 1948, 57 A. 2d 190).

Pleading

Complaint, alleging in effect that owner employed broker to sell realty, that in response to broker's telegram regarding cash offer and query "Advise immediately if accepted," owner telegraphed broker to accept offer and that broker and purchasers signed agreement which carried out authority granted to broker and which identified purchasers and property and set out purchase price and manner of payment, stated a claim on which relief could be granted, although agreement did not name, and was not signed by owner. Ochs v. Weil (1944, 142 F. 2d 758, 79 U.S. App. D.C. 84).

Question for court

Where evidence is clear and unconflicting, legal sufficiency of memorandum to remove case from statute of frauds is question for court. Easter v. Kass-Berger, Inc. (D.C. Mun. App. 1956, 121 A. 2d 868).

Renewal notice under lease

Where extended term of a lease is fixed by and is a part of the original written lease, and comes into existence merely by lessee's exercising his option and giving required notice, no question as to application of statute of frauds arises. Worthing, T/A etc. v. Serkes (D.C. Mun. App. 1955, 111 A. 2d 877).

Renewal notice of tenant unsigned, but bearing stamped trade name, enclosed in the same envelope containing his rental check which bore tenant's signature and trade name was sufficient compliance with requirements of lease. Id.

Review

In action by creditor of corporation against its sole stockholder on alleged oral promise to pay corporation's debt, in view of general findings in favor of stockholder, municipal court of appeals must assume that issues of consideration, and whether promise, if made, was an original and independent or merely a collateral promise to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of the corporation, had been resolved in favor of stockholder. Smith v. Lo Castro (D.C. Mun. App. 1957, 134 A. 2d 486).

Sale—Leasehold

Under District of Columbia law, agreement for sale of business and leasehold of premises upon which business was conducted, covered an interest in land and was required to be in writing and signed by party to be charged. Jacobsen v. Sweeney (1953, 202 F. 2d 461, 92 U.S. App. D.C. 93).

— Realty

Under statute of frauds, a contract for sale of realty is valid and enforceable only when it is in writing and there is sufficient description of property to be sold, price to be paid and the names of parties to transaction. P. T. Apostolides, etc. v. G. Colecchia, et al. (D.C. App. 1966, 221 A. 2d 437).

Under this section, an agreement for sale of real estate is enforceable only when it is in writing and there is a sufficient description of the thing sold, the price to be paid, and the names of the party selling and the party buying, and none of such elements can be supplied by parol testimony. Ochs v. Weil (1944, 142 F. 2d 758, 79 U.S. App. D.C. 84). See, also, Fitzaan v. Burke (D.C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 721).

Settlements

The statute of frauds requiring written evidence of an agreement to answer for the death, default or miscarriage of another is not applicable where the settlement agreement in compromise rested on the theory of direct liability by reason of ownership of the striking car. Saunders System Washington Co. v. Kuffner (D.C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 136).

Trusts

Where complaint charged facts indicating that defendant held all but her own share of land in question charged with a constructive trust for plaintiff and certain other designated persons, plaintiff was not foreclosed from recovery of her share by this section. Major v. Shaver (1946, 6 F.R.D. 207).

Unjust enrichment

Where plaintiff's alleged oral option to purchase land was invalid under statute of frauds, and plaintiff's alleged action in interesting third party to purchase land was not for benefit of landowners but solely to enable plaintiff to make profit, unintended benefit conferred on landowners when they sold to such third party at higher price was not necessarily unjust and plaintiff could not recover value of the benefit under theory of unjust enrichment. Rosenkoff v. Finkelstein (1952, 195 F. 2d 203, 90 U.S. App. D.C. 263).

Waiver

In discharged employee's action to recover salary after discharge, wherein employer at outset denied alleged contract of employment and made it clear that employer was relying on statute of frauds, employee's testimony as to conversation concerning employment was admissible on issue as to whether there had been an oral agreement for employment, and employer's failure to object to such testimony did not constitute a waiver of the defense based on statute of frauds. Easter v. Kass-Berger, Inc. (D.C. Mun. App. 1956, 121 A. 2d 868).

Writings

Generally, a check may be deemed to be a writing sufficient to satisfy requirements of statute of frauds if it bears notations or contains references to papers which embody the essential terms of the contract. Alvin Epstein Advertising Corp. v. Helfer and Spector (D.C. Mun. App. 1957, 138 A. 2d 925).

Even if oral statements constituted a promise to pay debt of corporation, issuance of three personal checks by alleged promisor in part payment of debt where checks were not in evidence could not constitute a writing sufficient to satisfy requirements of statute of frauds. Id.

— Related writings

A complete contract regarding realty binding under this section may be gathered from letters, writings and telegrams between the parties relating to the subject matter of the contract when so connected with each other that they may be fairly said to constitute one paper relating to the contract. Ochs v. Weil (1944, 142 F. 2d 758, 79 U.S. App. D.C. 84).

§ 28-3503. Declaration, grant, and assignment of trust

A declaration or creation of trust or confidence of real estate which is not in writing, signed by the party who is by law enabled to declare the trust or by his last will in writing, is void.

A grant or assignment of a trust or confidence which is not in writing, signed by the party granting or assigning it, or by his last will, is void.

Where a conveyance is made of real estate by which a trust or confidence is or may arise or result by the implication or construction of law, or is transferred or extinguished by an act or operation of law, the trust or confidence is of the same effect as it would have been if this section had not been enacted. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 676, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-3003 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1367, ch. 854, § 1118).

Changes are made in phraseology.

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

Fraudulent verbal promise

Facts presented bring case within the second provision of the Statute of Frauds and a trust would result by implication or construction of law. Bennett v. Bennett (D.C.D.C. 1949, 83 F. Supp. 19).

Generally

This section requires, not only that writing be sufficient to establish trust, but that it show precisely what the trust covers. Moore v. Guy (1943, 135 F. 2d 476, 77 U.S. App. D.C. 379).

The requisite of certainty in instrument creating trust in realty includes subject matter embraced within trust, beneficiaries, the nature and quantity of interests which they are to have and manner in which trust is to be performed. Moore v. Guy (1943, 135 F. 2d 476, 77 U.S. App. D.C. 379). See also, Loehler Constr. Co. v. Auth (1931, 51 F. 2d 435, 60 App. D.C. 273).

Implied trusts

Implied or resulting trusts are recognized by the law in force in the District of Columbia. Haliday v. Haliday (1926, 11 F. 2d 565, 56 App. D.C. 179).

The statute relating to declarations and grants of trust and to implied trusts did not preclude court from recognizing as a trust fund money on deposit with building association in name of testatrix as trustee for her grandson who was a polio victim. In re Scott's Estate (D.C.D.C. 1951, 96 F. Supp. 290).

Informal writing sufficient

The writing required to prove the trust may be informal provided it establishes the fact and the terms of the trust. Tschiffely v. Tschiffely (1940, 107 F. 2d 191, 70 App. D.C. 386).

Oral agreements

Where landlord brought suit against tenant for unpaid rent and caused writ of attachment before judgment to be sued out, and under writ, money, which had been received by auctioneer from sale of tenant's mortgaged furniture and furnishings, was seized, and tenant moved to quash writ, and agent of chattel mortgagee intervened, claiming that the money was not subject to attachment because of alleged oral agreement with tenant that sum realized from sale of furniture and furnishings should be paid to mortgagee in full settlement of mortgaged debt, alleged oral agreement was without force or effect under statute of frauds to defeat rights of landlord. Thurm v. Wall (D.C. Mun. App. 1954, 104 A. 2d 835).

Parol trust unenforceable

Parol trust agreement is unenforceable under status of frauds. Baldi v. Ambrogi (1937, 89 F. 2d 845, 67 App. D.C. 101). See, also, Chiswell v. Johnston (1924, 299 F. 681, 55 App. D.C. 3); Dahlgren v. Dahlgren (1924, 1 F. 2d 755, 55 App. D.C. 52, certiorari denied 45 S. Ct. 125, 266 U.S. 626, 69 L. Ed. 475).

Taxation

Where taxpayer and his housekeeper had entered into agreement whereby he bought and paid for house but title was taken in her name, and, pursuant to agreement that house should belong to survivor upon death of other, housekeeper had willed house to taxpayer, transfer of house to taxpayer at death of his housekeeper was subject to tax under District of Columbia Code section taxing all property transferred from any person who may die, seized or possessed thereof, either by will, or by law, or by right of survivorship. Slyder v. District of Columbia (1951, 187 F. 2d 217, 88 U.S. App. D.C. 170).

Third parties

Verbal trusts are without force or effect under statute of frauds to defeat rights of third parties. Thurm v. Wall (D.C. Mun. App. 1954, 104 A. 2d 835).

Writing, sufficiency of

Where wife first executed deed conveying to husband one-third interest in property and then, having kept possession of deed, destroyed it, simultaneously making will devising property to her brother and sister, and still later wife wrote explanatory letter to husband stating that her brother and sister would deal fairly with him and "Do the best you can, and sell, and enjoy the little I have been able to accumulate and which I now gladly and lovingly pass on to the three of you", the letter was not a "declaration of trust" in favor of husband. Moore v. Guy (1943, 135 F. 2d 476, 77 U.S. App. D.C. 379).

§ 28-3504. New promise or acknowledgement<sup>1</sup> of contract—Action against joint contractors

In an action upon a simple contract, an acknowledgement or promise by words only is not sufficient evidence of a new or continuing contract whereby to take the case out of the operation of the statute of limitations or to deprive a party of the benefit thereof unless the acknowledgement or promise is in writing, signed by the party chargeable thereby. This section does not alter or take away, or lessen the effect of a payment of principal or interest made by any person. In actions against two or more joint contractors, or executors, or administrators, if it appears at the trial, or otherwise, that the plaintiff, though barred by the statute of limitations as to one or more of the defendants, is nevertheless entitled to recover against any other defendant by virtue of a new acknowledgement or promise or otherwise, judgment may be given for the plaintiff as to that defendant. An indorsement or memorandum of a payment written or made upon a promissory note, bill of exchange, or other writing, by or on behalf of the party to whom the payment is to be made, is<sup>2</sup> sufficient proof of the payment so as to take the case out of the operation of the statute of limitations. (Aug. 30, 1964, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, 78 Stat. 677, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-3005 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1390, ch. 854, § 1271).

The term "real estate" is substituted for "lands, tenements, or hereditaments" to conform with the style of revisions generally.

Changes are made in phraseology.

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRESENT LAW*Acknowledgment

Letter, by first attorney for person injured in automobile accident to second attorney to whom injured person's action against motorist had been referred, stating that both attorneys had to sue injured person on behalf of doctor for unpaid portion of such doctor's fee or they would have to personally take care of balance due the doctor is sufficient written acknowledgment of first attorney's debt to remove doctor's cause of action against first attorney under written assignment agreement from operation of the statute of limitations. T. B. Heffelfinger v. M. Gibson (D.C. App. 1972, 290 A. 2d 390).

Under this section providing that an acknowledgment by words only is not sufficient evidence of a continuing contract whereby to take action upon a simple contract out of operation of the statute of limitations unless the acknowledgment is in writing and signed by party chargeable thereby, such acknowledgment must be made either to creditor or to someone acting for him, or to some third person with intent that it be known by and influence action of the creditor. Id.

<sup>2</sup>So in original. The word "not" preceding the word "sufficient" was probably inadvertently omitted.

A distinct and unequivocal acknowledgment of debt as a still subsisting personal obligation constitutes an implied promise to pay it and takes contract out of the statute of limitations. Id.

Construction

This section providing that an acknowledgment or promise by words only is not sufficient evidence of a new or continuing contract so as to take case out of statute of limitations does not apply to an arrangement having for its consideration, not simply moral obligation to honor an old debt, but a fresh contemporaneous consideration which would support a binding contract between parties. N. S. Nyhus v. Travel Management Corporation (1972, 446 F. 2d 440, 151 U.S. App. D.C. 269).

Evidence—Sufficiency

The court below was correct in concluding, on issue whether clients were estopped by their informal assurances to attorney from asserting limitations as defense in attorney's action to recover fee, that the evidence was insufficient for jury. R. M. Brown v. E. O. Lamb et ano. (1969, 414 F. 2d 1210, 134 U.S. App. D.C. 314).

Prior decisions

Mann v. Cooper (1894, 2 App. D.C. 226); Flannery v. Maine Red Granite Co. (1894, 3 App. D.C. 395); Pumphrey v. Boggan (1896, 8 App. D.C. 449); Cropley v. Eyster (1896, 9 App. D.C. 373); Reed v. Tierney (1898, 12 App. D.C. 165).

Acknowledgment

Defendant can not be permitted, after he has made an acknowledgment, the effect of which may be to remove the bar, or to prevent the running of the statute, as to a particular account, upon a different occasion, by his declaration or claim, to overcome, qualify, or defeat the effect of his previous acknowledgment. Bean v. Wheatley (1898, 13 App. D.C. 473).

A promise to pay to the creditor an indebtedness at such time as creditor should need it is not a conditional promise to pay but an acknowledgment and new promise, and sufficient to avoid bar of statute of limitations Cooper v. Olcott (1893, 1 App. D.C. 123).

Acknowledgment of partner

When debt is legally subsisting and not affected by the statute of limitations, an acknowledgment or promise of one partner will avoid the operation of the statute as to the rest. Flannery v. Maine Red Granite Co. (1894, 3 App. D.C. 395).

Estoppel

Oral statements of maker which at most represented bare verbal promises to pay the debt at a vague future time with an implied request for forbearance by the payee until maker could secure more funds did not estop maker from claiming the three year statute of limitations. Grass v. Eiker, trading as T. E. Eiker & Co. (D.C. Mun. App. 1957, 135 A, 2d 153).

Evidence

Testimony of oral acknowledgment and promise to pay debt within statute of limitations is admissible in action against one upon the debt when there is other and written evidence consisting of letters relating to the debt, as § 1271 does not make testimony of oral acknowledgment wholly inadmissible, but provides only that it shall not be sufficient evidence. Shelley v. Westcott (1904, 23 App. D.C. 135).

Parol evidence, if competent, is admissible as to inderorsement of payment on note. Madison v. White (1932, 54 F. 2d 440, 60 App. D.C. 329).

Evidence of a new promise may be given under the general issue joined on the plea of limitations. Pumphrey v. Boggan (1896, 8 App. D.C. 449).

Extension of time

Agreement for the extension of time for payment was good and binding upon the parties thereto; and consequently the right of action upon the note, by reason of such extension of time for payment, did not accrue until the 16th of March 1894; and as this action was commenced on the 19th of February 1897, therefore the statute of limitations formed no bar to the right of recovery. Reed v. Tierney (1898, 12 App. D.C. 165).

Judgment for execution

Judgment for execution is a new judgment and statute of limitations begins to run from the new date. Mann v. Cooper (1894, 2 App. D.C. 226).

New contracts

Where payee surrendered note to maker in January, 1949, at which time the note was not barred by three-year statute of limitations, and the maker in turn gave the payee a second note which was a direct promise to pay, the second note was within statute under which a new or continuing contract takes a case out of the operation of statute of limitations, and hence suit instituted on second note on October 31, 1949, was not barred by three-year statute of limitations, notwithstanding that more than three years had then elapsed since the signing of the first note. Garfinkle v. Needle (1953, 201 F. 2d 202, 91 U.S. App. D.C. 342).

This section respecting form of acknowledgement in actions of debt, or upon the case, grounded upon any simple contract, in order to take case out of operation of statute of limitations, has reference only to a unilateral act or statement, and does not render ineffective a new promise supported by contemporaneous consideration. Cafritz v. Koslow (1948, 167 F. 2d 749, 83 U.S. App. D.C. 212).

Where plaintiff, in sister's action to recover money allegedly loaned to brother, was seeking to recover on basis of new relationship founded upon oral contract whereby old indebtedness barred by limitations was incorporated as an element of consideration, old indebtedness, if it ever existed and remained unsatisfied, would afford consideration for new oral contract, since statute of limitations operated merely to extinguish the remedy and not the right. Id.

Notes secured by mortgage

On petition by holder of one of two notes secured by mortgage for leave to participate in sale of mortgaged property in foreclosure proceedings by the holder of the other note, in this proceeding the bar of limitation, or lapse of time, does not apply, as in case of an action on the note, but to the remedy for the enforcement of an equitable right in land under the mortgage; hence the same period that would bar an ejectment is required. Cropley v. Eyster (1896, 9 App. D.C. 373).

Sufficiency of acknowledgment

An acknowledgment or promise must be made either to the creditor or to someone acting for him, or to some third person with intent that it be known by and influence the action of the creditor, in order to take a case out of the statute of limitations. Grass v. Eiker, Trading as T. E. Eiker & Co. (D.C. Mun. App. 1956, 123 A. 2d 613).

The mere listing of debts in a report to the Securities and Exchange Commission is not an acknowledgment sufficient to stop the running of the statute of limitations against such debts. Id.

"To effect a confirmation of a contract entered into during infancy, the act must have been done with knowledge that the contract was voidable." Manning v. Gannon (1915, 44 App. D.C. 98). See, also, Gannon v. Manning (1914, 42 App. D.C. 206).

"A distinct and unequivocal acknowledgment by the debtor of the debt as a still subsisting personal obligation constitutes an implied promise to pay it, and this, 'according to all the authorities, is all that is required to remove the statute in the case of a simple contract'" (referring to such a promise in writing). Green v. Reeves (1917, 47 App. D.C. 83). See, also, Hornblower v. George Washington University (1908, 31 App. D.C. 64, 14 Ann. Cas. 696); Strong v. Andros (1910, 34 App. D.C. 278, 19 Ann. Cas. 101).

Correspondence between parties, to be sufficient acknowledgment of indebtedness to toll the statute, must recognize subsisting personal obligation. Hayden v. International Banking Corp. (1930, 41 F. 2d 107, 59 App. D.C. 313).

The acknowledgment must not be accompanied by circumstances which negative any intention or promise to pay. Moore v. Snider (1940, 109 F. 2d 840, 71 App. D.C. 293, certiorari denied 60 S. Ct. 808, 309 U.S. 685, 84 L. Ed. 1029).

Letter by Maryland corporation, whose charter has been forfeited for nonpayment of taxes, to debtor extending, at the debtor's request, the time for action for deficiency judgment, was not sufficient to toll the statute of limitations, and the debtor was not estopped to plead such statute. Glennan v. Lincoln Inv. Corp. (1940, 110 F. 2d 130, 71 App. D.C. 365).

Summary judgment

Where it appeared possible that payees might be able to show that a delay of over three years in enforcing their claims on two notes was induced by representations or promises of maker accompanying certain oral acknowledgments and admissions, and such a showing might have effect of estopping maker from pleading statute of limitations in bar of payees' claims, maker was not entitled to summary judgment in his favor. Grass v. Eiker, Trading as T. E. Eiker & Co. (D.C. Mun. App. 1956, 123 A. 2d 613).

§ 28-3505. New promise or acknowledgement<sup>1</sup> of debt incurred during infancy

An action may not be maintained to charge a person upon an acknowledgment of, or promise to pay, a debt contracted during infancy, made after full age, except for necessities, unless the acknowledgment or promise is in writing signed by the party to be charged therewith. This section does not affect ratification by conduct. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 677, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965.)

REVISION NOTES

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-3006 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1390, ch. 854, § 1271; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 542, ch. 1329).

Changes are made in phraseology.

§ 28-3701. Definitions

As used in this chapter—

(1) "revolving credit account" means an arrangement between a seller or financial institution and a buyer pursuant to which (A) the seller may permit the buyer to purchase goods or services on credit either from the seller or by use of a credit card or other device, whether issued by the seller or a financial institution, (B) the unpaid balances of amounts financed arising from purchases and the credit service and other appropriate charges are debited to an account, (C) a credit service charge if made is not precomputed but is computed on an outstanding unpaid balance of the buyer's account from time to time, and (D) the buyer has the privilege of paying the balances in full or in installments.

(2) "credit service charge" means the sum of (A) all charges payable directly or indirectly by the buyer and imposed directly or indirectly by the seller as an incident to the extension of credit, including any of the following types of charges which are applicable; time price differential, service, carrying or other charge, however denominated, premium or other charge for any guarantee or insurance protecting the seller against the buyer's default or other credit loss; (B) charges incurred for investigating the collateral or credit-worthiness of the buyer or for commissions or brokerage for obtaining the credit, irrespective of the person to whom the charges are paid or payable, unless the seller had no notice of the charges when the credit was granted.

(3) "seller" means a person engaged in the District of Columbia in the business of selling goods or services to retail buyers.

(4) "buyer" means a person who buys goods or obtains services from a seller pursuant to a retail credit sale and not principally for the purpose of resale; and includes a person who enters into a prior agreement with a financial institution whereby the latter agrees to pay the debts of the buyer as they accrue at various retail sellers, designated by the financial institution, in consideration of the buyer paying to the financial institution the cash sales price plus the credit service charge on the purchase.

(5) "person" includes any individual, partnership, corporation, association, trust, joint stock company, or any other group of persons however organized.

(6) "financial institution" means a person who enters into an agreement with a buyer whereby the former agrees to extend credit to the buyer and to apply it as directed by the buyer pursuant to a credit card issued to the buyer by the financial institution; and this term includes any federally insured bank as defined in section 3 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act doing business in the District of Columbia. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 667.)

REFERENCE IN TEXT

Section 3 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act, referred to in par. (6), is classified to 12 U.S.C. 1813.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28-3802, 28-3805.

§ 28-3702. Amount and computation of credit service charge

(a) The seller or financial institution may contract for the payment by the buyer of a credit service charge not exceeding that permitted by this section.

(b) A credit service charge may be made in each billing cycle. For the purpose of computing the outstanding balance subject to the credit service charge, (1) the outstanding balance on any day shall consist of an amount which shall not exceed the sum of the total charges to the account less the amounts paid or credited to the account prior to such day, or (2) the outstanding balance may be computed by the average daily balance method. The credit service charge may also be computed for all outstanding balances within a range of not in excess of $10 on the basis of the median amount within such range if as so computed such credit service charge is applied to all outstanding balance within such range.

(c) If the billing cycle is monthly, the charge may not exceed  $1\frac{1}{2}$  percent of that part of the outstanding balance which is \$500 or less and 1 percent on that part of this amount which is more than \$500. If the billing cycle is not monthly, the maximum charge is that percentage which bears the relation to the applicable monthly percentage as the number of days in the billing cycle bears to thirty. For the purposes of this section, a variation of not more than four days from month to month is "the same day of the billing cycle." (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 668.)

SHORT TITLE

Section 10 of Act Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, provided: "This Act (enacting chapters, 36, 37, and 38 of title 28, sections 16-583, 16-584, 26-612, and 28-3308, and amending sections 16-571, 16-572, 28-3301, and 28-3303) may be cited as the 'District of Columbia Consumer Credit Protection Act of 1971'."

§ 28-3801. Scope—Limitation on agreements and practices

This chapter applies to actions to enforce rights arising from a consumer credit sale or a direct installment loan. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 668.)

§ 28-3802. Definitions

As used in this chapter—

(1) "revolving credit account" means a revolving credit account as defined in section 28-3701 of this subtitle.

(2) "consumer credit sale" means a sale of goods or services in which—

(A) A credit is granted by a person who regularly engages as a seller in credit transactions of the same kind;

(B) the buyer is a natural person;

(C) the goods or services are purchased primarily for a personal, family, household, or agricultural purpose;

(D) either the debt is payable in installments or a finance charge is made; and

(E) the amount financed does not exceed $25,000.

The term includes any contract in the form of a bailment or lease if the bailee or lessee contracts to pay as compensation for use a sum substantially equivalent to or in excess of the aggregate value of the property and services involved and it is agreed that the bailee or lessee will become, or for no other or a nominal consideration has the option to become, the owner of the property upon full compliance with his obligations under the contract.

(3) "direct installment loan" means a direct installment loan as that term is used in section 28-3308 of this subtitle and does not include a loan secured on real estate or a direct motor vehicle installment loan covered by chapter 36 of this subtitle.

(4) "cross collateral" means an arrangement wherein a seller in a "consumer credit sale secures a debt arising from the sale by contracting for a security interest in other property if as a result of a prior sale the seller has an existing security interest in the other property. The seller may also contract for a security interest in the property sold in the subsequent sale as a security for the previous debt. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 669.)

§ 28-3803. Balloon payments

With respect to a consumer credit sale or direct installment loans except for revolving credit accounts:

(1) No creditor shall at any time enter into an agreement which contains or anticipates a schedule of payments under which any one payment is not equal or substantially equal to all other payments, excluding any final payment which is less than the average of previous payments or any down payment received by the creditor contemporaneously with or prior to the consummation of the transaction, or under which the intervals between any consecutive payments differ substantially.

(2) Notwithstanding any provision of this section, where a consumer's livelihood is dependent upon seasonal or intermittent income, the parties may agree in a separate writing that one or more payments or the intervals between one or more payments may be reduced or expanded in accordance with the needs of the consumer if such payments are expressly related to the consumer's income. The separate writing shall contain a conspicuous notice directly above the signature line stating: "I waive my right to have all payments to be made under this agreement in substantially equal amounts".

(3) In the event that the provisions of paragraph (2) apply, the consumer shall have the right at any time, without further cost or obligation, to revise the schedule of payments to conform both as to amounts and intervals to the average of all installments and intervals. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 669.)

§ 28-3804. Assignment of earnings and authorization to confess judgment prohibited

(a) A creditor may not take an assignment of earnings of the consumer for payment or as security for payment of an obligation arising out of a consumer credit sale or direct installment loan.

(b) A creditor may not take or accept from the consumer a warrant or power of attorney or other authorization for the creditor, or other person acting on his behalf, to confess judgment arising out of a consumer credit sale or direct installment loan.

(c) An assignment of earnings or an authorization in violation of this section is subject to the provisions of section 28-3813(d)(1) of this subtitle. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 670.)

§ 28-3805. Debts secured by cross-collateral

(a) If debts arising from two or more consumer credit sales other than sales pursuant to a revolving charge account (§ 28-3701), are secured by cross-collateral, or consolidated into one debt payable on a single schedule of payments, and the debt is secured by security interests taken with respect to one or more of the sales, payments received by the seller after the taking of the cross-collateral or the consolidation are deemed, for the purpose of determining the amount of the debt secured by the various security interests, to have been first applied to the payment of the debts arising from the sales first made. To the extent debts are paid according to this section, security interests in items of property terminate as the debts originally incurred with respect to each item are paid.

(b) Payment received by the seller upon a revolving charge are deemed, for the purpose of determining the amount of the debt secured by the various security interests, to have been applied first to the payment of credit service charges in the order of their entry to the account and then to the payment of debts in the order in which the entries to the account showing the debts were made.

(c) If the debts consolidated arose from two or more sales made on the same day, payments received by the seller are deemed, for the purpose of determining the amount of the debt secured by the various security interests, to have been applied first to the payment of the smallest debt. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 670.)

§ 28-3806. Attorney's fees

With respect to a consumer credit sale or direct installment loans the agreement may provide for the payment by the consumer of reasonable attorney's fees not in excess of 15 per centum of the unpaid balance of the obligation. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 670.)

§ 28-3807. Negotiable instruments prohibited

(a) In a consumer credit sale, no seller shall take or otherwise arrange for the consumer to sign an instrument, except a check, payable "to order" or "to bearer" as evidence of the credit obligation of the consumer.

(b) Any holder of an instrument prohibited by subsection (a) of this section 28-3807, if he takes it with knowledge of a violation of this section, takes it subject to all claims and defenses of the consumer up to the amount owing on the transaction total at the time of the assignment. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 670.)

§ 28-3808. Assignees subject to defenses

(a) With respect to a consumer credit sale, an assignee of the rights of the seller or lessor is subject to all claims and defenses of the consumer or lessee arising out of the sale notwithstanding any terms or agreements to the contrary, but the assignee's liability under this section may not exceed the amount owing to the assignee at the time of the assignment.

(b) Rights of the consumer or lessee can only be asserted as a matter of defense to or set-off against a claim by the assignee. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 670.)

§ 28-3809. Lender subject to defenses arising from sales

(a) A lender who makes a direct installment loan for the purpose of enabling a consumer to purchase goods or services is subject to all claims and defenses of the consumer against the seller arising out of the purchase of the goods or service if such lender acts at the express request of the seller, and—

(1) the seller participates in the preparation of the loan instruments, or

(2) the lender is a person or organization controlled by or under common control with the seller, or

(3) the seller receives or will receive a fee, compensation, or other consideration from the lender for arranging the loan.

(b) The lender's liability under this section may not exceed the amount of the loan. Rights of the debtor can only be asserted affirmatively in an action to cancel and void the sale from its inception, or as a matter of defense to or set-off against a claim by the lender. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 671.)

§ 28-3810. Referral sales

With respect to a consumer credit sale, the seller or lessor may not give or offer to give a rebate or discount or otherwise pay or offer to pay value to the buyer or lessee as an inducement for a sale or lease in consideration of his giving to the seller or lessor the names of prospective purchasers of lessees, or otherwise aiding the seller or lessor in making a sale or lease to another person, if the earning of the rebate, discount, or other value is contingent upon the occurrence of an event subsequent to the time the buyer or lessee agrees to buy or lease. If a buyer or lessee is induced by a violation of this section to enter into a consumer credit sale, the agreement is unenforceable by the seller or lessor and the buyer or lessee, at his option, may rescind the agreement or retain the goods delivered and the benefit of any services performed, without any obligation to pay for them. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 671.)

§ 28-3811. Home solicitation sales

(a) As used in this section, "home solicitation sale" means a cash sale or a consumer credit sale of goods, other than farm equipment, or services in which the seller or a person acting for him engages in a personal solicitation of the sale at or near a residence of the buyer and the buyer's agreement or offer to purchase is there given to a seller or a person acting for him. It does not include a sale made pursuant to a preexisting revolving credit account or prior negotiations between the parties at a business establishment at a fixed location where goods or services are offered or exhibited for sale.

(b) Except as provided in subsection (f), in addition to any right otherwise to revoke an offer, the buyer has the right to cancel a home solicitation sale until midnight of the third business day after the day on which the buyer signs an agreement or offer to purchase which complies with this section.

(c) Cancellation occurs when the buyer gives written notice of cancellation to the seller at the address stated in the agreement or offer to purchase.

(d) Notice of cancellation, if given by mail, is given when it is deposited in a mail box properly addressed and the postage prepaid.

(e) Notice of cancellation given by the buyer need not take a particular form and is sufficient if it indicates by any form of written expression the intention of the buyer not to be bound by the home solicitation sale.

(f) The buyer may not cancel a home solicitation sale if the buyer requests the seller to provide goods or services without delay because of an emergency, and

(1) the seller in good faith makes a substantial beginning of performance of the contract before the buyer gives notice of cancellation, and

(2) in the case of goods, the goods cannot be returned to the seller in substantially as good condition as when received by the buyer, and

(3) the buyer has signed separately the following notice which appears under the conspicuous caption: "WAIVER OF RIGHT TO CANCEL," and reads as follows: "Because of an emergency I waive any right I may have to cancel this home solicitation sale".

(g) (1) In a home solicitation sale, unless the buyer requests the seller to provide goods or services without delay in an emergency, the seller must present to the buyer and obtain his signature to a written agreement or offer to purchase which designates as the date of the transaction the date on which the buyer actually signs and contains a statement of the buyer's rights which complies with paragraph (2) of this subsection.

(2) The statement must—

(A) appear under this conspicuous caption: "BUYERS RIGHT TO CANCEL", and

(B) read as follows:

"If this agreement was solicited at or near your residence and you do not want the goods or services, you may cancel this agreement by mailing a notice to the seller. The notice must say that you do not want the goods or services and must be mailed before midnight of the third business day after you signed this agreement. The notice must be mailed to:-----

(insert name and address of seller)

If you cancel, the seller may not keep any of your cash down payment."

(3) Until the seller has complied with this section the buyer may cancel the home solicitation sale by notifying the seller in any manner and by any means of his intention to cancel.

(h) (1) Except as provided in this section, within ten days after a home solicitation sale has been canceled or an offer to purchase revoked the seller must tender to the buyer any payments made by the buyer and any note or other evidence of indebtedness. A provision permitting the seller to keep all or any part of any payment, note, or evidence of indebtedness is in violation of this section and unenforceable.

(2) If the down payment includes goods traded in, the goods must be tendered in substantially as good condition as when received by the seller. If the seller fails to tender the goods as provided by this section, the buyer may elect to recover an amount equal to the trade-in allowance stated in the agreement.

(3) The seller is not entitled to retain a cancellation fee.

(4) Until the seller has complied with the obligations imposed by this section the buyer may retain possession of goods delivered to him by the seller and has a lien on the goods in his possession or control for any recovery to which he is entitled.

(i) (1) Except as provided by the provisions on retention of goods by the buyer (subsection (h) (4) of this section), within a reasonable time after a home solicitation sale has been canceled or an offer to purchase revoked, the buyer upon demand must tender to the seller any goods delivered by the seller pursuant to the sale but he is not obligated to tender at any place other than his residence. If the seller fails to demand possession of goods within a reasonable time after cancellation or revocation, the goods become the property of the buyer without obligation to pay for them. For the purpose of this section, forty days is presumed to be a reasonable time.

(2) The buyer has a duty to take reasonable care of the goods in his possession before cancellation or revocation and for a reasonable time thereafter, during which time the goods are otherwise at the seller's risk.

(3) If the seller has performed any services pursuant to a home solicitation sale prior to its cancellation, the seller is entitled to no compensation. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 671.)

§ 28-3812. Limitation on creditors' remedies

(a) This section applies to actions or other proceedings to enforce rights arising from consumer credit sales, consumer leases, and direct installment loans (other than a loan directly secured on real estate or a direct motor vehicle installment loan covered by chapter 36 of title 28, District of Columbia Code); and, in addition, to extortionate extensions of credit.

(b) (1) During the thirty-day period after a default consisting of a failure to pay money the creditor may not because of the default (A) accelerate the unpaid balance of the obligation, (B) bring action against the debtor, or (C) proceed against the collateral.

(2) Unless the creditor has first (A) notified the debtor that he has elected to accelerate the unpaid balance of the obligation because of default, (B) brought action against the debtor, or (C) proceeded against the collateral, the debtor may cure a default consisting of a failure to pay money by tendering the amount of all unpaid sums due at the time of tender, without acceleration, plus any unpaid delinquency or deferral charges. Cure restores the debtor to his rights under the agreement as though the defaults cured had not occurred.

(3) Posting of any notice required by law shall be deemed valid if mailed by certified mail to the debtor's last known address.

(c) (1) The debtor may redeem the collateral from the creditor at any time—

(A) within fifteen days of the creditor's taking possession of the collateral, or

(B) thereafter until the creditor has either disposed of the collateral, entered into a contract for its disposition, or gained the right to retain the collateral in satisfaction of the debtor's obligation pursuant to the provisions on disposition of collateral in section 9-505 of subtitle I of title 28, District of Columbia Code.

(2) The debtor may redeem the collateral by tendering fulfillment of all obligations secured by the collateral including reasonable expenses incurred in realizing on the security interest.

(d) Subject to the provisions in this part, the parties may agree that the creditor has the right to take possession of the collateral on default. In taking possession, a secured party may proceed without judicial process if this can be done without breach of the peace and with consent of the debtor. Those who take the collateral through repossession shall be deemed the agent of the creditor, and the creditor shall be civilly liable for any of the actions of its agents.

(e) (1) This subsection applies to consumer credit sales of goods or services and to direct installment loans secured by interests in goods.

(2) A creditor may not maintain a proceeding for a deficiency unless he has disposed of the goods in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner.

(3) If the creditor repossesses or voluntarily accepts surrender of goods which were the subject of the sale and in which he has a security interest, the consumer is not personally liable to the creditor for the unpaid balance of debt arising from the sale of a commercial unit of goods of which the cash price was $2,000 or less. In that case the creditor is not obligated to resell the collateral unless the consumer has paid 60 percent or more of the cash price and has not signed after default a statement renouncing his rights in the collateral.

(4) If the creditor takes possession or voluntarily accepts surrender of goods which were not the subject of the sale but in which he has a security interest to secure a debt arising from a sale of goods or services or a combined sale of goods and services and the cash price of the sale was $2,000 or less, the debtor is not personally liable to the creditor for the unpaid balance of the debt arising from the sale and the creditor's duty to dispose of the collateral is governed by the provisions on disposition of collateral in section 9-505 of subtitle I of title 28, District of Columbia Code.

(5) If the creditor takes possession or voluntarily accepts surrender of goods in which he has a security interest to secure a debt arising from a direct installment loan and the net proceeds of the loan paid to or for the benefit of the debtor are $2,000 or less, the consumer is not personally liable to the lender for the unpaid balance of the debt arising from the loan and the lender's duty to dispose of the collateral is governed by the provisions on disposition of collateral in section 9-505 of subtitle I of title 28, District of Columbia Code.

(6) The consumer shall be liable in damages to the creditor if the debtor has wrongfully damaged the collateral or if, after default and demand, the debtor has wrongfully failed to make collateral available to the creditor.

(7) If the creditor elects to bring an action against the buyer for a debt arising from a consumer credit sale of goods or services, when under this section he would not be entitled to a deficiency judgment if he repossessed the collateral, and obtains judgment—

(A) he may not repossess the collateral, and

(B) the collateral is not subject to levy or sale on execution or similar proceedings pursuant to the judgment.

(f) (1) If it is the understanding of the creditor and the debtor at the time an extension of credit is made that delay in making repayment or failure to make repayment could result in the use of violence or other criminal means to cause harm to the person, reputation, or property of any person, the repayment of the extension of credit is unenforceable through civil judicial processes against the debtor.

(2) If it is shown that an extension of credit was made at an annual rate exceeding 45 per centum and that the creditor then had a reputation for the use or threat of use of violence or other criminal means to cause harm to the person, reputation, or property of any person to collect extensions of credit or to punish the nonrepayment thereof, there is prima facie evidence that the extension of credit was unenforceable under paragraph (1) of this subsection.

(g) (1) With respect to a consumer credit sale, or direct installment loan, if the court as a matter of law finds—

(A) the agreement to have been unconscionable at the time it was made, or to have been induced by unconscionable conduct, the court may refuse to enforce the agreement, or

(B) any clause of the agreement to have been unconscionable at the time it was made, the court may refuse to enforce the agreement, or may enforce the remainder of the agreement without the unconscionable clause, or may so limit the application of any unconscionable clause as to avoid any unconscionable result.

(2) If it is claimed or appears to the court that the agreement or any clause thereof may be unconscionable the parties shall be afforded a reasonable opportunity to present evidence as to its setting, purpose, and effect to aid the court in making the determination.

(3) For the purpose of this section, a charge or practice expressly permitted by this section is not in and of itself unconscionable in the absence of other practices and circumstances. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 673.)

§ 28-3813. Consumers' remedies

(a) The remedies provided by this section shall be liberally administered to the end that the consumer as the aggrieved party shall be put in at least as good a position as if the creditor had fully complied with this chapter. Except as is otherwise specifically provided where there are willful and repeated violations of this chapter consequential and special damages may be had in lieu of the specific penalties allowed, and in addition punitive damages may be had as indicated.

(b) Any right or obligation declared by this chapter is enforceable by action unless the provision declaring it specifies a different and limited effect.

(c) "Transaction total" means—

(1) in the case of transactions pursuant to open end credit plans or consumer credit transactions, the total of the following calculated as if the amount or amounts financed were paid over the maximum period of the plan or, if there is no such period, over twelve months beginning with the next billing cycle or cycles following the transaction or transactions:

(A) the amount financed, plus any down payment or required deposit balance, and

(B) the total finance charge, including any prepaid finance charge;

(2) in the case of other than open end transactions or consumer credit transactions, the total of the following:

(A) the amount financed, plus any down payment or required deposit balance, and

(B) the amount of all precomputed or precomputable finance charge, including any prepaid finance charge.

(d) (1) In the discretion of the court, a consumer may recover from the person violating this chapter, in addition to the damages the law otherwise allows, 10 percent of the transaction total, if applicable, or $100, whichever is greater, for violations to which this section applies.

(2) This section also applies to all violations for which no other remedy is specifically provided.

(e) If a consumer prevails in a suit brought under this Act,<sup>1</sup> the court may assess reasonable attorney's fees in addition to any other amounts recoverable under this chapter.

(f) Any charge, practice, term, clause, provision, security interest, or other action or conduct which can be shown to be in willful violation of the provisions of this chapter shall confer no rights or obligations enforceable by action. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 675.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 28-3804.

§ 28-3814. Debt collection

(a) This section only applies to conduct and practices in connection with collection of obligations arising from consumer credit sales, consumer leases, and direct installment loans (other than a loan directly secured on real estate or a direct motor vehicle installment loan covered by chapter 36 of title 28).

(b) As used in this section, the term—

(1) "claim" means any obligation or alleged obligation, arising from a consumer credit sale, consumer lease, or direct installment loan;

(2) "debt collection" means any action, conduct or practice in connection with the solicitation of claims for collection or in connection with the collection of claims, that are owed or due, or are alleged to be owed or due, a seller or lender by a consumer; and

(3) "debt collector" means any person engaging directly or indirectly in debt collection, and includes any person who sells or offers to sell forms represented to be a collection system, device, or scheme intended or calculated to be used to collect claims.

(c) No debt collectors shall collect or attempt to collect any money alleged to be due and owing by means of any threat, coercion, or attempt to coerce in any of the following ways:

(1) the use, or express or implicit threat of use, of violence or other criminal means, to cause harm to the person, reputation, or property of any person;

(2) the accusation or threat to falsely accuse any person of fraud or any crime, or any conduct which, if true, would tend to disgrace such other person or in any way subject him to ridicule, or any conduct which, if true, would tend to disgrace such other person or in any way subject him to ridicule or contempt of society;

(3) false accusations made to another person, including any credit reporting agency, that a consumer has not paid a just debt, or threat to so make such false accusations;

(4) the threat to sell or assign to another the obligation of the consumer with an attending representation or implication that the result of such sale or assignment would be that the consumer would lose any defense to the claim or would be subjected to harsh, vindictive, or abusive collection attempts; and

(5) the threat that nonpayment of an alleged claim will result in the arrest of any person.

(d) No debt collector shall unreasonably oppress, harass, or abuse any person in connection with the collection of or attempt to collect any claim alleged to be due and owing by that person or another in any of the following ways:

(1) the use of profane or obscene language or language that is intended to unreasonably abuse the hearer or reader;

(2) the placement of telephone calls without disclosure of the caller's identity or with the intent to harass or threaten any person at the called number; and

(e) No debt collector shall unreasonably publicize information relating to any alleged indebtedness or debtor in any of the following ways:

(1) the communication of any false information relating to a consumer's indebtedness to any employer or his agent except where such indebtedness had been guaranteed by the employer or the employer has requested the loan giving rise to the indebtedness and except where such communication is in connection with an attachment or execution after judgments as authorized by law;

(2) the disclosure, publication, or communication of false information relating to a consumer's indebtedness to any relative or family member of the consumer unless such person is known to the debt collector to be a member of the same household as the consumer, except through proper legal action or process or at the express and unsolicited request of the relative or family member;

(3) the disclosure, publication, or communications of any information relating to a consumer's indebtedness by publishing or posting any list of consumers, except for the publication and distribution of "stop lists" to point-of-sale locations where credit is extended, or by advertising for sale any claim to enforce payment thereof or in any other manner other than through proper legal action, process, or proceeding; and

(4) the use of any form of communication to the consumer, which ordinarily may be seen by any other persons, that displays or conveys any information about the alleged claim other than the name, address, and phone number of the debt collector.

(f) No debt collector shall use any fraudulent, deceptive, or misleading representation or means to collect or attempt to collect claims or to obtain information concerning consumers in any of the following ways:

(1) the use of any company name, while engaged in debt collection, other than the debt collector's true company name;

(2) the failure to clearly disclose in all written communications made to collect or attempt to collect a claim or to obtain or attempt to obtain information about a consumer, that the debt collector is attempting to collect a claim and that any information obtained will be used for that purpose;

(3) any false representation that the debt collector has in his possession information or something of value for the consumer, that is made to solicit or discover information about the consumer;

(4) the failure to clearly disclose the name and full business address of the person to whom the claim has been assigned for collection, or to whom the claim is owed, at the time of making any demand for money;

(5) any false representation or implication of the character, extent, or amount of a claim against a consumer, or of its status in any legal proceeding;

(6) any false representation or false implication that any debt collector is vouched for, bonded by, affiliated with or an instrumentality, agent, or official of the District of Columbia or any agency of the Federal or District government;

(7) the use or distribution or sale of any written communication which simulates or is falsely represented to be a document authorized, issued, or approved by a court, an official, or any other legally constituted or authorized authority, or which creates a false impression about its source, authorization, or approval;

(8) any representation that an existing obligation of the consumer may be increased by the addition of attorney's fees, investigation fees, service fees, or any other fees or charges when in fact such fees or charges may not legally be added to the existing obligation; and

(9) any false representation or false impression about the status or true nature of or the services rendered by the debt collector or his business.

(g) No debt collector shall use unfair or unconscionable means to collect or attempt to collect any claim in any of the following ways:

(1) the seeking or obtaining of any written statement or acknowledgment in any form that specifies that a consumer's obligation is one incurred for necessities of life where the original obligation was not in fact incurred for such necessities;

(2) the seeking or obtaining of any written statement or acknowledgment in any form containing an affirmation of any obligation by a consumer who has been declared bankrupt without clearly disclosing the nature and consequences of such affirmation and the fact that the consumer is not legally obligated to make such affirmation;

(3) the collection or the attempt to collect from the consumer all or any part of the debt collector's fee or charge for services rendered;

(4) the collection of or the attempt to collect any interest or other charge, fee, or expense incidental to the principal obligation unless such interest or incidental fee, charge, or expense is expressly authorized by the agreement creating the obligation and legally chargeable to the consumer or unless such interest or incidental fee, charge, or expense is expressly authorized by law; and

(5) any communication with a consumer whenever it appears that the consumer has notified the creditor that he is represented by an attorney and the attorney's name and address are known.

(h) No debt collector shall use, or distribute, sell, or prepare for use, any written communication that violates or fails to conform to United States postal laws and regulations.

(i) No debt collector shall take or accept for assignment any of the following:

(1) an assignment of any claim for attorney's fees which have not been lawfully provided for in the writing evidencing the obligation; or

(2) an assignment for collection of any claim upon which suit has been filed or judgment obtained, without the debt collector first making a reasonable effort to contact the attorney representing the consumer.

(j) (1) Proof, by substantial evidence, that a debt collector has willfully violated any provision of the foregoing subsections of this section shall subject such debt collector to liability to any person affected by such violation for all damages proximately caused by the violation.

(2) Punitive damages may be awarded to any person affected by a willful violation of the foregoing subsections of this section, when and in such amount as is deemed appropriate by the court and trier of fact. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 675.)

trict of Columbia, or of any special privileges in said District, shall give notice of such intention by publishing a copy of the bill at least once a week for four successive weeks, in a newspaper published in the District of Columbia, the last of said publications to be made at least fourteen days prior to the presentation of such bill. Such newspaper shall be designated by the person proposing the bill and approved by the District of Columbia Council. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1316, ch. 854, § 767.)

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA COUNCIL

Section 402(228) of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, transferred the function of the Board of Commissioners of approving newspapers in which persons may give notice of intention to present to Congress bills for incorporation or for alteration or extension of corporation charters under this section, to the District of Columbia Council, subject to the right of the Commissioner as provided by section 406 of the Plan. #### § 29-103. Change of name—Procedure—Effect—No- tice—Recording.

Any corporation organized under the laws of the District of Columbia may change its name in the manner following:

The board of directors shall pass a resolution declaring that such change is advisable and calling a meeting of the stockholders to take action thereon. Such a meeting shall be called upon such notice as the by-laws provide, and in the absence of such provision upon ten days' notice given personally to each stockholder as his address is contained in the records of such corporation, a notice deposited in the United States mail, postage prepaid, at least ten days prior to such meeting to be considered sufficient notice under this section. If two-thirds in interest of each class of stockholders having voting powers and of other persons having like powers shall vote in favor of such a change, a certificate thereof shall be signed by the president and secretary, under the corporate seal, and acknowledged as in the case of deeds of real estate, and such certificate shall be filed in the office of the recorder of deeds of the District of Columbia, and upon the filing of the same the certificate of incorporation shall be deemed to be amended and the name changed accordingly; and the filing of said certificate in conformity with this section shall have the same force and effect as to all future proceedings as if said certificate of incorporation or organization had been originally drafted in conformity with the amendment so made.

A certified copy of such certificate shall be taken and accepted as evidence in all courts and places of all matters legally stated therein; and the recorder of deeds shall keep an index in his office showing the new name and the change from the old name, and the old name showing the change to the new name; and no fees shall be required by the recorder of deeds for filing and recording any such certificate, except that ordinarily required for deeds of real estate of like length.

A corporation under its new name shall have the same rights, powers, and privileges, and shall be subject to the same duties, obligations, and liabilities as before, and may sue and be sued by its new name, but no action brought against it or by it under its former name shall be abated on that account, and on motion of either party the new name may be substituted therefor in the action.

Upon the filing of said certificate for record a copy thereof shall be inserted, by the corporation whose name has been changed as hereinabove provided, once each week for four consecutive weeks, in two daily papers published in the District of Columbia. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1276, ch. 854, § 552 pt.; Feb. 4, 1905, 33 Stat. 689, ch. 299.)

Any such company, association, or institution failing to publish statements as required by this section shall forfeit its right to do business in said District, and thereupon it shall be the duty of the Commissioner of the District of Columbia to revoke its license or permit to do business in said District: Provided, That fraternal beneficiary associations or societies doing business on the lodge plan and paying death benefits be exempted from the provisions of this section. ## CHAPTER REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This chapter is referred to in sections 5-710, 26-401, 29-101, 43-503.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA BUSINESS CORPORATION ACT

Formation of corporations under the provisions of the District of Columbia Business Corporation Act 180 days after June 8, 1954, and prohibition against incorporation, after such date, under any other act or statute then in force, see Effective Date note set out under § 29-901.

§ 29-201. Formation—Certificate—Exception—Dealing in real estate.

Any three or more persons who desire to form a company for the purpose of carrying on any enterprise or business which may be lawfully conducted by an individual, excepting banks of circulation or discount, railroads, and such other enterprise or business as may be otherwise specially provided for in this code, may make, sign, and acknowledge, before some officer competent to take the acknowledgment of deeds, and file in the office of the recorder of deeds, a certificate in writing: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be held to authorize the organization of corporations to buy, sell, or deal in real estate, except corporations to transact the business ordinarily carried on by real-estate agents or brokers. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1284, ch. 854, § 605; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 533, ch. 1329.)

In general

Insofar as the general incorporation statutes passed by Congress for the District are concerned, these provide for the incorporation of both business corporations and benevolent corporations. White v. Central Dispensary & Emergency Hosp. (1938, 99 F. 2d 355, 69 App. D.C. 122, 119 A. L. R. 1002).

Capacity to sue and be sued

Defendant corporation is in general capable of suing and being sued, regardless of whether part or all of its stock is owned by the United States. Ingram Day Lbr. Co. v. United States Shipping Bd. Emergency Fleet Corp. (D.C. Miss. 1920, 267 F. 283).

Emergency fleet corporation

In form the Emergency Fleet Corporation is a private corporation, but its services are of a public nature and it has never done any business, or conducted any operation, except on behalf of the United States. United States Shipping Bd. Emergency Fleet Corp. v. Western Union Tel. Co. (1928, 48 S. Ct. 198, 275 U.S. 415, 72 L. Ed. 345).

Fleet Corporation was entitled to the Government rate, not because it was an instrumentality of the Government, but because it was a department of the United States within the meaning of the Post Roads Act and, in respect to messages sent, on the Government's business, no distinction could properly be made between those of the Shipping Board and those of the Fleet Corporation. Id.

When shipbuilding company sued the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation upon an alleged contract for the building of ships, which, it was alleged, it was not allowed to build, it was a suit arising under the Constitution and laws of the United States and motion to remand should be denied. Union Timber Products Co. v. United States Shipping Bd. Emergency Fleet Corp. (D.C. Wash. 1918, 252 F. 320).

"The board (Shipping Board), if in its judgment such action is necessary to carry out the purposes of this act, may form under the laws of the District one or more corporations for the purchase, construction, equipment, lease, charter, maintenance, and operation of merchant vessels in the commerce of the United States." Southern Bridge Co. v. United States Shipping Bd. Emergency Fleet Corp. (D.C. Ala. 1920, 266 F. 747).

Business of the Fleet Corporation was not peculiarly governmental in its nature, but was commercial and industrial, and its powers not essentially different from those possessed by private corporations and no provision can be found either in acts of Congress or in charter of the company giving to the corporation or its stockholders any rights, privileges, or obligations different from those possessed by any other corporation under laws of the District with respect to its business. In re Eastern Shore Shipbuilding Corp. (C.C.A. 2, 1921, 274 F. 893).

Object and purpose of the corporation was to purchase, construct, equip, lease, maintain, and operate vessels in the commerce of the United States and for other lawful purposes. Buffalo Union Furnace Co. v. United States Shipping Bd. Emergency Fleet Corp. (D.C. N.Y. 1922, 283 F. 673).

Fleet Corporation acted in two capacities; notwithstanding the ownership of its stock by the United States, it was a private corporation; as such it was a distinct entity; it might make contracts and transact the business for which it was organized; it might sue and be sued, and then it was subject to the statute of limitations. Harwood v. United States Shipping Bd. Emergency Fleet Corp. (D.C. Conn. 1928, 26 F. 2d 116).

Extension of business

The 1901 code, §§ 633 and 635 (§§ 29-229, 29-231), providing for the extension of the business of the corporation, radically different classes of business. Dancy v. Clark cannot be so construed as to permit a combination of two (1905, 24 App. D.C. 487).

Nature of business

This section does not authorize or allow the combination of all classes of industrial business by one corporation. "On the contrary, the tenor of the enactment is decidedly adverse to any such theory." Dancy v. Clark (1905, 24 App. D.C. 487).

The statute allows formation of corporation for only "one business, one enterprise, and not a combination of all the classes of business provided for in the statute." Id.

"No domestic corporation is authorized to hold real estate except as an incident to its business. It clearly is not authorized to hold it for the purpose of selling or dealing in it." Groo v. Norman (1914, 42 App. D.C. 387).

A foreign corporation will not be accorded greater rights than are enjoyed by domestic corporations. Nevertheless "want of capacity in a domestic or foreign corporation to own and dispose of real estate can only be asserted by the State," and until so questioned good title may be conveyed. Hight v. Richmond Park Imp. Co. (1918, 47 App. D.C. 518). See, also, Groo v. Norman (1914, 42 App. D.C. 387).

The proviso "neither declares contracts made in violation of its terms void as against public policy nor does it expressly apply this restriction to foreign corporations doing business in this District." Hight v. Richmond Park Imp. Co. (1918, 47 App. D.C. 518).

Principal place of business

The proviso of the statute that no corporation may be organized thereunder unless place where it conducts its principal business is located within the District of Columbia speaks prospectively, and where corporation owning a baseball club, although reincorporated under the 1954 act, was organized under the act of 1901, imposing no restrictions upon the place where the corporation might conduct its principal business, such corporation was not required to conduct its principal business at a place within the District and was not prohibited from moving its American League franchise to any other city outside the District. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc., et al. (1959, 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

§ 29-202. Contents of certificate.

In such certificate shall be stated—

First. The corporate name of the company and the object for which it is formed.

Second. The term of its existence, which may be perpetual.

Third. The amount of the capital stock of the company and the number of shares of which said stock shall consist.

Fourth. The number of trustees who shall manage the concerns of the company for the first year and their names.

Fifth. The name of the place in the District in which the operations of the company are to be carried on. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1285, ch. 854, § 606.)

CROSS REFERENCE

The proviso of the statute that no corporation may be organized thereunder unless place where it conducts its principal business is located within the District of Columbia speaks prospectively, and where corporation owning a baseball club, although reincorporated under the 1954 act, was organized under the act of 1901, imposing no restrictions upon the place where the corporation might conduct its principal business, such corporation was not required to conduct its principal business at a place within the District and was not prohibited from moving its American League franchise to any other city outside the District. *Murphy v. #### § 29-203. Formation—Signers of certificate incorporated—Name—Powers—Mortgages or liens on property to be approved by stockholders.

When the certificate shall have been filed, in accordance with the provisions of section 29-202, the persons who shall have signed and acknowledged the same and their successors shall be a body politic and corporate in fact and in name, by the names stated in such certificate, and by that name have succession and be capable of suing and being sued in any court of law or equity in the District; and they and their successors may have a common seal and make and alter the same at pleasure, and they shall by their corporate name be capable in law of purchasing, holding, and conveying any real or personal estate whatever which may be necessary to enable the company to carry on its operations named in such certificates, but shall not mortgage such estate or give any lien thereon, except in pursuance of a vote of the stockholders of the company. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1285, ch. 854, § 607.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In general

This section does not put District corporations upon a different footing from those formed under the laws of the States. Sloan Shipyards Corp. v. United States Shipping Board (1922, 42 S. Ct. 386, 258 U.S. 549, 66 L. Ed. 762).

Emergency Fleet Corporation

The Emergency Fleet Corporation was in general capable of suing and being sued, regardless of whether part or all of its stock was owned by the United States. Ingram Day Lbr. Co. v. United States Shipping Bd. Emergency Fleet Corp. (D.C. Miss. 1920, 267 F. 283).

Business of the Emergency Fleet Corporation was not peculiarly governmental in its nature, but was commercial and industrial, and its powers were not essentially different from those possessed by private corporations. In re Eastern Shore Shipbuilding Corp. (C.C.A. 2, 1921, 274 F. 893).

§ 29-204. Trustees—Qualifications—Election.

The stock, property, and concerns of such company shall be managed by not less than three trustees, who shall be stockholders, and shall, except for the first year, be annually elected by the stockholders, at such time and place as shall be determined by the by-laws of the company. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1285, ch. 854, § 608; July 13, 1959, 73 Stat. 181, Pub. L. 86-83; Apr. 22, 1960, 74 Stat. 78, Pub. L. 86-436.)

AMENDMENTS

1960—Act Apr. 22, 1960, substituted "who shall be stockholders, and shall" for "who shall, respectively, be stockholders, and a majority citizens of the District, and shall."

1959—Act July 13, 1959, struck out the words "nor more than fifteen" following "three."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Corporate acts

A corporation can only act through its agents, directors, or trustees and its intention can only be learned by the language of its recorded acts and the plain terms of a resolution of the board of directors cannot be altered by an affidavit purporting to show its intention. Fox v. Johnson (D.C.D.C. 1940, 31 F. Supp. 64, affirmed 127 F. 2d 729, 75 U.S. App. D.C. 211).

Emergency Fleet Corporation

Although most of the stock was owned by the United States, the business of the fleet corporation was not peculiarly governmental in its nature, but was commercial and industrial, and its powers were not essentially different from those possessed by private corporations. In re Eastern Shore Shipbuilding Corp. (C.C. A. 2, 1921, 274 F. 893).

Exchange of stock

When insurance company sold a building to realty company, for whose stock the insurance company's stockholders were allowed to exchange their stock, and as terms would not cause substantial loss to the stockholders, their stock was not illegal or void under this section which gives trustees power to manage the affairs of the corporation. Tryson v. Southern Realty Corp. (1921, 274 F. 135, 61 App. D.C. 55).

Liability for debts

Under the act of Congress (16 Stat. 98, ch. 80), under which certain corporations were organized in the District of Columbia, providing for personal liability of trustees for debts in excess of capital stock, an action at law could not be sustained by one creditor among many for the liability thus created, or for any part of it, but the remedy is in equity and this excess constitutes a fund for the benefit of all the creditors, so far as the condition of the company renders a resort to it necessary for the payment of their debts. Hornor v. Henning (1876, 93 U.S. 228, 93 Otto 228, 23 L. Ed. 879).

Under the act of May 5, 1870 (16 Stat. 98), providing for the organization of associations and the liability of trustees for indebtedness exceeding the capital stock, and the act of June 17, 1870 (16 Stat. 153), authorizing the establishment of savings banks under the former act, the excess of debts for which the trustees were liable constituted a trust fund for the benefit of all creditors, and an action at law could not be maintained by one creditor for any part of it, but the remedy was in equity. Id.

Stockholders

"Plainly the requirement of this section is that the trustees shall at all times be stockholders, as well for the first year as for all subsequent years." Dancy v. Clark (1905, 24 App. D.C. 487).

§ 29-205. Election of trustees—Notice—Procedure.

Public notice of the time and place of holding such election shall be published not less than thirty days previous thereto in some newspaper printed and published in the District, and the election shall be made by such of the stockholders as shall attend for that purpose, either in person or by proxy. All the elections shall be by ballot, and each stockholder shall be entitled to as many votes as he owns shares of stock in the company, and the persons receiving the greatest number of votes shall be trustees; and when any vacancy shall happen among the trustees it shall be filled for the remainder of the year in such manner as may be provided by the by-laws of the company. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1285, ch. 854, § 609.)

§ 29-206. Corporation not dissolved by failure to hold election of trustees at time designated in by-laws.

In case it shall happen at any time that an election of trustees shall not be made on the day designated by the by-laws of said company when it ought to have been made, the company shall not for that reason be dissolved, but it shall be lawful on any other day to hold an election for trustees, in such manner as shall be provided by the by-laws, and all acts of trustees shall be valid and binding as against said company until their successors shall be elected. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1285, ch. 854, § 610.)

§ 29-207. Officers—Bond.

There shall be a president of the company, who shall be designated from the trustees; and also such subordinate officers as may be elected or appointed, and who may be required to give security for the faithful performance of the duties of their office, as the company by its by-laws may require. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1285, ch. 854, § 611.)

CROSS REFERENCE

§ 29-208. By-laws.

The trustees shall have power to make such prudential by-laws as they deem proper for the management and disposal of the stock and business affairs of such company, not inconsistent with the laws of the District and the Constitution of the United States, and prescribing the duties of officers, artificers, and servants that may be employed, for the appointment of all officers, and for carrying on all kinds of business within the objects and purposes of such company. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1285, ch. 854, § 612.)

§ 29-209. Authority to do business—Calls—Forfeiture—Notice.

No company incorporated under this chapter and sections 26-302 and 44-101 to 44-103 shall be authorized to transact any business until ten per centum of the capital stock shall have been actually paid in, either in money or in property at its actual value; and it shall be lawful for the trustees to call in and demand from the stockholders the residue of their subscriptions in money or property at such times and in such instalments as the trustees shall deem proper, under the penalty of forfeiting the shares of stock subscribed for and all previous payments made thereon, if payment shall not be made by the stockholder within sixty days after a personal demand or a notice requiring such payment shall have been published for six successive weeks in a newspaper in the District. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1286, ch. 854, § 613.)

(Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1286, ch. 854, § 615.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS*In general

Under this section, the stockholders are individually liable to the creditors for the unpaid amount due upon the shares of stock held by them respectively for the debts and contracts of the company until the amount of capital stock fixed by such company shall have been paid in. Capitol Dress Mfg. Co. v. Moran (1936, 84 F. 2d 253, 65 App. D.C. 400).

Contract of subscription

A contract of subscription may be shown without a formal subscription in writing. National Exp. Co. v. Morris (1899, 15 App. D.C. 262).

To recover on a subscription to the capital stock, the corporation plaintiff must establish, by legal and competent proof, the existence of a contract of subscription to the stock. Id.

Sale of stock rescinded

Person who purchased stock from corporation under an option to rescind the agreement at the expiration of a year is not precluded from doing so because no power has been given to the corporation to purchase its own stock. Royal Glue Co. v. Lange (1913, 40 App. D.C. 9).

Statute of limitations

Statute of limitations begins to run from the time that call is made for payment of unpaid subscription. Glenn v. Sothoron (1894, 4 App. D.C. 125).

Transfer of stock

The mere transfer of the stock into the name of the defendant is not sufficient to impose the liability of a stockholder, unless he consents thereto, or subsequently exercises the rights of a stockholder. National Exp. Co. v. Morris (1899, 15 App. D.C. 262).

Trust fund

Capital stock of a corporation is a trust fund for the benefit of the creditors, and which cannot be withdrawn without their consent, but the corporation may when solvent hold the property as an individual, free from the touch of a creditor who has acquired no lien, and may dispose of stock to bona fide purchasers for a valuable consideration. Gilbert v. Washington Ben. Endowment Assn. (1897, 10 App. D.C. 316, appeal dismissed 19 S. Ct. 877, 173 U.S. 701, 43 L. Ed. 1185).

NOTES TO DECISIONS*Construction

Laws similar to this requiring insurance companies to publish annually a report of their assets and liabilities and making trustees liable for existing corporate debts for failure to fulfill requirements were construed as being penal in their nature and were to be strictly construed. Jackson v. Clifford (1895, 5 App. D.C. 312).

§ 29-214. Failure to publish annual report—Mandamus by creditor—Expenses of action.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Bank stock illegally held

This being statement of general policy applicable to all District corporations, claim against insolvent trust company for assessment on shares purchased from another bank was rejected. Dunn v. O'Connor (1937, 89 F. 2d 830, 67 App. D.C. 76).

Transfer in liquidation

As appellant had no corporate power to purchase stocks and bonds of the Charles Town Company, a contract to purchase, unless permissible under the Utilities Act, would have been unenforceable because ultra vires. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Dann (1934, 70 F. 2d 746, 63 App. D.C. 142).

A bank receiving assets of another bank in liquidation is liable for taxes as a transferee notwithstanding this section. Gould v. Com. Int. Rev. (21 B. T. A. 824).

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 29-219.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Evidence

In order for a corporate creditor to impose personal liability on three trustees of corporation on any theory of transfer of funds in an attempt to hinder or defraud creditors, distribution of corporate assets to themselves in violation of statute, or breach of fiduciary obligation to account to creditors, it was necessary for contractor to prove assets in question ultimately were received by such trustees, or disposed of by them in contravention of contractor's rights as a creditor. *Askew v. ### § 29-220. Executors, administrators, guardians, and trustees not personally liable.

No person holding stock in such company as executor, administrator, guardian, or trustee shall be personally subject to any liability as stockholder of such company, but the estate and funds in the hands of such executor, administrator, guardian, or trustee shall be liable in like manner and to the same extent as the testator or intestate or the ward or person interested in such trust fund would have been if he had been living and competent to act and hold the stock in his own name. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1287, ch. 854, § 624.)

§ 29-221. Executor, administrator, guardian, or trustee shall represent and vote.

(Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1287, ch. 854, § 626.)

(Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1287, ch. 854, § 627.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 29-228.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Purpose of inspection

Under common law, stockholder can inspect books only when his interests are directly involved, and "it is apparent that in equity and good faith he should be permitted to inform himself as to how the affairs of the corporation are being conducted. * * * Where that right has not been enlarged by statute, it may be exercised only in good faith, and for some just, useful, or reasonable purpose." Morgan v. Howard (1924, 293 F. 650, 54 App. D.C. 3).

§ 29-225. Effect of stock book record—Company—Creditors—Subsequent purchasers.

A person in whose name shares of stock stand on the books of a company shall be deemed the owner thereof as regards the company, but if any such person shall in good faith sell, pledge, or otherwise dispose of any of his shares of stock to another and deliver to him the certificate for such shares, with written authority for the transfer of the same on the books, the title of the former shall vest in the latter so far as may be necessary to effect the purpose of the sale, pledge, or other disposition, not only as between the parties themselves, but also as against the creditors of and subsequent purchasers from the former, subject to the provisions of section 29-210. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1287, ch. 854, § 629.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In general

The requirement of transfer on the corporate books is intended for the convenience and security of the corporation alone. National Safe Deposit, Sav. & Trust Co. v. Hibbs (1909, 32 App. D.C. 459, affirmed 33 S. Ct. 818, 229 U.S. 391, 57 L. Ed. 1241).

While certificates of stock indorsed in blank "do not become negotiable instruments in a strictly legal sense, they nevertheless so approximate them as that the ordinary rules of agency and estoppel which apply in the case of chattels are applied to them with great liberality in the behalf of an innocent purchaser." Id.

Pledged certificate

When stock certificate with written transfer and power of attorney in blank is signed by the person to whom certificate was issued, and is pledged by one in possession to secure preexisting debts, the pledgee is not chargeable with notice of equities which exist between original owner and pledgor. National Safe Deposit, Sav. & Trust Co. v. Gray (1898, 12 App. D.C. 276).

Title of assignee

Although corporation may require that transfer of stock be registered on the corporate books, the assignee upon delivery with transfer and power of attorney to transfer on the books, duly executed, takes the entire equitable, if not the legal title thereto. National Safe Deposit, Sav. & Trust Co. v. Hibbs (1909, 32 App. D.C. 459, affirmed 33 S. Ct. 818, 229 U.S. 391, 57 L. Ed. 1241).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Change of business

"Provision is made for a change of business; but even if we assume that this change might be made to a radically different class of business, as for example, from that of mining to that of agriculture, yet the very word 'change' implies the abandonment of the one by the adoption of the other, not the combination of both." Dancy v. Clark (1905, 24 App. D.C. 487).

Extension of business

"Extension of business is the taking in of something cognate." Dancy v. Clark (1905, 24 App. D.C. 487).

"A company organized for the making of cotton goods might well be extended to the manufacture of woolen goods, possibly even to the manufacture of iron or steel, for it is all manufacture." Id.

If, at any time and place specified in the notice provided for in section 29-231, stockholders shall appear by proxy or in person representing not less than two-thirds of all the shares of stock of the corporation, they shall organize and proceed to a vote of those present or by proxy. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1288, ch. 854, § 636.)

§ 29-233. Certificate by chairman—Contents—Verification.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Applicability of provisions of 1901 Act to corporation formed in 1958

Provision which was part of Business Corporation Act of 1901 and required restrictions to be stated on certificate had no application to corporation organized for profit in 1958. Sankin v. 5410 Connecticut Avenue Corp., et al.; Benn v. Garfield (1968, 281 F. Supp. 524).

§ 29-240. Sale, lease, or exchange of property or assets as an entirety—Transfer of franchise—Agreement submitted to stockholders—Rights of dissenting stockholders—Procedure—Effect of performance of agreement—Recording.

Every corporation having capital stock and heretofore or hereafter organized or existing under this chapter and sections 26-302 and 44-101 to 44-103, or which has availed or may hereafter avail itself of the provisions of this chapter and sections 26-302 and 44-101 to 44-103 pursuant to sections 29-101, 29-102, may, pursuant to a meeting of its stockholders, held upon notice given in accordance with the provisions of section 29-231, sell, lease, or exchange all of its property and assets as an entirety, including its good will, and franchises howsoever granted and/or acquired, to or with any other such corporation or any other corporation organized or existing under the laws of any state of the United States which is duly authorized by its charter or otherwise to acquire and hold such or similar property, or to or with any natural person. An agreement containing the terms and conditions of the proposed sale, lease, or exchange shall, after approval thereof by a majority of the trustees or directors of such vendor, lessor, or grantor corporation, be submitted to said stockholders at said meeting for their approval; and if approved by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of all the stock outstanding (or, if two or more classes of stock have been issued, of two-thirds of each class, including stock of any class to which the charter denies the right to vote), such agreement shall be executed and its terms and conditions performed. Any stockholder who, at such meeting, voted against the agreement submitted or who shall in writing file his protest at least five days before the holding of such meeting, may within twenty days after such meeting (but not afterwards) make upon such vendor, lessor, or grantor corporation a written demand for payment for his stock; and he shall thereupon be entitled to receive an amount equal to the fair value thereof, unaffected by such sale, lease, or exchange of said corporate property and assets. If such dissenting stockholder and said vendor, lessor, or grantor corporation of which he is a stockholder shall fail to agree upon the fair value of said stock (or if, having agreed, such corporation shall fail to pay or tender the amount thereof), such stockholder shall be entitled to file, within thirty days after such written demand (but not afterwards, against said vendor, lessor or grantor corporation, in the court having jurisdiction of civil actions wherein the amount in controversy exceeds $50,000, a petition for an accounting and for the ascertainment of the fair value of his shares without regard to any depreciation or appreciation thereof in consequence of such sale, lease, or exchange; and on the coming in of the answer to said petition, which shall be filed within such reasonable period as the court may fix, the court shall pass an order referring the matter to a commissioner or commissioners agreed upon by the parties, and if the parties do not so agree, then to the auditor of said court, for the purpose of ascertaining such fair value, and such order may prescribe the time and manner of producing evidence; and the award of said commissioner or commissioners (or that of a majority of them) or of said auditor, when confirmed by decree of said court, shall be final and conclusive on all parties, and said vendor, lessor, or grantor corporation shall pay such stockholder the fair value of his shares ascertained as aforesaid, and on receiving such payment or on a tender thereof, said stockholder shall transfer his stock to the said vendor, lessor, or grantor corporation for cancellation, and until said award is paid or tendered, said stockholder shall have a lien for the payment of such award on the proceeds of such sale, lease, or exchange, prior to any distribution by said vendor, lessor, or grantor corporation and said payment and lien may be collected and enforced in the same manner as other decrees and liens are by law enforceable in such court. If the amount awarded said stockholder exceeds the amount offered by the corporation prior to the filing of said suit, costs shall be awarded to said stockholder; otherwise, costs shall be awarded to the corporation. Each party shall have the right of appeal as in other cases in such court. The proceeding by a dissenting stockholder hereunder shall not prevent or delay the execution and performance of any agreement so approved by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of each class of stock: Provided, however, That the right granted to a dissenting stockholder hereunder to demand payment for his shares shall cease, if at any time prior to the entry of any decree herein provided for, the defendant corporation shall make it appear to such court that the agreement of sale, lease, or exchange has been rescinded by appropriate corporate action, so that the shares of such dissenting shareholder remain unaffected thereby. Upon the performance of any agreement of sale hereunder of all of the property and assets as an entirety of a corporation (including its good will and franchises), all property, assets, rights, privileges, franchises, and powers of said selling corporation shall be vested in the purchasing corporation or person and shall thereafter be as effectually the property of the purchasing corporation or person as they were of the selling corporation subject to the provisions of this section, and such purchasing corporation or person shall thereupon immediately file in the office of the recorder of deeds of the District of Columbia proper evidence of such sale, and thereupon said selling corporation shall be dissolved and cease, subject, however, to the provisions of sections 29-715 to 29-718. Nothing contained herein shall affect the provisions of sections 28-1701 to 28-1705, or any of the provisions of chapters 1-10 of title 43, or any amendment or supplement thereof, or of any other law regulating public-utility corporations in the District of Columbia. (Mar. 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 639d, as added Feb. 12, 1931, 46 Stat. 1089, ch. 120, and amended June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139,

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Stockholder's suit

Under statute authorizing stockholder dissenting from corporation's decision to dispose of all assets to bring suit in District Court of United States for the District of Columbia, against corporation for fair value of shares, dissenting stockholder could not bring suit in Municipal Court for the District of Columbia, Civil Division, on theory that Municipal Court Act or Business Corporation Act of 1954 gave right to Municipal Court to assume jurisdiction, even though value of dissenting stockholder's shares was less than $3,000. Davis v. Universal Corporation (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 133 A. 2d 479).

The Municipal Court is a statutory court of limited jurisdiction, and its jurisdiction is not to be extended by inference or implication unless necessary to carry out the plain intention of Congress. Id.

1. #### SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 29-416, 29-417, 29-419.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Construction

In District of Columbia Code authorizing board of education to license educational institutions and providing that board "may require satisfactory evidence" along certain specified lines, the word "may" has a mandatory significance and does not confer upon board the choice whether to require proof or not before granting a license, and hence such statute is not discriminatory. Kraft v. Board of Education for District of Columbia (D.C.D.C. 1965, 247 F. Supp. 21).

Evidence

Substantial evidence including showing that school, although called the "National Art Academy" was really a school for teaching of commercial art and design sustained findings of District of Columbia board of education showing failure to comply with some statutory requirements and standards, warranting revocation of license of school to confer degree of Bachelor of Fine Arts. Kraft v. Board of Education for District of Columbia (D.C.D.C. 1965, 247 F. Supp. 21).

In action to set aside order of District of Columbia board of education revoking license of plaintiff to confer the degree of Bachelor of Fine Arts, evidence must be considered from standpoint most favorable to the board; the court does not weigh the evidence on both sides but merely determines whether there was sufficient evidence to support the findings. Id.

§ 29-416. Application for license—Recordation—Use of public school personnel authorized.

Application for the license referred to in section 29-415 shall be in writing upon forms prepared under the direction of the Board of Higher Education, and shall be filed with the secretary of the said board, whose duty it shall be, in case the institution so licensed is incorporated under the laws of the District of Columbia, to forward a copy of said license to the recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia, who shall indorse upon the certificate of incorporation the fact that said license has been issued. The Board of Higher Education is hereby authorized to employ the personnel of the public-school system of the District of Columbia, so far as the same may be necessary, for the proper performance of its duties under sections 29-414 to 29-419, and it shall be the duty of all public officers and bureaus of the federal government concerned with educational matters to render such advice and assistance to the Board of Higher Education as it may from time to time consider necessary or desirable for the better performance of its duties under sections 29-414 to 29-419. (Mar. 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 586c, as added Mar. 2, 1929, 45 Stat. 1504, ch. 523; Nov. 7, 1966, 80 Stat. 1430, Pub. L. 89-791, title I, § 106.)

This section is referred to in section 29-419.

A license once issued may be revoked by said Board of Higher Education for noncompliance on the part of any individual or individuals, associations, or incorporated institution so licensed with the provisions of section 29-415. Upon the revocation of any such license it shall be the duty of the secretary of the Board of Higher Education, in the case of an institution incorporated under the laws of the District of Columbia, to forward a copy of the revocation to the recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia, who shall cause a notation to be placed upon the certificate of incorporation to the effect that its authority to confer degrees has been revoked: Provided, however, That thirty days' notice shall first have been given to such individual or individuals, association, or to the trustees, directors, or managers of said institutions, with full opportunity to be heard by said Board of Higher Education at either a public or nonpublic session thereof, as may be desired by such individual or individuals, association, or the institution threatened with revocation of its license, and the evidence upon which said board shall act in the revocation of such license shall be committed to writing under the direction of the board, and upon application therefor a copy thereof furnished to such individual or individuals, association, or the institution whose license has been revoked: And provided further, That any party aggrieved by the action of said board in refusing to license or in revoking a license previously granted may appeal as provided in the District of Columbia Administrative Procedure Act (D.C. Code, secs. 1-1501 to 1-1510). (Mar. 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 586d, as added Mar. 2, 1929, 45 Stat. 1504, ch. 523, and amended June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127; Nov. 7, 1966, 80 Stat. 1430, Pub. L. 89-791, title I, § 106; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91-358, § 163(a), title I, 84 Stat. 582.)

AMENDMENTS

1970—Section 163(a) of Act July 29, 1970, Public Law 91-358 amended section by striking out "have the action of the said Board of Higher Education reviewed by the United States District Court for the District of Columbia at an equity term thereof" and inserting in lieu thereof "appeal as provided in the District of Columbia Administrative Procedure Act (D.C. Code, secs. 1-1501 to 1-1510)".

1966—Section 106(a) of act Nov. 7, 1966, amended section by substituting "Board of Higher Education" for "Board of Education", wherever latter term appeared in section.

LICENSES ISSUED PRIOR TO 1966 AMENDMENT

Saving clause with respect to licenses issued by Board of Education prior to amendment of this section by act Nov. 7, 1966, see § 106(b) of such act, set out as a note under § 29-415.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 29-416, 29-419.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Court's authority

In action to set aside an order of District of Columbia board of education revoking license to confer degree of Bachelor of Fine Arts, court could consider whether board was guilty of any error of law, whether its findings of fact were supported by substantial evidence, and whether its decision was arbitrary or capricious, but court could not review the weight of evidence and reach an independent conclusion on basis of evidence presented at hearing before the board. Kraft v. Board of Education for District of Columbia (D.C.D.C. 1965, 247 F. Supp. 21).

Evidence

In action to set aside order of District of Columbia board of education revoking license of plaintiff to confer the degree of Bachelor of Fine Arts, evidence must be considered from standpoint most favorable to the board; the court does not weigh the evidence on both sides but merely determines whether there was sufficient evidence to support the findings. Kraft v. Board of Education for District of Columbia (D.C.D.C. 1965, 247 F. Supp. 21).

Substantial evidence including showing that school, although called the "National Art Academy" was really a school for teaching of commercial art and design sustained findings of District of Columbia board of education showing failure to comply with some statutory requirements and standards, warranting revocation of license of school to confer degree of Bachelor of Fine Arts. Id.

Review

In statute providing that any party aggrieved by action of board of education in refusing to license or in revoking a license may have the action of board reviewed by United States District Court "at an equity term", there is no legal significance to quoted phrase in view of abolishment of distinction between law and equity, and all that phrase means is that review shall be in a civil non-jury branch of the court. Kraft v. Board of Education for District of Columbia (D.C.D.C. 1965, 247 F. Supp. 21).

§ 29-418. Title of institution not to imply official connection with Government of United States or District of Columbia—Prohibition applicable to nonresidents and foreign corporation conferring degrees in District of Columbia—License not to be denied merely because of use of prohibited words.

No institution incorporated under the provisions of this chapter shall use as its title, in whole or in part, the words United States, federal, American, national, or civil service, or any other words which might reasonably imply an official connection with the government of the United States, or any of its departments, bureaus, or agencies, or of the government of the District of Columbia, nor shall any such institutions advertise or claim the power to issue degrees under the authority of Congress or otherwise than under the authority of the license granted to them by the Board of Higher Education as hereinbefore provided. The prohibition in this section contained shall be deemed to include and is hereby declared applicable to any individual or individuals, association, or incorporation outside of the District of Columbia which shall undertake to do business in the District of Columbia or to confer degrees or certificates therein, and any such individual or individuals, association, or incorporation violating the provisions of this section shall be subject to the penalty hereinafter in section 29-419: Provided, That no institution, incorporated prior to April 16, 1934, under the provisions of this chapter, and carrying on its work exclusively in any foreign country with the consent and approval of the government thereof, shall if otherwise entitled to be licensed by the Board of Higher Education, be denied the same solely because of the inclusion in its name and as descriptive of its origin of any of the specific words the use of which is by this section forbidden to incorporations under the provisions of this chapter. (Mar. 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 586e, as added Mar. 2, 1929, 45 Stat. 1505, ch. 523, and amended Apr. 16, 1934, 48 Stat. 592, ch. 143; Nov. 7, 1966, 80 Stat. 1430, Pub. L. 89-791, title I, § 106.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Purpose abandoned

When for practically 20 years, there has been nothing in the nature of a religious society or collective body doing or sustaining the work which it may have been the purpose of the donor to organize, a purely voluntary association, unincorporated and unorganized, cannot be said to have an existence after definitely abandoning the purpose of its creation and ceasing to exercise its functions. Rose Campbell Mission v. Richardson (1935, 73 F. 2d 661, 64 App. D.C. 21).

Secular corporation

Appropriation for Providence Hospital, a secular corporation created by act of Congress, is not unconstitutional as a law respecting the establishment of religion, regardless of the religious opinion of the members of the corporation. Bradfield v. Roberts (1900, 20 S. Ct. 121, 175 U.S. 291, 44 L. Ed. 168).

§ 29-502. Trustees.

Such society or congregation may assume a name, and any number of trustees, not exceeding ten, who shall be styled trustees of such society or congregation by the name so assumed, may be elected or appointed according to the rules or discipline governing the church or denomination to which said society or congregation may belong. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1282, ch. 854, § 588.)

CODIFICATION

The persons elected or appointed as trustees or directors shall immediately thereafter make a certificate under their hands and seals, stating the date of their election or appointment, the name of the society or congregation, and length of time for which they were elected or appointed, which shall be verified by the affidavit of one of the persons making the same, and shall be filed and recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the District. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1282, ch. 854, § 589; June 26, 1922, 42 Stat. 665, ch. 241.)

(Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1282, ch. 854, § 590; June 26, 1922, 42 Stat. 665, ch. 241.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Abandonment of purpose

A purely voluntary religious association, unincorporated and unorganized, cannot be said to have an existence after definitely abandoning the purpose of its creation and ceasing to exercise its functions. Rose Campbell Mission v. Richardson (1935, 73 F. 2d 661, 64 App. D.C. 21).

Accounting

The South Carolina subordinate lodge of a grand lodge organized under act May 1870, 16 Stat. 98, ch. 80, in the District of Columbia could not be held to account for a judgment against the Georgia division of the same lodge. Washington v. King (1931, 157 S.E. 613, 159 S. Car. 431).

De facto corporations

To establish a corporation as de facto is all that is necessary to enable it to maintain an action against any one, other than the State, who has contracted with the corporation, or done it a wrong. Baltimore & P. R. Co. v. Fifth Baptist Church (1890, 11 S. Ct. 185, 137 U.S. 568, 34 L. Ed. 784).

Federal question

When a Federal right, as the right to incorporate a fraternal organization under act May 5, 1870, 16 Stat. 98, ch. 80, was held by a State court to have been lost by subsequent conduct, that of itself involves no Federal question, and the Supreme Court may not examine the decision unless the State court in substance is denying the right. Creswill v. Grand Lodge K. of P. (1912, 32 S. Ct. 822, 225 U.S. 246, 56 L. Ed. 1074).

Where a lodge or fraternal organization was organized in Georgia in 1864, and incorporated under act May 5, 1870, 16 Stat. 98, ch. 80, complying with the statute in all respects, membership in which was limited to white males, it was estopped by laches from contesting the incorporation in the District of Columbia of an organization similar in name, organized by Negroes in Mississippi in 1880, in Georgia in 1886, and application made in the District of Columbia in 1889. Id.

Health association

Group health association is a "relief association, not conducted for profit." Jordan v. Group Health Assn. (1940, 107 F. 2d 239, 71 App. D.C. 38).

Group health is in fact and in function a consumer cooperative, the functions of such an organization are not identical with those of insurance or indemnity companies and the latter are concerned primarily, if not exclusively, with risk and the consequences of its descent. Id.

A group of individuals might incorporate themselves for their own mutual benefit and such corporation, not for profit but for the mutual benefit of its members, is not engaged in practice of medicine when they contracted with members of medical profession. Group Health Assn. v. Moor (D.C.D.C. 1938, 24 F. Supp. 445).

Hospital

Even if it be a fact that the appellee is incorporated as a charitable corporation and even if judicial notice could be taken that it is so incorporated, this would not conclude the question whether or not it is a charity. White v. Central Dispensary & Emergency Hosp. (1938, 99 F. 2d 355, 69 App. D.C. 122, 119 A.L.R. 1002).

Injunction

White fraternal order incorporated under State law was not entitled to injunction against Negro order, organized under this act, in view of laches and acquiescence. Ancient Egyptian Arabic Order v. Michaux (1929, 49 S. Ct. 485, 279 U.S. 737, 73 L. Ed. 931).

Object of organization

Object for which a corporation is organized is to be determined from what is stated in its certificate of incorporation and its constitution and bylaws. Vanderbilt v. Com. Int. Rev. (C.C.A. 1, 93 F. 2d 360).

A corporation cannot deny its purposes are those set forth in its charter. Better Business Bureau of Washington, D. C. v. District Unemployment Compensation Board (D.C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 614).

Power to confer degrees

Claiming the right to confer degrees a right in the articles of incorporation does not confer such power. "It might have taken less than the section gave but not more." National Assn. of Certified Public Accountants v. United States (1923, 292 F. 668, 53 App. D.C. 391).

Corporation organized under this section has no power to confer degrees. Id.

Proof of corporate existence

To prove the existence of a corporation under act May 5, 1870, 16 Stat. 99, ch. 80, § 2, a recorder's copy of the certificate of incorporation, acknowledgment, and affidavit was sufficient, together with a record of an action in which the corporation recovered judgment against the defendant without objection of capacity to sue. Baltimore & P.R. Co. v. Fifth Baptist Church (1890, 11 S. Ct. 185, 137 U.S. 568, 34 L. Ed. 784).

§ 29-602. Formation—Signers incorporated—Powers—Taxation of property.

Upon filing their certificates the persons who shall have signed and acknowledged the same and their associates and successors shall be a body politic and corporate, by the name stated in such certificate; and by that name they and their successors may have and use a common seal, and may alter and change the same at pleasure, and may make by-laws and elect officers and agents, and may take, receive, hold, and convey real and personal estate necessary for the purposes of the society as stated in their certificate, and other real and personal property the income from which shall be applied to the purposes of such society: Provided, however, That this section shall not be construed to exempt any property from taxation in addition to that specifically exempted by law. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1284, ch. 854, § 600; Apr. 20, 1932, 47 Stat. 87, ch. 121.)

AMENDMENT

1932—Act Apr. 20, 1932, substituted "income from which shall be applied to the purposes of such society" for "clear annual income from which shall not exceed in value $25,000."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Group Health Association

Appellee Group Health Association, organized as non-profit cooperation, was not an insurance company. Jordan v. Group Health Assn. (1940, 107 F. 2d 329, 71 App. D.C. 38).

Tax exemption—Real estate

In order to qualify under statute exempting real estate belonging to educational institutions from taxation in District of Columbia, institution must render service which relieves District of Columbia of burden it otherwise might assume. Washington Chapter of American Institute of Banking v. District of Columbia (1953, 203 F. 2d 68, 92 U.S. App. D.C. 139).

— Social security

In ascertaining whether a corporation organized under § 29-601 relating to benevolent, charitable, educational, and similar corporations was exempt from District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Act, § 46-301, said section must be considered but said section cannot be conclusive in face of specific objects selected by corporation for inclusion in its charter. Better Business Bureau of Washington, D. C. v. District Unemployment Compensation Board (D.C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 614).

A corporation, whose object in part, as indicated by its charter, was for the mutual welfare, protection, and improvement of business methods among merchants and for protecting the interests of certain classes of businesses to enable them to profitably conduct their business, was not exempt as organized exclusively for "educational or scientific purposes" from District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Act, § 46-301, notwithstanding corporation's purposes were to be accomplished by educational methods. Id.

§ 29-603. Trustees, directors and managers.

Such incorporated society may elect its trustees, directors, or managers at such time and place and in such manner as may be specified in its bylaws, who shall have the control and management of the affairs and funds of the society, and a majority of whom shall be a quorum for the transaction of business, unless a less number be specified as a quorum in the bylaws; and whenever any vacancy shall happen in such board of trustees, directors, or managers the vacancies shall be filled in such manner as shall be provided by the bylaws of the society. The bylaws of a society incorporated under the provisions of this chapter may provide that stockholders, if the same be a stock corporation, or members or delegates, if the same be not a stock corporation, may vote by proxy or by mail. The bylaws may restrict such method of voting to the election of trustees, directors, or managers, or to other matters specified in the bylaws, and may prescribe the form or forms of proxy or of mail ballot to be used and the procedure to be followed in the casting and recording of such votes. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1284, ch. 854, § 601; June 10, 1930, 46 Stat. 538, ch. 439; Nov. 30, 1945, 59 Stat. 588, ch. 497; Aug. 7, 1946, 60 Stat. 882, ch. 781.)

AMENDMENTS

1946—Act Aug. 7, 1946, authorized bylaws to provide for voting by proxy or by mail, to restrict such method of voting and to prescribe the form of ballot.

"A charter of incorporation is not ipso facto abrogated or annulled by failure to pay a license tax, notwithstanding that the statute may provide that such failure shall work a forfeiture." Ohio Bank v. Central Constr. Co. (1901, 17 App. D.C. 524).

Parties

Statute providing in part that whenever District Attorney of District of Columbia should become satisfied that any corporation organized under laws of District had been guilty of such misuse of its powers as would make proper the forfeiture of its charter, district attorney should file petition in district court in name of United States for rule to show cause why forfeiture should not be granted, requires that proceeding be initiated by United States District Attorney, and afforded no remedy to one who sought to revoke charter of bar association by reason of its alleged misuse. United States ex rel. Robinson v. Bar Ass'n of District of Columbia (1952, 197 F. 2d 408, 91 U.S. App. D.C. 3).

This section declares that the district attorney may file a bill in the name of the United States in the Supreme Court of the District and it applies to corporations giving degrees when not authorized. National Assn. of C. P. A. v. United States (1923, 292 F. 668, 53 App. D.C. 391).

§ 29-726. Involuntary dissolution at the suit of creditors.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

District tax claims

District of Columbia Revenue Act provision giving priority to District for unpaid gross sales taxes against a taxpayer in bankruptcy before all claimants of whatsoever kind or nature and making penalties and interest a prior and preferred claim gives District a priority in whatever local insolvency proceedings are instituted where bankrupt person or corporation involved is not eligible to become a bankrupt under the Bankruptcy Act. District of Columbia v. Greenbaum, trustee etc. (1955, 223 F. 633, 96 U.S. App. D.C. 168).

Sufficiency of bill

A bill for a receivership of an insurance company, asking for a dissolution, may be sufficient to invoke the court's general equity jurisdiction, though not for a statutory dissolution. National Ben. Life Ins. Co. v. Shaw-Walker Co. (1940, 111 F. 2d 497, 71 App. D.C. 276).

§ 29-727. Injunction against transferring assets—Receiver.

Upon prima facie proof of the facts necessary to sustain such suit the court may issue an injunction restraining the corporation, its trustees, directors, and officers from collecting or receiving any debt or demand and from paying out or transferring or delivering to any person any of its property or effects and from exercising any of its corporate rights and franchises during the pendency of the suit, unless by permission of the court. And at any stage of the proceeding the court may appoint a receiver to collect and preserve the property of the corporation and dispose of and manage the same, under the direction of the court, until final decree in the cause. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1320, ch. 854, § 795.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 29-836.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Collateral attack

Where a receiver for a life insurance company had been appointed, and a representative of policyholders subsequently instituted a second proceeding for a dissolution, and asking another receiver, on the ground that the court had exceeded its jurisdiction in appointing the first receiver, the second proceeding was an arbitrary exercise of discretion, as the assets had been liquidated, and only dissolution remained to be made, and an unwarranted collateral attack. National Ben. Life Ins. Co. v. Shaw-Walker Co. (1940, 111 F. 2d 497, 71 App. D.C. 276).

Discretion of court

The provision for the appointment of a receiver in dissolution proceedings is not mandatory, and the appointment is at the court's discretion. National Ben. Life Ins. Co. v. Shaw-Walker Co. (1940, 111 F. 2d 497, 71 App. D.C. 276).

§ 29-728. Parties defendant in creditor's suit.

Where the action is brought by a creditor, the stockholders, directors, trustees, or other officers, or any of them who may be made liable by law for the payment of the complainant's debt, may be made parties defendant by the original or a supplemental bill, and their liability may be declared and enforced by the decree; but nothing herein shall prevent any creditor from enforcing such liability in a separate suit against such parties. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1321, ch. 854, § 796.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

§ 29-729. Account and distribution.

In such suit, if the court shall be of opinion that the complainant is entitled to the relief prayed, and that such corporation ought to be dissolved, the court shall cause an account to be taken of the assets and debts of the corporation and shall decree an equal distribution of the assets among the creditors, subject to existing liens; but if said corporation has no property to satisfy its creditors, or to the extent to which its property is insufficient therefor, the court may require the stockholders, who are parties defendant to the suit, to pay into court the amounts due and unpaid on the shares of stock held by them, and shall ascertain the amounts properly chargeable, in favor of creditors, to said stockholders and the trustees, directors, or other officers who are parties to the suit, and in the final decree for the dissolution shall adjudge and decree that said amounts shall be paid into court by the parties respectively liable therefor, to be applied to the payment of the debts of the corporation. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1321, ch. 854, § 797.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 29-801.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Collateral attack

A collateral attack upon the creation and existence of a cooperative, and alleged want of capacity to own and dispose of real estate can only be asserted by the state and not by parties to a private dispute. Glennon v. Butler (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 66 A. 2d 519).

Powers

Cooperative associations are specifically authorized to acquire, own, hold, sell, lease, pledge, mortgage or otherwise dispose of any properties incident to their purposes and activities. Glennon v. Butler (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 66 A. 2d 519).

§ 29-805. Articles of incorporation—Contents.

Articles of incorporation shall be signed by each of the incorporators and acknowledged by at least three of them if natural persons, and by the presidents and secretaries, if associations, before an officer authorized to take acknowledgments.

Within the limitations of this chapter the articles shall contain—

(1) A statement as to the purpose or purposes for which the association is formed;

(2) The name of the association which shall include the word "cooperative";

(3) The term of existence of the association which may be perpetual;

(4) The location and address of the principal office of the association;

(5) The names and addresses of the incorporators of the association;

(6) The names and addresses of the directors who shall manage the affairs of the association for the first year, unless sooner changed by the members;

(7) A statement of whether the association is organized with or without shares, and the number of shares or memberships subscribed for;

(8) If organized with shares, a statement of the amount of authorized capital, the number and types of shares and the par value thereof which may be placed at any figure, and the rights, preferences, and restrictions of each type of share;

(9) The minimum number or value of shares which must be owned in order to qualify for membership; if organized without shares, a statement of whether the property rights of members shall be equal or unequal, and if unequal, the rule by which their rights shall be determined;

(10) The maximum amount or percentage of capital which may be owned or controlled by any member; including a statement of whether or not each member shall be limited to a single share, and whether such single shares shall be of various par values;

(11) The method by which any surplus, upon dissolution of the association, shall be distributed, in conformity with the requirements of section 29-836 herein for division of such surplus.

The articles may also contain any other provisions not inconsistent with law or with this chapter, for the conduct of the association's affairs. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 481, ch. 397, § 5.)

§ 29-806. Filing and recordation of articles—Fees—Effect of certificate.

The articles shall be delivered to the recorder of deeds. If he finds that the articles conform to law, he shall file the same upon the payment of a fee of $5, and he shall record the same, upon payment of a fee of $1. Said fees shall be in lieu of any other fees or payments provided in section 45-708, or in any other section of the Code of Laws of the District of Columbia, to be paid for at the time of said filing; and the last paragraph of section 45-708 shall have no application to associations organized under this chapter. After such filing and recording, he shall issue a certificate of incorporation, whereupon the corporate existence shall begin. Such certificate shall be conclusive evidence of the fact that the corporation has been duly incorporated. This shall not preclude the institution of quo warranto proceedings under sections 16-1601 to 16-1611. The filing or recording of the articles or of amendments thereto, or of any other papers pursuant to this chapter is required for the purpose of affording all persons the opportunity of acquiring knowledge of the contents thereof, but no person or incorporated or unincorporated group dealing with the association shall be charged with constructive notice of the contents of any such articles or papers by reason of such filing or recording. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 482, ch. 397, § 6.)

REFERENCES IN TEXT

§ 29-807. Amendments of articles—Fee.

Amendments to the articles may be proposed by a two-thirds vote of the board of directors, or by petition of 10 per centum of the association's members. Notice of the meeting to consider such amendment shall be sent by the Secretary at least thirty days in advance thereof to each member at his last-known address, accompanied by the full text of the proposal and by that part of the articles to be amended. Two-thirds of the members voting may adopt said amendment and when verified by the president and secretary, it shall be filed and recorded with the recorder of deeds within thirty days of its adoption, and a fee of $1 shall be paid.

If the amendment is to alter the preferences of outstanding shares of any type, or to authorize the issuance of shares having preferences superior to outstanding shares of any type, the vote of two-thirds of the members owning such outstanding shares affected by the change shall also be required for the adoption of the amendment; if the amendment is to alter the rule by which members' property rights in a nonshare association are determined, a vote of two-thirds of the entire membership shall be required.

The amount of capital and the number and par value of shares may be diminished or increased by amendment of the articles, but the capital shall not be diminished below the amount of paid-up capital existing at the time of amendment. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 483, ch. 397, § 7.)

§ 29-808. By-laws—Adoption, amendment, or repeal.

Regular or special meetings, including meetings by units as hereinafter provided, may be held within or without the District of Columbia as the articles may prescribe. In case of a special meeting, the notice shall specify the purpose for which such meeting is called. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 483, ch. 397, § 11.)

§ 29-812. Meetings by units of the membership.

The articles or by-laws may provide for the holding of meetings by units of the membership and may provide for a method of transmitting the votes there cast to the central meeting, or for a method of representation by the election of delegates to the central meeting, or for a combination of both such methods. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 484, ch. 397, § 12.)

§ 29-813. Voting—One member, one vote.

§ 29-815. Voting by mail.

The articles or by-laws may provide for either or both of the following types of voting by mail:

(1) That the secretary shall send to the members a copy of any proposal scheduled to be offered at a meeting, together with the notice of said meeting, and that the mail votes cast by the members shall be counted together with those cast at the meeting if such mail votes are returned to the association within a specified number of days;

(2) That the secretary shall send to any member absent from a meeting an exact copy of the proposal acted upon at the meeting, and that the mail vote of the member upon such proposal, if returned within a specified number of days, shall be counted together with the votes cast at said meeting.

The articles or by-laws may also determine whether and to what extent mail votes shall be counted in computing a quorum. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 484, ch. 397, § 15.)

§ 29-816. Application of voting provisions to voting by mail.

§ 29-817. Application of voting provisions to voting by delegates.

If an association has provided for voting by delegates any provision of this chapter referring to votes cast by the members shall apply to votes cast by delegates; but this shall not permit delegates to vote by mail. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 484, ch. 397, § 17.)

§ 29-818. Directors.

An association shall be managed by a board of not less than five directors, who shall be elected for a term fixed in the by-laws not to exceed three years, by and from the members of the association and shall hold office until their successors are elected, or until removed. Vacancies in the board of directors, otherwise than by removal or expiration of term, shall be filled in such manner as the by-laws may provide.

The by-laws may provide for a method of apportioning the number of directors among the units into which the association may be divided, and for the election of directors by the respective units to which they are apportioned.

An executive committee of the board of directors may be elected in such manner and with such powers and duties as the articles or by-laws may prescribe.

Meetings of directors and of the executive committee may be held within or without the District of Columbia. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 484, ch. 397, § 18.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Validity of by-laws

Incorporated cooperative association's by-law providing that board of directors' selection of counsel shall be subject to approval of membership violated statute, and such by-law did not preclude counsel from recovering for services rendered under contract approved by the board. Capitol Cab Cooperative Ass'n Inc. v. W. C. Darden (D.C. Mun. App. 1961, 169 A. 2d 463; see also, same case, 154 A. 2d 352).

§ 29-819. Officers.

The officers of an association shall include a president, one or more vice-presidents, a secretary and a treasurer, or a secretary-treasurer. The officers shall be elected annually by the directors unless the by-laws otherwise provide. The president and at least one vice-president must be directors, but no other officer need be a director. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 485, ch. 397, § 19.)

§ 29-820. Removal of directors and officers.

A director or officer may be removed with or without cause, by a vote of two-thirds of the members voting at a regular or special meeting. The director or officer involved shall have an opportunity to be heard at said meeting. A vacancy caused by any such removal shall be filled by the vote provided in the by-laws for election of directors. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 485, ch. 397, § 20.)

§ 29-821. Referendum on acts of directors.

The articles or by-laws may provide that within a specified period of time any action taken by the directors must be referred to the members for approval or disapproval if demanded by petition of at least 10 per centum of all the members or by vote of at least a majority of the directors: Provided, however, That the rights of third parties which have vested between the time of such action, and such referendum shall not be impaired thereby. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 485, ch. 397, § 21.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Validity of by-laws

Incorporated cooperative association's by-law providing that board of directors' selection of counsel shall be subject to approval of membership violated statute, and such by-law did not preclude counsel from recovering for services rendered under contract approved by board. Capitol Cab Cooperative Ass'n Inc. v. W. C. Darden (D.C. Mun. App. 1961, 169 A. 2d 463; see also, same case, 154 A. 2d 352).

§ 29-822. Limitations upon the return on capital.

The return upon capital shall not exceed 6 per centum per annum upon the paid-up capital and shall be noncumulative.

Total return upon capital distributed for any single period shall not exceed 50 per centum of the net savings for that period. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 485, ch. 397, § 22.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 29-831.

§ 29-823. Eligibility and admission to membership.

Any natural person, association, incorporated, or unincorporated group organized on a cooperative basis, or any nonprofit group, shall be eligible for membership in an association if it has met the qualifications for eligibility, if any, stated in the articles or by-laws and shall be deemed a member upon payment in full for the par value of the minimum amount of share or membership capital stated in the articles as necessary to qualify for membership. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 485, ch. 397, § 23.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 29-801.

§ 29-824. Subscribers.

Any natural person or group eligible for membership and legally obligated to purchase a share or shares of, or membership in, an association shall be deemed a subscriber. The articles or by-laws may determine whether, and the conditions under which, any voting rights or other rights of membership shall be granted to subscribers. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 485, ch. 397, § 24.)

§ 29-825. Share and membership certificates—Issuance and contents.

No certificate for share or membership capital shall be issued until the par value thereof has been paid for in full. There shall be printed upon each certificate issued by an association a full or condensed statement of the requirements of sections 29-813, 29-814, and 29-826 herein. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 485, ch. 397, § 25.)

§ 29-826. Transfer of shares and membership—Withdrawal.

If a member desires to withdraw from the association or dispose of any or all of his holdings therein, the directors shall have the power to purchase such holdings by paying him the par value of any or all of the holdings offered. The directors shall then reissue or cancel the same. A vote of the majority of the members voting at a regular or special meeting may order the directors to exercise this power to purchase.

If the association fails, within sixty days of the original offer, to purchase all or any part of the holdings offered, the member may dispose of the unpurchased interest elsewhere, subject to the approval of the transferee by a majority vote of the directors. Any would-be transferee not approved by the directors may appeal to the members at their first regular or special meeting thereafter, and the action of the meeting shall be final. If such transferee is not approved, the directors shall exercise their power to purchase, if and when such purchase can be made without jeopardizing the solvency of the association. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 485, ch. 397, § 26.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 29-825.

§ 29-827. Share and membership certificates—Recall.

The by-laws may give the directors the power to use the reserve funds to recall, at par value, the holdings of any member in excess of the amount requisite for membership; and may also provide that if any member has failed to patronize the association during a period of time specified in the by-laws, the directors may use the reserve funds to recall all his holdings and thereupon he shall cease to be a member of the association. When so recalled, such certificates of share or membership capital shall be either reissued or canceled. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 485, ch. 397, § 27.)

§ 29-828. Share and membership certificates—Attachment.

The holdings of any member of an association, to the extent of the minimum amount necessary for membership, but not to exceed $50, shall be exempt from attachment, execution, or garnishment for the debts of the owner. If any holdings in excess of this amount are subjected to such liability, the directors of the association may either admit the purchaser thereof to membership, or may purchase from him such holdings at par value. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 485, ch. 397, § 28.)

§ 29-829. Liability of members.

Members shall not be jointly or severally liable for any debts of the association, nor shall a subscriber be so liable except to the extent of the unpaid amount on the shares or membership certificate subscribed by him. No subscriber shall be released from such liability by reason of any assignment of his interest in the shares or membership certificate, but shall remain jointly and severally liable with the assignee until the shares or certificates are fully paid up. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 486, ch. 397, § 29.)

§ 29-830. Expulsion of members—Procedure—Purchase of holdings.

A member may be expelled by the vote of a majority of the members voting at a regular or special meeting. The member against whom the charges are to be preferred shall be informed thereof in writing at least ten days in advance of the meeting, and shall have an opportunity to be heard in person or by counsel at said meeting. On decision of the association to expel a member, the board of directors shall purchase the member's holdings at par value, if and when there are sufficient reserve funds. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 486, ch. 397, § 30.)

§ 29-831. Allocation and distribution of net savings.

At least once a year the members and/or the directors, as the articles or by-laws may provide, shall apportion the net savings of the association in the following order:

(1) Not less than 10 per centum shall be placed in a reserve fund until such time as the fund shall equal at least 50 per centum of the paid-up capital; and such fund may be used in the general conduct of the business. The amounts apportioned to the reserve fund shall be allocated on the books of the association on a patronage basis, or in lieu thereof, the books and records of the association shall afford a means for doing so, in order that upon dissolution or earlier, if deemed advisable, such reserves may be returned to the patrons who have contributed the same, subject to the limitations of section 29-836 herein;

(2) A return upon capital, within the limitations of section 29-822, may be paid upon share capital, or, if the by-laws so provide, upon the membership capital certificates of a nonshare association; but such return upon capital may be paid only out of the surplus of the aggregate of the assets over the aggregate of the liabilities (including in the latter the amount of the capital stock) after deducting from such aggregate of the assets the amount by which such aggregate was increased by unrealized appreciation in value or revaluation of fixed assets;

(3) A portion of the remainder, as determined by the articles or by-laws, shall be allocated to an educational fund to be used in teaching cooperation, and a portion may also be allocated to funds for the general welfare of the members of the association;

(4) The remainder shall be allocated at the same uniform rate to all patrons of the association in proportion to their individual patronage: Provided, That—

(a) in the case of a member patron, his proportionate amount of savings returns shall be distributed to him unless he agrees that the association should credit the amount to his account toward the purchase of an additional share or shares, or additional membership capital;

(b) in the case of a subscriber patron, his proportionate amount of savings returns may, as the articles or by-laws provide, be distributed to him, or credited to his account until the amount of capital subscribed for has been fully paid;

(c) in the case of a nonmember patron, his proportionate amount of savings returns shall be set aside in a general fund for such patrons and shall be allocated to individual nonmember patrons only upon request and presentation of evidence of the amount of their patronage. Any savings return so allocated shall be credited to such patron toward payment of the minimum amount of share or membership capital necessary for membership. When a sum equal to this amount has accumulated at any time within a period of time specified in the by-laws, such patron shall be deemed and become a member of the association if he so agrees or requests, and complies with any provisions in the by-laws for admission to membership. The certificates of shares or membership to which he is entitled shall then be issued to him.

(d) if within any periods of time specified in the articles or by-laws, (1) any subscriber has not accumulated and paid in the amount of capital subscribed for; or (2) any nonmember patron has not accumulated in his individual account the sum necessary for membership; or (3) any nonmember patron has accumulated the sum necessary for membership but neither requests nor agrees to become a member, or fails to comply with the provisions of the by-laws, if any, for admission to membership, then the amounts so accumulated or paid in and any part of the general fund for nonmember patrons which has not been allocated to individual nonmember patrons shall go to the educational fund and thereafter no member or other patron shall have any rights in said paid-in capital or accumulated savings returns as such: Provided further, That nothing in this section shall prevent an association under this chapter which is engaged in rendering services from disposing of the net savings from the rendering of such services in such manner as to lower the fees charged for services or otherwise to further the common benefit of the members: And provided further, That nothing in this section shall prevent an association from adopting a system whereby the payment of savings returns which would otherwise be distributed, shall be deferred for a fixed period of months or years; nor from adopting a system, whereby the savings returns distributed shall be partly in cash, partly in shares, such shares to be retired at a fixed future date, in the order of their serial number or date of issue. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 486, ch. 397, § 31.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 29-801.

§ 29-832. Bonding of officers and employees.

Every individual acting as officer or employee of an association and handling funds or securities amounting to $1,000 or more, in any one year, shall be covered by an adequate bond as determined by the board of directors, and at the expense of the association; and the by-laws may also provide for the bonding of other employees or officers. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 486, ch. 397, § 32.)

§ 29-833. Books—Auditing.

To record its business operation, every association shall keep a set of books, which shall be audited at the end of each fiscal year by an experienced bookkeeper or accountant, who shall not be an officer or director. Where the annual business amounts to less than $10,000, the audit may be performed by an auditing committee of three, who shall not be directors, officers, or employees. A written report of the audit, including a statement of the amount of business transacted with members, and the amount transacted with nonmembers, the balance sheet, and the income and expenses, shall be submitted to the annual meeting of the association. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 488, ch. 397, § 33.)

§ 29-834. Annual report of association.

Every association shall annually, within sixty days of the close of its operations for that year, make a report of its condition, sworn to by the president and secretary, which report shall be filed with the recorder of deeds. The report shall state—

(a) The name and principal address of the association.

(b) The names, addresses, occupations, and date of expiration of the terms, of the officers and directors, and their compensation, if any.

(c) The amount and nature of its authorized, subscribed, and paid-in capital, the number of its shareholders, and the number admitted and withdrawn during the year, the par value of its shares and the rate at which any return upon capital has been paid. For nonshare associations the annual report shall state the total number of members, the number admitted or withdrawn during the year, and the amount of membership fees received.

(d) The receipts, expenditures, assets, and liabilities of the association.

A copy of this report shall be kept on file at the principal office of the association.

Any person who shall subscribe or make oath to such report containing a materially false statement, known to such person to be false, shall upon conviction of such offense be punished by a fine of not less than $25 nor more than $200, or by imprisonment of not less than thirty days nor more than one year, or both such fine and imprisonment. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 488, ch. 397, § 34.)

§ 29-835. Notice of delinquent reports—Mandamus.

If an association fails to make such report within the required period of sixty days, the recorder of deeds shall within sixty days from the expiration of said period send such association a registered letter directed to its principal office, stating the delinquency and its consequences. If the association fails to file the report within sixty days from the mailing of such notice, any member of the association or the United States attorney for the District of Columbia may by petition for mandamus against the association and its proper officers compel such filing to be made, and in such case the court shall require the association or the officers at fault to pay all the expenses of the proceeding including counsel fees. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 488, ch. 397, § 35.)

§ 29-836. Dissolution—Methods—Procedure.

An association may, at any regular or special meeting legally called, be directed to dissolve by a vote of two-thirds of the entire membership. By a vote of a majority of the members voting three of their number shall be designated as trustees, who shall, on behalf of the association and within a time fixed in their designation or within any extension thereof, liquidate its assets, and shall distribute them in the manner set forth in this section. A suit for involuntary dissolution of an association organized under this chapter may be instituted for the causes and prosecuted in the manner set forth in sections 29-719 to 29-724, 29-726 to 29-729: Provided, That any distribution of assets shall be in the manner set forth in this section. In case of any dissolution of an association, its assets shall be distributed in the following manner and order: (1) By paying its debts and expenses; (2) by returning to the members the par value of their shares or of their membership certificates, returning to the subscribers the amounts paid on their subscriptions, and returning to the patrons the amount of savings returns credited to their accounts toward the purchase of shares or membership certificates; and (3) by distributing any surplus in either or both of the following ways as the articles may provide—

(a) Among those patrons who have been members or subscribers at any time during the past six years, on the basis of their patronage during that period;

(b) As a gift to any consumers' cooperative association or other nonprofit enterprise which may be designated in the Articles. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 489, ch. 397, § 36.)

(June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 489, ch. 397, § 37; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 909, ch. 646, § 1.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In general

In determining whether proviso of this section that no corporation may be organized unless the place where it conducts its principal business is located within District prohibits a corporation from conducting business in a city outside of District, court would examine this chapter as a whole. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc. (D.C.D.C. 1958, 167 F. Supp. 215, affirmed 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

Applicability of provisions of 1901 Act to corporation formed in 1953

Provision which was part of Business Corporation Act of 1901 and required restrictions to be stated on certificate had no application to corporation organized for profit in 1958. Sankin v. 5410 Connecticut Avenue Corp., et al.; Benn v. Garfield (1968, 281 F. Supp. 524).

Organization

Under this section providing that "no corporation may be organized" under this chapter "unless the place where it conducts its principal business is located within the District of Columbia", the word "organized" has relation only to time of incorporation and hence such provision would not prohibit corporation operating professional baseball team from transferring its franchise from District to a city outside of District since the usual meaning of word "organized" when used in relation to corporate structures is in the sense of having been brought into being or created and the word as used in the chapter sounds in praesenti and means the creation of a corporation without reference to the future. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc. (D.C.D.C. 1958, 167 F. Supp. 215, affirmed 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

Place of business after organization

This chapter, considered in its entirety, contemplates that principal place of business of a corporation may be outside the District after organization in the sense of creation, and there was no intention to make the proviso that "no corporation may be organized" under the chapter "unless the place where it conducts its principal business is located within the District of Columbia" a continuing regulation. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc. (D.C.D.C. 1958, 167 F. Supp. 215, affirmed 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

Retrospective effect

The proviso of this section that no corporation may be organized under this chapter unless place where it conducts its principal business is located within the District of Columbia speaks prospectively, and where corporation owning a baseball club, although reincorporated under the 1954 act, was organized under the act of 1901, imposing no restrictions upon the place where the corporation might conduct its principal business, such corporation was not required to conduct its principal business at a place within the District and was not prohibited from moving its American League franchise to any other city outside the District. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc., et al. (1959, 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

The proviso of Business Corporation Act of District of Columbia that no corporation may be organized unless the place where it conducts its principal business is located within District of Columbia did not apply to corporation operating professional baseball team as reincorporated corporation which under old act had power to conduct its principal place of business outside District of Columbia, and though not exercised, the power available by amendment to certificate of corporation was preserved under the Act, and hence proviso would not preclude corporation from transferring its franchise to a city outside the District. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc. (D.C.D.C. 1958, 167 F. Supp. 215, affirmed 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

§ 29-904. General powers.

Each corporation shall have power:

(a) To have perpetual succession by its corporate name unless a limited period of duration is stated in its articles of incorporation.

(b) To sue and be sued, complain and defend, in its corporate name.

(c) To have a corporate seal, which may be altered at pleasure, and to use the same by causing it, or a facsimile thereof, to be impressed or affixed or in any other manner reproduced.

(d) To purchase, take, receive, lease, take by gift, devise, or bequest, or otherwise acquire, and to own, hold, improve, use, and otherwise deal in and with real or personal property, or any interest therein, wherever situated.

(e) To sell, convey, mortgage, pledge, lease, exchange, transfer, and otherwise dispose of all or any part of its property and assets.

(f) To lend money to, and otherwise assist, its employees, other than its officers and directors.

(g) To purchase, take, receive, subscribe for, or otherwise acquire, own, hold, vote, use, employ, sell, mortgage, loan, pledge, or otherwise dispose of, and otherwise use and deal in and with, shares or other interests in, or obligations of, other corporations organized under the laws of the District of Columbia, of foreign corporations, and of associations, partnerships, or individuals.

(h) To make contracts and incur liabilities; to borrow money at such rates of interest as the corporation may determine without regard to the restrictions of any usury law; to issue its notes, bonds, and other obligations; and to secure any of its obligations by mortgage or pledge of all or any of its property, franchises, and income. No corporation formed hereunder shall plead any statutes against usury in any action.

(i) To invest its surplus funds from time to time and to lend money for its corporate purposes, and to take and hold real and personal property as security for the payment of funds so invested or loaned.

(j) To conduct its business, carry on its operations, and have offices and exercise the powers granted by this chapter within and without the District of Columbia and to exercise in any State, Territory, district, colony, or possession of the United States, or in any foreign country the powers granted by this chapter, subject to the laws of such State, Territory, District, colony, or possession of the United States, or such foreign country.

(k) To elect or appoint officers and agents of the corporation, and to define their duties and fix their compensation.

(l) To make and alter bylaws, not inconsistent with its articles of incorporation or with the laws of the District of Columbia, for the administration and regulation of the affairs of the corporation.

(m) To make contributions to charitable organizations, and, in time of war, to transact any lawful business in aid of the United States.

(n) To cease its corporate activities and surrender its corporate franchise.

(o) To have and exercise all powers necessary or convenient to effect any or all of the purposes for which the corporation is formed.

(p) To indemnify any and all of its directors or officers or former directors or officers or any person who may have served at its request as a director or officer of another corporation in which it owns shares of capital stock or of which it is a creditor against expenses actually and necessarily incurred by them in connection with the defense of any action, suit, or proceeding in which they, or any of them, are made parties, or a party, by reason of being or having been directors or officers or a director or officer of the corporation, or of such other corporation, except in relation to matters as to which any such director or officer or former director or officer or person shall be adjudged in such action suit, or proceeding to be liable for negligence or misconduct in the performance of duty. Such indemnification shall not be deemed exclusive of any other rights to which those indemnified may be entitled, under any bylaw, agreement, vote of stockholders, or otherwise. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 180, ch. 269, § 4; Sept. 3, 1963, 77 Stat. 136, Pub. L. 88-111, § 1(1).)

AMENDMENT

1963—Section 1(1) of act Sept. 3, 1963, amended subsection (h) by adding the following "No corporation formed hereunder shall plead any statutes against usury in any action."

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1963 AMENDMENTS

See note to section 29-903.

CROSS REFERENCE

Usury defined, see § 28-3303.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Appealable order

Whether foreign corporation, previously qualified, possessed different status when it filed in advance of suit for recovery of allegedly usurious interest a certificate of withdrawal was relevant issue in addition to question raised in first amended complaint as to whether statute allowing corporations to seek financing without regard to lawful interest rates barred a corporation's action to recover usurious interest, and order dismissing second amended complaint which presented issue of foreign corporation's status was a final and appealable order. Indian Lake Estates, Inc. v. Ten Individual Defendants (1965, 350 F. 2d 435, 121 U.S. App. D.C. 305).

Applicability of provisions of 1901 Act to corporation formed in 1958

Provision which was part of Business Corporation Act of 1901 and required restrictions to be stated on certificate had no application to corporation organized for profit in 1958. D.C. Code 1961. Sankin v. 5410 Connecticut Avenue Corp, et al.; Benn v. Garfield (1968, 281 F. Supp. 524).

Place of business after organization

This chapter, considered in its entirety, contemplates that principal place of business of a corporation may be outside the District after organization in the sense of creation, and there was no intention to make the proviso that "no corporation may be organized" under the chapter "unless the place where it conducts its principal business is located within the District of Columbia" a continuing regulation. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc. (D.C.D.C. 1958, 167 F. Supp. 215, affirmed 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

Usury

Filing of certificate of withdrawal by foreign corporation did not change status previously acquired by corporation's contracts so that under statute allowing corporations to seek financing without regard to lawful interest rates its complaint for recovery of usurious interest under prior contracts was barred. Indian Lake Estates, Inc. v. Ten Individual Defendants (1965, 350 F. 2d 435, 121 U.S. App. D.C. 305).

§ 29-904a. Power of corporation to acquire its own shares.

A corporation shall have power to purchase, take, receive, or otherwise acquire, hold, own, pledge, transfer, or otherwise dispose of its own shares: Provided, That it shall not purchase, either directly or indirectly, its own shares when its net assets are less than the sum of its stated capital, its paid-in surplus, any surplus arising from unrealized appreciation in value or revaluation of its assets and any surplus arising from surrender to the corporation of any of its shares, or when by so doing its net assets would be reduced below such sum. Notwithstanding the foregoing limitations, a corporation may purchase or otherwise acquire its own shares for the purpose of—

(a) eliminating fractional shares;

(b) collecting or compromising claims of the corporation or any indebtedness to the corporation;

(c) paying dissenting shareholders entitled to payment for their shares under the provisions of this chapter;

(d) effecting the retirement of its redeemable shares by redemption or by purchase at not to exceed the redemption price, but no redemption or purchase of redeemable shares shall be made which will reduce the remaining assets of the corporation below an amount sufficient to pay all debts and known liabilities of the corporation as they mature, except such debts and liabilities as have been otherwise adequately provided for, or which will reduce the net assets below the aggregate amount payable to the holders of shares having prior or equal rights to the assets of the corporation upon dissolution. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 181, ch. 269, § 5.)

§ 29-904b. Dealing in real estate as corporate purpose.

§ 29-905. Defense of ultra vires.

No act of a corporation and no conveyance or transfer of real or personal property to or by a corporation shall be invalid by reason of the fact that the corporation was without capacity or power to do such act or to make or receive such conveyance or transfer, but such lack of capacity or power may be asserted—

(a) in a proceeding by a shareholder against the corporation to enjoin the doing of any act or acts or the transfer of real or personal property by or to the corporation. If the acts or transfer sought to be enjoined are being, or are to be, performed or made pursuant to any contract to which the corporation is a party, the court may, if all of the parties to the contract are parties to the proceeding and if it deems the same to be equitable, set aside and enjoin the performance of such contract, and in so doing may allow to the corporation or to the other parties to the contract, as the case may be, compensation for the loss or damage sustained by either of them which may result from the action of the court in setting aside and enjoining the performance of such contract, but anticipated profits to be derived from the performance of the contract shall not be awarded by the court as a loss or damage sustained;

(b) in a proceeding by the corporation, whether acting directly or through a receiver, trustee, or other legal representative, or through shareholders in a representative suit, against the incumbent or former officers or directors of the corporation;

(c) in a proceeding by the Commissioner, as provided in this chapter, to dissolve the corporation, or in a proceeding by the Commissioner to enjoin the corporation from the transaction of unauthorized business. #### § 29-907. Registered office and registered agent.

Each corporation shall have and continuously maintain in the District of Columbia—

(a) a registered office which may be, but need not be, the same as its place of business;

(b) a registered agent, which agent may be either an individual resident in the District of Columbia whose business office is identical with such registered office, or a corporation authorized by the articles of incorporation to act as such agent and authorized to transact business in the District of Columbia having a business office identical with such registered office. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 183, ch. 269, § 10.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Place of business

Under this section requiring a corporation to have and continuously maintain in district a registered office which may be but need not be the same as its place of business and a registered agent, Congress intended only that the registered office and registered agent remain in District and did not require that they be at place of business which would imply, so far as events after organization are concerned, that the place of business might be elsewhere than the District. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc. (D.C.D.C. 1958, 167 F. Supp. 215, affirmed 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

After organization

This chapter, considered in its entirety, contemplates that principal place of business of a corporation may be outside the District after organization in the sense of creation, and there was no intention to make the proviso that "no corporation may be organized" under the chapter "unless the place where it conducts its principal business is located within the District of Columbia" a continuing regulation. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc. (D.C.D.C. 1958, 167 F. Supp. 215, affirmed 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

§ 29-907a. Change of registered office or registered agent.

(a) A corporation may change its registered office or change its registered agent, or both, by filing with the Commissioner a statement setting forth—

- (1) the name of the corporation;
- (2) the address, including street and number, if any, of its then registered office;
- (3) if the address of its registered office be changed, the address, including street and number, if any, to which the registered office is to be changed;
- (4) the name of its then registered agent;
- (5) if its registered agent be changed, the name of its successor registered agent;
- (6) that the address of its registered office and the address of the business office of its registered agent as changed, will be identical; and
- (7) that such change was authorized by resolution duly adopted by its board of directors or was authorized by an officer of the corporation duly empowered to make such change.

(b) Such statement shall be executed in duplicate by the corporation by its president or a vice president, and verified by him, and the corporate seal shall be thereto affixed, attested by its secretary or an assistant secretary, and delivered to the Commissioner. If the Commissioner finds that such statement conforms to the provisions of this chapter, he shall:

- (1) endorse on each of such duplicate originals the word "Filed", and the month, day, and year of the filing thereof;
- (2) file one of such duplicate originals in his office;
- (3) return the other duplicate original to the corporation or its representative.

(c) The change of address of the registered office, or the change of registered agent, or both, as the case may be, shall become effective upon the filing of such statement by the Commissioner.

(d) Any registered agent of a corporation may resign as such agent upon filing a written notice thereof, executed in triplicate, with the Commissioner, who shall forthwith mail one copy thereof to the corporation at its registered office and another copy thereof to the corporation at its principal office in the District as shown on the records of the Commissioner. The appointment of such agent shall terminate upon the expiration of thirty days after receipt of such notice by the Commissioner or upon the appointment of a successor agent becoming effective, whichever occurs first. No fee or charge of any kind shall be imposed with respect to a filing under this subsection.

(e) The registered agent of one or more domestic corporations may change the address of the registered office of such domestic corporation or corporations by filing with the Commissioner a statement setting forth:

- (1) the name of the registered agent;
- (2) the present address, including street and number, if any, of such registered agent;
- (3) the names of the corporation or corporations represented by such registered agent at such address;
- (4) the address, including street and number, if any, to which the office of such registered agent is to be changed; and
- (5) the date upon which such change will take place.

(f) Such statement shall be executed in duplicate by such registered agent in his individual name, but if such agent is a corporation, domestic or foreign, such statement shall be executed by such corporation by its president or vice president and the corporate seal shall be thereto affixed, attested by its secretary or an assistant secretary and delivered to the Commissioner. If the Commissioner finds that such statement conforms to law, he shall, when all fees and charges have been paid as prescribed in this chapter:

- (1) endorse on each of such duplicate originals the word "Filed" and the month, day, and year of the filing thereof;
- (2) file one of such duplicate originals in his office; and
- (3) return the other duplicate original to the registered agent.

(g) The change of address of such registered agent as to the domestic corporation or corporations named in such statement shall become effective upon the filing of such statement by the Commissioner or on the date set forth in such statement as the date on which such change of location of such registered office will take place, whichever is later. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 184, ch. 269, § 11; Sept. 2, 1957, 71 Stat. 569, Pub. L. 85-254, § 3; July 23, 1959, 73 Stat. 239, Pub. L. 86-106, § 1; Sept. 3, 1963, 77 Stat. 136, Pub. L. 88-111, § 1(2).)

§ 29-908. Authorized shares.

(a) Each corporation shall have power to create and issue the number of shares stated in its articles of incorporation. Such shares may be divided into one or more classes, any or all of which classes may consist of shares with par value or shares without par value, with such designations, preferences, voting powers, special or relative rights and such limitations, restrictions, or qualifications thereof as shall be stated in the articles of incorporation. The articles of incorporation may limit or deny the voting power of the shares of any class.

(b) Without limiting the authority herein contained, a corporation, when so provided in its articles of incorporation, may issue shares of preferred or special classes—

(1) subject to the right of the corporation to redeem any of such shares at the price fixed by the articles of incorporation for the redemption thereof;

(2) entitling the holders thereof to cumulative or noncumulative dividends;

(3) having preference over any other class or classes of shares as to the payment of dividends;

(4) having preference as to the assets of the corporation over any other class or classes of shares upon the voluntary or involuntary liquidation of the corporation;

(5) convertible into shares of any other class: Provided, That shares without par value shall not be converted into shares with par value unless that part of the stated capital of the corporation represented by such shares without par value is, at the time of conversion, at least equal to the aggregate par value of the shares into which the shares without par value are to be converted. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 185, ch. 269, § 13.)

§ 29-908a. Issuance of shares of preferred or special classes in series.

(a) If the articles of incorporation so provide, the shares of any preferred or special class may be divided into and issued in series. If the shares of any such class are to be issued in series, then each series shall be so designated as to distinguish the shares thereof from the shares of all other series and classes. Any or all of the series of any such class and the variations in the relative rights and preferences as between different series may be fixed and determined by the articles of incorporation: Provided, That all shares of the same class shall be identical except as to the following relative rights and preferences, in respect of any or all of which there may be variations between different series:

(1) The rate of dividend, the time of payment and the dates from which dividends on cumulative shares shall be accumulative, and the extent of other participation rights, if any.

(2) The price at and the terms and conditions on which shares may be redeemed.

(3) The amount payable upon shares in event of involuntary liquidation.

(4) The amount payable upon shares in event of voluntary liquidation.

(5) Sinking-fund provisions for the redemption or purchase of shares.

(6) The terms and conditions on which shares may be converted, if the shares of any series are issued with the privilege of conversion.

(7) Any right to vote with holders of shares of any other series or class and any right to vote as a class, either generally or as a condition to specified corporate action.

(b) If the articles of incorporation shall expressly vest authority in the board of directors, then, to the extent that the articles of incorporation shall not have established series and fixed and determined the variations in the relative rights and preferences as between series, the board of directors shall have authority to divide any or all of such classes into series and, within the limitations set forth in this section, fix and determine the relative rights and preferences of the shares of any series so established: Provided, That such authority of the board of directors shall be subject to such further limitations, if any, as are stated in the articles of incorporation and shall always be subject to the limitation that the board of directors shall not create a sinking fund in respect of any series unless provision for a sinking fund at least as beneficial to all issued and outstanding shares of the same class shall either then exist or be at the same time created.

(c) In order for the board of directors to establish a series, where authority so to do is contained in the articles of incorporation, the board of directors shall adopt a resolution setting forth the designation of the series and fixing and determining the relative rights and preferences thereof, or so much thereof as shall not be fixed and determined by the articles of incorporation.

(d) Prior to the issue of any shares of a series established by resolution adopted by the board of directors, the corporation shall file with the Commissioner a statement setting forth—

(1) the name of the corporation;

(2) a copy of the resolution establishing and designating the series, and fixing and determining the relative rights and preferences thereof;

(3) the date of adoption of such resolution;

(4) that such resolution was duly adopted by the board of directors.

(e) Such statement shall be executed in duplicate by the corporation by its president or a vice president, and verified by him, and the corporate seal shall be thereto affixed, attested by its secretary or an assistant secretary, and shall be delivered to the Commissioner. If the Commissioner finds that such statement conforms to law, he shall, when all franchise taxes, fees, and charges have been paid as in this chapter prescribed—

(1) endorse on each of such duplicate originals the word "Filed", and the month, day, and year of the filing thereof;

(2) file one of such duplicate originals in his office;

(3) return the other duplicate original to the corporation or its representative.

(f) Upon the filing of such statement by the Commissioner, the resolution establishing and designating the series and fixing and determining the relative rights and preferences thereof shall become effective. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 185, ch. 269, § 14; Sept. 2, 1957, 71 Stat. 569, Pub. L. 85-254, § 4; July 23, 1959, 73 Stat. 240, Pub. L. 86-106, § 2.)

§ 29-908b. Subscriptions for shares.

(a) A subscription for shares of a corporation to be organized shall be irrevocable for a period of six months unless otherwise provided by the terms of the subscription agreement, or unless all of the subscribers consent to the revocation of such subscription.

(b) Unless otherwise provided in the subscription agreement, subscriptions for shares, whether made before or after the organization of a corporation, shall be paid in full at such time, or in such installments and at such times, as shall be determined by the board of directors. Any call made by the board of directors for payment on subscriptions shall be uniform as to all shares of the same class. In case of default in the payment of any installment or call when such payment is due, the corporation may proceed to collect the amount due in the same manner as any debt due the corporation. The bylaws may prescribe other penalties for failure to pay installments or calls that may become due, but no penalty working a forfeiture of the shares, or of the amounts paid thereon, shall be declared as against any subscriber unless the amount due thereon shall remain unpaid for a period of twenty days after written demand has been made therefor. Such written demand shall be deemed to be made when deposited in the United States mail in a sealed envelope addressed to the subscriber at his last post-office address known to the corporation, with the postage thereon prepaid. In the event of the sale of any shares by reason of any forfeiture, the excess of proceeds realized over the amount due and unpaid on such shares shall be paid to the delinquent subscriber or to his legal representative. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 186, ch. 269, § 15.)

§ 29-908c. Consideration for shares.

(a) Shares having a par value may be issued for such consideration, not less than the par value thereof, as shall be fixed from time to time by the board of directors.

(b) Shares without par value may be issued for such consideration as may be fixed from time to time by the board of directors unless the articles of incorporation reserve to the shareholders the right to fix the consideration. In the event that such right be reserved as to any shares, the shareholders shall, prior to the issuance of such shares, fix the consideration to be received for such shares, by a vote of the holders of a majority of all outstanding shares entitled to vote thereon.

(c) Shares of a corporation issued and thereafter acquired by it may be disposed of by the corporation for such consideration as may be fixed from time to time by the board of directors.

(d) That part of the surplus of a corporation which is transferred to stated capital upon the issuance of shares as a share dividend shall be deemed to be the consideration for the issuance of such shares.

(e) In the event of an exchange of issued shares having a par value for a different number of shares having the same aggregate par value, whether of the same or of a different class or classes, or in the event of a conversion of shares, or in the event of an exchange of shares with or without par value into the same or a different number of shares without par value, whether of the same or a different class or classes, the consideration for the shares so issued in exchange shall be deemed to be (1) the consideration originally received for the shares so exchanged or converted; and (2) that part of surplus, if any, transferred to stated capital upon the issuance of shares for the shares so exchanged or converted; and (3) any additional consideration paid to the corporation upon the issuance of shares for the shares so exchanged or converted. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 187, ch. 269, § 16.)

§ 29-908d. Payment for shares.

(a) The consideration for the issuance of shares may be paid, in whole or in part, in money, in other property, tangible or intangible, or in labor or services actually performed for the corporation. When payment of the consideration for which shares are to be issued, which, in the case of shares having a par value, shall be not less than the par value thereof, shall have been received by the corporation, such shares shall be deemed to be full paid and non-assessable.

(b) Neither promissory notes nor future services shall constitute payment or part payment for shares of a corporation.

(c) In the absence of fraud in the transaction, the judgment of the board of directors or the shareholders, as the case may be, as to the value of the consideration received for shares shall be conclusive. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 187, ch. 269, § 17.)

§ 29-908e. Determination of amount of stated capital.

(a) A corporation may determine that only a part of the consideration for which its shares may be issued, from time to time, shall be stated capital: Provided, That in the event of any such determination—

(1) if the shares issued shall consist wholly of shares having a par value, then the stated capital represented by such shares shall be not less than the aggregate par value of the shares so issued;

(2) if the shares issued shall consist wholly of shares without par value, all of which shares have a preferential right in the assets of the corporation in the event of its involuntary liquidation, then the stated capital represented by such shares shall be not less than the aggregate preferential amount payable upon such shares in the event of involuntary liquidation;

(3) if the shares issued consist wholly of shares without par value, and none of such shares has a preferential right in the assets of the corporation in the event of its involuntary liquidation, then the stated capital represented by such shares shall be the total consideration received therefor less such part thereof as may be allocated to paid-in surplus;

(4) if the shares issued shall consist of several or all of the classes of shares enumerated in (1), (2), and (3) of this section, then the stated capital represented by such shares shall be not less than the aggregate par value of any shares so issued having a par value and the aggregate preferential amount payable upon any shares so issued without par value having a preferential right in the event of involuntary liquidation.

(b) In order to determine that only a part of the consideration for which shares without par value may be issued from time to time shall be stated capital, the board of directors shall adopt a resolution setting forth the part of such consideration allocated to stated capital and the part otherwise allocated, and expressing such allocation in dollars. If the board of directors shall not have determined (a) at the time of the issuance of any shares issued for cash, or (b) within sixty days after the issuance of any shares issued for labor or services actually performed for the corporation or issued for property other than cash, that only a part of the consideration for shares so issued shall be stated capital, then the stated capital of the corporation represented by such shares shall be an amount equal to the aggregate par value of all such shares having a par value, plus the consideration received for all such shares without par value.

(c) The stated capital of the corporation may be increased from time to time by resolution of the board of directors directing that all or a part of the paid-in or other surplus of the corporation be transferred to stated capital. The board of directors may direct that the amount of the surplus so transferred shall be deemed to be stated capital in respect of any designated class of shares. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 188, ch. 269, § 18.)

§ 29-908f. Expenses of organization, reorganization, and financing.

The reasonable charges and expenses of organization or reorganization of a corporation and reasonable compensation for the sale or underwriting of its shares may be paid or allowed by such corporation out of the consideration received by it in payment for its shares without thereby rendering such shares not full paid and nonassessable. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 188, ch. 269, § 19.)

(a) The shares of a corporation shall be represented by certificates signed by the president or a vice president and the secretary or an assistant secretary and sealed with the seal of the corporation. Such seal may be a facsimile. Where such a certificate is countersigned by a transfer agent other than the corporation itself or an employee of the corporation, or by a transfer clerk and registered by a registrar, the signatures of the president or vice president and the secretary or assistant secretary upon such certificate may be facsimiles. In case any officer who has signed or whose facsimile signature has been placed upon such certificate shall have ceased to be such officer before such certificate is issued, it may be issued by the corporation with the same effect as if such officer had not ceased to hold such office at the date of its issue.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 28:8-204 of the District of Columbia Code, every certificate representing shares the transferability of which is restricted or limited shall state upon the face thereof that the transferability of such shares is restricted or limited and upon the face or back thereof shall either set forth a full or summary statement of any such restriction or limitation upon the transferability of such shares or shall state that the corporation will furnish to any shareholder upon request and without charge such full or summary statement.

(c) Subject to the provisions of subsection (b) of this section, every certificate representing shares issued by a corporation which is authorized to issue shares of more than one class shall set forth upon the face or back thereof, or shall state that the corporation will furnish to any shareholder upon request and without charge, a full or summary statement of the designations, preferences, limitations, and relative rights of the shares of each class authorized to be issued, and, if the corporation is authorized to issue any preferred or special class in series, the variations in the relative rights and preferences between the shares of each such series so far as the same have been fixed and determined and the authority of the board of directors to fix and determine the relative rights and preferences of subsequent series.

(d) Each certificate representing shares shall also state—

(1) that the corporation is organized under the laws of the District of Columbia;

(2) the name of the person to whom issued;

(3) the number and class of shares which such certificate represents;

(4) the par value of each share represented by such certificate, or a statement that the shares are without par value.

(e) No certificate shall be issued for any share until such share is fully paid.

(f) As to corporations availing themselves of the provisions of section 29-952, the provisions of this section shall be applicable only to the shares of such corporations issued subsequent to such reincorporation or incorporation. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 189, ch. 269, § 20; Sept. 2, 1957, 71 Stat. 569, Pub. L. 85-254, § 5; July 23, 1959, 73 Stat. 240, Pub. L. 86-106, § 3; Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 770, Pub. L. 88-234, § 4.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Stock voting agreement

Agreement whereby majority stockholder and minority stockholder agreed that their voting power should be equal but which was not endorsed upon stock certificates was not invalid. Sankin v. 5410 Connecticut Avenue Corp., et al.; Benn v. Garfield (1968, 281 F. Supp. 524).

Parties to fraudulent scheme to induce minority stockholder to pay inflated price for majority stockholder's stock and who knew of agreement between majority stockholder and minority stockholder for equal voting power in corporate affairs were not entitled to claim that voting agreement was invalid because of stock certificates' failure to contain such restriction. Id.

Statutory provision that stock certificates must contain statement as to restrictions thereon was designed for protection of innocent purchasers of stock and could not be used as defense to suit by minority stockholder against those who were parties to fraudulent scheme whereby minority stockholder paid inflated price for majority stockholder's stock. Id.

§ 29-908h. Issuance of fractional shares or scrip.

A corporation may, but shall not be obliged to, issue a certificate for a fractional share, and, by action of its board of directors, may issue in lieu thereof scrip or other evidence of ownership, which shall entitle the holder to receive a certificate for a full share upon the surrender of such scrip or other evidence of ownership aggregating a full share, but which shall not, unless otherwise provided, entitle the holder to exercise any voting right, or to receive dividends thereon or to participate in any of the assets of the corporation in the event of liquidation. The board of directors may cause such scrip or evidence of ownership to be issued subject to the condition that it shall become void if not exchanged for certificates representing full shares before a specified date, or subject to the condition that the shares for which such scrip or evidence of ownership is exchangeable may be sold by the corporation and the proceeds thereof distributed to the holders of such scrip or evidence of ownership, or subject to any other conditions which the board of directors may deem advisable. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 189, ch. 269, § 21.)

§ 29-908i. Liability of subscribers and shareholders.

(a) A holder of or a subscriber to shares of a corporation shall be under no obligation to the corporation or its creditors with respect to such shares other than the obligation to pay to the corporation the full consideration for which said shares were issued or to be issued, which, as to shares having a par value, shall be not less than the par value thereof. Any person becoming an assignee or transferee of shares or of a subscription for shares in good faith and without knowledge or notice that the full consideration therefor has not been paid shall not be personally liable to the corporation or its creditors for any unpaid portion of such consideration.

(b) No person holding shares as executor, administrator, conservator, guardian, trustee, assignee for the benefit of creditors, or receiver shall be personally liable as a shareholder, but the estate and funds in the hands of said executor, administrator, conservator, guardian, trustee, assignee, or receiver shall be so liable. No pledgee or other holder of shares as collateral security shall be personally liable as a shareholder.

(c) Where it cannot be determined that shares which have been issued and outstanding for more than twelve years are fully paid and nonassessable, a determination by the board of directors that the net assets of a corporation applicable to such shares have a fair value at least equal to the stated capital represented by such shares, shall, in the absence of fraud, have the same effect as if such shares had been issued in consideration of such net assets upon such a determination made at the time of issuance, except that no such determination shall affect any rights of any then existing creditors. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 190, ch. 269, § 22; July 23, 1959, 73 Stat. 240, Pub. L. 86-106, § 4.)

proved by the holders of two-thirds of its shares entitled to vote or by its board of directors pursuant to like approval of the shareholders. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 190, ch. 269, § 23.)

§ 29-909. Bylaws.

The power to make, alter, amend, or repeal the bylaws of the corporation shall be vested in the board of directors unless reserved to the shareholders by the articles of incorporation. The bylaws may contain any provisions for the regulation and management of the affairs of the corporation not inconsistent with law or the articles of incorporation. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 190, ch. 269, § 24.)

§ 29-910. Meetings of shareholders.

(a) Meetings of shareholders may be held at such place within or without the District of Columbia as may be provided in the bylaws. In the absence of any such provision, all meetings shall be held at the registered office of the corporation.

(b) An annual meeting of the shareholders shall be held at such time as may be provided in the bylaws. Failure to hold the annual meeting at the designated time shall not work a forfeiture or dissolution of the corporation.

§ 29-910a. Notice of shareholders' meetings.

Except as provided in section 29-945 hereof, written or printed notice stating the place, day, and hour of the meeting, and, in case of a special meeting, the purpose or purposes for which the meeting is called, shall, in the absence of a provision in the bylaws specifying a different period of notice, be delivered not less than ten nor more than fifty days before the date of the meeting, either personally or by mail, by or at the direction of the president, the secretary, or the officer or person calling the meeting, to each shareholder of record entitled to vote at such meeting.

If mailed, such notice shall be deemed to be delivered when deposited in the United States mail addressed to the shareholder at his address as it appears on the records of the corporation, with postage thereon prepaid. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 190, ch. 269, § 26; Sept. 2, 1957, 71 Stat. 569, Pub. L. 85-254, § 6; July 23, 1959, 73 Stat. 240, Pub. L. 86-106, § 5.)

(b) Shares of its own stock belonging to a corporation shall not be voted, directly or indirectly, at any meeting and shall not be counted in determining the total number of outstanding shares at any given time, but shares of its own stock held by it in a fiduciary capacity may be voted and shall be counted in determining the total number of outstanding shares at any given time.

(c) A shareholder may vote either in person or by proxy executed in writing by the shareholder or by his duly authorized attorney in fact. No proxy shall be valid after eleven months from the date of its execution, unless otherwise provided in the proxy. Every proxy shall be revocable at the pleasure of the person executing it or his personal representatives or assigns; but the parties to a valid pledge or to an executory contract of sale may agree in writing as to which of them shall vote the stock pledged or sold until the contract of pledge or sale is fully executed.

(d) The articles of incorporation may provide that in all elections for directors every shareholder entitled to vote shall have the right to vote, in person or by proxy, the number of shares owned by him, for as many persons as there are directors to be elected, or to cumulate said shares, and give one candidate as many votes as the number of such directors multiplied by the number of his shares shall equal, or to distribute such votes on the same principle among any number of such candidates. ## § 29-912. Closing of transfer books and fixing record date.

For the purpose of determining shareholders entitled to notice of or to vote at any meeting of shareholders, or shareholders entitled to receive payment of any dividend, or in order to make a determination of shareholders for any other proper purpose, the board of directors of a corporation may provide that the stock-transfer books shall be closed for a stated period but not to exceed, in any case, fifty days. If the stock-transfer books shall be closed for the purpose of determining shareholders entitled to notice of or to vote at a meeting of shareholders, such books shall be closed for at least ten days immediately preceding such meeting. In lieu of closing the stock-transfer books, the board of directors may fix in advance a date as the record date for any determination of shareholders, such date in any case to be not more than fifty days and, in case of a meeting of shareholders, not less than ten days prior to the date on which the particular action, requiring such determination of shareholders, is to be taken. If the stock-transfer books are not closed and no record date is fixed for the determination of shareholders entitled to notice of or to vote at a meeting of shareholders, or shareholders entitled to receive payment of a dividend, the date on which notice of the meeting is mailed or the date on which the resolution of the board of directors declaring such dividend is adopted, as the case may be, shall be the record date for such determination of shareholders. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 191, ch. 269, § 28.)

§ 29-913. Voting of shares by certain holders.

(a) Shares standing in the name of another corporation may be voted by such officer, agent, or proxy as the bylaws of such corporation may prescribe, or, in the absence of such provision, as the board of directors of such corporation may determine. A proxy purporting to be executed by a corporation shall be presumed to be valid and the burden of proving invalidity shall rest on any challenger.

(b) Shares standing in the name of a deceased person may be voted by his administrator or executor, either in person or by proxy. Shares standing in the name of a guardian, conservator, or trustee may be voted by such fiduciary, either in person or by proxy, but no guardian, conservator, or trustee shall be entitled, as such fiduciary, to vote shares held by him without a transfer of such shares into his name.

(c) Shares standing in the name of a receiver or a trustee in bankruptcy may be voted by such receiver or trustee, and shares held by or under the control of a receiver or a trustee in bankruptcy may be voted by such receiver or trustee without the transfer thereof into his name if authority so to do be contained in an appropriate order of the court by which such receiver or trustee in bankruptcy was appointed.

(d) Except as otherwise provided in section 29-911, a shareholder whose shares are pledged shall be entitled to vote such shares until the shares have been transferred into the name of the pledgee, and thereafter the pledgee shall be entitled to vote the shares so transferred.

(e) Shares standing in the name of a partnership may be voted by any partner. A proxy purporting to be executed by a partnership shall be presumed to be valid and the burden of proving invalidity shall rest on any challenger.

(f) Shares standing in the name of two or more persons as joint tenants, or tenants in common, or tenants by the entirety, may be voted in person or by proxy by any one or more of such persons. If more than one of such tenants shall vote such shares, the vote shall be divided among them in proportion to the number of such tenants voting in person or by proxy unless a different apportionment of the vote is requested by such tenants. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 192, ch. 269, § 29; July 23, 1959, 73 Stat. 240, Pub. L. 86-106, § 6.)

AMENDMENTS

1959—Subsec. (a) amended by act July 23, 1959, which added presumption of validity respecting execution of a proxy.

Subsecs. (e) and (f) added by act July 23, 1959.

§ 29-914. Voting trust.

Any number of shareholders of a corporation may create a voting trust for the purpose of conferring upon a trustee or trustees the right to vote or otherwise represent their shares, for a period of not to exceed ten years, by entering into a written voting trust agreement specifying the terms and conditions of the voting trust, by depositing a counterpart of the agreement with the corporation at its registered office, and by transferring their shares to such trustee or trustees for the purposes of the agreement. The counterpart of the voting-trust agreement so deposited with the corporation shall be subject to the same right of examination by a shareholder of the corporation, in person or by agent or attorney, as is the record of shareholders of the corporation, and shall be subject to examination by any holder of a beneficial interest in the voting trust, either in person or by agent or attorney, at any reasonable time for any proper purpose. The trustee or trustees may execute and deliver to the transferors voting-trust certificates which shall be transferable in the same manner and with the same effect as certificates representing shares. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 192, ch. 269, § 30.)

§ 29-915. Quorum of shareholders.

(a) Unless otherwise provided in the articles of incorporation or bylaws, a majority of the outstanding shares having voting power, represented in person or by proxy, shall constitute a quorum at a meeting of shareholders: Provided, That in no event shall a quorum consist of less than one-third of the outstanding shares having voting power.

(b) The shareholders present at a duly organized meeting may continue to do business until adjournment, notwithstanding the withdrawal of enough shareholders to leave less than a quorum.

(c) If a meeting cannot be organized because a quorum has not attended, those present may adjourn the meeting from time to time until a quorum is present when any business may be transacted that may have been transacted at the meeting as originally called.

(d) If a quorum is present, the affirmative vote of the majority of the shares represented at the meeting and entitled to vote on the subject matter shall be the act of the shareholders, unless the vote of a greater number, or voting by classes, is required by this chapter or the articles of incorporation, and except that in elections of directors, those receiving the greatest number of votes shall be deemed elected even though not receiving a majority. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 191, ch. 269, § 31; July 23, 1959, 73 Stat. 241, Pub. L. 86-106, § 7.)

AMENDMENT

1959—Subsec. (d) added by act July 23, 1959.

§ 29-916. Board of directors.

The business and affairs of a corporation shall be managed by a board of directors. Directors need not be shareholders in the corporation unless the articles of incorporation or bylaws so provide. The articles of incorporation or bylaws may prescribe other qualifications for directors.

Unless otherwise provided in the articles of incorporation or bylaws, the board of directors, by the affirmative vote of a majority of the directors then in office, and irrespective of any personal interest of any director, shall have authority to establish reasonable compensation of all directors for services to the corporation as directors, officers, or otherwise. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 193, ch. 269, § 32; Sept. 3, 1963, 77 Stat. 137, Pub. L. 88-111, § 1(4).)

AMENDMENT

1963—Section 1(4) of act Sept. 3, 1963, amended section by adding the second paragraph relating to compensation of directors.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1963 AMENDMENT

See note to section 29-903.

§ 29-916a. Number and election of directors.

The number of directors of a corporation shall not be less than three. Subject to such limitation, the number of directors shall be fixed by the bylaws, except as to the number constituting the first board of directors, which number shall be fixed by the articles of incorporation. The number of directors may be increased or decreased from time to time by amendment to the bylaws. In the absence of a bylaw fixing the number of directors, the number shall be the same as that stated in the articles of incorporation. The names and addresses of the members of the first board of directors shall be stated in the articles of incorporation. Such persons shall hold office until the first annual meeting of shareholders, or until their successors shall have been elected and qualified. At the first annual meeting of shareholders and at each annual meeting thereafter the shareholders shall elect directors to hold office until the next succeeding annual meeting, except as hereinafter provided. Each director shall hold office for the term for which he is elected or until his successor shall have been elected and qualified. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 193, ch. 269, § 33.)

§ 29-916b. Classification of directors.

The bylaws may provide that the directors be divided into either two or three classes, each class to be as nearly equal in number as possible, the term of office of directors of the first class to expire at the first annual meeting of shareholders after their election, that of the second class to expire at the second annual meeting after their election, and that of the third class, if any, to expire at the third annual meeting after their election. At each annual meeting after such classification the number of directors equal to the number of the class whose term expires at the time of such meeting shall be elected to hold office until the second succeeding annual meeting, if there be two classes, or until the third succeeding annual meeting, if there be three classes. No classification of directors shall be effective prior to the first annual meeting of shareholders. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 193, ch. 269, § 34.)

§ 29-916c. Vacancies.

Any directorship to be filled by reason of an increase in the number of directors may be filled by election at an annual meeting or at a special meeting of shareholders entitled to vote called for that purpose. Any vacancy occurring in the board of directors for any cause other than by reason of an increase in the number of directors may be filled by affirmative vote of a majority of the remaining directors, though less than a quorum of the board of directors, unless the articles of incorporation otherwise provide. A director elected to fill a vacancy shall be elected for the unexpired term of his predecessor in office. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 193, ch. 269, § 35; July 23, 1959, 73 Stat. 241, Pub. L. 86-106, § 8.)

AMENDMENT

1959—Act July 23, 1959, substituted "by affirmative vote of a majority of the remaining directors, though less than a quorum of the board of directors, unless the articles of incorporation otherwise provide" for "by the board of directors".

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1959 AMENDMENT

See note under section 29-907a.

§ 29-916d. Quorum of directors.

A majority of the number of directors fixed by the bylaws or in the absence of a bylaw fixing the number of directors, then of the number stated in the articles of incorporation, shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business unless a greater number is required by the articles of incorporation or the bylaws. The act of the majority of the directors present at a meeting at which a quorum is present shall be the act of the board of directors, unless the act of a greater number is required by the articles of incorporation or the bylaws. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 193, ch. 269, § 36.)

§ 29-916e. Executive committee.

If the bylaws so provide, the board of directors, by resolution adopted by a majority of the number of directors fixed by the bylaws, or in the absence of a bylaw fixing the number of directors, then of the number stated in the articles of incorporation, may designate two or more directors to constitute an executive committee, which committee, to the extent provided in such resolution or in the bylaws of the corporation shall have and may exercise all of the authority of the board of directors in the management of the business and affairs of the corporation; but the designation of such committee and the delegation thereto of authority shall not operate to relieve the board of directors, or any member thereof, of any responsibility imposed upon it or him by law. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 194, ch. 269, § 37.)

§ 29-916f. Place of directors' meetings.

Meetings of the board of directors, regular or special, may be held at such place within or without the District of Columbia as may be provided in the bylaws or by resolution adopted by a majority of the board of directors. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 174, ch. 269, § 38.)

§ 29-916g. Notice of directors' meetings.

Except as provided in section 29-945 hereof, meetings of the board of directors shall be held upon such notice as is prescribed in the bylaws. Attendance of a director at a meeting shall constitute a waiver of notice of such meeting, except where a director attends a meeting for the express purpose of objecting to the transaction of any business because the meeting is not lawfully called or convened. Neither the business to be transacted at, nor the purpose of, any regular or special meeting of the board of directors need be specified in the notice or waiver of notice of such meeting. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 194, ch. 269, § 39; Sept. 2, 1957, 71 Stat. 569, Pub. L. 85-254, § 7.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1957 AMENDMENT

See note under section 29-905.

§ 29-917. Dividends.

The board of directors of a corporation may declare and the corporation may pay dividends on its outstanding shares in cash, property, or its own shares, subject to the following provisions:

(a) No dividend shall be declared or paid at a time when the corporation is insolvent or its net assets are less than its stated capital, or when payments thereof would render the corporation insolvent or reduce its net assets below its stated capital.

(b) Dividends may be paid out of paid-in surplus or surplus arising from the surrender to the corporation of any of its shares only upon shares having a preferential right to receive dividends, provided that the source of such dividends shall be disclosed to the shareholders receiving such dividends, concurrently with payment thereof. The limitations of this subparagraph shall not limit nor be deemed to conflict with the provisions of this chapter in respect of the distribution of assets as a liquidating dividend.

(c) If a dividend is declared payable in its own shares having a par value, such shares shall be issued at the par value thereof and there shall be transferred to stated capital at the time such dividend is paid, an amount of surplus equal to the aggregate par value of the shares to be issued as a dividend.

(d) If a dividend is declared payable in its own shares without par value, such shares shall be issued at such value as shall be fixed by the board of directors by resolution adopted at the time such dividend is declared, and there shall be transferred to stated capital at the time such dividend is paid, an amount of surplus equal to the aggregate value so fixed in respect of such shares. The amount per share transferred to stated capital shall be disclosed to the shareholders receiving such dividends, concurrently with payment thereof.

(e) A split up or division of issued shares into a greater number of shares of the same class shall not be construed to be a share dividend within the meaning of this section.

(f) No dividend shall be declared or paid contrary to any restrictions contained in the articles of incorporation.

(g) Subject to any restrictions contained in its articles of incorporation, the directors of any corporation engaged in the exploitation of wasting assets may determine the net profits derived from the exploitation of such wasting assets without taking into consideration the depletion of such wasting assets resulting from lapse of time or from necessary consumption of such assets incidental to their exploitation and may pay dividends from the net profits so determined by the directors. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 194, ch. 269, § 40.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 29-926.

§ 29-917a. Dividends in partial liquidation.

A corporation, from time to time, may distribute a portion of its assets, in cash or kind, to its shareholders as a liquidating dividend, in the following manner and subject to the following restrictions:

(a) The board of directors shall adopt a resolution recommending the payment of a liquidating dividend, specifying the class or classes of shareholders entitled thereto and the amount thereof, and directing that the question of such distribution be submitted to a vote at a meeting of shareholders, which may be either an annual or a special meeting.

(b) Written or printed notice stating that the purpose or one of the purposes of such meeting is to consider the question of such distribution shall be given to each shareholder of record entitled to vote within the time and in the manner provided in this chapter for the giving of notice of meetings of shareholders. If such meeting be an annual meeting, such purpose may be included in the notice of such meeting.

(c) At such meeting a vote of the shareholders entitled to vote shall be taken by classes on the question of the proposed distribution. The affirmative vote of the holders of at least two-thirds of the outstanding shares of each class shall be required for the authorization of such distribution.

(d) No such distribution shall be made at a time when the corporation is insolvent or its net assets are less than its stated capital, or when such distribution would render the corporation insolvent or reduce its net assets below its stated capital.

(e) No such distribution shall be made to any class of shareholders unless all cumulative dividends accrued on preferred or special classes of shares entitled to preferential dividends shall have been fully paid.

(f) No such distribution shall be made to any class of shareholders which will reduce the remaining net assets below the aggregate preferential amount payable in event of voluntary liquidation to the holders of shares having preferential rights to the assets of the corporation in the event of liquidation.

(g) Each such distribution, when made, shall be identified as a liquidating dividend and the amount per share shall be disclosed to the shareholders receiving the same, concurrently with the payment thereof. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 195, ch. 269, § 41.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 29-926.

§ 29-918. Liability of directors in certain cases.

(a) In addition to any other liabilities imposed by law upon directors of a corporation—

(1) directors of a corporation who vote for or assent to the declaration of any dividend or other distribution of the assets of a corporation to its shareholders contrary to the provisions of this chapter, or contrary to any restrictions contained in the articles of incorporation, shall be jointly and severally liable to the corporation for the amount of such dividend which is paid or the value of such assets which are distributed in excess of the amount of such dividend or distribution which could have been paid or distributed without a violation of the provisions of this chapter or any restrictions in the articles of incorporation;

(2) the directors of a corporation who vote for or assent to the declaration of any dividend or other distribution of assets of a corporation to its shareholders which renders the corporation insolvent or reduces its net assets below its stated capital shall be jointly and severally liable to the corporation for the amount of such dividend which is paid or the value of such assets which are distributed, to the extent that the corporation is thereby rendered insolvent or its net assets are reduced below its stated capital;

(3) the directors of a corporation who vote for or assent to any distribution of assets of a corporation to its shareholders during the liquidation of the corporation without an adequate provision for, or the payment and discharge of, all debts, obligations, and liabilities of the corporation shall be jointly and severally liable to the corporation for the amount of such dividend which is paid or the value of such assets which are distributed, to the extent that such debts, obligations and liabilities of the corporation are not thereafter paid and discharged;

(4) the directors of a corporation who vote for or assent to the making of a loan to an officer or director of the corporation shall be jointly and severally liable to the corporation for the amount of such loan until the repayment thereof.

(b) A director of a corporation who is present at a meeting of its board of directors at which action on any corporate matter is taken shall be conclusively presumed to have assented to the action taken unless his dissent shall be entered in the minutes of the meeting or unless he shall file his written dissent to such action with the person acting as the secretary of the meeting before the adjournment thereof or shall forward such dissent by registered mail to the secretary of the corporation immediately after the adjournment of the meeting. Such right to dissent shall not apply to a director who voted in favor of such action.

(c) A director shall not be liable under either subparagraph (1) or (2) of this section if he relied and acted in good faith upon a balance sheet and profit-and-loss statement of the corporation represented to him to be correct by the president or the officer of such corporation having charge of its books of account, or certified by or otherwise represented in a written report of an independent public or certified public accountant or firm of such accountants to fairly reflect the financial condition of such corporation, nor shall he be so liable if in good faith in determining the amount available for any such dividend or distribution he considered the assets to be of their book value.

(d) Any director against whom a claim shall be asserted under or pursuant to this section, and who shall be held liable thereon, shall be entitled to contribution from the other directors who are likewise liable thereon.

(e) Any director against whom a claim shall be asserted under or pursuant to this section for the improper declaration of a dividend or other distribution of assets of a corporation and who shall be held liable thereon, shall be entitled to contribution from the shareholders who knowingly accepted or received any such dividend or assets, in proportion to the amounts received by them, respectively.

(f) No suit shall be brought against any director for any liability imposed by this chapter except within three years after the right of action shall accrue. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 196, ch. 269, § 42; July 23, 1959, 73 Stat. 241, Pub. L. 86-106, § 9.)

Subsec. (f) added by act July 23, 1959.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1959 AMENDMENT

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Liability of officers

President of "association" which filed its articles of incorporation that were first rejected but later accepted could be held personally liable on obligation entered into by "association" before certificate of incorporation was issued, and creditor was not estopped from denying existence of corporation because, after certificate of incorporation was issued, he accepted first installment payment on note executed by "association." M. G. Robertson v. E. M. Levy (D.C. App. 1964, 197 A. 2d 443).

§ 29-919. Officers.

(a) The officers of a corporation shall consist of a president, one or more vice presidents as may be prescribed by the bylaws, a secretary, and a treasurer, each of whom shall be elected by the board of directors at such time and in such manner as may be prescribed by the bylaws. Such other officers and assistant officers and agents as may be deemed necessary may be elected or appointed by the board of directors or chosen in such other manner as may be prescribed by the bylaws. If the bylaws so provide, any two or more offices may be held by the same person, except the offices of president and secretary.

(b) All officers and agents of the corporation, as between themselves and the corporation, shall have such authority and perform such duties in the management of the property and affairs of the corporation as may be provided in the bylaws, or as may be determined by resolution of the board of directors not inconsistent with the bylaws. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 197, ch. 269, § 43.)

§ 29-919a. Removal of officers.

Any officer or agent elected or appointed by the board of directors may be removed by the board of directors whenever in its judgment the best interests of the corporation will be served thereby, but such removal shall be without prejudice to the contract rights, if any, of the person so removed. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 197, ch. 269, § 44.)

§ 29-920. Books and records.

(a) Each corporation shall keep correct and complete books and records of account and shall also keep minutes of the proceedings of its shareholders and board of directors; and shall keep at its registered office or principal place of business, or at the office of its transfer agent or registrar, a record of its shareholders, giving the names and addresses of all shareholders and the number and class of the shares held by each.

(b) Any person or persons who shall be the holder or holders of record of at least 5 per centum of all the outstanding shares of a corporation shall have the right to examine, in person, or by agent or attorney, at any reasonable time or times, for any proper purpose, its record of shareholders and to make extracts therefrom.

(c) A holder of a voting-trust certificate evidencing an interest in a voting trust conforming to the provisions of this chapter shall have the same rights as a shareholder to examine and make extracts from the record of shareholders of the corporation.

(d) If any person or persons holding in the aggregate 5 per centum or more of all of the outstanding shares of a corporation shall present to any officer, director, or registered agent of the corporation a written request stating the purpose thereof, for a statement of its affairs, it shall be his duty to make or procure such a statement sworn to by the president or a vice president or by the treasurer or an assistant treasurer, embracing a particular account of its assets and liabilities in detail, and to have the same ready and on file at the registered office of the corporation within thirty days after the presentation of such request. Such statement shall at all times during business hours be open to the inspection of any shareholder and he shall be entitled to copy the same.

(e) Any corporation whose officers or agents shall refuse to allow any such shareholder, entitled under the provisions of this section to examine the record of shareholders, or his agent or attorney, so to examine and make extracts from its record of shareholders, for any proper purpose, shall be liable to such shareholder in a penalty of $50, in addition to any other damages or remedy afforded him by law. It shall be a defense to any action for penalties under this section that the person suing therefor has within two years sold or offered for sale any list of shareholders of such corporation or any other corporation or has aided or abetted any person in procuring any list of shareholders for any such purpose, or has improperly used any information secured through any prior examination of the record of shareholders of such corporation or any other corporation.

(f) Nothing herein contained shall impair the power of any court of competent jurisdiction, upon proof by a shareholder of proper purpose, irrespective of the period of time during which such shareholder shall have been a shareholder of record, and irrespective of the number of shares held by him, to compel by mandamus or otherwise the production for examination by such shareholder of the books and records of account, minutes, and record of shareholders of a corporation. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 197, ch. 269, § 45; July 23, 1959, 73 Stat. 241, Pub. L. 86-106, § 10.)

Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc.* (D.C.D.C. 1958, 167 F. Supp. 215, affirmed 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO COMMISSIONER

Where payment of subscription for all corporate stock was made to the promoter but the corporate minute book showed no action by board of directors with respect to subscription, original incorporators could amend articles of incorporation to increase capital stock and amendment was not governed by provision for amendment of articles of incorporation by board of directors after acceptance of subscription. Sankin v. 5410 Connecticut Avenue Corp., et al.; Benn v. Garfield (1968, 281 F. Supp. 524).

The proposed amendment shall be adopted upon receiving the affirmative vote of the holders of at least two-thirds of the outstanding shares entitled to vote, unless any class of shares is entitled to vote as a class in respect thereof, as hereinafter provided, in which event the proposed amendment shall be adopted upon receiving the affirmative vote of the holders of at least two-thirds of the outstanding shares of each class of shares entitled to vote as a class in respect thereof and of the total outstanding shares entitled to vote.

§ 29-931h. Filing of decree of dissolution.

In case the court shall enter a decree dissolving a corporation it shall be the duty of the clerk of such court to cause a certified copy of the decree to be filed with the Commissioner. No fee shall be charged by the Commissioner for the filing thereof. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 219, ch. 269, § 96.)

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO COMMISSIONER

See § 401 of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, eff. Nov. 3, 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1. See also §§ 301 and 503 of the Plan.

§ 29-931i. Survival of remedy after dissolution.

The dissolution of a corporation either (1) by the issuance of a certificate of dissolution by the Commissioner, or (2) by proclamation of the Commissioner for failure to pay annual report fees or file annual reports as provided in the chapter, or (3) by expiration of its period of duration, shall not take away or impair any remedy available to or against such corporation, its directors, or shareholders, or any right or claim existing, or any liability incurred, prior to such dissolution if suit or other proceeding thereon is commenced within two years after the date of such dissolution. Any suit or proceeding by or against the corporation may be prosecuted or defended by the corporation in its corporate name. The shareholders, directors, and officers shall have power to take such corporate or other action as shall be appropriate to protect such remedy, right, or claim. If such corporation was dissolved by the expiration of its period of duration, such corporation may amend its articles of incorporation at any time during such period of two years so as to extend its period of duration. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 219, ch. 269, § 97.)

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO COMMISSIONER

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Claims barred by two year limitation

District of Columbia statute stating that causes of action on rights or claims of corporation existing prior to dissolution by proclamation for failure to file annual reports and pay related fees must be brought within two years applies to claims which so arose, notwithstanding statute providing that when corporation is dissolved by proclamation it shall nevertheless be continued for terms of three years for purpose of prosecuting and defending suits. Columbia Institute of Radio and Television Broadcasting, Inc. v. R. R. Shehyn (1964, 336 F. 2d 974, 119 U.S. App. D.C. 55).

District of Columbia statute provided that suit by corporation dissolved by proclamation for failure to file reports and pay related fees with reference to right on claims prior to dissolution must be brought within two years would not bar such a corporation's claim filed more than two years after dissolution that it was object of illegitimate scheme to eliminate it from the market and that purpose was mainly effectuated by improper appropriation of its corporate name, thereby frustrating its purpose to secure its reinstatement, since it was not a claim or right in existence prior to dissolution. Id.

§ 29-932. Annual report of domestic corporation.

(a) Each corporation shall file with the Commissioner, on or before April 15 of each year, an annual report setting forth—

(1) the name of the corporation, the address, including street and number, if any, of its registered office in the District of Columbia, and the name of its registered agent at such address;

(2) the address, including street and number, if any, of its principal office in the District, if such office is other than its registered office;

(3) the names and respective addresses, including street and number, if any, of its directors and officers;

(4) a brief statement of the character of the business in which the corporation is actually engaged;

(5) a statement of the aggregate number of shares which the corporation has authority to issue, itemized by classes, par value of shares, shares without par value, and series, if any, within a class;

(6) a statement of the aggregate number of issued shares, itemized by classes, par value of shares, shares without par value and series, if any, within a class.

(b) Such annual report shall be made on forms prescribed and furnished by the Commissioner, and the information therein contained shall be given as of the date of the execution of the report.

(c) It shall be executed by the corporation by its president, vice president, secretary, assistant secretary, or treasurer, and verified by the officer executing the report, and the corporate seal shall be thereto affixed. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 219, ch. 269, § 98; July 23, 1959, 73 Stat. 241, Pub. L. 86-106, § 12.)

AMENDMENT

1959—Subsec. (a) amended by act July 23, 1959, which added par. (2) and redesignated former pars. (2)—(5) as pars. (3)—(6).

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO COMMISSIONER

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Place of business after organization

This chapter, considered in its entirety, contemplates that principal place of business of a corporation may be outside the District after organization in the sense of creation, and there was no intention to make the proviso that "no corporation may be organized" under the chapter "unless the place where it conducts its principal business is located within the District of Columbia" a continuing regulation. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc. (D.C.D.C. 1958, 167 F. Supp. 215, affirmed 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

§ 29-933. Admission of foreign corporation—Exemption from certificate requirement in certain cases—Service of process on exempt corporations—Rules and regulations.

A foreign corporation shall procure a certificate of authority from the Commissioner before it transacts business in the District, but no foreign corporation shall be entitled to procure a certificate of authority under this chapter to transact in the District the business of banking, insurance, assurance, benefit, indemnity, building and loan association, or the acceptance of savings deposits, such corporations being admitted to and shall do business in the District of Columbia pursuant to the laws relating to such business. A foreign corporation shall not be denied a certificate of authority by reason of the fact that the laws of the State under which such corporation is organized governing its organization and internal affairs differ from the laws of the District, and nothing in this chapter contained shall be construed to authorize the District to regulate the organization or the internal affairs of such corporation.

(b)<sup>1</sup> A foreign corporation shall not be required to procure a certificate of authority merely for the prosecution of litigation, the collection of its debts, or the taking of security for the same, or by reason of the appointment of an agent for the solicitation of business not to be transacted in the District, nor for the sale of personal property to the United States within the District of Columbia unless a contract for such sale is accepted by the seller within the District or such property is delivered from stock of the seller within the District for use within the District.

(c) No foreign corporation having income from loans excluded from gross income under section 47-1557a(b)(17) shall be subject to the provisions of this chapter.

(d) Nothing in subsection (c) of this section shall be construed as affecting the amenability of a foreign corporation to the service of any process, notice, or demand to which such corporation would be amenable without reference to the provisions of such subsection (c).

(e)(1) Any foreign corporation having income from loans excluded from gross income under section 47-1557a(b)(17) shall be deemed to have waived any immunity to service of process and suit in the courts of the District of Columbia. Any such foreign corporation shall appoint and maintain in the District of Columbia an agent for service of process, and shall register with the Commissioner of the District of Columbia the address of its principal office and the name and address of its agent for service of process in the District of Columbia, including any changes in such addresses.

(2) Whenever any such foreign corporation does not have an agent for service of process or such agent cannot be found with reasonable diligence at his registered address, then the Commissioner of the District of Columbia shall be the agent for service of process for such corporation. Service of process on the Commissioner shall be made by delivery to, and leaving with him, or with any person having charge of his office, duplicate copies of the process, together with a fee, the amount of which shall be fixed from time to time by the District of Columbia Council but not in excess of $5. In the event of such service the Commissioner shall immediately cause one of such copies to be forwarded by certified or registered mail, addressed to such foreign corporation at its principal office as it appears on the records of the Commissioner. Any such service shall be returnable in not less than thirty days, unless the rules of the court issuing such process prescribe another period, in which case such prescribed period shall govern.

(3) Nothing contained in this subsection shall limit or affect the right to serve any process, notice of demand required or permitted by law to be served on a foreign corporation in any other manner now or hereafter permitted by law.

(4) Any foreign corporation which fails to comply with the requirements of paragraph (1) of this subsection shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not more than $500.

(5) The District of Columbia Council is authorized to make such rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry out the purpose of this subsection.

(f) As used herein, the term "foreign corporation" having income from loans excluded from gross income under section 47-1557a(b)(17) shall include any foreign corporation subject to a tax only as a result of activities contemplated by subparagraph (G) of section 47-1557a(b)(17). (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 219, ch. 269, § 99; Sept. 19, 1966, 80 Stat. 813, Pub. L. 89-591, § 2.)

AMENDMENT

1966—Subsection (c)—(f) added by act Sept. 19, 1966.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1966 AMENDMENT

Section 3 of act Sept. 19, 1966, 80 Stat. 814, provided: "This Act [adding subsecs. (c)—(f) to this section, and adding par. (17) to subsec. (b) of § 47-1557a] shall take effect on the date of its enactment [Sept. 19, 1966]".

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO COMMISSIONER AND COUNCIL

Section 402 (229 and 230) of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, transferred the functions of the Board of Commissioners, under subsection (e) (2) and (5) as to fixing fees relating to process, and making rules and regulations relating to service of process, to the District of Columbia Council, subject to the right of the Commissioner as provided by section 406 of the Plan. For provisions establishing the District of Columbia Council, see section 201 of the Plan, set out in the appendix to title 1. Section 401 of the Plan transferred all other functions of the Board of Commissioners under this section to the Commissioner of the District of Columbia.

Action for rent

Maryland corporation's assuming balance of third party's existing lease on certain property in District of Columbia in order to obtain third party as long-term tenant in its building in Maryland and Maryland corporation's subletting of property to several tenants in District of Columbia for remainder of term did not constitute transaction of business by Maryland corporation in District of Columbia and, although it had never been authorized to transact business in District of Columbia, it was not precluded from maintaining action for unpaid rents for District of Columbia property. 3 M Distributing Corp. v. Rugby Corp. (D.C. App. 1965, 209 A. 2d 790).

Liable to suit

Swiss corporation's filing and prosecution of civil action in District of Columbia to recover property consisting of stock of Delaware corporation established presence of the corporation in the District and subjected corporation to Attorney General and Secretary of Treasury from paying any part of corporation's share of proceeds of sale of the stock to corporation on ground that citizens and others had suffered under the "Nazi Conspiracy" and that Swiss corporation was creature of German corporation profiting therefrom. W. Kelberine v. Societe Internationale, etc. (1966, 363 F. 2d 989, 124 U.S. App. D.C. 257).

Liability of foreign corporation to suit in District of Columbia does not depend upon its doing business in the District but depends upon its being found there. Id.

Suit by foreign corporation

Pennsylvania corporation that employed several persons at Virginia office that served area encompassing Virginia, Maryland, and District of Columbia, that sold products to Virginia sales representatives to customers in District, and that used its own trucks to make deliveries to customers in District was engaged in interstate commerce, and thus could not under commerce clause be required to obtain District of Columbia certificate of authority before commencing action in District on promissory note. Lehigh Portland Cement Company v. E. W. Ornstein et al. (1971, 334 F. Supp. 1032).

English corporation was not precluded from suing in District of Columbia by lack of certificate of authority to do business in District. N. A. Loe v. Normalair Limited, etc. (D.C. App. 1966, 222 A. 2d 643).

§ 29-933a. Powers of foreign corporation.

No foreign corporations subject to the provisions of this chapter shall transact in the District any business for the conduct of which a domestic corporation may not be organized or which is prohibited to a domestic corporation. A foreign corporation which shall have received a certificate of authority under this chapter shall, until a certificate of revocation or of withdrawal shall have been issued as provided in this chapter, enjoy the same rights and privileges as, but no greater rights and privileges than, a domestic corporation organized for the purposes set forth in the application pursuant to which such certificate of authority is issued; and, except as in this chapter otherwise provided, shall be subject to the same duties, restrictions, penalties, and liabilities now or hereafter imposed upon a domestic corporation of like character. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 220, ch. 269, § 100.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Appeal

Whether foreign corporation, previously qualified, possessed different status when it filed in advance of suit for recovery of allegedly usurious interest a certificate of withdrawal was relevant issue in addition to question raised in first amended complaint as to whether statute allowing corporations to seek financing without regard to lawful interest rates barred a corporation's action to recover usurious interest, and order dismissing second amended complaint which presented issue of foreign corporation's status was a final and appealable order. Indian Lake Estates, Inc. v. Ten Individual Defendants (1965, 350 F. 2d 435, 121 U.S. App. D.C. 305).

Usury

Filing of certificate of withdrawal by foreign corporation did not change status previously acquired by corporation's contracts so that under statute allowing corporations to seek financing without regard to lawful interest rates its complaint for recovery of usurious interest under prior contracts was barred. Indian Lake Estates, Inc. v. Ten Individual Defendants (1965, 350 F. 2d 435, 121 U.S. App. D.C. 305).

§ 29-933b. Corporate name of foreign corporations.

No certificate of authority shall be issued to a foreign corporation—

(a) Which has a name the same as, or deceptively similar to, the name of any domestic corporation, or that of any corporation organized under any Act of Congress authorizing the formation of corporations under the laws of the District of Columbia, or that of any corporation created pursuant to any special Act of Congress to transact business in the District of Columbia, or that of any foreign corporation authorized to transact business in the District of Columbia, or a name the exclusive right to which is, at the time, reserved in the manner provided in this chapter.

(b) The name of which does not contain the word "corporation", "company", "incorporated", or "limited", or does not contain an abbreviation of one of said words, unless such corporation, for use in the District, adds at the end of its name one of such words or an abbreviation thereof. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 220, ch. 269, § 101.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Change of name

Where Superintendent of Corporations had no written regulations or statements of policy, practice, or procedure governing determination whether one corporate name was deceptively similar to another, the court, on trial de novo following appeal from refusal to accept application to change corporate name on ground of deceptive similarities, is required to consider only the validity of the Superintendent's subjective judgment. Eaton Yale & Towne, Inc. v. A. Goldstein et al (1971, 335 F. Supp. 1043).

The names "Eaton Corporation" and Eaton Associates, Inc., are not deceptively similar; thus, applicant is entitled to change its corporate name from "Eaton Yale & Towne, Inc." to "Eaton Corporation." Id.

§ 29-933c. Change of name by foreign corporation.

Whenever a foreign corporation which is admitted to transact business in the District shall change its name to one under which a certificate of authority to transact business in the District would not be granted to it on application therefor, the authority of such corporation to transact business in the District shall be suspended and it shall not thereafter transact any business in the District until it has changed its name to a name which is available to it under the laws of the District. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 220, ch. 269, § 102.)

§ 29-933d. Application for certificate of authority.

A foreign corporation may procure a certificate of authority to transact business in the District by making application therefor to the Commissioner, which application shall set forth—

(a) The name of the corporation and the State under the laws of which it is organized.

(b) If the name of the corporation does not contain one of the words "corporation", "company", "incorporated", "limited", or does not contain an abbreviation of one of such words, then the name of the corporation with the word or abbreviation which it elects to add thereto for use in the District.

(c) The date of its incorporation and the period of its duration.

(d) The address, including street and number, if any, of its principal office in the State under the laws of which it is organized.

(e) The address, including street and number, if any, of its proposed registered office in the District, and the name of its proposed registered agent in the District at such address.

(f) A brief statement of the business it proposes to transact in the District.

(g) The names and respective addresses, including street and number, if any, of its directors and officers.

(h) Such additional information as may be necessary or appropriate in order to enable the Commissioner to determine whether such corporation is entitled to a certificate of authority to transact business in the District. Such application shall be made on forms prescribed and furnished by the Commissioner and shall be executed in duplicate by the corporation by its president or a vice president, and verified by him, and the corporate seal shall be thereto affixed, attested by its secretary or an assistant secretary. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 221, ch. 269, § 103; July 23, 1959, 73 Stat. 242, Pub. L. 86-106, § 13.)

(a) The registered agent so appointed by a foreign corporation authorized to transact business in the District shall be an agent of such foreign corporation upon whom process against such corporation may be served, and upon whom any notice or demand required or permitted by law to be served upon such corporation may be served. #### NOTES TO DECISIONS

Judgment of recovery against garnishee

In this case where garnishee appeared and opposed, the motion on jurisdictional grounds, the judgment creditor's motion for judgment of recovery, though garnishee had previously failed to answer the interrogatories and where the garnishee alleged that nothing was owed to judgment debtor when writs were received and that judgment debtor thereafter left his job with the garnishee, judgment of recovery should not be entered if, on further proceedings, it is shown that no additional wages became due judgment debtor from garnishee between receipt of writs and termination of debtor's employment and if there were otherwise cause to permit answer to be filed. Metropolitan Roofing and Sheet Metal Co., Inc. v. Franklin Investment Co., Inc. (D.C. App. 1969, 256 A.2d 913).

Foreign corporation which is present in District and has duly authorized agent to do tasks for which the corporation is present can be served with process in action reasonably within ambit of those tasks by serving the agent. Id.

Foreign corporation which comes to District of Columbia for purpose of filing and prosecuting in District Court a suit concerning certain property cannot by restricting authority of its resident agent immunize itself against suit in the same court involving the same property. Id.

Financial Credit Corp., et al.* (D.C.D.C. 1963, 222 F. Supp. 627).

Service was quashed and complaint dismissed in treble damage action against foreign corporation under Clayton Act where plaintiff failed to establish that it had complied with statutory requirement of delivering to and leaving with the Commissioners of District of Columbia, or with any clerk having charge of their office, copies of process. Curtis Brothers, Inc. v. Thomasville Chair Co. (1961, 292 F.2d 774, 110 U.S. App. D.C. 281).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In general

Filing of certificate of withdrawal by foreign corporation previously qualified does not change status corporation's contracts had acquired prior to filing. Indian Lake Estates, Inc. v. Ten Individual Defendants, Net Limited, Inc. (1965, 350 F. 2d 435, 121 U.S. App. D.C. 305).

§ 29-934e. Application to foreign corporations transacting business on the effective date of this chapter.

Failure to secure a certificate of authority within the time provided in this section shall subject the corporation to all the penalties, liabilities, and restrictions provided in this chapter for transacting business without a certificate of authority. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 227, ch. 269, § 118.)

REFERENCES IN TEXT

Effective date of this chapter one hundred and eighty days after June 8, 1954, see Effective Date note set out under section 29-901.

§ 29-934f. Transacting business without certificate of authority.

(a) No foreign corporation which is subject to the provisions of this chapter and which transacts business in the District without a certificate of authority shall be permitted to maintain an action at law or in equity in any court of the District until such corporation shall have obtained a certificate of authority. Nor shall an action at law or in equity be maintained in any court of the District by any successor or assignee of such corporation on any right, claim, or demand arising out of the transaction of business by such corporation in the District until a certificate of authority shall have been obtained by such corporation or by a corporation which has acquired all or substantially all of its assets.

(b) The failure of a foreign corporation to obtain a certificate of authority to transact business in the District shall not impair the validity of any contract or act of such corporation, and shall not prevent such corporation from defending any action at law or suit in equity in any court of the District.

(c) A foreign corporation which transacts business in the District without a certificate of authority shall be liable to the District, for the years or parts thereof during which it transacted business in the District without a certificate of authority, in an amount equal to all fees and other charges which would have been imposed by this chapter upon such corporation had it duly applied for and received a certificate of authority to transact business in the District as required by this chapter and thereafter filed all reports required by this chapter; and in addition thereto it shall be liable for a penalty of not in excess of $500. The Commissioner shall bring proceedings to recover all amounts due the District under the provisions of this section. ## TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO COMMISSIONER

See § 401 of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, eff. Nov. 3, 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1. See also §§ 301 and 503 of the Plan.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Compliance with provisions

Under provision prohibiting a foreign corporation transacting business in the District without a certificate from maintaining an action until such certificate is obtained and that such failure shall not impair the validity of any contract or act of the corporation, non-compliance with the statutes was a mere temporary disability and capable of obviation at any stage of the proceedings and hence the statute was not absolutely prohibitive of an action of a foreign corporation but was merely suspensory until compliance with the statute. Hill-Lanham, Inc. v. Lightview Development Corp. (D.C.D.C. 1958, 163 F. Supp. 475).

Purpose

Under provisions prohibiting foreign corporations transacting business in the District without a certificate from maintaining actions therein, real purpose of legislation was to bring such corporations under regulation of public officials charged with such responsibility to end that public could have the same information respecting their background and financial standing as demanded of domestic corporations and as a consequence to render them amenable to ordinary legal processes. Hill-Lanham, Inc., v. Lightview Development Corp. (D.C.D.C. 1958, 163 F. Supp. 475).

Qualification after motion to dismiss

Under provision that foreign corporation which transacts business in District of Columbia without a certificate of authority shall not be permitted to maintain an action at law or in equity in any court of the District until such a certificate is obtained, defendant was not entitled to have suit brought by foreign corporation on a contract entered into in District of Columbia dismissed for failure to qualify as a foreign corporation when plaintiff obtained a certificate of authority subsequent to filing of defendant's motion to dismiss the action. Federal Loose Leaf Corp. v. Woodhouse Stationery Co. (D.C.D.C. 1958, 163 F. Supp. 482).

Suit by foreign corporation

English corporation was not precluded from suing in District of Columbia by lack of certificate of authority to do business in District. N. A. Loe v. Normalair Limited, etc. (D.C. App. 1966, 222 A. 2d 643).

By suing in District of Columbia, English corporation voluntarily submitted to jurisdiction of general sessions court, and fact that corporation had no office or agent in District and did no business there did not preclude the court from hearing corporation's claim. Id.

§ 29-935. Commissioner—Duties and functions.

Said Commissioner is authorized to employ such personnel as may be necessary for the administration of this chapter, within appropriations made by Congress. The Commissioner is further authorized to visit the corporation departments of the various States when in his judgment such visits are necessary or desirable in connection with the organization or proper conduct of any office or agency established by him.

(f) The District of Columbia Council is authorized to make and modify, and the Commissioner is authorized to enforce, such regulations as the Council may deem necessary to carry out the provisions of this chapter, the Council is authorized to prescribe penalties for the violation of any such regulations not exceeding a fine of $300 or imprisonment for ninety days, or both, and the Commissioner is authorized to prescribe such forms and procedures for use in the conduct of the business of any office or agency established by him as he may deem appropriate. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 227, ch. 269, § 120.)

CODIFICATION

In subsec. (a) the reference "chapter 51 and subchapter III of chapter 53 of title 5, U.S. Code [relating to the classification of government employees and related matters]" was substituted for "the Classification Act of 1949, as amended", on authority of § 7(b) of act Sept. 6, 1966, Pub. #### NOTES TO DECISIONS

Construction

Statute, which for purposes other than doing business preserves corporate existence for period of three years after its articles of incorporation are revoked by proclamation, does not permit a corporation to maintain an action for three years after its articles of incorporation are revoked despite fact that the corporation is delinquent in its financial obligations to the District of Columbia. York and York Construction Company v. J. Alexander et al. (D.C. App. 1972, 296 A. 2d 710).

§ 29-938a. Penalty for carrying on business after issuance of proclamation.

Any corporation, person, or persons who shall exercise or attempt to exercise any powers under articles of incorporation of a domestic corporation or under a certificate of authority of a foreign corporation which has been revoked shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $500 or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both, in the discretion of the court. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 231, ch. 269, § 124.)

§ 29-938b. Correction of error in proclamation.

Whenever it is established to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that any corporation named in said proclamation has not failed or refused to pay any annual report fee or file any annual report for two consecutive years, or has been inadvertently included in the list of corporations as so failing or refusing to pay annual report fees or file reports, the Commissioner is authorized to correct such mistake by issuing a proclamation to that effect and restoring the articles of incorporation or certificate of authority, as the case may be, into good standing with like effect as if such proclamation or revocation, as to such corporation, had not been issued. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 231, ch. 269, § 125.)

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO COMMISSIONER

See § 401 of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, eff. Nov. 3, 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1. See also §§ 301 and 503 of the Plan.

The Commissioner shall reserve the names of all corporations the articles of incorporation of which have been revoked and of all foreign corporations the certificates of authority of which have been revoked until December 31 of the year in which the proclamation of revocation was issued and no domestic corporation shall be formed nor the name of any such domestic corporation changed to a name the same as or deceptively similar to such reserved name nor shall any foreign corporation be authorized to do business under a name the same as or deceptively similar to such reserved name. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 232, ch. 269, § 126.)

(b) If the petition for reinstatement of a proclaimed corporation is delivered to the Commissioner after the period for reservation of the name has expired and if he finds that the name is not available for corporate use pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, then, in addition to complying with the provisions of the preceding paragraph, the proclaimed corporation shall set forth in its petition for reinstatement its name at the time of issuance of the proclamation of revocation and its new name, which shall be a name available for corporate use pursuant to the provisions of this chapter.

(c) If the Commissioner finds that all such documents conform to law, and that the period for reservation of the name has not expired, or if such period has expired, that the name is available for corporate use pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, they shall, when all fees, charges, interest, and penalties have been paid as in this chapter prescribed—

(1) endorse on each of such duplicate originals and any such annual report or reports the word "Filed" and the month, day, and year of the filing thereof;

(2) file one of such duplicate originals and any such annual report or reports in his office;

(3) issue a certificate of reinstatement to which he shall affix the other duplicate original;

(4) deliver such certificate of reinstatement and other duplicate original to the corporation or its representative.

(d) Upon the issuance of the certificate of reinstatement, the revocation proceedings theretofore taken as to such corporation by proclamation shall be deemed to be annulled, and such corporation shall have such powers, rights, duties, and obligations as it had at the time of the issuance of the proclamation with the same force and effect as to such corporation as if the proclamation had not been issued. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 232, ch. 269, § 127; Sept. 3, 1963, 77 Stat. 139, Pub. L. 88-111, § 1(10).)

§ 29-941. Effect of nonpayment of fees.

(a) The Commissioner shall not file any articles, statements, certificates, reports, applications, notices, or other papers relating to any corporation, domestic or foreign, organized under or subject to the provisions of this chapter, until all fees and charges provided to be paid in connection therewith shall have been paid to him or while the corporation is in default in the payment of any fees, charges, or penalties herein provided to be paid by or assessed against it. Nothing in this section shall prevent the filing, without the payment of all such fees, charges and penalties, of a written notice of resignation by a registered agent of a corporation, domestic or foreign.

(b) No corporation required to pay a fee, charge, or penalty under this chapter shall maintain in the District of Columbia any action at law or suit in equity until all such fees, charges, and penalties

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Construction

Statute, which prohibits maintaining of action by corporation until required corporate fees are paid, does not foreclose reinstatement once the fees are paid, nor does it require immediate dismissal when nonpayment is brought to the court's attention. York and York Construction Company v. J. Alexander et al. (D.C. App. 1972, 296 A. 2d 710).

§ 29-942. Penalties—Violation or failure a misdemeanor.

Any person, or corporation, who violates any provision of this chapter, or fails to comply with any provision thereof, for which violation or failure no penalty is provided therein or elsewhere in the laws of the District of Columbia, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof by a court of competent jurisdiction shall be fined not exceeding $500 for each and every violation or failure. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 233, ch. 269, § 131.)

§ 29-943. Rights and immunities of witnesses.

No person shall be excused from testifying or from producing books, accounts, and papers in any proceeding based upon or growing out of any violation of the provisions of this chapter, on the ground or for the reason that the testimony or evidence, documentary or otherwise, required of him may tend to incriminate him or subject him to penalty or forfeiture; but no person having so testified shall be prosecuted or subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter, or thing concerning which he may have testified or produced any documentary evidence: Provided, That no person so testifying shall be exempted from prosecution or punishment for perjury: Provided further, That the immunity hereby conferred shall extend only to a natural person who, in obedience to a subpoena gives testimony under oath or produces evidence, documentary or otherwise, under oath. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 233, ch. 269, § 132.)

§ 29-944. Monopolies and restraint of trade.

Nothing in this chapter shall be interpreted to authorize a corporation to do any act in violation of the common law or the statutes relating to the District of Columbia or of the United States with respect to monopolies and illegal restraint of trade. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 233, ch. 269, § 133.)

§ 29-945. Waiver of notice.

Whenever any notice whatever is required to be given under the provisions of this chapter or under the provisions of the articles of incorporation or by-laws of any corporation, a waiver thereof in writing signed by the person or persons entitled to such notice, whether before or after the time stated therein, shall be deemed equivalent to the giving of such notice. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 233, ch. 269, § 134.)

§ 29-946. Voting requirements of articles of incorporation.

Whenever, with respect to any action to be taken by the shareholders of a corporation, the articles of incorporation require the vote or concurrence of the holders of a greater proportion of the shares, or of any class or series thereof, than required by this chapter with respect to such action, the provisions of the articles of incorporation shall control. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 233, ch. 269, § 135.)

§ 29-947. Action without a meeting.

Any action required or permitted to be taken at a meeting of the shareholders of a corporation or of the board of directors or of any committee thereof may be taken without a meeting if a consent in writing setting forth the action so taken shall be signed by all of the shareholders entitled to vote with respect to the subject matter thereof, or by all of the members of the board or of such committee as the case may be, and such written consent is filed with the minutes of proceedings of the shareholders or the board or the committee. Such consent shall have the same force and effect as a unanimous vote of the shareholders or the board or the committee, as the case may be, and may be stated as such in any article or document filed with the Commissioner under this chapter. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 234, ch. 269, § 136; Sept. 3, 1963, 77 Stat. 140, Pub. L. 88-111, § 1(12).)

(a) If the Commissioner shall fail to approve any articles of incorporation, amendment, merger, consolidation, or dissolution, or any other document required by this chapter to be approved by the Commissioner before the same shall be filed in his office, he shall, within ten days after the delivery thereof to him give written notice of his disapproval to the person or corporation, domestic or foreign, delivering the same, specifying the reasons therefor.

From such disapproval such person or corporation may appeal to the court, by filing with the clerk of such court a petition setting forth a copy of the articles or other documents sought to be filed and a copy of the written disapproval thereof by the Commissioner; whereupon the matter shall be tried de novo by the court, and the court shall either sustain the action of the Commissioner or direct him to take such action as the court may deem proper.

(b) If the Commissioner shall revoke the certificate of authority to transact business in the District of any foreign corporation, pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, such foreign corporation, may likewise appeal to the court, by filing with the clerk of such court a petition setting forth a copy of its certificate of authority to transact business in the District and a copy of the notice of revocation given by the Commissioner; whereupon the matter shall be tried de novo by the court and the court shall either sustain the action of the Commissioner or direct him to take such action as the court may deem proper.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Corporate name

Where Superintendent of Corporations had no written regulations or statements of policy, practice, or procedure governing determination whether one corporate name was deceptively similar to another, the court, on trial de novo following appeal from refusal to accept application to change corporate name on ground of deceptive similarities, is required to consider only the validity of the Superintendent's subjective judgment. Eaton Yale & Towne, Inc. v. A. Goldstein et al. (1971, 335 F. Supp. 1043).

§ 29-949. Certificates and certified copies of certain documents to be received in evidence.

All certificates issued by the Commissioner in accordance with the provisions of this chapter, and all copies of documents filed in his office in accordance with the provisions of this chapter when certified by him, shall be taken and received in all courts, public offices, and official bodies as prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated. A certificate by the Commissioner under the seal of his office, as to the existence or nonexistence of the facts relating to corporations which would not

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Place of business after organization

This chapter, considered in its entirety, contemplates that principal place of business of a corporation may be outside the District after organization in the sense of creation, and there was no intention to make the proviso that "no corporation may be organized" under the chapter "unless the place where it conducts its principal business is located within the District of Columbia" a continuing regulation. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc. (D.C.D.C. 1958, 167 F. Supp. 215, affirmed 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

Pre-existing corporation

The provision of this chapter granting to a corporation which is reincorporated under the chapter all the privileges and powers and making corporation subject to all provisions of the chapter was intended to place a pre-existing corporation on equality with one newly organized, so far as benefits and burdens under the chapter were concerned, but in order not to deprive a pre-existing corporation of that which it already had, the subsequent provision confirming and assuring all privileges and powers theretofore belonging to the corporation was intended to preserve them intact. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc. (D.C.D.C. 1958, 167 F. Supp. 215, affirmed 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

Principal place of business

The proviso that no corporation may be organized unless place where it conducts its principal business is located within the District of Columbia speaks prospectively, and where corporation owning a baseball club, although reincorporated under the 1954 act, was organized under the act of 1901, imposing no restrictions upon the place where the corporation might conduct its principal business, such corporation was not required to conduct its principal business at a place within the District and was not prohibited from moving its American League franchise to any other city outside the District. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc., et al. (1959, 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

The proviso that no corporation may be organized unless the place where it conducts its principal business is located within District of Columbia did not apply to corporation operating professional baseball team as reincorporated corporation which under old act had power to conduct its principal place of business outside District of Columbia, and though not exercised, the power available by amendment to certificate of corporation was preserved under the Act, and hence proviso would not preclude corporation from transferring its franchise to a city outside the District. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc. (D.C.D.C. 1958, 167 F. Supp. 215, affirmed 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

§ 29-953. Transfer of duties of Recorder of Deeds.

(a) All powers conferred and all duties imposed upon the Recorder of Deeds of the District of Columbia by any Act of Congress in relation to the organization of corporations, the amendment of certificates of incorporation or charters of corporations, change in capital stock, change of name, reincorporation, dissolution, or other corporate action are on December 5, 1954, hereby transferred to imposed upon, and shall be exercised or performed by the Commissioner; and wherever the words "Recorder of Deeds" or other words denoting that officer appear in any of the Acts of Congress relating to the organization of corporations under the laws of the District of Columbia, or to amendments to the certificate of incorporation or charter of any corporation organized and existing under any of such Acts, or to changes of name, changes of capital stock, reincorporation, dissolution, or other corporate action of any such corporation, whether such words relate to the powers and duties of such officer in relation to organization of corporations under any such Acts, or to any of the corporate Acts hereinbefore enumerated or are used in connection with the imposition of obligations or duties or the conferring of rights or privileges upon corporations or other persons, such words shall be construed to mean the Commissioner. All fees and charges, except as hereinafter provided, now chargeable by the Recorder of Deeds for doing the work or performing the services hereby transferred to the Commissioner shall, after December 5, 1954, be chargeable by the Commissioner. On and after December

5, 1954, all certificates of incorporation or charters for the organization of corporations under any Act of Congress authorizing the formation of corporations under the laws of the District of Columbia, or for the amendment of any such certificate of incorporation or charter, changes in capital stock, reincorporation, dissolution, or other corporate action under any such chapter, shall be delivered to the Commissioner in duplicate original. If the Commissioner finds that any such document conforms to law, he shall, when all fees have been paid as prescribed by law—

(1) endorse on each such duplicate original the word "Filed", and the month, day, and year of the filing thereof;

(2) file one of such duplicate originals in his office;

(3) return the other duplicate original to the corporation or its representative.

(b) The filing of such document in the office of the Commissioner shall have the same force and effect as the recordation or lodging for recordation of certificates of incorporation and other corporate documents hereinbefore enumerated, formerly had in the office of the Recorder of Deeds.

(c) On December 5, 1954, the Commissioner shall take possession of all original books, papers, and records theretofore filed, recorded, used, or acquired by the Recorder of Deeds in the exercise of the powers and in the performance of the duties hereby transferred to the Commissioner, but nothing herein contained shall require the Recorder of Deeds to transfer any copies or transcripts of corporate papers that may constitute part of the records of his office. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 238, ch. 269, § 143; Sept. 2, 1957, 71 Stat. 575, Pub. L. 85-254, § 35.)

AMENDMENTS

1957—Act Sept. 2, 1957, § 35(1), amended subsec. (a) (3) which substituted "return the other duplicate original to the corporation or its representative" for "the other duplicate original shall be recorded in the office of the Recorder of Deeds." It also struck out "of" after "recordation" and changed it to "or".

Subsec. (b) amended by act Sept. 2, 1957, § 35(2), which substituted "or" for "of" following "recordation."

loss or damage sustained by either of them which may result from the action of the court in setting aside and enjoining the performance of such contract, but anticipated profits to be derived from the performance of the contract shall not be awarded by the court as a loss or damage sustained.

(b) In a proceeding by the corporation, whether acting directly or through a receiver, trustee, or other legal representative, or through members in a representative suit, against the incumbent or former officers or trustees of the corporation.

§ 29-1008. Reserved name.

(a) The exclusive right to the use of a corporate name may be reserved by any person or corporation, domestic or foreign, by delivering to the Commissioner an application to reserve a specified corporate name, executed by the applicant. If the Commissioner finds that the name is available for corporate use, he shall reserve the same for the exclusive use of the applicant for a period of sixty days. Such reservation may be renewed for an additional period of sixty days and for good cause shown such reservation may be further extended for a reasonable period.

(b) The right to the exclusive use of a specified corporate name so reserved may be transferred to any other person or corporation by delivering to the Commissioner a notice of such transfer, executed by the applicant for whom the name was reserved, and specifying the name and address of the transferee. (Aug. 6, 1962, 76 Stat. 269, Pub. L. 87-569, § 8.)

Each corporation shall have and continuously maintain in the District of Columbia—

(a) a registered office, which may be, but need not be, the same as its principal office;

(b) a registered agent, which agent may be either an individual resident of the District of Columbia whose business office is identical with such registered office, a domestic corporation, whether for profit or not for profit, or a foreign corporation, whether for profit or not for profit, authorized to transact business or conduct affairs in the District of Columbia and having an office identical with such registered office.

(Aug. 6, 1962, 76 Stat. 270, Pub. L. 87-569, § 9.)

§ 29-1010. Change of registered office or registered agent.

(a) The registered office of a corporation or its registered agent, or both, may be changed by delivering to the Commissioner a statement setting forth—

- (1) the name of the corporation;
- (2) the address, including street and number, if any, of its then registered office;
- (3) if the address of its registered office is to be changed, the address, including street and number, if any, to which the registered office is to be changed;
- (4) the name of its then registered agent;
- (5) if its registered agent is to be changed, the name of its successor registered agent;
- (6) that the address of its registered office and the address of the office of its registered agent as changed will be identical; and
- (7) that such change was authorized by resolution duly adopted by its board of directors or was authorized by an officer of the corporation duly empowered to make such change.

(b) Such statement shall be executed in duplicate by the corporation by its president or a vice president, and the corporate seal shall be thereto affixed, attested by the secretary or an assistant secretary, and delivered to the Commissioner. If the Commissioner finds that such statement conforms to law, he shall, when all fees and charges have been paid as in this chapter prescribed—

- (1) endorse on each of such duplicate originals the word "Filed", and the month, day, and year of the filing thereof;
- (2) file one of such duplicate originals in his office;
- (3) return the other duplicate original to the corporation or its representative.

(c) The change of address of the registered office, or the change of registered agent, or both, as the case may be, shall become effective upon the filing of such statement by the Commissioner.

(d) A corporation shall change its registered agent if the office of registered agent shall become vacant for any reason, or if its registered agent becomes disqualified or incapacitated, or if it revokes the appointment of its registered agent.

(e) Any registered agent of a corporation may resign as such agent by delivering written notice thereof, executed in triplicate, to the Commissioner, who shall file one copy thereof in his office and forthwith mail a copy thereof to the corporation at its registered office and another copy to the corporation at its principal office in the District of Columbia as shown by the records of the Commissioner. The appointment of such agent shall terminate upon the expiration of thirty days after receipt of such notice by the Commissioner or upon the appointment of a successor agent becoming effective, whichever occurs sooner. No fee or other charge of any kind shall be imposed with respect to a filing under this subsection. (Aug. 6, 1962, 76 Stat. 270, Pub. L. 87-569, § 10.)

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO COMMISSIONER

See § 401 of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, eff. Nov. 3, 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1. See also §§ 301 and 503 of the Plan.

§ 29-1011. Registered agent as an agent for service.

(a) The registered agent appointed by a corporation as provided in this chapter shall be an agent of such corporation upon whom any process, notice, or demand required or permitted by law to be served upon the corporation may be served. Service of any process, notice, or demand upon a corporate agent, as such agent, may be had by delivering a copy of such process, notice, or demand to the president, vice president, the secretary, or an assistant secretary of such corporate agent.

(b) Whenever a corporation shall fail to appoint or maintain a registered agent in the District or whenever its registered agent cannot with reasonable diligence be found at the registered office, then the Commissioner shall be an agent of such corporation upon whom any such process, notice, or demand may be served. Service on the Commissioner of any such process, notice, or demand shall be made by delivering to and leaving with him or with any clerk having charge of his office duplicate copies of such process, notice, or demand. In the event that any such process, notice, or demand is served on the Commissioner, he shall immediately cause one of such copies thereof to be forwarded by registered or certified mail, addressed to the corporation at its registered office.

(c) The Commissioner shall keep a record of all processes, notices, and demands served upon him under this section, and shall record therein the time of such service and their action with respect thereto.

(d) Nothing herein contained shall limit or affect the right to serve any process, notice, or demand required or permitted by law to be served upon a corporation in any other manner now or hereafter permitted by law. (Aug. 6, 1962, 76 Stat. 271, Pub. L. 87-569, § 11.)

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO COMMISSIONER

See § 401 of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, eff. Nov. 3, 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1. See also §§ 301 and 503 of the Plan.

§ 29-1012. Members.

A corporation may have one or more classes of members or may have no members. If the corporation has one or more classes of members, the designation of such class or classes, the manner of election or appointment and the qualifications and rights of the members of each class shall be set forth in the articles of incorporation or the bylaws. If the corporation has no members, that fact shall be set forth in the articles of incorporation. A corporation may issue certificates evidencing membership therein. (Aug. 6, 1962, 76 Stat. 271, Pub. L. 87-569, § 12.)

§ 29-1013. Bylaws.

The initial bylaws of a corporation shall be adopted by its board of directors. The power to alter, amend, or repeal the bylaws or adopt new bylaws shall be vested in the board of directors unless otherwise provided in the articles of incorporation or the bylaws. (Aug. 6, 1962, 76 Stat. 271, Pub. L. 87-569, § 13.)

§ 29-1014. Meetings of members.

(a) Meetings of members may be held at such place within or without the District of Columbia as may be provided in the bylaws or, where not inconsistent with the bylaws, in the notice of the meeting.

(b) An annual meeting of the members shall be held at such time as may be provided in the bylaws. Failure to hold the annual meeting at the designated time shall not work a forfeiture or dissolution of the corporation.

(c) Special meetings of the members may be called by the president, the secretary, the board of directors, or by such other officers or persons or number or proportion of members as may be provided in the articles of incorporation or the bylaws. In the absence of a provision fixing the number or proportion of members entitled to call a meeting, a special meeting of members may be called by members having at least one-twentieth of the votes entitled to be cast at such meeting. (Aug. 6, 1962, 76 Stat. 272, Pub. L. 87-569, § 14.)

§ 29-1015. Notice of members' meetings.

Written or printed notice stating the place, day, and hour of the meeting and, in case of a special meeting, the purpose or purposes for which the meeting is called, shall, in the absence of a provision in the bylaws specifying a different period of notice, be delivered not less than ten or more than fifty days before the date of the meeting, either personally or by mail, by or at the direction of the president, or the secretary, or the officers or persons calling the meeting, to each member entitled to vote at such meeting. If mailed, such notice shall be deemed to be delivered when deposited in the United States mail addressed to the member at his address as it appears on the records of the corporation, with postage thereon prepaid. (Aug. 6, 1962, 76 Stat. 272, Pub. L. 87-569, § 15.)

§ 29-1016. Voting.

(a) Members shall not be entitled to vote except as the right to vote shall be conferred by the articles of incorporation.

(b) A member may vote in person or, unless the articles of incorporation or the bylaws otherwise provide, may vote by proxy executed in writing by the member or his duly authorized attorney-in-fact. No proxy shall be valid after eleven months from the date of its execution, unless otherwise provided in the proxy. Where the articles of incorporation or the bylaws so provide, voting on all matters, including the election of directors or officers where they are to be elected by the members, may be conducted by mail.

(c) The articles of incorporation or the bylaws may provide that in all elections for directors every member entitled to vote shall have the right to cumulate his vote and to give one candidate a number of votes equal to his vote multiplied by the number of directors to be elected or by distributing such votes on the same principle among any number of such candidates.

(d) If a corporation has no members or if the members have no right to vote, the directors shall have the sole voting power and shall have all of the authority and may take any action herein permitted members. (Aug. 6, 1962, 76 Stat. 272, Pub. L. 87-569, § 16.)

§ 29-1017. Quorum.

(a) The bylaws may provide the number or percentage of members entitled to vote represented in person or by proxy, or the number or percentage of votes represented in person or by proxy, which shall constitute a quorum at a meeting of members. In the absence of any such provision, members having at least one-tenth of the votes entitled to be cast represented in person or by proxy shall constitute a quorum. The affirmative vote of a majority of the votes entitled to be cast by the members present or represented by proxy at a meeting at which a quorum is present, shall be necessary for the adoption of any matter voted upon by the members, unless a greater proportion is required by this chapter, the articles of incorporation or the bylaws.

(b) Unless otherwise provided by the articles of incorporation or the bylaws, the members present at a duly organized meeting may continue to do business until adjournment, notwithstanding the withdrawal of enough members to leave less than a quorum.

(c) If a meeting cannot be organized because a quorum has not attended, those present may adjourn the meeting from time to time until a quorum is present, when any business may be transacted that may have been transacted at the meeting as originally called. (Aug. 6, 1962, 76 Stat. 272, Pub. L. 87-569, § 17.)

§ 29-1018. Board of directors.

The affairs of a corporation shall be managed by a board of directors. Directors need not be residents of the District of Columbia or members of the corporation unless the articles of incorporation or the bylaws so require. The articles of incorporation or the bylaws may prescribe other qualifications for directors. (Aug. 6, 1962, 76 Stat. 273, Pub. L. 87-569, § 18.)

§ 29-1019. Number, election, classification, and removal of directors.

(a) The number of directors of a corporation shall be not less than three. Subject to such limitation, the number of directors shall be fixed by the bylaws, except as to the number of the first board of directors which number shall be fixed by the articles of incorporation. The number of directors may be increased or decreased from time to time by amendment to the bylaws, unless the articles of incorporation provide that a change in the number of directors shall be made only by amendment of the articles of incorporation. No decrease in number shall have the effect of shortening the term of any incumbent director. In the absence of a bylaw fixing the number of directors, the number shall be the same as that stated in the articles of incorporation.

(b) The names and addresses of the members of the first board of directors shall be stated in the articles of incorporation. Such persons shall hold office until the first annual election of directors or for such other period as may be specified in the articles of incorporation or the bylaws. Thereafter, directors shall be elected or appointed in the manner and for the terms provided in the articles of incorporation or the bylaws. In the absence of a provision fixing the term of office, the term of office of a director shall be one year.

(c) Directors may be divided into classes and the terms of office of the several classes need not be uniform. Each director shall hold office for the term for which he is elected or appointed and until his successor shall have been elected or appointed and qualified, except in the case of ex officio directors.

(d) A director may be removed from office pursuant to any procedure therefor provided in the articles of incorporation or the bylaws, and if none be provided may be removed at a meeting called expressly for that purpose, with or without cause, by such vote as would suffice for his election. (Aug. 6, 1962, 76 Stat. 273, Pub. L. 87-569, § 19.)

§ 29-1020. Vacancies.

Any vacancy occurring in the board of directors and any directorship to be filled by reason of an increase in the number of directors may be filled by the affirmative vote of a majority of the then members of the board of directors, though less than a quorum of the board, unless the articles of incorporation or the bylaws provide that a vacancy or directorship so created shall be filled in some other manner, in which case such provision shall control. A director elected or appointed, as the case may be, to fill a vacancy shall be elected or appointed for the unexpired term of his predecessor in office. (Aug. 6, 1962, 76 Stat. 274, Pub. L. 87-569, § 20.)

§ 29-1021. Quorum of directors.

A majority of the number of directors fixed by the bylaws, or in the absence of a bylaw fixing the number of directors, then of the number stated in the articles of incorporation, shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, unless otherwise provided in the articles of incorporation or the bylaws; but in no event shall a quorum consist of less than one-third of the number of directors so fixed or stated. The act of the majority of the directors present at a meeting at which a quorum is present shall be the act of the board of directors, unless the act of a greater number is required by this chapter or by the articles of incorporation or the bylaws. (Aug. 6, 1962, 76 Stat. 274, Pub. L. 87-569, § 21.)

§ 29-1022. Committees.

If the articles of incorporation or the bylaws so provide, the board of directors, by resolution adopted by a majority of the directors in office, may designate and appoint one or more committees, each of which shall consist of two or more directors, which committees, to the extent provided in said resolution, in the articles of incorporation or in the bylaws of the corporation, shall have and exercise the authority of the board of directors in the management of the corporation. Other committees not having and exercising the authority of the board of directors in the management of the corporation may be designated and appointed by a resolution adopted by a majority of the directors present at a meeting at which a quorum is present. The designation and appointment of any such committee and the delegation thereto of authority shall not operate to relieve the board of directors, or any individual director, of any responsibility imposed upon it or him by law. (Aug. 6, 1962, 76 Stat. 274, Pub. L. 87-569, § 22.)

§ 29-1023. Place and notice of directors' meetings.

Meetings of the board of directors, regular or special, may be held at such place within or without the District of Columbia, and upon such notice as may be prescribed in the bylaws or, where not inconsistent with the bylaws, by resolution of the board of directors. A director's attendance at any meeting shall constitute waiver of notice of such meeting, excepting such attendance at a meeting by the director for the purpose of objecting to the transaction of business because the meeting is not lawfully called or convened. Neither the business to be transacted at, nor the purpose of, any regular or special meeting of the board of directors need be specified in the notice or waiver of notice of such meeting, unless otherwise provided in the articles of incorporation or the bylaws. (Aug. 6, 1962, 76 Stat. 274, Pub. L. 87-569, § 23.)

§ 29-1024. Officers.

(a) The officers of a corporation shall consist of a president, a secretary, and a treasurer, and may include one or more vice presidents and such other officers and assistant officers as may be deemed necessary, each of whom shall be elected or appointed at such time and in such manner and for such terms not exceeding three years as may be prescribed in the articles of incorporation or the bylaws. In the absence of any such provision, all officers shall be elected or appointed annually by the board of directors. If the bylaws so provide, any two or more offices may be held by the same person, except the offices of president and secretary.

(b) The articles of incorporation or the bylaws may provide that any one or more officers of the corporation or other organizations shall be ex officio members of the board of directors.

(c) The officers of a corporation may be designated by such other titles as may be provided in the articles of incorporation or the bylaws.

(d) All officers and agents of the corporation, as between themselves and the corporation, shall have such authority and perform such duties in the management of the property and affairs of the corporation as may be provided in the bylaws, or as may be determined by resolution of the board of directors not inconsistent with the bylaws. (Aug. 6, 1962, 76 Stat. 275, Pub. L. 87-569, § 24.)

§ 29-1025. Removal of officers.

Any officer or agent elected or appointed may be removed by the persons authorized to elect or appoint such officer or agent whenever in their judgment the best interest of the corporation will be served thereby, but such removal shall be without prejudice to the contract rights, if any, of the person so removed. Election or appointment of an officer or agent shall not itself create contract rights. (Aug. 6, 1962, 76 Stat. 275, Pub. L. 87-569, § 25.)

§ 29-1026. Books and records.

Each corporation shall keep correct and complete books and records of account and shall keep minutes of the proceedings of its members, board of directors, and committees having any of the authority of the board of directors; and shall keep at its registered office or principal office in the District of Columbia a record of the names and addresses of its members entitled to vote. All books and records of a corporation may be inspected by any member having voting rights, or his agent or attorney, for any proper purpose at any reasonable time. (Aug. 6, 1962, 76 Stat. 275, Pub. L. 87-569, § 26.)

§ 29-1027. Shares of stock and dividends prohibited.

A corporation shall not authorize or issue shares of stock. No dividend shall be paid and no part of the income of a corporation shall be distributed to its members, directors, or officers. A corporation may pay compensation, including pensions, in a reasonable amount to its members, directors, or officers for services rendered, may confer benefits upon its members in conformity with its purposes, and upon dissolution or final liquidation may make distributions to its members or others as permitted by this chapter. (Aug. 6, 1962, 76 Stat. 275, Pub. L. 87-569, § 27.)

§ 29-1028. Loans to directors and officers prohibited.

No loans shall be made by a corporation to its directors or officers. The directors of a corporation who vote for or assent to the making of a loan to a director or officer of the corporation, and any officer or officers participating in the making of such a loan, shall be jointly and severally liable to the corporation for the amount of such loan until the repayment thereof. (Aug. 6, 1962, 76 Stat. 275, Pub. L. 87-569, § 28.)

§ 29-1029. Incorporators.

Three or more natural persons of the age of twenty-one years or more may act as incorporators of a corporation by signing, verifying, and delivering in duplicate to the Commissioner articles of incorporation for such corporation. (Aug. 6, 1962, 76 Stat. 276, Pub. L. 87-569, § 29.)

§ 29-1030. Articles of incorporation.

(a) The articles of incorporation shall set forth—

(1) the name of the corporation;

(2) the period of duration, which may be perpetual;

(3) the purpose or purposes for which the corporation is organized;

(4) if the corporation is to have no members, a statement to that effect;

(5) if the corporation is to have one or more classes of members, any provision which the incorporators elect to set forth in the articles of incorporation designating the class or classes of members, stating the qualifications and rights of the members of each class and conferring, limiting, or denying the right to vote;

(6) if the directors or any of them are not to be elected or appointed by one or more classes of members, a statement of the manner in which such directors shall be elected or appointed; or that the manner of such election or appointment of such directors shall be provided in the bylaws;

(7) any provisions, not inconsistent with law, which the incorporators elect to set forth in the articles of incorporation for the regulation of the internal affairs of the corporation, including any provision for distribution of assets on dissolution or final liquidation and any provision which under this chapter is required or permitted to be set forth in the bylaws;

(8) the address, including street and number, if any, of its initial registered office, and the name of its initial registered agent at such address;

(9) the number of directors constituting the initial board of directors, and the names and addresses, including street and number, if any, of the persons who are to serve as the initial directors until the first annual meeting or until their successors be elected and qualify;

(10) the name and address, including street and number, if any, of each incorporator.

(b) It shall not be necessary to set forth in the articles of incorporation any of the corporate powers enumerated in this chapter.

(c) Unless the articles of incorporation provide that a change in the number of directors shall be made only by amendment to the articles of incorporation, a change in the number of directors made by amendment to the bylaws shall be controlling. Whenever a provision of the articles of incorporation is inconsistent with a bylaw, the provision of the articles of incorporation shall be controlling. (Aug. 6, 1962, 76 Stat. 276, Pub. L. 87-569, § 30.)

(4) The corporation shall not make any investments which would subject it to tax under section 4944 of the Code.

(5) The corporation shall not make any taxable expenditures which would subject it to tax under section 4945 of the Code.

With respect to any such corporation organized prior to January 1, 1970, subsection (a) shall apply to taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1972.

When such merger or consolidation has been effected—

(a) the several corporations parties to the plan of merger or consolidation shall be a single corporation, which, in the case of a merger, shall be that corporation designated in the plan of merger as the surviving corporation, and, in the case of a consolidation, shall be the new corporation provided for in the plan of consolidation;

(b) the separate existence of all corporations parties to the plan of merger or consolidation, except the surviving or new corporation, shall cease;

A sale, lease, exchange, mortgage, pledge, or other disposition of all, or substantially all, the property and assets of a corporation may be made upon such terms and conditions and for such consideration, which may consist in whole or in part of money or property, real or personal, including shares of any corporation for profit, domestic or foreign, as may be authorized in the following manner:

(c) At such meeting the members may authorize such sale, lease, exchange, mortgage, pledge, or other disposition and may fix, or may authorize the board of directors to fix, any or all of the terms and conditions thereof and the consideration to be received by the corporation therefor. Such authorization shall require the vote of at least two-thirds of the votes entitled to be cast by members present or represented by proxy at such meeting.

(d) After such authorization by a vote of members, the board of directors, nevertheless, in its discretion, may abandon such sale, lease, exchange, mortgage, pledge, or other disposition of assets, subject to the rights of third parties under any contracts relating thereto, without further action or approval by members.

(e) Where there are no members, or no members having voting rights, a sale, lease, exchange, mortgage, pledge, or other disposition of all, or substantially all, the property and assets of a corporation shall be authorized upon receiving the vote of a majority of the directors in office. (a) The provisions of this chapter shall not be construed to alter or affect the professional relationship between an individual furnishing professional services and an individual receiving such service, either with respect to liability arising out of such professional service or the confidential relationship, if any, between the individual rendering, and the individual receiving such professional service. An individual shall be personally liable and accountable only for any negligent or wrongful acts or misconduct committed by him, or by any individual under his supervision and control in the rendering of professional service on behalf of a corporation organized under this chapter. No individual shall be so personally liable and accountable merely because he is a director, officer, or manager of the professional corporation.

(b) The corporation shall be liable up to the full value of its assets for any negligent or wrongful acts or misconduct committed by any of its officers, shareholders, directors, agents, or employees in their rendering of professional services on behalf of the corporation. Except as otherwise provided in this section, the liabilities of a professional corporation and its shareholders shall be governed by chapter 9 of this title. (Dec. 10, 1971, Pub. L. 92-180, § 11, 85 Stat. 578.)

§ 29-1112. Transfer of shares.

(a) Shares in a professional corporation may be transferred only to an individual who is eligible under this chapter to be a shareholder of such corporation, or to such professional corporation, or may devolve by operation of law upon the personal representative or estate of a deceased or legally incompetent shareholder. The articles of incorporation, bylaws, or an agreement among its shareholders may provide that any such transfer shall be subject to the express approval of all, or of any lesser proportion of the remaining shareholders of the corporation, and may provide for the manner in which such consent shall be given. Any transfer made in violation of this section shall be void.

(b) A professional corporation may reacquire its own shares through purchase or redemption, and may cancel such shares if at least one share remains issued and outstanding, except when it is insolvent or the purchase or redemption would render it insolvent.

(c) The provisions of chapter 24 of title 2, and of the Securities Act of 1933 (15 U.S.C. 77a et seq.), shall not apply to the issuance or transfer of securities of a professional corporation. Every certificate for shares of a professional corporation shall contain on its face the following legend: "The ownership and transfer of these shares and the rights and obligations of shareholders are subject to the limitations of the District of Columbia Professional Corporation Act."

(d) In the event that shares of a professional corporation are attached for the individual debts of a shareholder, or are executed upon under any pledge or hypothecation thereof, the sole right of the creditor with respect to such shares shall be to obtain their redemption by such professional corporation within sixty days after serving written demand for redemption upon such corporation. The redemption price for such shares shall be (1) the amount to which the shareholder is entitled upon voluntary redemption of his shares by the provisions of the articles of incorporations, bylaws, or an agreement among its shareholders, or if there are no such provisions, (2) the book value of such shares at the end of the month immediately preceding the date of such demand, determined under generally accepted accounting methods consistent with the method of accounting used by the corporation for Federal income tax purposes, by an independent certified public accountant selected by the corporation, but paid by such creditor, for the purpose. (Dec. 10, 1971, Pub. L. 92-180, § 12, 85 Stat. 579.)

§ 29-1113. Merger or consolidation.

A professional corporation may merge or consolidate only with another domestic professional corporation, and only if both corporations are organized to render the same professional services or professional services which, although not the same, could otherwise be rendered by a single professional corporation. (Dec. 10, 1971, Pub. L. 92-180, § 13, 85 Stat. 580.)

§ 29-1114. Foreign professional corporations.

Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter, a foreign professional corporation licensed in a jurisdiction other than the District of Columbia to perform a professional service of the type defined in section 29-1102(b), may apply for and obtain a certificate of authority to render such professional services in the District of Columbia under the following terms and conditions:

(a) The articles of incorporation shall meet the requirements of section 29-1106, and shall state the address of its registered office in the District of Columbia and the name of its registered agent in the District of Columbia.

(b) The name of the foreign professional corporation shall meet the requirements of section 29-1109 and shall conform to any ethical standards applicable to the rendering of professional service in the District of Columbia.

(c) The powers of any foreign professional corporation admitted under this section shall not exceed the powers permitted to domestic professional corporations under section 29-1105.

(d) Any foreign professional corporation seeking admission to the District under the provisions of this section shall have at least one director or officer as resident agent for its registered office in the District. Additionally, such resident agent and any other shareholder, director, officer, employee, or agent who renders professional services within the District on behalf of the foreign professional corporation shall be licensed to render professional services in the District of Columbia.

(e) An annual report shall be filed in accordance with the requirements of section 29-1119.

(f) No certificate of authority shall be granted to a professional corporation incorporated in a jurisdiction which does not permit reciprocal admission of professional corporations incorporated under the laws of the District of Columbia. (Dec. 10, 1971, Pub. L. 92-180, § 14, 85 Stat. 580.)

§ 29-1115. Disqualified professional.

If any individual rendering professional services on behalf of a professional corporation assumes a public office which prohibits his rendering of the professional services, or for any other reason is disqualified by law to render the professional services, he immediately shall sever all employment relationship in which he shares in the corporation's profits attributable to professional services rendered after such assumption of office or other disqualification. For the purposes of section 29-1116, he shall be referred to as a "disqualified shareholder". (Dec. 10, 1971, Pub. L. 92-180, § 15, 85 Stat. 580.)

§ 29-1116. Stock of disqualified, deceased, legally incompetent shareholder.

(a) Subject to the limitations of this section, a disqualified shareholder and personal representatives, legatees, or heirs of a deceased or legally incompetent shareholder may continue to own shares of a professional corporation but shall not be permitted to participate in any decisions concerning the rendering of professional services by the corporation. The articles of incorporation, bylaws, or an agreement among the shareholders of a professional corporation may provide, consistent with the provisions of this section, for the disposition of shares of a disqualified, deceased, or legally incompetent shareholder.

(b) The articles of incorporation, bylaws, or an agreement among shareholders may provide that, within ninety days (or any earlier date) after the date a shareholder becomes a disqualified shareholder, the disqualified shareholder shall sell and surrender, and the corporation or any individuals qualified to be shareholders shall purchase and receive, his shares of stock of the corporation. In the absence of any such provision, the disqualified shareholder shall sell and surrender, and the corporation shall purchase and receive, his shares of stock of the corporation within thirty days after the date he becomes a disqualified shareholder. Unless otherwise provided by the articles of incorporation, bylaws, or an agreement among the shareholders, payment for the shares of stock purchased pursuant to the provisions of this subsection shall be made in full no later than six months after the expiration of the period by which the purchases must be made.

(c) The articles of incorporation, bylaws, or an agreement among shareholders may provide that, within one year (or any earlier date) after the date of death of a shareholder, his personal representative, legatees, or heirs shall sell and surrender, and the corporation or any individuals qualified to be shareholders shall purchase and receive, the shares of stock of the corporation owned by the deceased shareholder. In the absence of any such provision, the personal representatives, legatees, or heirs shall sell and surrender, and the corporation shall purchase and receive, the shares of stock of the corporation within one hundred and eighty days after the date of death of the shareholder. Unless otherwise provided by the articles of incorporation, bylaws, or an agreement among the shareholders, payment for the shares of stock purchased pursuant to the provision of this subsection shall be made in full no later than one year after the date of death of the shareholder. (Dec. 10, 1971, Pub. L. 92-180, § 16, 85 Stat. 580.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 29-1115.

§ 29-1117. Redemption price.

In the event the articles of incorporation, bylaws or an agreement among the shareholders, do not fix the price at which the corporation or its shareholders may purchase the shares of a disqualified, deceased, legally incompetent, retired, or expelled shareholder, or does not provide a method of determining such price, then the price for such shares shall be the book value of such shares on the last day of the month immediately preceding the disqualification, death, adjudication of incompetence, retirement or expulsion of the shareholder, determined under generally accepted accounting methods, consistent with the method of accounting used by the corporation for Federal income tax purposes, by an independent certified public accountant employed by the corporation for the purpose. (Dec. 10, 1971, Pub. L. 92-180, § 17, 85 Stat. 581.)

§ 29-1118. Perpetual existence; dissolution.

A professional corporation shall have perpetual existence, except that whenever all shareholders of a professional corporation cease at any time for any reason to be licensed to perform the professional services for which the corporation was organized, the professional corporation shall be treated as converted into a corporation organized under chapter 9 of this title. Unless the holders of all of the outstanding shares of the corporation unanimously amend the articles of incorporation to adopt purposes consistent with chapter 9 of this title within sixty days after the date on which the last shareholder of the corporation ceased to be licensed to perform those professional services, the dissolution of the corporation shall be deemed to have been authorized by the act of the corporation and any shareholder may at any time thereafter file with the Commissioner, on behalf of the corporation, a statement of intent to dissolve. (Dec. 10, 1971, Pub. L. 92-180, § 18, 85 Stat. 582.)

§ 29-1119. Annual report.

The annual reports of a professional corporation shall meet the requirements of chapter 9 of this title and, in addition, shall set forth—

(a) the names and addresses, including street and number, if any, of all shareholders of the corporation; and

(b) a statement that each shareholder, director, and officer of the corporation is currently licensed to render a professional service for which the corporation is organized. (Dec. 10, 1971, Pub. L. 92-180, § 19, 85 Stat. 582.)

This section is referred to in section 29-1114.

§ 29-1120. Noncompliance; penalties.

The failure of a professional corporation to comply, or to require compliance with any provision of this chapter, shall be a ground for the involuntary dissolution of such corporation. Any person, including a corporation, who violates any provision of this chapter or who fails to comply with any provision thereof, for which violation or failure no penalty is provided therein or elsewhere in the laws of the District of Columbia, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof by a court of competent jurisdiction shall be fined not more than $500 for each violation or failure. (Dec. 10, 1971, Pub. L. 92-180, § 20, 85 Stat. 582.)

The following marriages are prohibited in the District of Columbia and shall be absolutely void ab initio, without being so decreed, and their nullity may be shown in any collateral proceedings, namely:

First. The marriage of a man with his grandmother, grandfather's wife, wife's grandmother, father's sister, mother's sister, mother, stepmother, wife's mother, daughter, wife's daughter, son's wife, sister, son's daughter, daughter's daughter, son's son's wife, daughter's son's wife, wife's son's daughter, wife's daughter's daughter, brother's daughter, sister's daughter.

Second. The marriage of a woman with her grandfather, grandmother's husband, husband's grandfather, father's brother, mother's brother, father, stepfather, husband's father, son, husband's son, daughter's husband, brother, son's son, daughter's son, son's daughter's husband, daughter's daughter's husband, husband's son's son, husband's daughter's son, brother's son, sister's son.

Third. The marriage of any persons either of whom has been previously married and whose previous marriage has not been terminated by death or a decree of divorce. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1391, ch. 854, § 1283.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Common-law marriage

Common-law marriage is recognized in District of Columbia. E. Matthews v. T. Britton, Deputy Commissioner etc. (1962, 303 F. 2d 408, 112 U.S. App. D.C. 397).

If parties agreed to be husband and wife in ignorance of impediment to lawful matrimony, removal of impediment results in common-law marriage between parties if they have continued to cohabit and live together as husband and wife; the same result obtains even if parties have knowledge of impediment at time that they agree to be married. Id.

If man and woman agree to be married before impediment was removed and continued thereafter to cohabit and live together as husband and wife, a common-law union between man and woman was effected when woman's prior spouse was awarded divorce. Id.

Proof of common-law marriage was not sufficient to sustain a contract in consideration of marriage. Evans v. Neumann (1922, 278 F. 1013, 51 App. D.C. 300).

Common-law marriage is not invalid and surviving widow may recover compensation. Hoage v. Murch Bros. Constr. Co. (1931, 50 F. 2d 983, 60 App. D.C. 218).

The rule which finds a common-law marriage upon the removal of the impediment, has sometimes been applied though one or both of the parties knew of the impediment, and this result seems socially sound. Thomas v. Murphy (1940, 107 F. 2d 268, 71 App. D.C. 69).

The removal of an impediment to marriage while the parties continued to live together as husband and wife in the District of Columbia, gives rise to a "common law marriage." McVicker v. McVicker (1942, 130 F. 2d 837, 76 U.S. App. D.C. 208). See, also, Thomas v. Murphy (1940, 107 F. 2d 268, 71 App. D.C. 69).

Intermittent visitations by persons domiciled in New Jersey to the District of Columbia after entry of divorce decree of one of such parties could not suffice to alter the parties' domiciliary status, so that they might establish a common-law marriage under the law of the District of Columbia on such visits. Metropolitan Life Insurance Company v. Chase et al. (1960, 189 F. Supp. 326).

Where insured, who had been previously married to woman who had borne him children, ceremonially married second woman in District of Columbia in 1941, in 1948 divorced first wife, and continued to live with second woman as husband and wife until his death in 1957, and at all times husband and second woman were domiciled in New Jersey, the attempted ceremonial marriage was void under the law of District of Columbia, and no common-law marriage came into existence after 1948, since the New Jersey statute and public policy prohibited common-law marriages, and second woman was not insured's widow, even though second woman and insured may have, on visits to District of Columbia from time to time, held themselves out as husband and wife, and second woman was not entitled to proceeds of life policy payable to widow, or if there was no widow, to children, but insured's surviving children were entitled to the proceeds. Id.

A common-law marriage is recognized as legal in the District of Columbia, and the removal of an impediment while parties continue to live together as husband and wife gives rise to a common-law marriage under the District's law. Id.

Defense in collateral proceedings

A divorced husband, marrying another woman in Maryland while both of them were domiciled in District of Columbia within six months after entry of divorce decree in court of such District, was not estopped to plead invalidity of second marriage under District Code as ground for vacation of order against him for support of second wife's minor child, whose paternity he denied, especially in view of statutory provision that nullity of bigamous marriage may be shown in any collateral proceeding. Oliver v. Oliver (1951, 185 F. 2d 429, 87 U.S. App. D. C. 334).

Delinquent or dependent children

Marriage of a female child, in itself, does not automatically terminate the control of delinquent or dependent children. Richardson v. Browning (1927, 18 F. 2d 1008, 57 App. D.C. 186).

Divorce obtained by fraud

Although District residents, seeking divorce in Virginia, are in pari delicto, a divorce fraudulently obtained will render a subsequent marriage by one absolutely void. Simmons v. Simmons (1927, 19 F. 2d 690, 57 App. D.C. 216, 54 A. L. R. 75).

Status of parties obtaining divorce by falsehood and subterfuge; decree void; subsequent marriage void; decree not required if marriage void ab initio. Frey v. Frey (1932, 59 F. 2d 1046, 61 App. D.C. 232).

Divorced persons

This section does not apply to the prohibited remarriage of a divorced person. Loughran v. Loughran (1934, 54 S. Ct. 684, 292 U.S. 216, 78 L. Ed. 1219). See, also, Thomas v. Murphy (1940, 107 F. 2d 268, 71 App. D.C. 69).

Laches and estoppel

Annulment action was not barred by laches, where evidence supported allegation of complaint that plaintiff did not learn of invalidity of divorce from prior wife until immediately before filing complaint. M. G. Sears v. J. C. Sears (1961, 293 F. 2d 884, 110 U.S. App. D.C. 407).

Court of equity, in determining whether to interpose bar of equitable estoppel in action to annul marriage, must consider all factors of case, parties involved, effect of ultimate decision on third parties not before court, nature of rights sought to be vindicated, and public policy. Id.

Husband, who obtained mail-order Mexican divorce from first wife, married second wife, and lived with second wife for fifteen years, was estopped in his annulment action against second wife, to deny validity of marriage to second wife. Id.

Plaintiff who caused divorce action to be instituted in Virginia by defendant, and thereafter married defendant and lived with her for more than 10 years, is barred by the principles of laches or estoppel from challenging the Virginia decree of divorce. Goodloe v. Hawk (1940, 113 F. 2d 753, 72 App. D.C. 287).

Since this chapter, read as a whole, is not clear regarding intention of Congress as to whether doctrines of laches and estoppel can be applied in both independent annulment suits and in an attack upon marriage in divorce action on ground of invalidity of prior divorce decree of one of the parties, it must be construed and a reasonable intent must be attributed to Congress. Ruppert v. Ruppert (1943, 134 F. 2d 497, 77 U.S. App. D.C. 65).

In wife's divorce suit, where at time of hearing of motion for new trial on ground of newly discovered evidence that wife's foreign divorce decree from another was invalid because of fraud perpetrated on court regarding wife's residence, law in District of Columbia had been declared to be that in annulment proceedings doctrines of laches and estoppel were inapplicable but thereafter it was held that the general public policy no longer prevented application in annulment actions of laches and estoppel doctrines in determining the effect to be given an irregular foreign divorce decree, wife was entitled to a determination of the case on the basis of the law as declared in the later decision. Id.

Under marriage and divorce statutes of District of Columbia, in determining the effect to be given irregular foreign divorce decree, the doctrines of "laches" and "estoppel" may be applied not only in annulment actions but also in divorce action where attack upon marriage by a party thereto is made by way of defense. Id.

In wife's divorce action, where at conclusion of hearing on husband's motion for new trial on ground of invalidity of wife's prior foreign divorce decree, trial court dismissed complaint on ground that wife's previous marriage had not been terminated but made no finding of fact and stated no conclusions of law upon issues of laches and estoppel of husband to set up invalidity of foreign divorce decree of wife, judgment was reversed and cause remanded for further findings of fact and conclusions of law on such issue. Id.

In wife's divorce action, where at conclusion of hearing on husband's motion for new trial on ground of invalidity of marriage because of invalidity of wife's prior foreign divorce decree from another, court ordered wife's complaint dismissed on theory that prior marriage had not been terminated and wife's motion to vacate judgment and for new trial was not timely made, overruling of wife's motion could not be considered a determination against the wife of issues of laches and estoppel presented by her motion since it was assumed that the trial court properly overruled the motion on the ground that the motion was too late and did not pass on the merits of the motion. Id.

Husband seeking annulment of marriage to second wife with whom he had lived for some 15 years was not barred by laches or estoppel from asserting invalidity of his Mexican mail order divorce from first wife, where Mexican divorce was wholly null and void, marriage to first wife remained undissolved, no appearance had been made in Mexico, no fraudulent misrepresentations as to residence or domicile or otherwise had been practiced upon Mexican court and neither husband, second wife, nor first wife had ever been deceived by Mexican divorce. Sears v. Sears (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 166 A. 2d 748).

Previous undissolved marriage

Where common-law marriage had not been terminated by death or decree of divorce, attempted ceremonial marriage in Maryland of common-law husband to another woman was void in District of Columbia. I. M. Lee v. G. M. Lee and G. V. Lee (D.C. App. 1964, 201 A. 2d 873).

Estoppel cannot be availed of to defeat the public policy of the District of Columbia which renders void a marriage attempted to be entered into by party whose prior marriage still remained undissolved. Metropolitan Life Insurance Company v. Chase et al. (1960, 189 F. Supp. 326).

Public policy is against bigamous marriages. Sears v. Sears (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 166 A. 2d 748).

Where parties were married in Maryland and husband had a previous undissolved marriage, marriage was void ab initio in District of Columbia without being so decreed. Koonin, next friend of Hornsby v. Hornsby (D.C. Mun. App. 1958, 140 A. 2d 309).

Remarriage during period for appeal

Where marriage was annulled, remarriage of wife after final decree of annulment but before expiration of period for appeal was valid. Tillinghast v. Tillinghast (1928, 25 F. 2d 531, 58 App. D.C. 107).

State laws

Marriages not polygamous or incestuous, or otherwise declared void by statute, will, if valid by the law of the state where entered into, be recognized as valid in every other jurisdiction. Loughran v. Loughran (1934, 54 S. Ct. 684, 292 U.S. 216, 78 L. Ed. 1219).

Mere statutory prohibition by the state of the domicile either generally of the remarriage of a divorced person, or of remarriage within a prescribed period after the entry of the decree, is given only territorial effect and such a statute does not invalidate a marriage solemnized in another state in conformity with the laws thereof. Id.

Language of the Illinois statute does not go so far as the language of the District regarding prohibited marriages which "shall be absolutely void ab initio, without being so decreed, and their nullity may be shown in any collateral proceedings." Abramson v. Abramson (1931, 49 F. 2d 501, 60 App. D.C. 119).

A marriage which is void under the laws of the state where it was celebrated is void in the District of Columbia. Rhodes v. Rhodes (1938, 96 F. 2d 715, 68 App. D.C. 313).

Particular public-policy may require annulment of marriage without regard to guilt or innocence of parties affected, but the general public policy in this jurisdiction, as judicially interpreted, no longer prevents application in annulment actions of the laches and estoppel doctrines in determining the effect to be given foreign divorce decrees. Goodloe v. Hawk (1940, 113 F. 2d 753, 72 App. D.C. 287).

Divorce decree of Virginia court granted person acquiring domicile to obtain divorce but with intention of remaining for an indefinite period is valid under Virginia law and will be recognized in the District of Columbia. Id.

Voidable marriages

Where boy who was of the age of 16 years and 7 months and girl who was of the age of 15 years and 10 months were domiciled in District of Columbia, and boy obtained father's consent to marry by falsely representing that girl was pregnant and obtained Virginia marriage license by falsely representing that he was age 18 and that she was age 17, and after their marriage in Virginia they lived together in District of Columbia in their own home as man and wife for about six months and then separated, under the District of Columbia statutes the marriage, although forbidden, was not void ab initio, but was merely void when declared so by court decree, and court had judicial discretion to refuse to grant annulment, and under the circumstances such refusal was not abuse of discretion. Duley etc. v. Duley (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 151 A. 2d 255).

§ 30-102. Marriage may be decreed to be void.

Any of such marriages may also be declared to have been null and void by judicial decree. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1391, ch. 854, § 1284.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Void marriages

Where it appears to the court that a marriage is an absolute nullity, the duty under the law is to decree such a marriage void and prevent any further criminal union of the parties. Simmons v. Simmons (1927, 19 F. 2d 690, 57 App. D.C. 216, 54 A.L.R. 75).

Voidable marriages

Where boy who was of the age of 16 years and 7 months and girl who was of the age of 15 years and 10 months were domiciled in District of Columbia, and boy obtained father's consent to marry by falsely representing that girl was pregnant and obtained Virginia marriage license by falsely representing that he was age 18 and that she was age 17, and after their marriage in Virginia they lived together in District of Columbia in their own home as man and wife for about six months and then separated, under the District of Columbia statutes the marriage, although forbidden, was not void ab initio, but was merely void when declared so by court decree, and court had judicial discretion to refuse to grant annulment, and under the circumstances such refusal was not abuse of discretion. Duley etc. v. Duley (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 151 A. 2d 255).

§ 30-103. Marriages void from date of decree—Age of consent.

The following marriages in said District shall be illegal, and shall be void from the time when their nullity shall be declared by decree, namely:

First. The marriage of an idiot or of a person adjudged to be a lunatic.

Second. Any marriage the consent to which of either party has been procured by force or fraud.

Third. Any marriage either of the parties to which shall be incapable, from physical causes, of entering into the married state.

Fourth. When either of the parties is under the age of consent, which is hereby declared to be eighteen years of age for males and sixteen years of age for females. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1391, ch. 854, § 1285; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 543, ch. 1329; Aug. 12, 1937, 50 Stat. 626, ch. 596, § 1.)

AMENDMENTS

1937—Par. Fourth amended by act Aug. 12, 1937, which increased the age of consent for males from sixteen to eighteen and for females from fourteen to sixteen.

1902—Par. Fourth added by act June 30, 1902.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Annulment because of lunacy

"Full force and effect will be given to section 1285 (§ 30-103), if the adjudication of lunacy referred to therein is construed to mean adjudication of lunacy in the suit instituted for the annulment of the marriage, although such adjudication per se might not authorize the appointment of a committee, as under section 115b of the code (§ 21-301), which requires a direct proceeding for the purpose." Mackey v. Peters (1903, 22 App. D.C. 341).

Suit for annulment of marriage because of lunacy may be filed by a next friend, notwithstanding the fact that a committee has been appointed. Id.

Disease

"Public policy" does not require that an innocent woman must live in marital relationship with a syphilitic husband where marriage is procured by fraud of husband in concealing the disease. Stone v. Stone (1943, 136 F. 2d 761, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 5).

Where wife suing for annulment of marriage, contracted in Virginia, because of husband's alleged fraudulent concealment of fact that he was suffering with a venereal disease, produced evidence indicating that husband concealed his condition and that wife on being advised that husband had disease immediately separated and speedily instituted annulment suit, suit was improperly dismissed notwithstanding wife failed to produce Virginia examining physician. Id.

Where wife sought annulment of marriage, contracted in Virginia, on ground of husband's fraudulent concealment of fact that he was suffering with a venereal disease, and wife acted promptly, as soon as she ascertained truth, and refused thereafter to continue marital status, the wife who failed to produce Virginia examining physician, counsel having been appointed by court to represent husband, did not come under rule that a party who has it peculiarly within his power to produce a witness, by failing to do so, creates an inference that if the testimony were produced it would be unfavorable. Id.

Grounds for annulment

Where husband prior to marriage told wife of his opposition to birth prevention, and wife promised that contraception would not be practiced, but immediately after marriage she refused to have marital relations unless some means were used to prevent conception, and they never had marital relations, husband was entitled to annulment on ground of fraud. Zoglio v. Zoglio (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 157 A. 2d 627).

Concealment of pregnancy as fraud. Lenoir v. Lenoir (1904, 24 App. D.C. 160).

Mere barrenness is not a ground for the annulment of a marriage, though the prime object of marriage is thus defeated. Burroughs v. Burroughs (1925, 4 F. 2d 938, 55 App. D.C. 271).

Knowledge of mental condition

Woman who knew of man's commitment to mental institution at time of marriage was not entitled to annulment and the annulment should have been granted to the man. A. D. Martin v. L. P. Martin (D.C. App. 1968, 240 A. 2d 363).

Law governing

There being no "public policy" in the District of Columbia which declares marriages contracted by females over 16 but under 18 or males over 18 but under 21 without consent of their parents to be void, the determinant of the right to annulment of a marriage contracted under such circumstances was the law as it prevailed in state where marriage occurred. Hitchens v. Hitchens (D.C.D.C. 1942, 47 F. Supp. 73).

Proof

In suit for annulment of marriage, on ground of fraud, proof must be clear and convincing, particularly if suit is undefended. Zoglio v. Zoglio (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 157 A. 2d 627).

Purpose

It is the purpose of this section that marriages procured by fraud may be set aside at instance of innocent party. Stone v. Stone (1943, 136 F. 2d 761, 78 U.S. App. D.C. 5).

Remarriage within period for appeal

A marriage of the unsuccessful party is not void which was performed before the twenty-day period allowed for appeal from an annulment decree, such provision being for the protection of the unsuccessful party. Tillinghast v. Tillinghast (1928, 25 F. 2d 531, 58 App. D.C. 107).

Voidable marriages

Where boy who was of the age of 16 years and 7 months and girl who was of the age of 15 years and 10 months were domiciled in District of Columbia, and boy obtained father's consent to marry by falsely representing that girl was pregnant and obtained Virginia marriage license by falsely representing that he was age 18 and that she was age 17, and after their marriage in Virginia they lived together in District of Columbia in their own home as man and wife for about six months and then separated, under the District of Columbia statutes the marriage, although forbidden, was not void ab initio, but was merely void when declared so by court decree, and court had judicial discretion to refuse to grant annulment, and under the circumstances such refusal was not abuse of discretion. Duley etc. v. Duley (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 151 A. 2d 255).

§ 30-104. Annulment—Party plaintiff—Next friend—Capable person who knowingly contracted illegal marriage.

A proceeding to declare the nullity of a marriage may be instituted in the case of an infant under the age of consent by such infant, through a next friend, or by the parent or guardian of such infant; and in the case of an idiot or lunatic by next friend. But no such proceedings shall be allowed to be instituted by any person who, being fully capable of contracting a marriage, has knowingly and wilfully contracted any marriage declared illegal by the foregoing sections. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1392, ch. 854, § 1286; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 543, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

1902—Act June 30, 1902, substituted "contracted" for "contracted."

CROSS REFERENCE

Proceedings to annul marriage, see § 16-903 et seq.

NOTES TO DECISIONS*Generally

Suit for annulment of marriage because of lunacy may be filed by a next friend, notwithstanding the fact that a committee has been appointed. Mackey v. Peters (1903, 22 App. D.C. 341).

Capable of contracting marriage

In statute providing that no annulment proceedings can be instituted by person who, being "fully capable of contracting a marriage," has knowingly and wilfully contracted any marriage declared illegal by statutes, quoted phrase refers to person with intrinsic legal capacity and does not allude to extrinsic impediments to valid marriage. M. G. Sears v. J. C. Sears (1961, 293 F. 2d 884, 110 U.S. App. D.C. 407).

Where husband's marriage to first wife remained undissolved and husband's Mexican mail order divorce from first wife was wholly null and void and husband had married a second wife, husband was not "capable of contracting marriage" within this section providing that proceeding to nullify marriage cannot be maintained by person who, being capable of contracting marriage, has entered into illegal marriage, and consequently husband could sue for annulment of second marriage. Sears v. Sears (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 166 A. 2d 748).

Laches and estoppel

Statutory estoppel is not applicable in an action for an annulment of marriage on the ground that plaintiff's divorce from prior marriage had not become legally effective, at the time of second marriage. T. Taylor v. F. C. Taylor (D.C. App. 1967, 233 A. 2d 43).

Husband, who obtained mail-order Mexican divorce from first wife, married second wife, and lived with second wife for fifteen years, was estopped in his annulment action against second wife to deny validity of marriage to second wife. M. G. Sears v. J. C. Sears (1961, 293 F. 2d 884, 110 U.S. App. D.C. 407).

Under marriage and divorce statutes of District of Columbia, in determining the effect to be given irregular foreign divorce decree, the doctrines of "laches" and "estoppel" may be applied not only in annulment actions but also in divorce action where attack upon marriage by a party thereto is made by way of defense. Ruppert v. Ruppert (1943, 134 F. 2d 497, 77 U.S. App. D.C. 65).

Since this chapter, read as a whole, is not clear regarding intention of Congress as to whether doctrines of laches and estoppel can be applied in both independent annulment suits and in an attack upon marriage in divorce action on ground of invalidity of prior divorce decree of one of the parties, it must be construed and a reasonable intent must be attributed to Congress. Id.

In wife's divorce action, where at conclusion of hearing on husband's motion for new trial on ground of invalidity of wife's prior foreign divorce decree, trial court dismissed complaint on ground that wife's previous marriage had not been terminated but made no finding of fact and stated no conclusions of law upon issues of laches and estoppel of husband to set up invalidity of foreign divorce decree of wife, judgment was reversed and cause remanded for further findings of fact and conclusions of law on such issue. Id.

In wife's divorce action, where at conclusion of hearing on husband's motion for new trial on ground of invalidity of marriage because of invalidity of wife's prior foreign divorce decree from another, court ordered wife's complaint dismissed on theory that prior marriage had not been terminated and wife's motion to vacate judgment and for new trial was not timely made, overruling of wife's motion could not be considered a determination against the wife of issues of laches and estoppel presented by her motion since it was assumed that the trial court properly overruled the motion on the ground that the motion was too late and did not pass on the merits of the motion. Id.

Minor's domicile

Where minor, 19 years of age contracted a marriage in Maryland and thereafter discovered that husband had a previous undissolved marriage, minor could not acquire a domicile by choice in District of Columbia either before or after her marriage and Municipal Court for the District of Columbia did not have jurisdiction to declare marriage a nullity although decree sought was available in her domiciliary state and in state where marriage was performed. Koonin, next friend of Hornsby v. Hornsby (D.C. Mun. App. 1958, 140 A. 2d 309).

Suit by female minor

Procedure of bringing suit for annulment of a marriage by a minor in name of a next friend is proper where minor is under age of consent; however, where female minor is over age of 18, suit should be brought in minor's name. Koonin, next friend of Hornsby v. Hornsby (D.C. Mun. App. 1958, 140 A. 2d 309).

Void and voidable

Statute classifies some marriages as void and others as voidable, and in the latter case prohibits, under some circumstances, the bringing of actions to declare them void. Rhodes v. Rhodes (1938, 96 F. 2d 715, 68 App. D.C. 313).

Where boy who was of the age of 16 years and 7 months and girl who was of the age of 15 years and 10 months were domiciled in District of Columbia, and boy obtained father's consent to marry by falsely representing that girl was pregnant and obtained Virginia marriage license by falsely representing that he was age 18 and that she was age 17, and after their marriage in Virginia they lived together in District of Columbia in their own home as man and wife for about six months and then separated, under the District of Columbia statutes the marriage, although forbidden, was not void ab initio, but was merely void when declared so by court decree, and court had judicial discretion to refuse to grant annulment, and under the circumstances such refusal was not abuse of discretion. Duley etc. v. Duley (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 151 A. 2d 255).

§ 30-105. Marriage out of District of domiciled persons.

If any marriage declared illegal by the foregoing sections shall be entered into in another jurisdiction by persons having and retaining their domicile in the District of Columbia, such marriage shall be deemed illegal, and may be decreed to be void in said District in the same manner as if it had been celebrated therein. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1392, ch. 854, § 1287.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Defense in collateral proceedings

A divorced husband, marrying another woman in Maryland while both of them were domiciled in District of Columbia within six months after entry of divorce decree in court of such District, was not estopped to plead invalidity of second marriage under District Code as ground for vacation of order against him for support of second wife's minor child, whose paternity he denied, especially in view of statutory provision that nullity of bigamous marriage may be shown in any collateral proceeding. Oliver v. Oliver (1951, 185 F. 2d 429, 87 U.S. App. D.C. 334).

Prohibited remarriage of divorced persons

This section has no application to marriages in violation of a statute which prohibits remarriage of party divorced for adultery. Loughran v. Loughran (1934, 54 S. Ct. 684, 292 U.S. 216, 78 L. Ed. 1219).

§ 30-106. Persons authorized to perform marriage ceremony.

For the purpose of preserving the evidence of marriages in the District, every minister of the gospel appointed or ordained according to the rites and ceremonies of his church, whether his residence be in the District or elsewhere in the United States or the Territories, may be authorized by any judge of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia to celebrate marriages in the District. And marriages may be celebrated in the District by any judge or justice of any court of record: Provided, however, That marriages of members of any church or religious society which does not by its custom require the intervention of a minister for the celebration of marriages may be solemnized in the manner prescribed and practiced in any such society, the license in such case to be issued to, and returns to be made by, a person appointed by such church or religious society for that purpose. The clerk of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia and such deputy clerks of the court as may, in writing, be designated by the clerk of the court and approved by the chief judge, are authorized to celebrate marriages in the District of Columbia. #### NOTES TO DECISIONS

Religious corporations and societies defined

Belief in or teaching of a Supreme Being or supernatural power is not essential to qualify for tax exemption accorded to "religious corporations," "churches" or "religious societies," under the D. C. Code. Washington Ethical Society v. District of Columbia (1957, 249 F. 2d 127, 101 U.S. App. D.C. 371).

Religious practices

A Washington Ethical Society which holds regular Sunday services and has "leaders" to preach and minister to the members who are trained graduates of established theological institutions qualifies as a "religious corporation or society" and its building is one primarily and regularly used for public religious worship and entitled to tax exemption under the District of Columbia Tax Statute. Washington Ethical Society v. District of Columbia (1957, 249 F. 2d 127, 101 U.S. App. D.C. 371).

If any male person intending to marry and seeking a license therefor shall be under twenty-one years of age, or any female so intending shall be under eighteen years of age, and shall not have been previously married, the said clerk shall not issue such license unless the father of such person, or, if there be no father, the mother, or, if there be neither father nor mother, the guardian, if there be such, shall consent to such proposed marriage, either personally to the clerk, or by an instrument in writing attested by a witness and proved to the satisfaction of the clerk. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1392, ch. 854, § 1292.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Law governing

There being no "public policy" in the District of Columbia which declares marriages contracted by females over 16 but under 18 or males over 18 but under 21 without consent of their parents to be void, the determinant of the right to annulment of a marriage contracted under such circumstances was the law as it prevailed in state where marriage occurred. Hitchens v. Hitchens (D.C.D.C. 1942, 47 F. Supp. 73).

Majority of female

There was no statute in force which clearly provided that female infants should as a general rule attain their majority at the age of 18 years. Exceptions to the common-law rule have been provided by statute; these, however, recognize the continued existence of the general rule of the common law. Jones v. Jones (1934, 72 F. 2d 829, 63 App. D.C. 373, 95 A.L.R. 352).

CODIFICATION

The words "of said district", following "Superior Court of the District of Columbia", have been omitted as unnecessary.

AMENDMENTS

1970—Section 155(a) of Act July 29, 1970, Public Law 91-358 amended section by striking out "District of Columbia Court of General Sessions," and inserting in lieu thereof "Superior Court of the District of Columbia."

1904—Act Apr. 23, 1904, inserted after the word "solemnized," the words "or witnessed."

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11-101.

CHANGE OF NAME

"Municipal court" was substituted for "police court" to conform to act Apr. 1, 1942, which consolidated the police court and the municipal court.

Act July 8, 1963, § 1, substituted "District of Columbia Court of General Sessions" for "municipal court for the District of Columbia". Said section 1 superseded act, Oct. 23, 1962, 76 Stat. 1171, Pub. L. 87-873, § 1, which contained identical provisions.

§ 30-114. Record of clerk—Contents.

The clerk of the said court shall provide a record book in his office, consisting of applications and licenses in blank, to be filled up by him with the names and residences of the parties for whose marriage any license may have been issued, said applications and licenses to be numbered consecutively from one upward; and also a record book in which shall be recorded, in the order of their numbers, the certificates of the minister or other persons authorized, upon their return to said office, corresponding to said record book of licenses issued, and a copy of any license and certificate of marriage so kept and recorded, certified by the clerk under his hand and seal, shall be competent evidence of the marriage. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1393, ch. 854, § 1295.)

REFERENCES IN TEXT

When originally enacted, words in this section, "clerk of the said court", apparently referred to the clerk of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia (now, U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia), notwithstanding the reference in the preceding section (§ 30-113) to the police court (later, the Municipal Court, then the Court of General Sessions, and now the Superior Court). Such words presumably now refer to the Superior Court of the District of Columbia, in view of amendments to §§ 30-106, 30-108, 30-110 and 30-112 by Act July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91-358. See notes under those sections.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Common law

At common law, the husband was entitled during coverture, to the full control and benefits of property held by entirety, and this right was not derived from the nature of the estate but from the general principle of common law vesting of the wife's property in the husband, and the husband's right to rents and profits was subject to execution, and husband could convey the property so as to divest the wife of possession during his life and, in the case he survived her, to vest in the grantee an absolute estate. Fairclaw v. Forrest (1942, 130 F. 2d 829, 76 U.S. App. D.C. 197, 143 A.L.R. 1154, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 531, 318 U.S. 756, 87 L. Ed. 1130).

Indorsement of stock certificates

The indorsement, by a wife, of stock certificates, delivered to her husband to be used by him as security for a loan, does not violate this section, the wife having no part in the transaction. Columbia Nat. Bank v. Shacklett (1927, 18 F. 2d 172, 57 App. D.C. 130).

Majority of female

There was no statute in force in the District of Columbia which clearly provided that female infants should as a general rule attain their majority at the age of 18 years. Exceptions to the common-law rule have been provided by statute; these, however, recognize the continued existence of the general rule of the common law. Jones v. Jones (1934, 72 F. 2d 829, 63 App. D.C. 373, 95 A.L.R. 352).

Tenancy by entirety

Tenancy by the entireties is recognized whether the subject matter is real or personal. In re Estate of J. S. Wall (1971, 440 F. 2d 215, 142 U.S. App. D.C. 187).

Rights and remedies of existing creditors cannot be obliterated by the expedient of erecting a tenancy by the entireties in property that is otherwise vulnerable. Id.

Where decedent and his widow had owned real estate as tenants by the entireties, and the property was sold in order to avert foreclosure and proceeds were deposited in account in names of decedent and his widow as tenants by the entireties, and the decedent had desired no change in type of ownership of proceeds, proceeds were free from claims of decedent's creditors, and fact that decedent and widow had been separated and had filed separate income tax return would not support inference that decedent and widow had mutually undertaken to dissolve tenancy by the entireties in the fund. Id.

"Tenancy by entirety" epitomized the common-law unity of husband and wife by uniting the conceptions of marital entity and joint tenancy and the spouses were neither joint tenants nor tenants in common, for, husband and wife being considered as one person, they could not hold the estate by moities as joint tenants, per tout et per my, but both were seised of the entirety, per tout et non per my, and the consequence of this was a union of husband and wife in the estate so that neither could dispose of any part without the assent of the other and the whole remained to the survivor. Fairclaw v. Forrest (1942, 130 F. 2d 829, 76 U.S. App. D.C. 197, 143 A.L.R. 1154, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 531, 318 U.S. 756, 87 L. Ed. 1130).

"Tenancy by entirety" is available only to husband and wife and is a convenient mode of protecting a surviving spouse from inconvenient administration of the decedent's estate and from the other's improvident debts, each has the right to receive the property at the death of the other clear of the latter's attempt to encumber it or subjection to payment of his obligations, and the accretion to sole ownership is subject to taxation. Id.

Under this chapter each spouse is entitled to the enjoyment and benefits of the whole property held by entirety and neither has a separate estate therein which may be subjected to a conveyance or execution. Id.

Under Married Woman's Property Statute, husband can not assert exclusive right to rents and profits from property owned by spouses as tenants by entireties or divest wife of her share thereof either directly by conveyance or indirectly by execution, so that neither may convey any interest in property without other's authority or consent, nor perform any act or make any contract respecting property which would prejudicially affect other spouse. Deschenes v. McFerren (D.C. Mun. App. 1956, 125 A. 2d 386).

Where husband's contract to sell realty owned by spouses as tenants by entireties was not accepted on behalf of wife, who had been adjudged of unsound mind, purchasers were liable to spouses for reasonable rental value of purchasers' use and occupancy of property after being notified by husband that he had decided not to sell property and that no committee would be appointed for wife, as he had promised purchasers, though they received permission from husband to enter into possession of property. Id.

Good faith reliance by persons contracting with husband to purchase realty owned by spouses as tenants by entireties on his promise to have a committee appointed to accept contract for his wife, who had been adjudged of unsound mind, did not entitle purchasers to possession of property after notice to them by husband that he had decided not to sell property and that no committee would be appointed for wife. Id.

Wills

Where will executed in 1928 stated that testatrix's husband had been excluded from benefits thereunder because all the real estate in which testatrix was interested was held in joint tenancy with husband and all of testatrix's earnings for 25 years had gone into such real estate, and the residuary clause devised all the residue, real, personal, and mixed, to testatrix's brother, and testatrix's husband thereafter died before testatrix whose will was not thereafter republished, the residuary clause was valid, as respects real estate theretofore owned by testatrix in joint tenancy with her husband who had predeceased testatrix. Fairclaw v. Forrest (1942, 130 F. 2d 829, 76 U.S. App. D.C. 197, 143 A.L.R. 1154, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 531, 318 U.S. 756, 87 L. Ed. 1130).

§ 30-202. Married women may make covenant running with the land.

In all deeds made after January 1, 1902, to married women of real estate or chattels real it shall be competent for the grantee or lessee to bind herself and her assigns by any covenant running with or relating to said real estate or chattels real the same as if she were a feme sole. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1376, ch. 854, § 1170.)

§ 30-203. Disabilities of infant feme covert—Guardian.

In case any married woman entitled to a separate estate as aforesaid shall be an infant under twenty-one years of age, she shall be under the same disabilities in regard thereto as other infants, except as herein elsewhere provided, and a guardian of said estate shall be appointed. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1375, ch. 854, § 1157.)

Adult at age 18 or marriage where will provides a bequest payable at majority, see § 20-1906.

§ 30-204. Trustee for separate estate of married woman—Not necessary—Appointment.

It shall not be necessary for a married woman to have a trustee to secure to her the sole and separate use of her property; but if she desires it she may make a trustee by deed, or she may apply to a court of equity and have a trustee appointed, in which appointment the uses and trusts for which the trustee holds the property shall be declared. (Mar. 3, 1901 31 Stat. 1374, ch. 854, § 1153.)

§ 30-205. Husband may convey directly to wife—Rights of creditors—Such conveyance not deemed notice of existence of creditors of husband.

Whenever any interest or estate of any kind in any property, real, personal, or mixed, situate, lying, or being within this District, has been or shall on and after March 3, 1901, be sold, conveyed, assigned, mortgaged, leased, transferred, or delivered by any husband directly or indirectly to his wife, and has been or shall on and after March 3, 1901, be subsequently sold, conveyed, assigned, mortgaged, leased, transferred, or delivered by such wife and husband during their coverture, or after January 1, 1902, by such wife solely or by such wife after such coverture has terminated, or shall after January 1, 1902, be devised or bequeathed by such wife during such coverture or after such coverture has terminated, the fact of such previous sale, conveyance, assignment, mortgage, lease, or delivery by such husband, directly or indirectly, to his wife shall not after January 1, 1902, be deemed or taken, at law or in equity, to have given, preserved, or reserved, nor to give, preserve, or reserve, to any subsisting creditor of such husband, by reason of any debt or obligation, claim, or demand whatsoever, any other or greater right, lien, or cause of action against such interest or estate, or against any third person, his heirs, executors, administrators, or assigns, than such creditors would have had in case such interest or estate had been sold, conveyed, assigned, mortgaged, leased, transferred or delivered, or devised, or bequeathed by such husband directly to such third person. And the fact of such previous sale, conveyance, assignment, mortgage, lease, or delivery by such husband directly or indirectly to his wife, or the recital thereof in any instrument of writing whatever, shall not after January 1, 1902, be deemed or taken, at law or in equity, to give or impart nor to have given or imparted notice to any third person, his heirs, executors, administrators, or assigns of the existence or of the possibility or probability of the existence of any subsisting creditor or creditors of such husband. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1373, ch. 854, § 1152.)

§ 30-206. Equitable separate estate.

Nothing contained in this chapter shall be construed to prevent the creation of equitable separate estates. Said estates shall be held according to the provisions of the respective settlements thereof and shall be subject to and governed by the rules and principles of equity applicable to such estates. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1376, ch. 854, § 1171.)

§ 30-207. Wife's separate property not liable for husband's debts.

All the property, real, personal, and mixed, belonging to a woman at the time of her marriage, and all such property which she may acquire or receive after her marriage from any person whomsoever, by purchase, gift, grant, devise, bequest, descent, in the course of distribution, by her own skill, labor, or personal exertions, or as proceeds of a judgment at law or decree in equity, or in any other manner, shall be her own property as absolutely as if she were unmarried, and shall be protected from the debts of the husband and shall not in any way be liable for the payment thereof: Provided, That no acquisition of property passing to the wife from the husband after coverture shall be valid if the same has been made or granted to her in prejudice of the rights of his subsisting creditors. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1373, ch. 854, § 1151.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Actions in replevin

Either spouse may prosecute replevin against the other, in the courts of the District. Notes v. Snyder (1925, 4 F. 2d 426, 55 App. D.C. 233, 41 A.L.R. 1052).

Burden of proof

In action against decedent's administrator and widow to recover money judgment against administrator under agreement whereby decedent promised to pay plaintiff certain sums for her child's support during minority in consideration of a release and to set aside as fraudulent a transfer to widow, administrator and widow had burden of proving that agreement, which was valid on its face, was invalid and that transfer was valid. Brady v. Games (1942, 128 F. 2d 754, 76 U.S. App. D.C. 47).

Fraudulent transfers

In action against decedent's administrator and widow to recover money judgment against administrator under a certain agreement and to set aside as fraudulent decedent's transfer of property to widow, evidence including fact that transfer was made while action on agreement was pending justified jury in finding that transfer was made with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud plaintiff. Brady v. Games (1942, 128 F. 2d 754, 76 U.S. App. D.C. 47).

Gifts between husband and wife

Gifts between husband and wife, followed quickly thereafter by insolvency on the part of the donor, are justly regarded by the courts with suspicion. Harding v. Aaronson (1934, 69 F. 2d 845, 63 App. D.C. 107).

Guaranty of husband's indebtedness

Subject to the requirement of the Constitution that full faith and credit shall be given by States to the judicial decrees of other States, a judgment of another State on a guaranty by a married woman of her husband's indebtedness will be enforced, notwithstanding statutory provisions. Hieston v. National City Bank (1922, 280 F. 525, 51 App. D.C. 394, 24 A.L.R. 1434).

Judgment subject to collateral attack

A judgment against a married woman is not subject to collateral attack upon an averment that it is founded on the consideration of an accommodation note. Carroll v. Elkins (1929, 29 F. 2d 638, 58 App. D.C. 265).

Note and deed of trust

A note and deed of trust signed by a married woman, as surety for her husband, is void. Bradbury v. Howard, (1929, 31 F. 2d 222, 58 App. D.C. 383). See, also, Steele v. Harrison (1929, 32 F. 2d 965, 59 App. D.C. 69).

Surety for husband

A married woman's note is void when she signed as surety of her husband and it is likewise void in hands of payee's assignee. Schwartz v. Sacks (1925, 2 F. 2d 188, 55 App. D.C. 87).

Married woman's liability on note dated and made payable in Washington, D. C., which maker signed in Pennsylvania is determined by law of District of Columbia as to question of wife's capacity to sign note as accommodation maker for husband. Kiess v. Baldwin (1935, 74 F. 2d 470, 64 App. D.C. 66).

§ 30-208. Power of married women separately to trade, to contract, and to sue and be sued—Husband not liable for wife's separate contract or tort.

Married women shall have power to engage in any business, and to contract, whether engaged in business or not, and to sue separately upon their contracts, and also to sue separately for the recovery, security, or protection of their property, and for torts committed against them, as fully and freely as if they were unmarried; contracts may also be made with them, and they may also be sued separately upon their contracts, whether made before or during marriage, and for wrongs independent of contract committed by them before or during their marriage, as fully as if they were unmarried, and upon judgments recovered against them execution may be issued as if they were unmarried; nor shall any husband be liable upon any contract made by his wife in her own name and upon her own responsibility, nor for any tort committed separately by her out of his presence without his participation or sanction. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1374, ch. 854, § 1155; May 28, 1926, 44 Stat. 676, ch. 419.)

AMENDMENT

1926—Act May 28, 1926, struck out the provision "that no married woman shall have power to make any contract as surety or guarantor or as accommodation drawer, acceptor, maker, or indorser."

CROSS REFERENCE

Actions not subject to abatement because of marriage, see § 12-104.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Accommodation indorsers

Married women may make contracts as accommodation indorsers. Jett v. Montague Mfg. Co. (1933, 61 F. 2d 918, 61 App. D.C. 277).

Action for damages from conspiracy

Wife may maintain an action against persons who formed a conspiracy with her husband to falsely charge her with adultery which was to be brought against her in divorce action. Ewald v. Lane, (1939, 104 F. 2d 222, 70 App. D.C. 89).

Action in replevin

Either spouse may bring replevin against the other, in order to recover possession of personal property if wrongfully detained. Notes v. Snyder (1925, 4 F. 2d 426, 55 App. D.C. 233, 41 A.L.R. 1052).

Actions to recover rent

Under the District Rent Law, a married woman, who is the owner of "rental property," may exercise all the remedies which are secured to owners as such under the act. Barbagollo v. Fishbien (1923, 286 F. 780, 52 App. D.C. 318).

Sections 201 et seq. of this title have changed the common-law principles of marital unity so that the husband cannot now assert an exclusive right to the rents and profits or divest the wife of her share directly by con-

Indorsement of stock certificates to husband

This section is not violated when wife indorsed and delivered stock to her husband as she was not a party to the transactions whereby the several banks made the loans to her husband and received the collateral stock from him. Columbia Nat. Bank v. Shacklett (1927, 18 F. 2d 172, 57 App. D.C. 130).

Interspousal immunity

Action against husband's estate by administratrix of estate of wife who was murdered by husband was not barred by doctrine of interspousal immunity. N. L. Jones, Administratrix, etc. v. A. Pledger, Sr., Administrator, etc. (1966, 363 F. 2d 986, 124 U.S. App. D.C. 254).

Libel

A married woman trading as feme sole may have action for libel concerning her business without joining her husband. Wills v. Jones (1898, 13 App. D.C. 482).

Minor's claim for loss of mother's support

Minor child would not, on basis of negligent injury to mother by third parties, have enforceable claim against the third parties for loss of mother's support, education, care, society, affection, and kindness during period of mother's incapacity. Pleasant v. Washington Sand & Gravel Co., et al. (1959, 262 F. 2d 471, 104 U.S. App. D.C. 374).

Negotiable instruments

When defendant contracted with plaintiff to borrow the money as her separate property, and his note promised to pay her and not her husband, he could not deny her capacity to sue thereon for his default. Richards v. Bippus (1901, 18 App. D.C. 2983).

Where a married woman purchases real estate and gives as part payment the promissory notes of herself and husband secured by deed of trust upon the property, a separate suit is maintainable against her as the notes relate to her sole and separate estate. Sonnemann v. Loeb (1897, 11 App. D.C. 143).

Partnerships

Where automobile passenger sued driver, who was partner of passenger's husband, and others, for injuries sustained in intersectional collision, and passenger's husband was joined as plaintiff, but not as defendant, and suit was not against partnership, under District of Columbia law, the suit was not barred by rule that spouses are not liable for tortious acts of one against the other, though the alleged tort was committed within the ambit of partnership activities. Tobin v. Hoffman (D.C. Mun. App. 1953, 96 A. 2d 597).

Statutes removing disabilities of married women should not be construed so broadly as to permit a partnership between husband and wife. Norwood v. Francis (1905, 25 App. D.C. 463).

Personal injury actions

A husband is not a "necessary party" to suit by wife to recover damages to herself for injuries negligently inflicted on her person Lansburgh & Bro. v. Clark (1942, 127 F. 2d 331, 75 U.S. App. D.C. 339).

Under this section, wife has right to recover damages to herself for injuries negligently inflicted on her person. Id.

Under act of Congress June 1, 1896, 29 Stat. 193, known as "Married Woman's Act," a married woman may sue without joinder of husband to recover damages for personal injuries. Capital Trac. Co. v. Rockwell (1901, 17 App. D.C. 369).

Repeal

In view of the judicial history of this section, taken together with the proviso, it was plainly the legislative intent that the repeal of the proviso should remove the restrictions imposed by it upon the rights of married women to make contracts as sureties or guarantors, or as accommodation drawers, acceptors, makers, or indorsers, thereby empowering them to enter into such contracts as if unmarried. Jett v. Montague Mfg. Co. (1933, 61 F. 2d 918, 61 App. D.C. 277).

This section repeals § 1155, 1901 code, which prohibited married women from being sureties. Steele v. Harrison (1929, 32 F. 2d 965, 59 App. D.C. 69).

Surety for husband

A married woman cannot sign note as surety for husband. Schwartz v. Sacks (1925, 2 F. 2d 188, 55 App. D.C. 87).

Tort action against husband

A wife may not maintain an action for tort committed by her husband upon her person before coverture, where the action is begun, but not brought to justice before marriage. Spector v. Weisman (1930, 40 F. 2d 792, 59 App. D.C. 280).

Action against former husband for assault committed after decree of absolute divorce had been entered, but before expiration of six months period when decree would become effective, could be maintained as against contention that a married woman may not sue for assault committed on her by her husband during coverture. Steele v. Steele (D.C.D.C. 1946, 65 F. Supp. 329).

Neither husband nor wife is liable for the tortious acts of one against the other and this is the common law rule which prevails today in the District, unaffected by this section. Yellow Cab Co. v. Dreslin (1950, 181 F. 2d 626, 86 U.S. App. D.C. 327 19 A.L.R. 2d 1001).

Under District of Columbia law, the common law rule that spouses are not liable for tortious acts of one against the other is extant and unaffected by code provision that married women shall have power to sue for torts committed against them. Tobin v. Hoffman (D.C. Mun. App. 1953, 96 A. 2d 597).

§ 30-209. Contracts of married woman deemed made in reference to her separate estate.

Every contract made by a married woman which she has the power to make shall be deemed to be made with reference to her estate which is made her separate estate by this chapter, and also her equitable separate estate, if any she has, as a source of credit to the extent of her power over the same, unless the contrary intent is expressed in the contract. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1374, ch. 854. § 1156.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In general

A contract clearly within the power of a married woman to make, "must be deemed to have been made with reference to her separate estate, there being no contrary intent expressed. She is therefore liable to be sued separately thereon." Dobbins v. Thomas (1905, 26 App. D.C. 157). See, also, Dobbins v. Thomas (1908, App. D.C. 511).

§ 30-210. Liability of husband for debts of wife before marriage.

No husband shall be liable in any manner for any debts of his wife contracted or for any claims or demands of any kind against her arising prior to marriage, but she and her property shall remain liable therefor in the same manner as if the marriage had not taken place. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1376, ch. 854, § 1166.)

CROSS REFERENCE

§ 30-211. Husband liable for wife's acts in certain cases.

Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to relieve the husband from liability for the debts, contracts, or engagements which the wife may incur or enter into upon the credit of her husband, or as his agent, or for necessities for herself or for his or their children; but as to all such cases his liability shall be or continue as at common law. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1377, ch. 854, § 1177.)

CROSS REFERENCES

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Credit

A wife, who has been furnished with ample means with which to pay cash for articles of clothing may not purchase the same on her husband's credit. Saks v. Huddleston (1930, 36 F. 2d 537, 59 App. D.C. 133).

Funeral expenses

Under the common law and under this section the husband is primarily liable for "necessaries" furnished his wife which include funeral expenses and such obligation is not affected by this chapter. In re Tunison's Estate (D.C.D.C. 1948, 75 F. Supp. 573).

Where testatrix' will failed to make provision for her funeral expenses, her husband was primarily liable for funeral expenses incurred in and out of the District of Columbia, and such expenses were properly chargeable against husband's distributive share of estate, and, if distributive share payable to husband was not sufficient to defray such funeral expenses, excess thereof was payable out of personalty of estate. Id.

Necessaries

This section "does not undertake to provide that she shall not render herself liable for necessities when contracted for independently of her husband and with reference to her separate estate, but merely that, in such cases, the husband shall not be relieved of any liability therefor that he may be under by virtue of the common law. It does not substitute the common-law liability of the husband for that of the wife, but retains it as an additional security for the benefit of the other contracting party." Dobbins v. Thomas (1905, 26 App. D.C. 157).

Married Women's Act for the District of Columbia does not substitute common law liability of husband for that of wife but retains it as an additional security for benefit of the other contracting party even though there may be situations in which wife can render herself liable for necessities when contracted for independently of husband. Stein v. Woodward & Lothrop (D.C. Mun. App. 1951, 77 A. 2d 564).

Remarried wife

Generally, husband's liability for debts and necessities of the wife ceases upon her remarriage unless continued liability on his part is expressly provided for in the separation agreement or divorce decree. W. T. Francis v. D. H. Murray (D.C. App. 1971, 284 A. 2d 663).

Language within settlement and support agreement that divorced husband agreed "to pay all extraordinary medical and dental expenses of minor children and wife, during their minority." did not mean that the husband's liability for such expenses of wife would continue after her remarriage, particularly in view of failure to use phrase "even if the wife remarried" in conjunction with such language, though such phrase had been used twice previously in the agreement. Id.

§ 30-212. Insurance of husband's life—By wife—By husband—Proceeds taken free from claims.

Any married woman, by herself and in her name, or in the name of any third person, with his assent, as her trustee, may insure or cause to be insured for her sole use, the life of her husband for any definite period or for the term of his natural life; and any husband may cause his own life to be insured for the sole use of his wife, and may also assign any policy of insurance upon his own life to his wife for her sole use; and in case of the wife surviving her husband the sum or net amount of such insurance becoming due and payable by the terms of the insurance shall be payable to her for her own use, free from the claims of the representatives of her husband or any of his creditors. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1375, ch. 854, § 1161.)

§ 30-213. Insurance for benefit of wife, children, dependent relative, or creditor not liable for husband's debts.

All policies of life insurance upon the life of any person maturing on or after January 1, 1902, and which have been or shall be taken out for the benefit of or bona fide assigned to the wife or children of or any relative dependent upon such person, or any creditor, shall be vested in such wife or children or other relative or creditor, free and clear from all claims of the creditors of such insured person. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1375, ch. 854, § 1162.)

§ 30-214. Insurance payable on death of wife to children, descendants, or her representatives.

If the wife shall die before her husband, the amount of such insurance may be payable after her death to the children or descendants for their use, and to their guardian if under age; and if there be no children or descendants of the wife living at the time of her death, to her legal representatives. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1375, ch. 854, § 1163.)

§ 30-215. Receipt of married woman for payment of money deposited by her—Deposits made to defraud creditors.

The receipt of any married woman for the payment of money deposited by her before or after marriage shall be a valid discharge to any individual or corporation making such payment: Provided, That nothing contained in this section shall prevent any creditor of the husband from attaching the same or restraining the payment by injunction if the deposit was made in fraud of his creditors. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1375, ch. 854, § 1164.)

§ 30-216. Release of dower.

If the wife of the party executing a deed, being not less than eighteen years of age, shall desire to release her dower in the property conveyed, she may do so either by joining in the same deed or by a separate deed, wherever executed, signed, sealed, and acknowledged by her in the same manner as provided in section 45-402, and her acknowledgment shall be certified in like manner. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1267, ch. 854, § 494; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 531, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

1902—Act June 30, 1902, amended section generally. Prior to such amendment read as follows: "If the wife of the party executing said deed, being not less than eighteen years of age, shall desire to release her right of dower in the property conveyed, she shall unite in the deed with her husband and sign, seal, and acknowledge the same in the same manner as her husband, and the officer taking her acknowledgment shall add to the above form of certificate a further certificate to the following effect, namely:

"And at the same time personally appeared before me, in said District, E F, the wife of said C D, personally well known to me (or proved by the oath of credible witnesses) to be such, and acknowledged the same to be her act and deed.

"Such wife, however, may release her right of dower by her separate deed, when the release claims or derives title from, by, through or under her husband."

HUSBAND'S DOWER

Right of husband to dower, and general amendment of all laws relating to right of dower and its incidents to make them applicable to both husband and wife, see § 19-102, and § 3 of act Aug. 31, 1957, 71 Stat. 560, Pub. L. 85-244, as amended by acts Sept. 14, 1961, 75 Stat. 515,

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Deeds

By a deed, voluntarily executed and duly acknowledged by husband and wife, the entire title of both may be conveyed. Hitz v. Jenks (1887, 8 S. Ct. 143, 123 U.S. 297, 31 L. Ed. 156).

"The relinquishment of an inchoate right of dower which a married woman makes by joining in a deed with her husband, can operate against her only by way of estoppel." Follansbee v. Follansbee (1893, 1 App. D.C. 326).

If the conveyance or instrument in which the wife joins is void, or ceases for any reason to operate, and no title has passed, or none remained, the release does not, after that, operate against the wife. Id.

Mortgages

When a wife joins in a mortgage, she retains her dower in the property, subject to the mortgage. Follansbee v. Follansbee (1893, 1 App. D.C. 326).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Constitutionality

The Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, this chapter, requiring husband, wife, father, mother, or adult child of recipient of public assistance to be responsible, according to his ability to pay, for support of such recipient, does not deny due process. C. Groover v. Essex County Welfare Board (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 143).

Fact that county welfare board sought to collect support for mother only from one son under this chapter requiring husband, wife, father, mother, or adult child of recipient of public assistance to be responsible according to his ability to pay, for support of such recipient, and not from other children, who live in other jurisdictions, and who are allegedly able to contribute, does not render application of such chapter to son a denial of equal protection. Id.

§ 30-302. Definitions.

(c) "Responding State" means any State in which a proceeding pursuant to the proceeding in the initiating State is or may be commenced.

(d) "Court" means the Family Division of the Superior Court and, when the context requires, means the court of any other State as defined in a substantially similar reciprocal law.

(e) "Duty of support" includes: (1) any duty of support imposed by statute or by common law, or by any court order, decree, or judgment, whether interlocutory or final, whether incidental to a proceeding for divorce, judicial separation, separate maintenance, or otherwise; (2) any duty of reimbursement imposed by law for moneys expended by a State or a political subdivision or an agency thereof for support, including institutional care; and (3) the duty imposed by section 30-320.

(f) "Dependent" means any person who is in need of and entitled to support from a person legally liable for such support.

(g) "Plaintiff" means any person or any State or political subdivision or agency thereof, commencing a proceeding pursuant to this or a similar reciprocal law, whether on his or its own behalf, or on behalf of a dependent as herein defined.

(h) "Defendant" means any person owing a duty of support, against whom a proceeding is commenced pursuant to this chapter or a similar reciprocal Act. (July 10, 1957, 71 Stat. 285, Pub. L. 85-94, § 2; July 8, 1963, 77 Stat. 77, Pub. L. 88-60, § 1; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91-358, title I, § 159(f) (1), 84 Stat. 578.)

AMENDMENT

1970—Section 159(f) (1) of Act July 29, 1970, Public Law 91-358 amended subsection (d) by striking out "Domestic Relations Branch of the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia" and inserting in lieu thereof "Family Division of the Superior Court."

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11-101.

CHANGE OF NAME

Act July 8, 1963, § 1, substituted "District of Columbia Court of General Sessions" for "Municipal Court for the District of Columbia". Said section 1 superseded act Oct. 23, 1962, 76 Stat. 1171, Pub. L. 87-873, § 1, which contained identical provisions.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 11-1101.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Counsel fees

In proceeding under Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, this chapter, by a wife, a resident of Maryland, for an order to require husband, a resident of District of Columbia, to support children, the Domestic Relations Branch of the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia had the power to award a counsel fee to the wife's court-appointed attorney. Britt v. Britt (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 153 A. 2d 644).

Desertion by mother

Fact that mother allegedly deserted father would not relieve father from obligation of supporting minor children. Edmonds v. Edmonds (D.C. Mun. App. 1958, 146 A. 2d 774).

Duration of support

Father's motion to vacate and set aside all support orders entered against him, under Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, was premature where filed before child's 18th birthday, and judgment under Act required current support payments until child reached 18. W. Howze v. E. Howze (D.C. App. 1967, 225 A. 2d 477).

Jurisdiction

When wife's reciprocal enforcement of support proceeding was commenced in New York, that court had primary duty under statute to decide if wife had made prima facie showing of need for support for children and that they were entitled to support from nonresident father. D. Prager v. J. Smith etc. (D.C. App. 1963, 195 A. 2d 257).

Valid, existing New York decree which on divorce of parties imposed obligation on father to support children whose custody was awarded to mother made prima facie case in another New York court in reciprocal enforcement of support proceeding against father who was served with process in District of Columbia. Id.

An action by mother under Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act against father for support of their minor children was properly dismissed where there was an outstanding order in United States District Court for support of the children in an action previously brought by the mother against the father, which court retained jurisdiction for modification in event of change of circumstances, so that there was nothing for Domestic Relations Branch of Court of General Sessions to act upon. N. E. Y. Jackson v. F. B. Jackson (D.C. App. 1963, 187 A. 2d 704).

Even though the United States District Court had dismissed, with prejudice, wife's complaint against husband for maintenance of children, for the stated reason that wife had moved to Maryland and had denied the husband his right of visitation, the Domestic Relations Branch of the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia could entertain wife's petition, under the Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, this chapter, for an order to require husband, a resident of District of Columbia, to support children, and could grant such an order where wife no longer had any reservations concerning the husband's visiting the children. Britt v. Britt (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 153 A. 2d 644).

Law governing

District of Columbia judgment, under Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, requiring husband to make support payments until child reaches 18, was not in conflict with doctrines of res judicata or full faith and credit regarding Michigan divorce decree which required payments only until age 17. W. Howze v. E. Howze (D.C. App. 1967, 225 A. 2d 477).

When mother's petition in reciprocal enforcement of support proceeding was forwarded to District of Columbia, latter court had to determine under local statute whether father owed duty of support and, if so, amount he should be required to pay. D. Prager v. J. Smith etc. (D.C. App. 1963, 195 A. 2d 257).

Where father, since leaving Virginia some years before, had continuously resided in the District of Columbia, law of the District of Columbia was controlling in proceeding in the District of Columbia under the Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act of the District of Columbia, this chapter on transmission to the District of Columbia of petition filed by mother under similar act in Virginia to compel support for minor children. Edmonds v. Edmonds (D.C. Mun. App. 1958, 146 A. 2d 774).

Stepchild

Since the husband did not intend that in loco parentis relation should continue during separation as to child of wife by her former marriage, husband is not obliged to provide support for such child. L. Jackson, Jr. v. L. Jackson (D.C. App. 1971, 278 A. 2d 114).

§ 30-303. Remedies additional to those now existing.

The civil remedies herein provided are in addition to and not in substitution for any other remedies. (July 10, 1957, 71 Stat. 286, Pub. L. 85-94, § 3.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 11-1101.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Additional support

Under Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, wife, who has obtained foreign divorce, may petition for additional support after divorce decree has been fully satisfied. W. Howze v. E. Howze (D.C. App. 1967, 225 A. 2d 477).

Decision determining father's continued liability under judgment previously entered under Uniform Act and requiring support payments until Michigan child should reach 18, would not impair right of mother, who had obtained Michigan divorce, to petition Michigan court for further support under Uniform Act after child reached 18. Id.

Decree as barring action of support

Award for separate maintenance and support for minor children obtained under Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act did not preclude later statutory action for maintenance and support. A. E. Figliozzi v. J. Figliozzi (D.C. Mun. App. 1961, 173 A. 2d 904).

Imprisonment for contempt

The intermediate appellate court was quite aware that order of imprisonment must take into account the financial ability of the contemnor to comply with the terms of a court order, and that the appellant failed to make a showing of lack of financial ability in this case. J. R. Scott v. I. R. Scott (1967, 382 F. 2d 461, 127 U.S. App. D.C. 245).

Money judgment

Money judgment was proper means of collecting arrears in payments due under foreign decree for support of child. W. Howze v. E. Howze (D.C. App. 1967, 225 A. 2d 477).

§ 30-304. Extent of duties of support.

Duties of support enforceable under this chapter are those imposed under the laws of any State in which the defendant was present during the period for which support is sought, or in which the dependent was present when the failure to support commenced or where the dependent is when the failure to support continues. The defendant shall be presumed to have been present in the responding State during the period for which support is sought until otherwise shown. (July 10, 1957, 71 Stat. 286, Pub. L. 85-94, § 4.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 11-1101.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Jurisdiction

Where mother in District of Columbia had custody of child but due to mother's illness decree was entered by Florida court changing custody to father in Florida, and abating father's support payments, and later child, with father's consent, returned to live with mother, the decree changing custody to father did not deprive District of Columbia court of jurisdiction of complaint initiating proceedings by child against father for support under Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, this chapter. Cobbe, a minor etc. v. Cobbe (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 163 A. 2d 333).

Law governing

In proceeding under Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, this chapter, initiated in District of Columbia, question whether defendant owes a duty of support and complainant is qualified to maintain the action is determined by the law of the District of Columbia although the courts of the responding state must determine, under their law, whether the defendant's conduct constitutes a violation of his parental duty of support and whether the complainant is entitled to support money. Cobbe, a minor etc. v. Cobbe (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 163 A. 2d 333).

Where father, since leaving Virginia some years before, had continuously resided in the District of Columbia, law of the District of Columbia was controlling in proceeding in the District of Columbia under the Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act of the District of Columbia on transmission to the District of Columbia of petition filed by mother under similar act in Virginia to compel support for minor children. Edmonds v. Edmonds (D.C. Mun. App. 1958, 146 A. 2d 774).

Liability when mother deserts

Fact that mother allegedly deserted father would not relieve father from obligation of supporting minor children. A. Edmonds v. H. Edmonds (D.C. Mun. App. 1958, 146 A. 2d 774).

Obligor-obligee relationship

In proceedings brought by child in District of Columbia, against her father, who was in Florida, under Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, this chapter, where mother in District of Columbia had custody, but due to mother's illness decree was entered by Florida court changing custody to father and abating father's support payments, and later child, with father's consent, returned to live with mother, the child showed an obligor-obligee relationship sufficient to establish, under law of District of Columbia, a prima facie case for support. Cobbe, a minor etc. v. Cobbe (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 163 A. 2d 333).

Reliance on divorce decree

Evidence supported finding that divorce decree was no longer being relied upon to impose a duty of support on father, where order at issue was granted in response to mother's petition to increase support payments for her child until child reached age 18, and that order, though not specific, was intended to continue at lease until child was 17 years, 3 months old, and more likely until her 18th birthday, and, under either view, reliance was clearly placed on District of Columbia support laws and not on 1961 divorce decree which provided for support only until child reached age 17. W. Howze v. E. Howze (1967, 385 F. 2d 986, 128 U.S. App. D.C. 204).

Stepchild

Since the husband did not intend that in loco parentis relation should continue during separation as to child of wife by her former marriage, husband is not obliged to provide support for such child. L. Jackson, Jr. v. L. Jackson (D.C. App. 1971, 278 A. 2d 114).

Support, duties of

Under Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, enforceable duties of support include those imposed or imposable under laws of any state where alleged obligor was present during period for which support was sought. W. Howze v. E. Howze (D.C. App. 1967, 225 A. 2d 477).

That mother and her second husband allegedly turned her sons against their father did not relieve father of duty of supporting sons where sons had not been adopted by second husband. D. Prager v. J. Smith, etc. (D.C. App. 1963, 195 A. 2d 257).

Natural father's duty to support his minor children is not simply moral obligation but a duty imposed by law and is not relieved by personal disputes, real or fanciful, between contesting parents. Id.

§ 30-305. Remedies of a State furnishing support or institutional care.

Whenever any State or a political subdivision or agency thereof has furnished, or is furnishing support or institutional care to a dependent, it shall for the purposes of securing reimbursement of past expenditures and of obtaining continuing support, have the same right to invoke the provisions of this chapter as the dependent to whom such support or care was furnished, or is being furnished. (July 10, 1957, 71 Stat. 286, Pub. L. 85-94, § 5.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 11-1101.

§ 30-306. How duties of support are enforced, jurisdiction in domestic relations court—Proceedings.

Proceedings to enforce duties of support initiated by the District of Columbia shall be commenced by the filing of a complaint irrespective of the relationship between the plaintiff and defendant. Jurisdiction of all proceedings under this chapter is vested in the Family Division of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia which shall have all power and authority heretofore vested in the Domestic Relations Branch of the District of Columbia Court of General Sessions. (July 10, 1957, 71 Stat. 286 Pub. L. 85-94, § 6; July 8, 1963, 77 Stat. 77, Pub. L. 88-60, § 1; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91-358, § 165(d), title I, 84 Stat. 586.)

AMENDMENT

1970—Section 165(d) of Act July 29, 1970, Public Law 91-358, amended section generally. For provisions of this section prior to this amendment, see 1967 edition of the code.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11-101.

CHANGE OF NAME

Act July 8, 1963, § 1, substituted "District of Columbia Court of General Sessions" for "municipal court for the District of Columbia". Said section 1 superseded act Oct. 23, 1962, 76 Stat. 1171, Pub. L. 87-873, § 1, which contained identical provisions.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 11-1101.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Counsel fees

Father's deliberate and unjustified failure to comply with New York order for child support, which forced legal custodian to file suit for their protection, warranted award of counsel fees to custodian's court-assigned attorney in reciprocal support case. D. Prager v. J. Smith etc. (D.C. App. 1963, 195 A. 2d 257).

In proceeding under Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, this chapter, by a wife, a resident of Maryland, for an order to require husband, a resident of District of Columbia, to support children, the Domestic Relations Branch of the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia had the power to award a counsel fee to the wife's court-appointed attorney. Britt v. Britt (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 153 A. 2d 644).

Jurisdiction

Even though the United States District Court had dismissed, with prejudice, wife's complaint against husband for maintenance of children, for the stated reason that wife had moved to Maryland and had denied the husband his right of visitation, the Domestic Relations Branch of the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia could entertain wife's petition, under the Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, this chapter, for an order to require husband, a resident of District of Columbia, to support children, and could grant such an order where wife no longer had any reservations concerning the husband's visiting the children. Britt v. Britt (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 153 A. 2d 644).

Right to support

Husband had duty to support wife after they had separated, in absence of proof that separation was due to her misconduct. W. Novak v. G. J. Novak (D.C. App. 1963, 190 A. 2d 266).

Wife may be entitled to award of support payments from husband from whom she has separated even if separation was due to wife's misconduct, but amount awarded will be less than would otherwise be the case. Id.

Fact that wife who was separated from husband had no income of her own but was depending entirely on her parents for food and shelter established her need for support, and need was not altered, except perhaps as to extent thereof, by fact that she had a potential earning capacity. Id.

Full inquiry into financial status of both parties should be made in action by wife for support after separation from her husband, and husband should be required to make full, detailed and accurate disclosure of his assets and income. Id.

§ 30-307. Contents of the complaint—Verification.

The complaint shall be verified and shall state the name and, so far as known to the plaintiff, the address and circumstances of the defendant and of the dependents for whom the duty of support is sought to be enforced, and all other pertinent facts necessary to enable the court to determine whether a duty of support exists on the part of the defendant. The plaintiff may include in or attach to the complaint any information which may help in locating or identifying the defendant including, but without limitation by enumeration, a photograph of the defendant, a description of any distinguishing marks of his person, other names and aliases by which he has been or is known, the name of his employer, his fingerprints, or social security number. (July 10, 1957, 71 Stat. 286, Pub. L. 85-94, § 7.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 11-1101.

§ 30-308. Representation of plaintiff by Corporation Counsel or private counsel.

In any instance in which the Corporation Counsel of the District of Columbia is satisfied that a public support burden has been incurred or is threatened, it shall be his duty to represent the plaintiff in any proceedings arising under this chapter or a similar reciprocal Act. In all other cases the court may, in its discretion, appoint private counsel to represent the plaintiff: Provided, That the plaintiff may be represented by private counsel in any proceedings under this chapter at his own expense. (July 10, 1957, 71 Stat. 286, Pub. L. 85-94, § 8.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

In proceeding under Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, this chapter, by a wife, a resident of Maryland, for an order to require husband, a resident of District of Columbia, to support children, the Domestic Relations Branch of the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia had the power to award a counsel fee to the wife's court-appointed attorney. Britt v. Britt (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 153 A. 2d 644).

§ 30-309. Complaint on behalf of a minor—Who may bring.

A complaint on behalf of a minor dependent may be brought by any person or agency as next friend of the minor, regardless of whether such person or agency has been appointed guardian of such minor. (July 10, 1957, 71 Stat. 287, Pub. L. 85-94, § 9.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

Where mother in District of Columbia had custody of child but due to mother's illness decree was entered by Florida court changing custody to father in Florida, and abating father's support payments, and later child, with father's consent, returned to live with mother, the decree changing custody to father did not deprive District of Columbia court of jurisdiction of complaint initiating proceedings by child against father for support under Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, this chapter. Cobbe, a minor etc. v. Cobbe (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 163 A. 2d 333).

Law governing

In proceedings under Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, this chapter, initiated in District of Columbia, question whether defendant owes a duty of support and complainant is qualified to maintain the action is determined by the law of the District of Columbia although the courts of the responding state must determine, under their law, whether the defendant's conduct constitutes a violation of his parental duty of support and whether the complainant is entitled to support money. Cobbe, a minor etc. v. Cobbe (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 163 A. 2d 333).

Prior decree

A person may institute proceedings for a minor for support under Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, this chapter, regardless of fact that a decree, granting custody to another, is outstanding. Cobbe, a minor etc. v. Cobbe (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 163 A. 2d 333).

§ 30-310. Duty of court when District of Columbia is initiating State.

If the court finds that a complaint initiated in the District of Columbia sets forth facts from which it appears that the defendant owes a duty of support, as defined in this chapter, and that a court of a responding State may obtain jurisdiction of the defendant, it shall so certify and shall cause to be transmitted to the court in the responding State, three copies of its certificate, three certified copies of the complaint, and three copies of this chapter. (July 10, 1957, 71 Stat. 287, Pub. L. 85-94, § 10.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 11-1101, 30-314.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Law governing

In proceedings under Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, this chapter, initiated in District of Columbia, question whether defendant owes a duty of support and complainant is qualified to maintain the action is determined by the law of the District of Columbia although the courts of the responding state must determine, under their law, whether the defendant's conduct constitutes a violation of his parental duty of support and whether the complainant is entitled to support money. *Cobbe, a minor etc. v. #### § 30-311. Costs and fees—Waiver of payment.

The complaint, when initiated in the District of Columbia, shall be accompanied by such fees and costs as may be required by the court as well as by the court of the responding State: Provided, That the court whether the District of Columbia be the initiating or responding State, may in its discretion direct that payment or prepayment of any part or all fees and costs incurred in the District of Columbia be waived upon the filing of an affidavit representing that the plaintiff is unable to pay the same: Provided further, That the court shall direct waiver of payment or prepayment of such fees and costs whenever the plaintiff is a State having a similar provision for waiver of fees, or a political subdivision or agency thereof. Nothing in this section shall be construed to deprive the court of its discretion to assess costs and fees. (July 10, 1957, 71 Stat. 287, Pub. L. 85-94, § 11.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 11-1101.

§ 30-312. Jurisdiction by arrest.

When the court has reason to believe that the defendant may flee the jurisdiction of the responding State, it may (a) as the court of the initiating State, request in its certificate that the court of the responding State obtain the body of the defendant by appropriate process if that be permissible under the law of the responding State, or (b) as the court of a responding State, obtain the body of the defendant by any appropriate process. (July 10, 1957, 71 Stat. 287, Pub. L. 85-94, § 12.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 11-1101.

§ 30-313. Information agent—Corporation Counsel designated as.

The Corporation Counsel of the District of Columbia is hereby designated as the reciprocal information agent under this chapter and it shall be his duty to transmit a copy of this chapter and any subsequent changes therein to the State information agency of every other State which has adopted this or a substantially similar Act, and to maintain a registry of the names and addresses of the courts having jurisdiction of such proceedings in other States. (July 10, 1957, 71 Stat. 287, Pub. L. 85-94, § 13.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 11-1101.

§ 30-314. Duty of the court when the District of Columbia is responding State.

(a) When the court receives from the court of an initiating State certified copies of a complainant or other proceedings containing the essential allegations of a complaint, under whatever name it may be known, and a certificate similar to that required by section 30-310, it shall docket the cause and refer the matter to the Corporation Counsel, or to private counsel, if appropriate, for such further action as may be necessary to obtain jurisdiction of the defendant in order to carry out the provisions of this chapter.

(b) If the court is unable to obtain jurisdiction of the defendant due to inaccuracies or inadequacies in the complaint or otherwise, the court shall communicate this fact to the court in the initiating State, and shall hold the case pending receipt of more accurate information or an amended complaint from the court in the initiating State. (July 10, 1957, 71 Stat. 287, Pub. L. 85-94, § 14.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 11-1101.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Conflict of laws

Where District of Columbia Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act had no section providing that, where District was receiving jurisdiction, and respondent controverted petition, judge should stay hearing and transmit to initiating state a transcript of clerk's minutes showing denials entered by respondent, trial judge correctly refused to apply such section of initiating state to proceedings in District. D. Prager v. J. Smith etc. (D.C. App. 1963, 195 A. 2d 257).

§ 30-315. Order of support—Bond—Contempt.

If the court finds a duty of support as defined by this chapter it may order the defendant to pay such amounts under such terms and conditions as the court may deem proper. The court may require the defendant to furnish recognizance in the form of a cash deposit or bond, and may punish a defendant who violates any order of the court to the same extent as is provided by law for contempt in any other suit or proceeding cognizable by the court. (July 10, 1957, 71 Stat. 288, Pub. L. 85-94, § 15.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 11-1101.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Abuse of discretion

Award requiring son, pursuant to Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, this chapter, obligating husband, wife, father, mother or adult child of recipient of public assistance to be responsible, according to his ability to pay, for support of such recipient, to pay $30 every two weeks toward maintenance and support of his mother was not abuse of discretion. C. Groover v. Essex County Welfare Board (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 143).

Award of $60 every two weeks for maintenance and support of wife and children, under Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, was not abuse of discretion, although award would disabie husband from meeting obligations to his common law children with whom he lived. E. Miner v. M. Miner (D.C. App. 1963, 192, A. 2d 811).

On record presented, order requiring father to make monthly payments for support of child who was living in Florida in custody of father's former wife was proper, and the amount within discretionary limits. M. Brickey v. L. Weinstein (D.C. Mun. App. 1961, 173 A, 2d 372).

In a proceeding under the Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, this chapter, evidence did not establish that the trial court abused its discretion in awarding a sum for support of the defendant's minor child in excess of the amount requested by his former wife and recommended by the forwarding state. Menetrez v. Menetrez (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 147 A, 2d 772).

Imprisonment for contempt

The intermediate appellate court was quite aware that order of imprisonment must take into account the financial ability of the contemnor to comply with the terms of a court order, and that the appellant failed to make a showing of lack of financial ability in this case. J. R. Scott v. I. R. Scott (1967, 382 F. 2d 461, 127 U.S. App. D.C. 245).

Preference of legitimate children

Children who are the result of a marital relationship are entitled to support from their father before and in preference to child born through an illicit association. J. L. Mitchell v. B. Mitchell (D.C. App. 1969, 257 A. 2d 496; aff'd 445 F. 2d 722, 144 U.S. App. D.C. 246).

As between claims of legitimate and illegitimate children, children who are the result of a marital relationship are entitled to support from their father before and in preference to those born through an illicit association. C. J. Jefferson v. D. J. Jefferson (D.C. App. 1963, 192 A. 2d 813).

This section is referred to in sections 31-1601, 31-1621.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Approval of political party

A local statute providing that the election of District of Columbia Board of Education members should be conducted on a nonpartisan basis does not prohibit a candidate from receiving approval of political party and using benefit of such approval to his advantage. C. L. Boone v. M. Taylor, et al. (D.C. App. 1969, 256 A. 2d 411).

Constitutionality

Issue as to constitutionality or unconstitutionality of statute authorizing members of board of education of public schools of District of Columbia to be appointed by United States District Court judges was not frivolous and matter must be referred to three-judge court. Hobson v. Hansen (D.C.D.C. 1966, 252 F. Supp. 4).

Three-judge district court is not required when claim that a statute is unconstitutional is wholly insubstantial, legally speaking nonexistent, nor when prior decisions make frivolous any claim that statute is constitutional. Id.

Constitutionality of appointment of school board

Constitutional provision empowering Congress to exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever over the District of Columbia gave Congress power to enact statute providing that members of the District of Columbia board of education shall be appointed by United States District Court judges of the district. J. W. Hobson, etc., et al. v. C. F. Hansen, Superintendent etc., et al. (1967, 265 F. Supp. 902).

Constitutional provision that Congress may by law vest appointment of such inferior officers as they think proper in the President alone, in the courts of law, or in heads of departments empowered Congress to enact statute providing that members of the District of Columbia board of education shall be appointed by United States District Court judges of the District of Columbia. Id.

The fact that in a number of instances Congress has conferred appointive power upon court or judges of United States District Court for the District of Columbia was not conclusive on issue of validity of statute permitting appointment of members of District of Columbia board of education by United States District Court judges of the District of Columbia but demonstrated the deep-seated congressional view of the constitutional issue and was entitled to weight in judicial decision on that issue. Id.

Power conferred upon judges by statute stating that members of District of Columbia board of education shall be appointed by United States District Court judges of District of Columbia does not violate doctrine of separation of powers. Id.

The validity of congressional conference upon United States District Court judges of District of Columbia of power to appoint District of Columbia board of education members is not to be denied merely because an appointee in carrying out his own separation functions might become involved in controversies; the board members are accountable under the law for the manner in which they perform their duties. Id.

Impairment of judicial function

Appointive power conferred by Congress under statute providing that members of District of Columbia board of education shall be appointed by United States District Court judges of the District of Columbia does not violate due process though litigation might arise before the district court over manner in which the board administers the schools. J. W. Hobson etc., et al. v. C. F. Hansen, Superintendent etc., et al. (1967, 265 F. Supp. 902).

Court could not presume that in any future case, which might involve performance by members of District of Columbia board of education of their duties, a denial of due process would occur by reason of statute empowering United States District Court judges of the District of Columbia to appoint the board members. Id.

The official act of a judge of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia in participating in selection of District of Columbia board of education members does not in and of itself preclude on due process grounds the ability of the judge to decide fairly the merits of litigation challenging validity of performance by board member of his duties as such. Id.

Jurisdiction of court

Three-judge district court, which was convened to determine constitutional challenge to District of Columbia statute requiring district court judges to appoint board of education, did not have authority to hear other counts of complaint, which alleged racial and economic discrimination and which had no relation to first count except for identity of certain defendants. Hobson v. Hansen (D.C. 1966, 256 F. Supp. 18).

Pupils and parents interest to challenge school board's authority

Pupils in public schools administered by District of Columbia board of education and parents of those pupils had sufficient interest to challenge authority of the board to administer the schools on theory that statute providing that members of board shall be appointed by United States District Court judges of the District of Columbia is unconstitutional. J. W. Hobson, etc., et al. v. C. F. Hansen, Superintendent etc., et al. (1967, 265 F. Supp. 902).

The fact that issue of basic authority of District of Columbia board of education to administer schools might escape resolution unless pupils and their guardians or parents had standing to challenge validity of statute purportedly giving that authority argued for resolving doubts, if any, as to standing in favor of the pupils, parents, and guardians, in absence of hard and fast rule governing standing to sue. Id.

§ 31-102. Appointment—Promotion—Transfer or dismissal of directors, teachers, upon recommendation of superintendent.

No appointment, promotion, transfer, or dismissal of any director, supervising principal, principal, head of department, teacher, or any other subordinate to the superintendent of schools shall be made by the Board of Education, except upon the written recommendation of the superintendent of schools. (June 20, 1906, 34 Stat. 317, ch. 3446, § 2 (2d par.); redesignated as subsection (f) of § 2 by Act Apr. 22, 1968, Pub. L. 90-292, § 3(b), 82 Stat. 102.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS*Appointment of teachers

The secretary of the board is not empowered to appoint teachers but this power is vested in the board. Coleman v. District of Columbia (1922, 279 F. 990, 51 App. D.C. 352).

Letter from secretary notifying teacher of appointment does not estop the board from denying that she was appointed without condition. Id.

Employment contracts

Where acceptance form specified that position of principal in District of Columbia regular summer school program was subject to approval by the Board of Education, and no such approval was forthcoming, no binding contract of employment existed before the applicant was notified that she did not meet revised criteria for appointment, and hence applicant is not entitled to recover for loss of income following withdrawal of her appointment as principal, although offer of appointment stated that appointment was subject to full funding of program, which it received. Board of Education of D.C. et al. v. J. C. Wilson (D.C. App. 1972, 290 A. 2d 400).

Mandamus to restore position

Board of Education may be compelled by mandamus to restore to position a school matron dismissed without authority from superintendent. Whitwell v. United States ex rel. Selden (1932, 58 F. 2d 895, 61 App. D.C. 169).

Rules of board

The board being empowered to make rules and regulations, they must be deemed to have the force and effect of law. United States ex rel. Denney v. Callahan (1924, 294 F. 992, 54 App. D.C. 61). See, also, United States ex rel. Cromwell v. Doyle (1938, 99 F. 2d 448, 69 App. D.C. 215).

§ 31-103. Determination of general policies—Expenditures of funds—Appointment of teachers and employees.

The Board shall determine all questions of general policy relating to the schools, shall appoint the executive officers hereinafter provided for, define their duties, and direct expenditures. All expenditures of public funds for such school purposes shall be made and accounted for as now provided by law under the direction and control of the Commissioner of the District of Columbia. The Board shall appoint all teachers in the manner hereinafter prescribed and all other employees provided for in this chapter. (June 20, 1906, 34 Stat. 317, ch. 3446, § 2 (3d par.); redesignated as subsection (g) of § 2 by Act Apr. 22, 1968, Pub. L. 90-292, § 3(b), 82 Stat. 102.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS*Due process

Conduct of Board of Education in denying children, who had been labeled as behavioral problems, mentally retarded, emotionally disturbed or hyperactive, and their class all publicly supported education while providing such education to other children violated due process clause. P. Mills et al. v. Board of Education of the District of Columbia et al. (1972, 348 F. Supp. 866).

Due process of law required a hearing before children, who had been labeled behavioral problems, mentally retarded, emotionally disturbed or hyperactive, were suspended or expelled from regular schooling in public supported schools or reassigned for specialized instruction. Id.

Equalization of expenditures

Where District's elementary schools that had 74% white enrollment had 15.5% smaller pupil-teacher ratio, 9.7% greater average teacher cost and 26.7% greater teacher expenditure per pupil than did elementary schools that had 98% black enrollment, notwithstanding contentions that discrepancies were random, were due to technological reasons beyond defendants' control, and were inconsequential, right to equal educational opportunity was being denied, and it would be ordered that per pupil expenditures for teachers' salaries and benefits in any elementary school not deviate, except for adequate justification, by more than 5% from mean per pupil expenditure for teachers' salaries and benefits at all elementary schools in District. J. W. Hobson etc., et al. v. C. F. Hansen, Superintendent etc. et al. (1971, 327 F. Supp. 844).

Equitable expenditures

If sufficient funds were not available to finance all of services and programs that were needed and desirable in public school system, then available funds must be expended equitably in such manner that no child was entirely excluded from publicly supported education consistent with his needs and ability to benefit therefrom. P. Mills et al. v. Board of Education of the District of Columbia et al. (1972, 348 F. Supp. 866).

Inadequacies of District of Columbia public school system, whether occasioned by insufficient funding or administrative inefficiency, could not be permitted to bear more heavily on the "exceptional" or handicapped child than on the normal child. Id.

Specialized instruction

Board of Education has obligation to provide whatever specialized instruction that will benefit child determined to have behavioral problems, to be mentally retarded, or be emotionally disturbed or hyperactive. P. Mills et al. v. Board of Education of the District of Columbia et al. (1972, 348 F. Supp. 866).

Board of Education by failing to provide children, who had been labeled as behavioral problems, mentally retarded, emotionally disturbed or hyperactive, and the class they represented with publicly supported specialized education violated controlling statutes and Board's own regulations. Id.

No child eligible for publicly supported education in District of Columbia public schools shall be excluded from a regular public school assignment by a rule, policy or practice of Board of Education of District of Columbia or its agents unless child is provided adequate alternative educational services suited to child's needs, which may include special education or tuition grants, and a constitutionally adequate prior hearing, and periodic review of child's status, progress, and adequacy of any educational alternative. Id.

§ 31-104. Annual estimates.

The Board of Education shall annually on the first day of October transmit to the Commissioner of the District of Columbia an estimate in detail of the amount of money required for the public schools for the ensuing year, and said Commissioner shall transmit the same in his annual estimate of appropriations for the District of Columbia, with such recommendations as he may deem proper. (June 20, 1906, 34 Stat. 317, ch. 3446, § 2 (4th par.); redesignated as subsection (h) of § 2 by Act Apr. 22, 1968, Pub. L. 90-292, § 3(b), 82 Stat. 102.)

Mills et al. v. Board of Education of the District of Columbia et al.* (1972, 348 F. Supp. 866).

Specialized instruction

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Constitutionality

Since pupil had graduated from public elementary and high schools in District of Columbia, the claim by pupil and his next friend to enjoin enforcement of allegedly unconstitutional District of Columbia Non-Resident Public School Tuition Act is moot. C. Truesdale etc. v. District of Columbia et al. (1970, 436 F. 2d 288, 141 U.S. App. D.C. 134).

Fair issues of fact as to whether pupil was bona fide resident of District of Columbia, whether his parents denied financial responsibility for his upkeep, including school tuition, whether his parents were financially able to support him, and whether considerations supporting tuition requirements for nonresidents attending a state university and for nonresidents attending public elementary and high schools are the same, preclude summary judgment in action by pupil and his next friend to recover tuition allegedly improperly exacted under allegedly unconstitutional District of Columbia Non-Resident Public School Tuition Act. Id.

§ 31-308. Board of Education to determine who is required to pay tuition—Penalties—Prosecutions to be conducted by Corporation Counsel.

(a) The Board of Education shall take such action as may be necessary to determine which of the persons, attending or desiring to attend the public schools of the District of Columbia, for whom tuition shall be paid as required by section 31-307, and said Board is authorized, with the approval of the District of Columbia Council, to make regulations to carry out the intent and purposes of sections 31-307 to 31-311.

(b) Any person who makes a statement required or authorized by sections 31-307 to 31-311 to be filed with the Board of Education knowing that the information set forth in such statement is false, shall be fined not more than $300 or imprisoned for not more than ninety days, or both. Any person violating any regulation made pursuant to the authority in sections 31-307 to 31-311 shall be fined not more than $100 or imprisoned for not more than thirty days.

(c) All prosecutions for violations of sections 31-307 to 31-311, or regulations made pursuant thereto, shall be conducted in the name of the District of Columbia by the Corporation Counsel or any of his assistants. As used in sections 31-307 to 31-311 the term "Corporation Counsel" means the attorney for the District of Columbia, by whatever title such attorney may be known, designated by the Commissioner of the District of Columbia to perform the functions prescribed for the Corporation Counsel in sections 31-307 to 31-311. (Sept. 8, 1960, 74 Stat. 853, Pub. L. 86-725, § 3.)

For provisions establishing the District of Columbia Council, see section 201 of the Plan, set out in the appendix to title 1. Section 401 of the Plan transferred all other functions of the Board of Commissioners under this section to the Commissioner of the District of Columbia.

Any teacher who completes five years of eligible service, and who, before becoming eligible for retirement under the conditions defined in sections 31-721 to 31-723, becomes physically or mentally disabled and incapable of satisfactorily performing the duties of his position, by reason of disease or injury not due to vicious habits, intemperance, or willful misconduct on the part of the teacher, shall upon his own application or upon order of the Board of Education as provided later in this section be retired on an annuity computed in accordance with the provisions of sections 31-725 and 31-726 and beginning on the day after his pay ceases and he meets the service and disability requirements for title to annuity. Proof of freedom from vicious habits, intemperance, or willful misconduct for a period of more than five years next prior to becoming so disabled for useful and efficient service shall not be required in any case. No claim shall be allowed under the provisions of this section unless the application for retirement shall have been executed prior to the applicant's separation from the service or within six months thereafter. No teacher shall be retired under the provisions of this section unless examined under the direction of the Director of Public Health of the District of Columbia, and as a result of said examination, in his judgment, or in the judgment of the Superintendent of Schools concurred in by two-thirds of the members of the Board of Education, shall have been found to be physically or mentally incapacitated for efficient service.

Every annuitant retired under the provisions of this section, unless the disability for which retired be permanent in character, shall at the expiration of one year from the date of such retirement and annually thereafter, until reaching retirement age as defined in section 31-723 hereof, be examined under the direction of the Director of Public Health of the District of Columbia in order to ascertain the nature and degree of the annuitant's disability, if any. If an annuitant shall recover before reaching retirement age he shall be reappointed by the Board of Education in accordance with such rules and regulations as the said Board may prescribe to the first position, equal or similar to any position in the public schools occupied by the annuitant before retirement, which becomes vacant after the date the Board of Education receives written notification from the Director of Public Health of the District of Columbia that the annuitant has recovered and is able to discharge his duties as a teacher in the public schools of the District of Columbia. Payment of the annuity shall be continued until the date of reappointment by the Board of Education. In the event that the annuitant refuses to accept the employment prescribed in this section no annuity shall be paid after the date of such refusal. Should the annuitant fail to appear for examination as required under this section payment of the annuity shall be suspended until continuance of the disability shall have been satisfactorily established. Upon written recommendation of the Superintendent of Schools the Board of Education may order or direct at any time such medical or other examination as it shall deem necessary to determine the facts relative to the nature and degree of disability of any teacher retired on an annuity under this section.

In all cases where the annuity is discontinued under the provisions of this section, so much of the annuity payments as would have been provided by an annuity whose actuarial value at the time of retirement was equal to the contributions accumulated with interest shall be charged against his individual account and, unless he shall become reemployed in a position under the purview of this subchapter, he shall be considered as having been separated from the service for other than retirement purposes and entitled to the benefits of section 31-729 hereof: Provided, however, That if such teacher were also receiving an annuity because of voluntary deposits made under the provisions of section 31-721, such annuity may be continued or, at the option of the teacher, the actuarial reserve value of such annuity may be withdrawn in cash unless the teacher is reemployed in a position within the purview of this subchapter, in which case the amount of such reserve value shall be treated as a voluntary deposit under the provisions of section 31-721. #### § 31-725. Computation of annuity—Options.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in this subchapter, every teacher who shall be retired under the provisions of section 31-723 or section 31-724 shall receive an annuity composed of (1) the larger of (A) 1½ per centum of the average salary as defined in section 31-733, multiplied by so much of the total service as does not exceed five years, or (B) 1 per centum of the average salary, plus $25, multiplied by so much of the total service as does not exceed five years, plus (2) the larger of (A) 1¾ per centum of the average salary multiplied by so much of the total service as exceeds five years but does not exceed ten years, or (B) 1 per centum of the average salary, plus $25, multiplied by so much of the total service as exceeds five years but does not exceed ten years, plus (3) the larger of (A) 2 per centum of the average salary multiplied by so much of the total service as exceeds ten years, or (B) 1 per centum of the average salary, plus $25, multiplied by so much of the total service as exceeds ten years. Each annuity is stated as an annual amount, one-twelfth of which, fixed at the nearest dollar, constitutes the monthly rate payable on the first business day of the month after the month or other period for which it has accrued. Annuities payable to any retired teacher who has become eligible for retirement because of age as defined in section 31-723 shall be payable during the lifetime of the annuitant. Annuities payable to any teacher retired on account of disability shall be subject to the conditions set forth under section 31-724.

(b) Any teacher retiring under the provisions of section 31-723 or 31-724 may at the time of retirement, elect to receive in lieu of the life annuity described herein one of the following:

(1) A reduced annuity and an annuity after death payable to the surviving widow or widower of such teacher. The life annuity of a teacher making such election, or any portion of such annuity designated by the teacher in writing for such purposes at the time of retirement, shall be reduced by  $2\frac{1}{2}$  per centum of so much thereof as does not exceed \$3,600 and by 10 per centum of so much thereof as exceeds \$3,600. The widow or widower of a teacher making such election shall be entitled to an annuity equal to 55 per centum of such life annuity, or designated portion thereof, except that if a retired teacher who has elected a reduced annuity as provided in this paragraph or in subsection (d) of this section dies and is survived by a widow or widower whom he or she married after retirement, such widow or widower is entitled to an annuity in an amount which would have been paid had the teacher been married to the widow or widower at the time of retirement, but only if (A) such widow or widower was married to such individual for at least two years immediately preceding the teacher's death, or is the mother or father of issue of such marriage, and (B) such widow or widower elects this annuity instead of any other survivor benefit to which he or she may be entitled under this Act or another retirement system for employees of the Federal or District Government. The annuity of a widow or widower entitled to an annuity under this paragraph shall begin on the day after the retiree dies. Such annuity and any right thereto shall terminate on the last day of the month before (A) the widow or widower dies, or (B) the widow or widower remarries before becoming sixty years of age. In the case of a surviving widow or widower whose annuity under this paragraph is terminated because of remarriage before becoming sixty years of age, annuity at the same rate shall be restored commencing on the day the remarriage is dissolved by death, annulment, or divorce, if—

(i) the surviving widow or widower elects to receive the annuity which was terminated instead of a survivor benefit to which the surviving widow or widower may be entitled, under this subchapter or another retirement system for employees of the Federal or District Government, by reason of the remarriage; and

(ii) any lump sum paid on termination of the annuity is returned to the teachers' retirement and annuity fund established under section 31-722.

(2) If unmarried and in good health, a reduced annuity payable to him during his life, and an annuity after his death payable to a survivor annuitant having an insurable interest in such teacher, duly designated in writing and filed with the Auditor of the District of Columbia at the time of retirement, during the life of such survivor annuitant equal to 55 per centum of such reduced annuity. The annuity of the survivor annuitant shall commence on the day after the retired teacher dies, and such annuity and any right thereto shall terminate on the last day of the month before the death of the survivor annuitant. The annuity hereunder payable to the teacher shall be 90 per centum of the life annuity otherwise payable if the survivor annuitant is the same age or older than the annuitant, or is less than five years younger than the annuitant; 85 per centum if the survivor annuitant is five but less than ten years younger; 80 per centum if the survivor annuitant is ten but less than fifteen years younger; 75 per centum if the survivor annuitant is fifteen but less than twenty years younger; 70 per centum if the survivor annuitant is twenty but less than twenty-five years younger; and 60 per centum if the survivor annuitant is twenty-five or more years younger. No such election shall be valid until the retiring teacher shall have satisfactorily passed a physical examination under the direction of the Director of Public Health of the District of Columbia, as prescribed by the Board of Education. No person shall be eligible to receive an annuity under subsection (b) of section 31-729 based upon the service of the same teacher covering the same period of time.

(3) A reduced annuity of equivalent value providing for a life-insurance benefit payable in a lump sum at the time of the annuitant's death. The face amount of such life insurance may be in any amount which the retiring teacher shall designate at the time of retirement but shall not exceed his contributions accumulated with interest to the date of retirement. Payment of such insurance shall be made in accordance with the provisions of section 31-730. Any annuitant who elects to receive the reduced annuity with fixed life-insurance benefits may reconvert the value of the life insurance to an additional annuity of equivalent value on any anniversary of the retirement date of said annuitant prior to reaching age seventy.

(c) (1) The annuity of any person who now or hereafter is receiving or entitled to receive an annuity from the teachers' retirement and annuity fund shall be increased, effective on October 1, 1955, or on the commencing date of the annuity, whichever is later, in accordance with the following schedule:

If annuity commences between—	Annuity not in excess of $1,500 shall be increased by—	Annuity in excess of $1,500 shall be increased by—
August 20, 1920, and June 30, 1955...	12 per centum...	8 per centum
July 1, 1955, and December 31, 1955...	10 per centum...	7 per centum
January 1, 1956, and June 30, 1956...	8 per centum...	6 per centum
July 1, 1956, and December 31, 1956...	6 per centum...	4 per centum
January 1, 1957, and June 30, 1957...	4 per centum...	2 per centum
July 1, 1957, and December 31, 1957...	2 per centum...	1 per centum

Such increase in annuity shall not exceed the sum necessary to increase such annuity, exclusive of annuity purchased by voluntary contributions under this section, to $4,104. The monthly installment of each annuity so increased shall be fixed at the nearest dollar.

(2) The increases provided by this subsection, when added to the annuities of retired employees, shall not operate to increase the annuities of their survivors, except that the annuity of any such survivor who becomes entitled to annuity shall be increased by the per centum provided in subsection (c) (1) of this section appropriate to the commencing date of such survivors annuity.

(d) A teacher who is unmarried at the time of retiring under a provision of law which permits election of a reduced annuity with a survivor annuity payable to his spouse and who later marries, may irrevocably elect, in a signed writing filed with the Commissioner of the District of Columbia within one year after he or she marries, a reduction in his or her current annuity and an annuity after death payable to his or her surviving widow or widower as provided in paragraph (1) of subsection (b) of this section. The reduced annuity is effective the first day of the month after such election is received by the Commissioner. The election voids prospectively any election previously made under paragraph (2) or paragraph (3) of subsection (b) of this section. §31-728. Term of service—Reduction of annuity—Contributions on leave—Monthly deposits.

The years of service which form the basis for determining the amount of the annuity provided in section 31-725(a) shall be computed from the date of original appointment as a teacher in the public schools of the District of Columbia, including so much of any authorized leaves of absence without pay beginning on May 1, 1952, as does not exceed six months in the aggregate in any fiscal year, plus any service credit that may be allowed under the provisions of this section: Provided, That deposits equal to 5 per centum of those portions of salary received between July 1, 1949, and May 1, 1952, for which service credit was not earned may be made, and service credit received accordingly. A teacher or former teacher who returns to duty after a period of separation is deemed, for the purpose of this section, to have been in a leave of absence without pay for that part of the period in which he or she was receiving benefits under subchapter I of chapter 81 of title 5, United States Code, or any earlier statute on which such subchapter is based. In computing an annuity under section 31-725(a) the total service of a teacher shall include days of unused sick leave credited to him. No deposit may be required for days of unused sick leave included in a teacher's total service under the preceding sentence. Days of unused sick leave shall not be counted in determining a teacher's average salary or his eligibility for an annuity. In computing the length of service of retiring teachers credit may be given, year for year, for (a) public-school service or its equivalent outside the District of Columbia but not to exceed ten years; (b) continuous temporary service in the public schools of the District of Columbia immediately prior to probationary appointment; (c) service in the government of the District of Columbia or the Government of the United States allowable under subchapter III of chapter 83 of title 5, U.S. Code [relating to retirement of government employees]; (d) periods of honorable active service in the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, or Coast Guard of the United States (but not the National Guard except when ordered to active duty in the service of the United States) prior to the date of the separation upon which title to annuity is based; except that, if a teacher is awarded retired pay on account of military service, his military service shall not be included unless such retired pay is awarded on account of a service-connected disability (1) incurred in combat with an enemy of the United States or (2) caused by an instrumentality of war and incurred in line of duty during an enlistment or employment as provided in Veterans Regulation Numbered 1 (a), part 1, paragraph 1, or is awarded under title III of Public Law 910, Eightieth Congress; (e) all educational leaves of absence with part pay authorized by the Board of Education in accordance with sections 31-632 to 31-637; and (f) continuous temporary service as an employee of any cafeteria or lunchroom operated in the public school buildings of the District of Columbia during any period prior to the date on which such cafeteria or lunchroom is placed under the Office of Central Management, Department of Food Services, District of Columbia, and immediately prior to appointment as a teacher in the public schools of the District of Columbia: Provided, however, That that portion of the annuity which results from credit for service allowable under (a) and (c) of this section shall be reduced by the amount of any annuity which the retired teacher is entitled to receive under any Federal, State, or municipal retirement or pension system in respect to such service, except that such portion of the annuity after reduction shall not be less than the annuity purchasable with the deposit which the teacher is required to make under the provisions of this section in order to obtain credit for such service: Provided further, That no credit for service prescribed in this section, with the exception of periods of honorable service in the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, or Coast Guard of the United States and all educational leaves of absence with part pay authorized by the Board of Education in accordance with sections 31-632 to 31-637, shall be given to any teacher entering the said public schools after June 30, 1926, until he shall have deposited to the credit of the teachers' retirement and annuity fund of the District of Columbia a sum equal to the accumulated contributions and interest which he would have had credited to his individual account if such service had been rendered on active duty in the public schools of the District of Columbia, said contributions to be based on the average annual salary of the class to which the teacher is appointed: Provided further, That all contributions to the retirement fund made by any teacher on educational leave with part pay shall be determined in accordance with the provisions of section 31-721, but otherwise no provision of this subchapter shall be interpreted to deprive any teacher employed by the Board of Education of any rights or benefits allowable under sections 31-632 to 31-637. If the teacher so elects he may deposit the required sum in the teacher's retirement and annuity fund in monthly installments with interest at 3 per centum per annum compounded annually, upon making a claim with the Commissioner of the District of Columbia, or his designated agent. Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph, this section shall not be construed to allow any teacher more than one year's credit for all services rendered in any one fiscal year.

A teacher who during the period of any war, or of any national emergency as proclaimed by the President or declared by the Congress, has left or leaves his position to enter the military service, as defined in this section, shall not be considered, for the purposes of this subchapter, as separated from his teaching position by reason of such military service, unless he shall apply for and receive a lump-sum benefit under this subchapter, except that such teacher shall not be considered as retaining his teaching position beyond six months after the date of the approval of this Act or the expiration of five years of such military service, whichever is later.

Nothing in this subchapter shall affect the right of a teacher to retired pay, pension, or compensation in addition to the annuity herein provided.

Notwithstanding the provisions of this section, any teacher who is entitled to purchase service credit under the provisions of section 31-1532(d) shall purchase such credit based on the salary received from the Board of Higher Education during the period of service to be credited. § 31-729. Deferred annuity—Refunds—Deposit of amount withdrawn—Annuity to survivors—Termination and restoration of annuity—Determination of dependency and disability.

(a) Should any teacher to whom this subchapter applies, after completing five years of eligible service and before becoming eligible for retirement, become separated from the service, such teacher may elect to receive a deferred annuity, computed as provided in section 31-725, beginning at the age of sixty-two years and terminating on the date of his death: Provided, That any teacher who becomes separated from the public schools of the District of Columbia for other than retirement purposes and who does not elect to receive a deferred annuity as provided for in this section, shall receive as soon as practicable after separation the refund of deductions, deposits, or redeposits with interest thereon, or any voluntary contributions made under the provisions of section 31-721, with interest: Provided further, That no teacher who shall withdraw the amount of his deductions, deposits, or redeposits under this section shall, after reinstatement, be entitled to credit for previous service unless he shall deposit in the fund the amount so withdrawn by him: And provided further, That the amount required to be so deposited may be paid by the teacher, if he so elects, in any number of monthly installments, not exceeding one hundred, with interest at 3 per centum compounded annually.

(b) (1) In the event any teacher to whom this subchapter applies shall die subsequent to March 6, 1952, after completing at least eighteen months of eligible service and is survived by a widow, or widower, such widow or widower shall be paid an annuity beginning the day after the teacher dies, equal to 55 per centum of the amount of an annuity computed as provided in subsection (a) of section 31-725 with respect to such teacher, except that in the computation of the annuity under such subsection the annuity of the teacher shall be at least the smaller of (i) 40 per centum of his average salary, or (ii) the sum obtained under such subsection after increasing his eligible service of the type last performed by the period elapsing between the date of death and the date he would have become sixty years of age. Such annuity and any right thereto shall terminate on the last day of the month before (A) the widow or widower dies, or (B) the widow or widower remarries before becoming sixty years of age. In the case of a widow or widower whose annuity under this paragraph is terminated because of remarriage before becoming sixty years of age, annuity at the same rate shall be restored commencing on the day the remarriage is dissolved by death, annulment, or divorce, if—

(i) the widow or widower elects to receive the annuity which was terminated instead of a survivor benefit to which the widow or widower may be entitled, under this subchapter or another retirement system for employees of the Federal or District Government, by reason of the remarriage; and

(ii) any lump sum paid on termination of the annuity is returned to the teachers' retirement and annuity fund established under section 31-722.

(2) If any teacher to whom this subchapter applies shall die after completing at least eighteen months of eligible service or after having retired under the provisions of section 31-723 or section 31-724 and is survived by a wife or husband, each surviving child shall be paid an annuity equal to the smallest of (a) 60 per centum of the teacher's average salary divided by the number of children, (b) $900, or (c) $2,700 divided by the number of children. If such teacher is not survived by a wife or husband, each surviving child shall be paid an annuity equal to the smallest of (a) 75 per centum of the teacher's average salary divided by the number of children, (b) $1,080, or (c) $3,240 divided by the number of children. The child's annuity shall commence on the first day after the teacher dies. Such annuity and the right thereto terminate on the last day of the month before the child—

(A) becomes eighteen years of age unless he is then a student as described or incapable of self-support;

(B) becomes capable of self-support after becoming eighteen years of age unless he is then such a student;

(C) becomes twenty-two years of age if he is then such a student and capable of self-support;

(D) ceases to be such a student after becoming eighteen years of age unless he is then incapable of self-support; or

(E) dies or marries;
whichever first occurs.

Upon the death of the surviving wife or husband or termination of the annuity of the child, the annuity of any other child or children shall be recomputed and paid as though such wife, husband, or child had not survived the teacher.

(3) In the event any teacher to whom this subchapter applies shall die subsequent to March 6, 1952, after completing at least eighteen months of eligible service, and is not survived by a widow, a widower, and/or children, but is survived by dependent parents or a dependent father or a dependent mother, such surviving dependent parents or parent shall be paid an annuity, beginning the first day of the month following the death of the teacher, equal to 55 per centum of the amount of an annuity computed as provided in subsection (a) of section 31-725 with respect to such teacher, except that, in the computation of the annuity under such subsection, the annuity of the teacher shall be at least the smaller of (i) 40 per centum of his average salary, or (ii) the sum obtained under such subsection after increasing his eligible service of the type last performed by the period elapsing between the date of death and the date he would have become sixty years of age: Provided, That such payments shall be made jointly to surviving dependent parents and payment of such annuity shall continue after the death of either dependent parent: Provided further, That all such payments or any right thereto shall cease upon the death of both dependent parents.

(c) As used in this section—

(1) The term "widow" means a surviving wife of an individual, who either shall have been married to such individual for at least two years immediately preceding his death, or is the mother of issue by such marriage.

(2) The term "child" means—

(A) an unmarried child under eighteen years of age, including (i) an adopted child, and (ii) a stepchild or recognized natural child who lived with the teacher in a regular parent-child relationship;

(B) such unmarried child regardless of age who is incapable of self-support because of mental or physical disability incurred before age eighteen; or

(C) such unmarried child between eighteen and twenty-two years of age who is a student regularly pursuing a full-time course of study or training in residence in a high school, trade school, technical or vocational institute, junior college, college, university, or comparable recognized educational institution.

For the purpose of this paragraph and paragraph (2) of subsection (b) of this section, a child whose twenty-second birthday occurs before July 1 or after August 31 of a calendar year, and while he is regularly pursuing such a course of study or training, is deemed to have become twenty-two years of age on the first day of July after that birthday. A child who is a student is deemed not to have ceased to be a student during an interim between school years if the interim is not more than five months and if he shows to the satisfaction of the Commissioner of the District of Columbia that he has a bona fide intention of continuing to pursue a course of study or training in the same or different school during the school semester (or other period into which the school year is divided) immediately after the interim.

(3) The term "dependent parents" means the natural parents of a teacher who were receiving one-half or more of their total income from said teacher immediately preceding the death of said teacher.

(5) The term "widower" means the surviving husband of a teacher who was married to such teacher for at least two years immediately preceding her death or is the father of issue by such marriage.

(6) Questions of dependency and disability arising under this section shall be determined by the Board of Education and its decisions with respect to such matters shall be final and conclusive and shall not be subject to review.
